KATHERINE HARRIS
 SECRETARY OF STATE

Prayer

The following prayer was offered by the Honorable Carl Littlefield:

Our Father, it is fitting and in order that we pause today and thank You. We offer up thanksgiving not only as a dutiful commemoration of the coming holiday celebration, but more than that, because it best reflects the fullness of our hearts. We thank You most of all for being a present help.

Thank You for Your guidance and watchfulness over this assembly. Thank You for empowering the leaders of this House with wisdom, compassion, and understanding; and thank You for being only a prayer away as they go about the business of our great state.

Knowing that You are only a prayer away, we pray humbly and purposefully today. We pray for our nation. In our effort to seat a president, we are without perfect closure and, therefore, without perfect peace. Guide our perspectives Lord. In this interlude of time and amid all the posturing and strategizing, may we find comfort in knowing that ultimately “there is no power but of God: and that the powers that be are ordained of God.”

Help us to realize that ultimately, in the words of the ancient prophet, “the Kingdoms of this world are become the Kingdoms of our Lord, and He shall reign for ever and ever.” Help us to understand that ultimately and victoriously “the government shall be upon His shoulders... [and] of His government and peace there will be no end.”

Help us all, O Lord, to prepare the way for that destined tomorrow by preparing ourselves to be leaders today. Leaders great, yet servants still.

May Your spirit of grace and mercy ever be our portion. Encompass us with Your loving kindness. Overshadow us with Your truth. Undergird us with Your peace. Let the words of our mouths, and the meditations of our hearts, be acceptable in your sight, O Lord, our strength and our Redeemer.

Watch over this house, we pray. In all of their deliberations may there be a sense of gratefulness unto You. And, may faithful stewardship of their offices and assigned responsibilities be the crowning achievement of each Member.

Now unto You, O God, who can keep us from falling, and present us faultless before the presence of Your glory with exceeding joy, to the only wise God our Savior, be glory and majesty, dominion and power, both now and forever. Amen.

Pledge

The Members, led by Tommy Feeny, son of Speaker-designate Feeny, and the following children and grandchildren of the Members of the House of Representatives, pledged allegiance to the Flag. The children of the Members included: Roger Amundsen II and Gailanne Amundsen, nephew and niece of Rep. Allen; Keaton and Britton Alexander, daughters of Rep. Alexander; Ben and Chris Attkisson, sons of Rep. Attkisson; Amanda Atwater, daughter of Rep. Atwater; Natalie Barreiro, daughter of Rep. Barreiro; Rob Davis, grandson of Rep. Davis; Meghan, Kevin, and Brendan Flanagan, daughter and sons of Rep. Flanagan; Taylor Grayson and Ryan McGriff, granddaughter and grandson of Rep. McGriff; Daniel Levinson, grandson of Rep. Rich; Evan, Samuel, and Coleman Mayfield, sons of Rep. Mayfield; Becca and Jonathan Negron, daughter and son of Rep. Negron; Shane and Travis Ross, sons of Rep. Ross; and Alexandra Weissman, daughter of Rep. Weissman.

House Physician

The Chair introduced Dr. James Harrell, husband of Rep. Harrell, who served as Doctor of the Day.

Presentation of Guests

The Chair presented the following former Speakers: the Honorable Donald L. Tucker, the Honorable Ralph H. Haben, Jr., the Honorable H. Lee Moffitt, and the Honorable James Harold Thompson.

The Chair presented the following former Republican Leaders: the Honorable Jim K. Tillman, the Honorable S. Curtis "Curt" Kiser, the Honorable Ronald R. "Ron" Richmond, the Honorable R. Dale Patchett, the Honorable James M. Lombard, and the Honorable Sandra B. Mortham.

Additionally, the Chair introduced the following guests: the Honorable Katherine Harris, Secretary of State; the Honorable Tom Gallagher, Commissioner of Education; the Honorable Bobby Brantley, former Lieutenant Governor; the Honorable Connie Mack, U.S. Senator; the Honorable Mark Foley, U.S. Congressman; the Honorable C. William "Bill" Nelson, Treasurer and Commissioner of Insurance; the Honorable Robert A. Butterworth, Attorney General; the Honorable Adam H. Putnam, former Member of the House; the Honorable Frank Brogan, Lieutenant Governor; the Honorable Robert B. Crawford, Commissioner of Agriculture; the Honorable Charlie Crist, Jr., former Senator; the Honorable Jeb Bush, Governor; and the Honorable Javier D. Souto, former Senator.

Notice of Contest

Former Speaker Thrasher (The Chair): The Clerk has received notice of a contest of election of District 17. In keeping with the precedent, the Member certified by the Secretary of State will be seated with full rights and privileges of membership. A select committee will then be appointed and promptly convened to hear the substance of the contest.

This procedure will ensure that the citizens of District 17 are properly represented in the House while at the same time giving all parties to the contest the opportunity to be heard.

Oath of Office Administered

The newly elected Members, in groups of five, proceeded to the well, where the Oath of Office prescribed by the Constitution was administered by Chief Justice Charles T. Wells, Florida Supreme Court.

The returning Members, as a group, stood at their desks where the Oath of Office prescribed by the Constitution was administered by Chief Justice Charles T. Wells, Florida Supreme Court.

Election of the Speaker

The Chair announced the House would proceed to the election of Officers and, for the purpose of nominations, motions would be seconded. Nominations would now be in order for Speaker of the House of Representatives, under Article III, Section 2, of the Florida Constitution, for a term of two years beginning today.

Rep. Fasano nominated the Honorable Tom Feeney for Speaker.

Rep. Fasano: Mr. Speaker, Chief Justice, Members, what a distinct pleasure it is for me to stand before you today and nominate our next Speaker of the Florida House of Representatives. A position that is not achieved by arrogance or greed, but by compassion and countless acts of compromise. A position that must exhibit the will, fortitude, and foresight to do what is right, which is not always the desired. A position that cannot, must not, and will not sacrifice the good of the whole for the good of the one. Today we are here to choose that person, a moralistic and ideological conservative. Tom Feeney has personified all things decent and pure in public service. He has traveled a long road, seeing and hearing our state and its people in ways that many of us will never do. He has served in the majority. He has served in the minority. He has sat back there. He has sat up here. He has been appointed to our committees. He has been removed from our committees. But, through all the changes over the years one thing has remained, Tom Feeney, the man.

Now, we all know an apple is only as good as the tree it has fallen from. And evidently, they grow pretty good trees in Pennsylvania. The only son of two educators and the brother to three sisters, Tom learned early on the importance of two key modes of survival. First, always appreciate the importance of a good sound education. If there ever was a slight relapse or retention floor towards this, a swift and accurate hand to the back side was always an effective tool, in recollection.

As the story goes, young Thomas did have a mind of his own, often proving not always to be the most attentive student in class. It was pretty common to see Thomas in the back of the room making strange faces at the teachers or attempting to body check his classmate out of his desk. Although he would later become a human study of historical, legal, and political affairs, Tom's astute persona did have a humbling beginning. Secondly, womens', sisters' rights, which will be respected and adhered to, no questions asked. Although the future leader of his high school debate team would have to learn to bite his tongue—an art that many say he has yet to master—in the end he did what was necessary to appease his sisters, Carole, Joanne, and Ellen.

In 1976, Tom enrolled at Penn State University. Graduating with a Political Science degree, Tom decided to pursue his law degree at the University of Pittsburgh. It was there that he met his wonderful wife of seventeen years, Ellen. Upon graduation in 1983, the two of them struck out to Florida. And now, fifteen years later, they are proud parents of two handsome young men, Tommy and Sean Patrick.

Tom began his political career, as many of us, a political neophyte. In his first race no one thought he had a chance. He faced overwhelming odds, challenging the power brokers of Tallahassee and the skepticism that surrounds a little-known candidate for State House. He campaigned hard, he campaigned fast, and he campaigned often—convincing the District 37 voters that a change was not only necessary, but also essential in Tallahassee. You see, the status quo was no longer acceptable. The ways of the old needed to adhere to a new way of governing. His aggressive style and determination quickly caught on to the voters. It was Tom's youthful energy and Reaganesque view that we can do better, that the voters identified with. And, the press quickly labeled him a maverick, a title Tom has gladly accepted. It was a persona that Tom and his supporters felt Tallahassee needed. You see the district had begun aching for someone who had the courage to stand on their convictions and the intelligence to defend them. Someone who had a keen sense of history and respect not only for where our country had been, but where it was going. Someone who would not just solve the state's problems, but find out why the problem existed in the first place. But most importantly, the district was in search for someone who was willing to go to battle every minute of every hour of every day for its constituents. And on November 6 of 1990, Tom Feeney was elected to the Florida House of Representatives.

In Tallahassee, Tom wasted little time in fitting in with his Republican colleagues. Now, you have to understand in those days it was a little bit different for the GOP, and there weren't many of them in the House. As it were in his school days in Pennsylvania, Tom again found himself in the back row, flanked by the likes of Chris Corr, Paul Hawkes, Dan Webster, Debby Sanderson, and others. Tom fought tooth and nail for many initiatives that we now know as Florida law.

He was one of the first to speak out against Florida's welfare system. Although labeled cruel by the status quo, getting people off welfare and into the work force was paramount to Tom. He was the first in Florida to speak openly about school vouchers, a view that eventually got Tom dismissed from the Committee of Education. However, in 1992, Tom received Outstanding Legislative Member of the Year presented by the American Legislative Exchange Council. In 1994, as many of you know, Tom joined the Jeb Bush ticket as candidate for Lieutenant Governor of Florida. The Bush-Feeney ticket captivated voters with its fast-paced, upbeat style of campaigning. This fit Tom perfectly. Never before had the state seen such an energetic and youthful ticket. Traveling to every corner of the state, Tom was an ideal fit to spark a new sense of optimism and trust in Florida's elected leaders. It was an opportunity for Tom to utilize his vast knowledge on the issues and his enthusiasm for Florida's future. Although in the end, coming up short in the closest gubernatorial election in the history of Florida, it was an event that would shape Tom Feeney forever. And to this day, he refers to that race as the most successful campaign he has ever been part of, not because of the slight margin of defeat or the attention he garnered as a candidate. It was simply because at no point during that campaign, although down in the polls and advised to the contrary, was there ever a principle softened or a stance switched. Never did a crowd see or hear anything other than Tom Feeney, real and raw. The Tom Feeney that had started the race for the Lieutenant Governor was the same Tom Feeney who had finished the race and nowhere in between had anyone seen any difference. After the 1994 election, Tom returned to his legal practice. Although engrossed in work days in real estate and business law, Tom wasn't completely out of the political scene. You see in March of 1995, Tom was asked by the International Republican Institute to travel to Macedonia and lecture political leaders of this new democracy on policy, political strategy, and of course, his favorite, constitutional government. Now we all know the old saying, you can't keep a good man down. Well they're right. And that rang loud and true in the spring of 1996. And that April, Tom Feeney was elected once again to the House of Representatives in a special election. You see legal pads and dictaphones had proven to be too much or too little for Tom. There was so much to be done, so many initiatives that had gone unfinished, so many battles still to be fought in Tallahassee. And now Tom would have more soldiers to march with, in fact, his team was winning. And quite frankly, he would have a better seat on the floor of the House. And little did he know, ladies and gentlemen, how good that seat would eventually get. His first term back, Tom was appointed Majority Council liaison under Speaker Webster. In appointing Tom in a role of leadership Speaker Webster had a talented orator and a legal mind that was unparalleled in the legislature. Renewing many of his old battles, Tom was at the forefront of major reforms on education and welfare, never losing sight of the overall good of the people. That is the spirit Tom Feeney serves in to this day. Having been Chairman of the Procedural Council under Speaker Thrasher, Tom was unanimously elected by his peers as Speaker-designate in August of 1999, to serve as this body's next leader. And now today, fifteen months later, we gather today to remove the "designate" from his title.

Today's society produces very few individuals who have the whereforall to put aside all personal ambitions and desires in order to make way for those convictions and ideals that make a person who they are. Someone who embraces a core set of principles and not only believes in them, but lives by them. Someone who conducts their life not influenced by what could be but rather what should be. Tom Feeney is a product of such character. It would be acutely unfair to say that Tom Feeney is a man who believes in his principles for, you see, he is his principles. From a political standpoint, it is very simple, Tom believes in less government, less taxation, more personal freedoms, and more accountability. He believes that our forefathers established a constitutional government that at best is a limited role in our lives. He believes that we are all responsible for our actions, whether we choose to accept it or not. He recognizes that all people, especially our children, have the capability to succeed if given that chance. He has an undeniable faith in America, often saying that our most difficult challenge is not because of stagnation, but because many pundits fear that a new idea might actually succeed. Ladies and gentlemen, it has been said in the State of Florida: Before there was Bush-Brogan there was Bush-Feeney. And before there was Bush-Feeney there was just Feeney. And I stand before you today in accordance with the Constitution of the State of Florida in hereby nominating the 80th Speaker of the Florida House of Representatives, Thomas Charles Feeney III. [applause]

Rep. Byrd seconded the nomination of Rep. Tom Feeney for Speaker.

Rep. Byrd: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Members, honored guests, it's been an incredible journey for Representative Tom Feeney. For those of you who knew him in the beginning, those who got on board along the way, and those of you who will learn to love him as I do.

Down in Tampa, we lay claim to Teddy Roosevelt, seems he came through with the Rough Riders, and made his mark in our area of the world. And Teddy said this; he said: "In any moment of decision the best thing you can do is the right thing, the next best thing is the wrong thing, and the worst thing you can do is nothing." The wrong thing is to do nothing. And I tell you men and women here today, Tom Feeney will lead us into the next millennium. The future is bright for all of us. He is not a man of do-nothing, he is an Irish street fighter, philosopher, and he is a servant-leader. He sincerely believes that to be the leader of all, he must be the servant of all.

Join me in supporting my friend, the leader of the next millennium, Tom Feeney as Speaker of the Florida House of Representatives. [applause]

Rep. Argenziano seconded the nomination of Rep. Tom Feeney for Speaker.

Rep. Argenziano: Well, Tom, the day is here. I am so proud and honored today. I am going to get choked up, excuse me. What I can tell you new Members, and I am not going to cry, God—I am not going to do that—I'm tough, see? [laughter] What I can tell you Members is that I have found myself in the few years that I have been here in some tough, tough spots, right, Mr. Speaker? Sometimes believe it or not, the older Members know, sometimes I've even had some difficulties with the Speaker. But you know what, Mr. Speaker, I really learned a lot from you. But, Tom Feeney—and I know he'll do this for each one of you—I get emotional, I am sorry, I said I wasn't going to cry, darn. Tom, I am really happy for you. These are not tears of sorrow, it's tears of happiness. But, I want you to know that that man has helped me tremendously while I have been here. In the tough spots, and I have been in several of them, God knows, Tom, I'm sorry I may be in a few more. [laughter] That's a warning! He has really, truly been a good friend. And, when you get in those tough spots, I know he was there helping me behind the scenes and then coming and talking to me and telling me you know—and he would tell other people you got to understand her, she is just a little Italian from Brooklyn, but she gets emotional. [laughter]

And, he really, really is a fantastic, fantastic human being. He's not arrogant, he's wise, he really is, you are going to discover this. He's not selfish and he's very understanding.

And Tom, I know that growing up with three sisters has got you prepared, because we have got a lot of women that keep coming into the House. [applause] And what I know he's going to do is listen to every one of us, no matter whether we sit in the back row or in the front, I know that of him. And he is going to do that, and he'll make you just as successful as all the other men. And sometimes, you know what, he will let us in that loop, I think, where sometimes it's been reserved for just the boys. So, girls, believe me, take it from me, he's a genuine individual and he's there for everybody in the House. And I just wish you the best and I am looking forward to serving under such a wonderful, wonderful person, and congratulations. I second the nomination. Yes! [applause]

Rep. Lacasa seconded the nomination of Rep. Tom Feeney for Speaker.

Rep. Lacasa: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I will direct my remarks to the new Members of the House of Representatives. I'd be very surprised if there was a single one among you who didn't have a burning desire in your bellies right now to get started making policy and governing the great State of Florida. And you're very, very fortunate because we have before us a candidate for Speaker of the House who understands about history and understands about philosophy. And understands how important it is to have these basic things as a foundation for what we do here—setting policy. I have watched Tom Feeney fight battles for choice for families that want to educate their children. I've seen him, I've seen him—excuse me, I am excited too. This is very exciting. We have, against a backdrop of constitutional crisis, all eyes of the nation upon us, we have Tom Feeney to support for Speaker today.

I am excited because I watched him support freedom of speech for people who wanted to put an expression on a license plate, a very controversial expression, and he put everything on the line, because he believed that expression is equal for everyone and should be defended for everyone even the smallest minority. I watched Tom Feeney proffer a budget. I didn't watch it, I actually saw it, proffer a budget as a member of the minority, because he did not agree with the budgetary priorities of the majority at the time. Such a man of boldness and decision must be, must be an excellent candidate for Speaker of the House. And all of you new Members will see in him support for your zeal, for your ideas. He won't stifle debate, he won't stifle new concepts for how to govern the state, and that is the most important thing you need to be successful personally and to be successful for your district and for your state.

Supporting Tom Feeney is supporting innovation and debate and deliberation. For this reason I nominate Tom Feeney for Speaker of the House. [applause]

Rep. Wilson nominated the Honorable Lois Frankel for Speaker.

Rep. Wilson: Mr. Speaker, Members, honored guests, and families, I am pleased to have the wonderful opportunity to stand here today to place in nomination the name of Lois Frankel as Speaker of the Florida House of Representatives 2000-2002.

With the historic number of new Members taking their place in this great institution it is important for us to pause and to remember that this House is a place where the future of this state is shaped. In the name of the constituents who sent us here to stand up for their interests, we must remember that each of us has a tremendous opportunity to leave a positive and lasting influence on our great state's future.

Lois Frankel is a visionary leader who deeply understands the awesome responsibility we have to the people of our state. She not only understands the sacrifices that we have made to serve in this place of honor, she also knows the high hopes, unending dreams, and great expectations our citizens have for us as their elected representatives. Throughout her 12 years in this great House, Lois Frankel has served with great distinction. She has demonstrated through her actions a deep dedication to the principle that we are here to work to help make the lives of our citizens even better. Her greatest achievements, as an esteemed Member of this body, have all been focused on improving the health, safety, and welfare of our precious children, our hard working families, and our dear, dear seniors. She has earned our mutual respect and admiration through her deeds and our most vulnerable citizens.

Her list of accomplishments include, but are not limited to: working tirelessly to reduce family violence; raising childcare standards so that our children are safe and secure in a place when their parents are at work; encouraging fathers to be more involved with their children; serving as a champion for health education; and being among the first to stand up and fight in order to steer our children away from alcohol and tobacco. No matter where you stand you have to admire Lois Frankel. Her tenacity, her vitality, and work ethic serves as an inspiration to all Members of the House. Her compassion is only matched by her passion to serve our citizens and uphold the highest standards of leadership in this House.

One hundred years from now it will not matter how much money Lois Frankel made, what kind of car she drove, what kind of house she lived in. What will matter is that because she lived, she left the world a better place for children, even those yet unborn. History will record that she was a drum major for justice. Working people will say that she was a drum major for fairness. The State of Florida will echo that she was a drum major and an advocate for all the right issues and all of the shallow things will not matter. She has demonstrated through her deeds and declarations in this House that she is a compassionate leader for the people of Florida. For that, Lois Frankel has earned her chance to serve as Speaker of this great House of Representatives and, for that, I am honored to place her name in nomination to serve with distinction, honor, grace, and dignity as Speaker of the Florida House of Representatives. Thank you. [applause]

Rep. Henriquez seconded the nomination of Rep. Lois Frankel for Speaker.

Rep. Henriquez: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Honored guests, Members, particularly new Members, and of course, the family and friends that are here, I'm happy to stand to second the nomination for Representative Lois Frankel, today, as Speaker of the House. Those of us who know Lois, and those new Members will get to know Lois, know that she is not afraid of taking on tough jobs. In fact, she looks forward to the hardest challenges and, believe me, she has some tough challenges ahead of her. In the Democratic Caucus, I can say that no one has worked harder and been more steadfast to try to achieve a goal than Lois Frankel has. No matter what side of the aisle you are on, whether you sit in the front of the Chamber or the back, you know that she has worked with one hundred percent of her energy and she works very hard for what she believes in. That's the kind of public service that she has brought to her constituents for over 12 years now as a Member of this House. She brings to this Chamber the ethic of hard work, to our citizens, unmovable commitment to serving this state and upholding the shared values of our communities.

As a member of the Democratic Caucus, I can tell you that Lois has tried, and has worked, and continues to work, to unify our Caucus. And believe me, that's not an easy task. She deserves much credit for taking on this task and we've recognized her as the first woman to be a House Democratic [minority] Leader in history. In Lois Frankel we have a true leader who understands the challenges our citizens face and she'll work every day because she lives and loves her service as a Member of this great House. That is why I am pleased to stand today and second the nomination of Lois Frankel as Speaker of the Florida House of Representatives. Thank you. [applause]

On motion by Rep. Mahon, seconded by Rep. Fasano, nominations ceased and Reps. Feeney and Frankel were declared nominees for Speaker.

When the votes were cast for Speaker, the result was:

Rep. Tom Feeney was declared the duly elected Speaker of the House of Representatives for a term of two years beginning today.

Rep. Frankel moved to record a unanimous vote for Rep. Tom Feeney as Speaker.

Rep. Frankel: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. You think I can have a recount? [laughter] [applause]

The Chair: Not on my watch, Representative Frankel. [laughter] [applause]

Rep. Frankel: I tell you what, Mr. Speaker, my son is sitting back here and about halfway through the voting, he turned to me and said, "You know, Mom, things don't look so good." [laughter]

Actually, I think things look terrific and I want to congratulate Tom Feeney and just say on behalf of the Democrats that we look forward to a new bipartisan spirit and may our differences be respectful. And with that, Mr. Speaker, I would like to move a unanimous vote be recorded for Tom Feeney as Speaker. [applause]

Rep. Wiles: On behalf of the remainder of the House Democratic Caucus I respectfully second the motion of Representative Frankel.

By unanimous acclamation, Tom Feeney was declared Speaker of the House of Representatives.

On motion by Rep. Dockery, seconded by Rep. Harper, the Chair appointed Reps. Flanagan, Andrews, Lynn, Trovillion, and Maygarden as a committee to escort Speaker Feeney and his family to the rostrum.

Committee from the Senate

A committee from the Senate consisting of Senators Webster, Posey, Miller, and Villalobos was received and announced that the Senate was organized.

Oath of Office Administered

Presentation of the Speaker

Rep. Trovillion presented the Honorable Tom Feeney, Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Rep. Trovillion: I would like to now introduce the family and other guests who stand with me. The Members will hold their applause until I'm finished. First of all I'd like to introduce—I've got to look around and see where they are—Tom's father, Tom Feeney; his mother, Betty Feeney; his sister Carole [Mason]; sister and her husband, Joanne and Doug Laman; aunt and uncle, Ed and Darlene Feeney; and Jennifer Feeney, his niece. Also, I'd like to introduce his good friend and law partner, Skip Fowler and his wife [Barbera]. Also, I'd like to introduce some of his closest friends, Al and Beth McKenna, Dean and Tammy Campbell, Chris Coor, Michael Guacci, and Ron Campbell. I would also like to introduce a very important part of that family, and that is his wife, Ellen. [applause]

And now I would like to present to you, formally, the Speaker of the House, Tom Feeney. [applause]

Former Speaker Thrasher handed the gavel to Speaker Feeney, signifying his authority as the new Speaker of the House of Representatives.

THE SPEAKER IN THE CHAIR

Election of the Speaker pro tempore

The Speaker announced that nominations would now be received for the Speaker pro tempore of the House of Representatives for a term of two years beginning today.

Rep. Dockery nominated the Honorable Sandra L. Murman for Speaker pro tempore.

Rep. Dockery: It felt very good to be the first to recognize you, Mr. Speaker. Thank you colleagues and honored guests. Organization Session is always an exciting time filled with a spirit of anticipation and optimism. It's a time when we as a legislative body decide on who should lead us for the next two years to enact policy that will affect the 15 million Floridians we represent. This organization session has a greater challenge. Because of the enactment of term limits for the Florida Legislature we have an incredibly large turnover in the Florida House. Sixty-three of the 120 seats will be represented by the newly elected Members.

The freshman legislators have a tremendous learning curve facing them before the start of the 2001 Session. Therefore the choice of leadership becomes crucial to the successful spirit of cooperation among the 120-member body.

The person who is selected to serve as Speaker pro tempore will serve as a catalyst for the unity of the Florida House and will help set the tone for our common goal of serving the people we represent. Although no one here is naive enough to believe that we can operate in a truly non-partisan fashion, I sincerely believe that every Member of this House has the interests of his or her constituents and the welfare of our great state as their guiding principle.

Our leaders must foster this respect for one another and for the position we are entrusted with by setting an example for us. It is with this thought in mind that I nominate Representative Sandra Murman to lead us as our Speaker pro tempore.

Those who have served in this position before her have had the advantage of a much longer tenure in the Legislature to learn the finer nuances of the process. There is, however, no doubt in my mind that Sandra Murman is well suited and more than able to assume this awesome responsibility. Representative Murman was first elected in 1996 and has become a very effective Member focusing her attention and talents on children's issues. She has become well-known and respected for her dedication to battling issues such as reform of our child welfare system, education policy, and the abandoned baby legislation. She has handled tough issues with a calm demeanor which belied all the controversy she was facing. I remember during the final week of last session, Representative Murman was standing up, microphone in hand, while literally a dozen other legislators were surrounding her. In a calm and confident manner she continued with her presentation and asked to temporarily pass her bill to work out some minor details. She was ultimately successful in passing her bill after forging consensus with those expressing concern. What really impressed me was her ability to maintain composure while the legislation seemed in dire peril. Please don't confuse that mild-mannered calmness with a lack of passion. Representative Murman is passionate about children's issues and is one of the hardest working Members I have known. As I have had the privilege to be her roommate for the past three years, I have seen a woman who takes her responsibility very seriously. Many times I have arrived home to find her surrounded by volumes of bills and bill-related information preparing for the next day.

Representative Murman is a peacemaker. She likes to bring people together to work for a common cause. She understands the need to form consensus, the need to tap into the talents of others, the need to include all points of view. We each bring with us an expertise on one or more issues and we each have different talents. Individually we are 120 Representatives, capable of accomplishing some. Collectively we are capable of so much more. We need someone who can bring out the best in each of us. We were all elected in the same manner, we all represent roughly the same number of constituents, we all have an equal vote and it is important to remember that each one of us can have the same impact on this floor of this House. Representative Sandra Murman understands the importance of each Member and is willing to help each of us achieve all that we can in this process to better serve the people of the great State of Florida who have put their trust in us.

Sandra Murman is ready for the challenge and we are very fortunate that she is willing to accept this awesome responsibility. It is my deep honor and privilege to nominate my colleague, my roommate, and our friend, Representative Sandra Murman, to be our Speaker pro tempore. [applause]

Rep. Maygarden seconded the nomination of Rep. Sandra L. Murman for Speaker pro tempore.

Rep. Maygarden: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Members, family, distinguished guests, what a great privilege it is for me to stand here and second the nomination of our friend, Sandra Murman, for Speaker pro tempore of the Florida House of Representatives.

You know, outside this building the eyes of the world are really riveted on Florida; wondering who our next leader will be, what the agenda will be, what the future will be like for the United States of America. We were reminded on Sunday of this week, Mr. Speaker, by Secretary William Bennett, the importance of ethical leadership, and how the best teacher is example. And I'm truly proud to be here with Members of this House, Republicans, Democrats alike, gathered peacefully, cooperatively to select our leadership for the next two years. What a wonderful privilege it is to be a part of this democracy and to provide leadership for this great state as we move forward. For leaders to succeed they must be an example, and Sandra Murman has been a tremendous example for this House. She's worked diligently in her district. She shook the hands of her constituents. She brought back their needs, their desires, their wants to this floor, and she supported them whole-heartedly day after day. She's a hard, hard worker.

Sandra, down at my house my momma raised boys. And every year at Christmas time or the birthday they would say, "What would you like to have as a gift?" And invariably we said, "A little sister." [laughter] But I never had an opportunity to have a little sister, but our relationship in this House, with all of us, borders on family. I'm proud to join you as a brother and sister in progress. And I am delighted you're going to be our Speaker pro tem. And for that, Mr. Speaker, I second the nomination. [applause]

Rep. Kosmas nominated the Honorable Doug Wiles for Speaker pro tempore.

Rep. Kosmas: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I would like to welcome all the new Members to the House of Representatives and to say hello to our distinguished guests, and to say hello to all my returning friends and Members here in the House of Representatives.

As you become active in this process and participants in the process, each of you will learn which of the Members you feel that you can like, trust, and respect. And in this process that becomes very important. So it is with pride that I am here to offer the nomination of my friend, Doug Wiles, for Speaker pro tem.

Doug and I entered the House of Representatives together in 1996, and I have come to know him in a way that I would like to introduce to you.

Doug is in the words of the old cliché, "A gentleman and a scholar." I think you will find as you work with Doug that he is a gentleman in all respects. He can work with people across the aisle, and he can treat you both respectfully and respectably. And I think you will find that an important attribute as you learn your way through the process and begin to know your fellow Members.

As a scholar I think you will find that Doug studies the issues. And he may not land on the same side of an issue that you do, but he does it based on his core values and his convictions, and the fact that he has studied the issue. I think you will come to know Doug as a leader, a leader with conviction, a leader who has championed some important causes that we hope this year to make some progress on. Some very specific issues like teacher recruitment and retention for our public schools, so that we can have within the hands of those public school teachers—we have the lives of the future of our state of Florida. I know, Governor, that this is an issue that is important to you. We look to work in a bipartisan way to make that happen and with Doug's leadership.

He also has been a leader in campaign reform, and I think the events we are witnessing just across the street make us recognize that campaign and election reform is also going to be an issue that we need to work in a bipartisan way that we can be proud as Members of the Florida House of Representatives.

Doug is also a wonderful family man. His wife, Doris, is a partner with him in his community activism and in his public service. And I suspect, if not at least as competitive as he is in the election process, maybe more so. His daughters, Lindsay and Ashley, are the apples of his eye. And I think they have from him a mutual admiration society.

So for all these reasons I am proud to make the nomination of my friend, Doug Wiles, for Speaker pro tem. [applause]

Rep. Smith seconded the nomination of Rep. Doug Wiles for Speaker pro tempore.

Rep. Smith: Mr. Speaker, this country, this state, and this distinguished body is very diverse. What makes these entities great is diversity.

Ladies and gentlemen, I submit to you that Doug Wiles is the personification of inclusiveness. In the years that I have known Doug, he has successfully negotiated with the liberal south, the centrist central, and the conservative northern Members, in an effort to keep us all together within the Democratic Caucus.

He has been a trusted colleague of veteran Members and will be a role model for you freshman Members. Ladies and gentlemen, we must all take note from Doug, and use our differences in skin color, gender, religion, thoughts, and ideas not as a sword of divisiveness, but a springboard to greatness, because Doug listens and acts on our different thoughts and ideas.

So, Mr. Speaker, and my wife, Desorae, hear me and hear me well, because this is the first time and the last time you will hear this: but, this proud "Nole" is honored, proud, and happy to nominate a "Gator," [laughter] Doug Wiles, as Speaker pro tem. for the House of Representatives. Thank you. [applause]

On motion by Rep. Garcia, seconded by Rep. McGriff, nominations ceased, and Reps. Murman and Wiles were declared nominees for Speaker pro tempore.

When the votes were cast for Speaker pro tempore, the result was:

Votes after roll call:

Wiles—Lee

Change from Murman to Wiles—Fields

Rep. Sandra L. Murman was declared the duly elected Speaker pro tempore for a term of two years beginning today.

Rep. Frankel moved to record a unanimous vote for Rep. Sandra L. Murman as Speaker pro tempore.

Rep. Frankel: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I won't go for a recount this time, but I want to make a motion. I also want to offer my congratulations to Rep. Murman. We look forward to working with you and with that I move for a unanimous vote be recorded for Sandra L. Murman as Speaker pro tem of the Florida House of Representatives.

Rep. Wiles: Mr. Speaker, it is with great honor and respect and indeed a pleasure to second the motion.

By unanimous acclamation, Rep. Murman was declared Speaker pro tempore of the House of Representatives.

On motion by Rep. Farkas, seconded by Rep. Detert, the Speaker appointed Reps. Argenziano, Harrington, Spratt, Alexander, and Lynn as a committee to escort Speaker pro tempore Murman and her family to the rostrum.

Oath of Office Administered

Chief Justice Charles T. Wells, Florida Supreme Court, administered the Oath of Office to John B. Phelps as Clerk of the House.

Chief Justice Charles T. Wells, Florida Supreme Court, administered the Oath of Office to Earnest W. Sumner as Sergeant at Arms.

Committee to the Senate

On motion by Rep. Diaz-Balart, seconded by Rep. Goodlette, the Speaker appointed Reps. Diaz de la Portilla, Pickens, Romeo, Mayfield, Ryan, Goodlette, and Diaz-Balart as a committee to inform the Senate that the House was organized.

The committee was excused to execute its responsibility.

Presentation of Speaker pro tempore

The Speaker presented the Honorable Sandra L. Murman, Speaker pro tempore.

Remarks by the Speaker pro tempore

Speaker pro tempore Murman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I want to personally say, how gratified I am to serve with you and be a co-leader with you and help lead this great House of Representatives that we have. I also want to thank family, of course, Jim and Michele. What they have had to put up with the last four years, with a wild woman in the house. Not literally House of Representatives, but in my own house. You know, it has been an awesome task in our family, so I really appreciate both of you and love you both very much. I want to thank my staff. I also want to thank just the Members here for voting for me today and allowing me to serve you. Representative Frankel, Representative Wiles, I very much appreciate and look forward to working with you in our new spirit of cooperation. That will be a great day. I also want to thank God, my Creator. He has given me a lot of talents to come here today and be before you and do the work that I have done here in this House. It's really been an awesome experience. I love this job. If you ask anybody, I'll tell you that.

This is an historic day for me because I'm the first Republican woman to be here as Speaker pro tem. That's exciting. You know politics has not been the ambition of a lifetime for me. It doesn't mean I'm going to change my commitment. Children and families will always be important to me because I feel like they reflect the quality of life that we're providing, as legislators, here in the House. And I hope you all remember that, because when I go home and talk to my constituents—and, by the way, I thank also my constituents in my district for allowing me to serve them again. You know, it's a gratifying experience.

But my journey started, really, 28 years ago when I first got out of college and I became a hotline worker on the suicide prevention hotline. And I remember a young boy calling the hotline and holding a gun to his head and wanting to take his own life in that feeling of desperation. And, I guess, that is where the vision for opportunity came into my heart. I didn't really know it then, but knew that we had to do a better job in helping our young people feel that they could be successful and a part of their community.

I've seen kids very desperate over the last 28 years. I've seen them wrecked by drug abuse. I've seen so much child abuse and neglect that I don't want to see any more. I've seen children that are desperate for learning. I've seen babies that have been left abandoned on park benches, in garbage bins, and I've seen children who are disabled. My husband has a brother, Richard, who is developmentally disabled, and we have gotten to—you know, he is a very close member of our family. And I've seen kids in adult prisons and, in fact, even just a couple of months ago, I had one of them ask me, "What do you think of me?"

So all these are building up, to me—you know, what do we need to do here? Why are we here? And the problem, as I see it, is we really need to get back to the basics of building up our children—the structure, the moral foundation that they have in their lives. And if we don't, we may as well build more prisons. Our opportunities and our challenges are to give them what they need to be successful. And I think if we're really going to solve the drug problem, we must place in their hearts the moral courage and the strength to say, no, it's not for me, I have a lot to live for. That's very important, we don't want our kids to end up in prisons. We must teach them to value and respect life.

Bill Bennett said it so well the other night. He couldn't have said it better. And I know his wife personally. I've heard her talk about her Best Friends Project—get to know that, that's a great project. But, as legislators, you know it's tough for us to legislate this type of thing. You know, we are here, we've got business, transportation, and environment. We've got so many different issues pulling at us. But these kids are going to be the adults in our State of Florida, they're going to be our future leaders, they are going to be homeless, they are going to be whatever they are going to be. But we need to be role models. We need to let them know that they are truly a gift of God and that we are responsible for helping them get to where they want to be, so their dreams can come true.

We need to make sure that they still have Healthy Start, that we still have Healthy Kids. School readiness, school nurses, after-school programs, everything we have to do as a legislator will affect the quality of life of these children. They are a part of the solution. I want to tell you that today, they are a part of the solution. Not going into an appropriations committee and worrying about which project—worrying about the children being our solution.

I, last week, participated in the Great American Teach-In. I don't know if any of you did that last week. And I walked into this class at 7:30 in the morning—high school juniors—and thought that this was, you know, going to be one of those—I'm going to talk to them about what it's like to be in politics. But the teacher started to take roll and called out this girl's name. Everybody in the class started laughing. It was her twenty-first day absent from school. That's where we're at, that's where we're at. We must break the cycle of poverty, break the cycle of lack of education, because I'll guarantee you that girl's parents—or eighty percent of those parents of girls like that—have not graduated from high school. And we've got to break that cycle.

We must look at education as the key and teachers need to teach from their hearts, just like I feel about helping our kids. Schools are still—they are getting better but we are still failing our children. We still have the double standards of the haves and the have nots. And we must learn as legislators not to fear the important things of standardized tests, teacher quality, expanding charter schools. These are important. What are we afraid of, that using innovation for the best education possible is going to help our kids? We shouldn't be afraid of that.

And I am going to appeal to corporate Florida, most people say corporate America, because if we want to really reach our children, we've got to somehow marry them together. Just like we tried to do the last two years in welfare reform. Chris Hart was so instrumental in doing that. We've got to show them how to get together, they are learning how to dance, but they don't know how to do it. And it's time we teach our kids to be on a different high, that their dreams can come true. And, if companies—if we allow them to provide the jobs that families will be able to put food on the table, that they'll be able to hire people, that's why tax incentives are so important. I realize it as a compassionate conservative in this Florida Legislature. And businesses, we need to help them build more family friendly work places. We have to, that's a charge that we have and I think that's key.

Broken dreams are like unwanted pregnancies, possibly resulting in abortions. And broken dreams—dreams not fulfilled—bring apathy. You know back in 1960 I was just growing up but I remember a scientist saying to John F. Kennedy one day, I think we can go to the moon. And, he said, OK we'll do it in 10 years. But that scientist said, well, that wasn't exactly what I mean. And, if you get the gist of what I am saying, there was a dream there but the scientist felt like it was a little bit impossible. Nine years later we were on the moon. It was the same way our forefathers felt about religious freedom and the fact that they really had to fight—they had a lot to risk. They were risking their lives for religious freedom, but it was successful. So whatever you all talked about in your campaigns, hold onto the thoughts. They are dreams and they are not impossible.

I will tell you that I have worked very hard in this job and the one thing I loved was when they did the five principles. Family empowerment was one of the five principles that excited me. Because it is a critical element of everything we do here, if they're OK, we're OK. I'm, really again, grateful for the opportunity to help lead in this Legislature—to be that compassionate conservative to help our kids, our families, single moms, children without fathers. I want to help tear down the walls of despair, addiction, crime, poverty, all those bad things. I want our children and families to be the home page. You know, we are going to talk about technology. Let's have them be the home page that we go back to in life. That we need to work hard, we need to keep building on education reform. Welfare-to-work, juvenile justice, tax cuts, health care is going to be so critical. But I am convinced that investing in the lives of these young people is one of the major passions that needs to be revived before we can begin to heal. And it is going to take hard work, not just during election time, we need sustained effort.

And I want to leave the state of Florida to go to conferences. I want to hear about Florida being number one, not twentieth, not twenty-fifth, not forty-ninth. I'd like for them to be number one. It's a new beginning. It's a great time of hope for all of us and I hope that when you take time to find your cause, that desire to fight for that cause comes deep within your heart. That will be your vision, what's in your heart. That you commit to it, you make it happen. Because lives are at stake here and the quality of life for all Floridians rests on that. Thank you very much. I look forward to two years. [applause]

Speaker Feeney: Representative Murman, I'm very honored you'd join us on the fourth floor in the leadership team as a great compassionate conservative. And I think when I get to my remarks later you'll be glad to know that those five principles, that Speaker Webster enacted and Speaker Thrasher continued, including family empowerment, will continue to guide the leadership perspective for the next two years. And thank you again.

Election of the Clerk

The Speaker announced that nominations would now be received for Clerk of the House of Representatives pursuant to Article III, Section 2, of the Florida Constitution.

Rep. Byrd nominated John B. Phelps as Clerk of the House of Representatives.

Rep. Byrd: Mr. Speaker, Members, honored guests, it's a real honor to nominate John B. Phelps for Clerk of the Florida House of Representatives. John Phelps embodies the adage, if you choose a job you enjoy you'll never have to work a day in your life. And it's been a lot of fun, John. And time flies when you're having fun.

You may not know that John has served as Clerk of the Florida House for over 100 sessions of the Legislature. He's been with us for 26 years, 14 of those years as our Clerk. John is often chided about the fact that he has a degree in Experimental Psychology, and we know that he did the research for NASA on apes and chimpanzees, which was—you know that's good, that'll get you through ordinary times, John. But what you may not know is he did an extra year, thank goodness, on brain studies of cats. And so I think that'll help him herd some cats over the next two years. [laughter]

I asked John Phelps how he measures his own personal success. How does John Phelps measure his success? And he says, he measures his success by bringing honor to the Florida House of Representatives, by bringing honor to the Florida House of Representatives. He's done that with his peers. He's been the President of the American Society of Legislative Clerks & Secretaries. He's been the Chair of the staff of the National Conference of State Legislatures—high august positions. But what he's done here is made a commitment that our Clerk, our House will be the best in the nation and the best in the world.

So without further ado, I would nominate John B. Phelps as our Clerk of the Florida House of Representatives. [applause]

Rep. Gottlieb seconded the nomination of John B. Phelps for Clerk.

Rep. Gottlieb: Well, a lot of great people have been Representatives in this body here and they've come and they've gone. But one thing hasn't changed, and that's our Clerk, because he's here to stay. He's been here, as you heard, for a long time, 102 sessions. The training that he did for monkeys and chimpanzees was the only thing that could get him that far along in the House of Representatives. [laughter] In fact some may say he has the best training for this career that he has chosen. But he's also, for 16 years, he has been on the committee amending the rules to Mason's, which is the premier authority after our own Rules. And if you look at the Rules—because everybody has said, the Rules, the Rules, the Rules—well, the Rules they're very short, they're very concise, they are easy to understand. It's a thin book you can get through it on the airplane when you come from South Florida. And, most of all, it's going to change but we know with John Phelps' leadership that the Rules will stay this thin, which for me personally is a bad thing. I like a thick rule book so when I'm standing back here I can step on it and you can see me. [laughter] Rules for everyone has a different purpose.

But he has a résumé that you can't believe. For example, 29 times he's been a speaker or a panelist at colleges—I haven't done it even once but he's done it 29 times. He's also been the Staff Chair of NCSL and he's been the President of the American Society of Legislative Clerks & Secretaries, two organizations that are national. And he's been elected by his peers because his peers know the same thing that we do, that he's number one. And so, I would like to take the distinct privilege and opportunity to stand here and second the nomination for our Clerk who's been here for 14 years, who's a fifth generation Floridian, who's the best Clerk in the country, John B. Phelps. [applause]

On motion by Rep. Rubio, seconded by Rep. Greenstein, nominations ceased and a unanimous vote was cast for John B. Phelps as Clerk of the House of Representatives.

John B. Phelps was declared the duly elected Clerk of the House of Representatives.

Speaker Feeney: Clerk, we're proud of the 102 sessions that you've handled quite ably. We hope to give you only two more in the next few years but you just never know.

Remarks by the Clerk

Clerk Phelps: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, Members and guests. On June 23, 1845, Florida held its first legislative organization session as a state. The Journals of that day show the House convening with 41 Members, each serving a little more than 1500 citizens. The population of the state was the equivalent of Boca Raton today. The echoes of that 1845 session remain with us to this day having become our tradition for organizing the House. We are also the grateful heir to the rules and practices of our predecessors who did so much to make democracy work at a time when few thought it could succeed.

This House and other legislative chambers in this nation have crafted and refined a body of procedural law that is the envy of the world. It has stood the test of time and reflects our basic democratic values. Namely: our faith in the rule of law to guide us toward a more virtuous civic life; our belief in the power of ideas to shape and alter human conduct; our respect for the right of all people, all people, to present and fight for their vision of the common good; our ability to bear no malice when others disagree; our capacity to look upon one another as individuals with human failings and vanities but instead as the voices of our fellow Floridians; our will to respect and enforce our legislative rules and traditions; and finally, living our public life in the full knowledge that our decisions and our conduct have real consequences for the future of this great body.

As I view it, Mr. Speaker, the legislative institution we serve is not a material thing, though this grand Chamber gives it some expression. It is something less tangible but more foundational. It is the abstract devotion that each of us holds in our heart for the precious gift of democracy and the care we take to keep it strong and pass it from generation to generation.

The mantle of leadership passes today to a new generation of citizen-legislators. It is by any measure an historic moment. For granting me the honor of witnessing these proceedings and for continuing in service to this House, I am deeply grateful to you, Mr. Speaker, and to all the Members. Thank you. [applause]

Designation of the Sergeant at Arms

The Speaker announced the designation of Earnest W. Sumner as Sergeant at Arms and requested the consent of the House.

Rep. Bense moved that the House consent to the designation of Earnest W. Sumner as Sergeant at Arms of the House of Representatives.

Rep. Bense: Thank you, Mr. Speaker and Members. Two years ago, after I was elected, the day after I was elected I came over here to the House to, as everyone is going to do shortly, beg for a good committee slot. And as I was walking down the hall, Earnie had cleverly already figured out who the new Members were, and he saw me walking down the hall, and he was kind of in a doorway there, and I was walking and he said, "Representative" and I kept on walking. [laughter] And then I walked about 10 steps and it dawned on me, [laughter] that's me, I'm the Representative. So Earnie was pretty clever to get on my good side early on in my career.

Earnie has worked for the Sergeant's Office here since 1969. He graduated from Liberty County High School, over in Bristol, which is not far from my district. He served as Deputy Sergeant for 22 years and in 1998 he formally selected him as the Sergeant at Arms. I'm a small business person and on occasion people ask me, rare occasions, but they'll ask me for advice on, "How can I be successful in business?" And I will tell them there's three things, three real key reasons—formula for success. If you're honest, if you work hard, and provide a good service, you'll be successful. You will be. And I can tell you that Earnest Sumner has been honest, he's worked hard, and provided really, very good service here in the Florida House of Representatives.

It's my privilege and honor to nominate you as the Sergeant at Arms. [applause]

Rep. Henriquez seconded the motion that the House consent to the designation of Earnest W. Sumner as Sergeant at Arms of the House of Representatives.

Rep. Henriquez: Thank you, very much. Earnie, I'm glad they've already sworn you in because you know I'm 0 for 1 in these second things today. [laughter] A couple weeks ago I was stuck in bed, at home, with a 102 fever with the chicken pox; I waited 36 years to catch the chicken pox. And the phone rings, and Earnie is on the other line and he says, "Representative Henriquez, would you be nice enough to second my nomination?" I immediately felt better. So I thank you, you're part of my healing process.

I also really am honored. One of the best pieces of advice and one of the earliest pieces of advice, and one that all of the new Members should know, when I got here, was that there are three people you really need to get to know. One, is the Clerk, because he can make sure you have an opportunity to be successful. The next is the General Counsel, because he can make sure you don't get in trouble. And the third, is the Sergeant, because he can take care of almost anything else that you may come up with. So make sure that you get to know those three folks and take care of them, because they certainly will take care of you.

Earnie Sumner is a true gentleman in every sense of the word. This is a true honor for me to have this opportunity. And if James Brown can be the hardest working man in rock 'n roll, Earnie Sumner is the hardest working man in the state legislature. And, it's my honor to second your nomination, Earnie, thank you. [applause]

Speaker Feeney: The Sergeant's position, unlike the Clerk's, is not a position that is designated in our Constitution. And the Chair would like to announce that I would like to designate Earnest W. Sumner as our Sergeant at Arms of the House of Representatives, and would ask the House for its consent. And the question on consent to the designation of Earnest W. Sumner as Sergeant at Arms for the Florida House of Representatives will be put before you. All those in favor will please signify by saying Yea; all those opposed, Nay. [voice vote] Then with your vote, our Sergeant, Earnest W. Sumner. Congratulations, Sergeant. [applause]

Remarks by the Sergeant at Arms

Sergeant Sumner: I want to thank all of you. I really am very appreciative of your vote of confidence. You know I have worked here for many years and I've seen a lot of faces come and a lot of faces go, but I've never seen this many new ones at one time. [laughter] But I do look forward to working with each and every one of you, in a personal way. That's my job, to serve you as elected officials in this body. And I've always strived to do the very best that I could ever do. And I commit to you today, that I will remain committed and dedicated to serving you to the best of my ability.

I want to thank first of all, Mr. Speaker, I thank you, for your vote of confidence in me in asking me to stay around for two more years. And I thank you, Members, for that vote of confidence that you just gave me. I want to thank my family; my wife and my parents who are here today. I thank them—if it had not been for them I'm sure this would not have been possible—for their support. But more than anything today, I thank God for giving me this opportunity to continue to serve as your Sergeant in the House of Representatives. God bless you and thank you.

[applause]

Committee to the Governor

On motion by Rep. Kyle, seconded by Rep. Baxley, the Speaker appointed Reps. Berfield, Simmons, Kendrick, Haridopolos, Mack, Holloway, Wilson, Bullard, Baxley, and Kyle as a committee to inform the Governor that the House was organized.

The committee was excused to execute its responsibility.

Consideration of House Resolutions

By Representative Byrd—

HR 1-Orig.—A resolution establishing the Rules of the House of Representatives of the State of Florida.

Be It Resolved by the House of Representatives of the State of Florida:

That the following Rules shall govern the House of Representatives of the State of Florida for the Organization Session 2000 and thereafter:

THE RULES OF THE FLORIDA HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

RULE ONE

LEGISLATIVE ORGANIZATION

1.1—General Officers

(a) The general officers of the Florida House of Representatives are the following:

- (1) Speaker.
- (2) Speaker pro tempore.
- (3) Majority Leader.
- (4) Minority Leader.
- (5) Clerk.
- (6) Sergeant at Arms.

(b) The Speaker and the Speaker pro tempore shall each be elected by a majority of the duly elected and certified Members of the House. For each office, the vote shall be recorded and, if a majority vote is not received on the first ballot, the Members voting shall vote on the two names receiving the highest number of votes on the first ballot until a majority vote is received.

(c) The Majority Leader shall be selected by the Speaker, and the Minority Leader shall be selected by the Minority Conference.

(d) The Clerk shall be elected by the House to serve at its pleasure.

(e) The Sergeant at Arms shall be appointed by the Speaker, with the advice and consent of the Members.

1.2—Political Party Conferences

The political party with the largest number of Members who are registered voters of such party shall form the Majority Conference. The political party with the second largest number of Members who are registered voters of such party shall form the Minority Conference. The members of each political party conference may adopt rules to govern the affairs of their conference.

1.3—Councils and Standing Committees

Thirty-four standing committees of the House are hereby created. Each committee shall be placed in one of seven councils as follows:

(a) The Council for Competitive Commerce shall have oversight responsibility for the following substantive standing committees:

- (1) Agriculture & Consumer Affairs.
- (2) Banking.

(3) Economic Development & International Trade.

(4) Insurance.

(5) Tourism.

(b) The Council for Healthy Communities shall have oversight responsibility for the following substantive standing committees:

- (1) Child & Family Security.
- (2) Crime Prevention, Corrections, & Safety.
- (3) Elder & Long-Term Care.
- (4) Health Promotion.
- (5) Health Regulation.

(c) The Council for Lifelong Learning shall have oversight responsibility for the following substantive standing committees:

- (1) Colleges & Universities.
- (2) Education Innovation.
- (3) General Education.
- (4) Workforce & Technical Skills.

(d) The Council for Ready Infrastructure shall have oversight responsibility for the following substantive standing committees:

- (1) Information Technology.
- (2) Natural Resources & Environmental Protection.
- (3) Transportation.
- (4) Utilities & Telecommunications.

(e) The Council for Smarter Government shall have oversight responsibility for the following substantive standing committees:

- (1) Business Regulation.
- (2) Judicial Oversight.
- (3) Juvenile Justice.
- (4) Local Government & Veterans Affairs.
- (5) State Administration.

(f) The Fiscal Responsibility Council shall have oversight responsibility for the following fiscal standing committees:

- (1) Criminal Justice Appropriations.
- (2) Education Appropriations.
- (3) Fiscal Policy & Resources.
- (4) General Government Appropriations.
- (5) Health & Human Services Appropriations.
- (6) Transportation & Economic Development Appropriations.

(g) The Procedural & Redistricting Council shall have oversight responsibility for the statutory joint committees and the following standing committees:

- (1) Claims.
- (2) Congressional Redistricting.
- (3) House Redistricting.
- (4) Rules, Ethics, & Elections.
- (5) Senate Redistricting.

1.4—Qualifications and Elections of Members

(a) As specified in Section 2 of Article III of the Florida Constitution, the House is the sole judge of the qualifications, elections, and returns of its Members.

(b) In cases of contest for a seat in the House, notice setting forth the specific grounds of such contest and the supporting evidence must be received by the Clerk not less than 5 days before the Organization Session of the Legislature. No motion to disqualify a Member shall be in order at the Organization Session until a Speaker has been elected in accordance with the Florida Constitution. In the case of a special election, notice must be received by the Clerk not less than 5 days before the next regular or special session convenes. If the election is during a session or less than 5 days before the next session, the notice must be on the next legislative day following the receipt of certified election results. Any contest setting forth facts sufficient to warrant review shall be referred by the Speaker to an appropriate committee. The committee shall hold a hearing and report its findings and recommendations as soon as reasonably possible. Upon receipt of the committee report, the House shall with all dispatch, upon motion, determine the contest by a majority vote.

RULE TWO DUTIES AND RIGHTS OF THE SPEAKER

2.1—Speaker to Enforce Rules; Questions of Order

(a) The Speaker shall enforce, apply, and interpret the Rules of the House in all deliberations.

(b) All questions of order shall be presented to the Speaker for determination; however, any decision of the Speaker on a point of order is subject to an appeal to the House made by any five Members. The Speaker may require the Member raising a point of order to cite the Rule or other authority in support of the question. The Speaker may decide the question of order, put such question to the House, or refer such question to the Committee on Rules, Ethics, & Elections for a recommendation to the House. When a decision of the Speaker on a question of order is appealed, the Speaker shall put the appeal to the House or refer the appeal to the Committee on Rules, Ethics, & Elections for a recommendation to the House. No Member may speak more than once on an appeal unless given leave by the House by majority vote. Responses to parliamentary inquiries and decisions of recognition made by the Speaker may not be appealed.

2.2—Speaker to Bring Business Before the House

The Speaker shall lay all business before the House, reserve times for the committee and council meetings in compliance with these Rules, and receive motions made by Members and put them to the House.

2.3—Preservation of Order and Decorum; Control Over Chamber and Other Rooms Assigned to the House

(a) The Speaker shall preserve order and decorum in the Chamber of the House. The Speaker shall see that the Members conduct themselves in a civil manner in the Chamber of the House in accordance with accepted standards of parliamentary conduct and may, when necessary, order the Sergeant at Arms to clear the aisles and seat the Members so that business may be conducted in an orderly manner.

(b) In case of disturbance or disorderly conduct in the galleries or lobby of the Chamber, the Speaker may order the Sergeant at Arms to clear these areas.

(c) Presentations on the large video screen in the Chamber of the House shall be permitted only upon approval of the Speaker.

(d) Except as otherwise provided in Rule 14.4, the Speaker shall have general control of the Chamber of the House, its lobby, galleries, corridors, and passages, and other rooms in those parts of the Capitol assigned to the use of the House. The Chamber and meeting rooms of the House may not be used for any meeting other than a legislative meeting unless specifically authorized by the Speaker.

2.4—Appointment of Temporary Presiding Officer

The Speaker may appoint any Member to perform the duties of presiding officer for a temporary period of time not to extend beyond a single legislative day. If the Speaker is absent and has not made such an appointment, the Speaker pro tempore shall act as presiding officer during the Speaker's absence. However, if the Speaker pro tempore is also absent and has not made such an appointment, the Chair of the Committee on Rules, Ethics, & Elections shall act as presiding officer during the absence of both the Speaker and Speaker pro tempore or may appoint another Member to perform such duties.

2.5—House Employees Serve at the Pleasure of the Speaker

The Speaker shall employ all employees of the House and shall determine their qualifications, hours of work, and compensation, including perquisites and other benefits. All employees serve at the pleasure of the Speaker. The Speaker has the right to dismiss any employee of the House, and the pay of such employee shall stop on the designated day of dismissal.

2.6—Speaker to Sign Papers and Authorize Counsel in Suits Affecting the House

(a) The Speaker shall sign all acts, joint resolutions, concurrent resolutions, resolutions, memorials, writs, subpoenas, vouchers for expenditures chargeable to the House, contracts binding on the House, or other papers issued by the House. The Speaker may delegate the authority to sign papers of an administrative nature.

(b) The Speaker may authorize counsel to initiate, defend, intervene in, or otherwise participate in any suit on behalf of the House, a committee or council of the House, a Member of the House (whether in the legal capacity of Member or taxpayer), a former Member of the House, or an officer or employee of the House when such suit is determined by the Speaker to be of significant interest to the House and the Speaker believes that the interest of the House would not be otherwise adequately represented. Expenses incurred for legal services in such proceedings may be paid upon approval of the Speaker.

RULE THREE MEMBERS

3.1—Disclosures of Interest and Disqualification from Voting

(a) No Member may vote on any measure that the Member knows or believes would inure to the Member's special private gain. The Member must disclose the nature of the interest for which the Member is required to refrain from voting. Disclosure shall be done in a timely manner by filing a memorandum with the Clerk, which shall be printed in the Journal if the vote is taken on the floor. If the vote is taken in a committee or council, the memorandum shall be filed with the committee or council administrative assistant, who shall attach such memorandum to the committee or council report.

(b) A Member, when voting on any measure that the Member knows or believes would inure to the special private gain of a family member of the Member, or to the special private gain of any principal by whom the Member or a family member of the Member is retained or employed, must disclose the nature of the interest of such person in the outcome of the vote. Disclosure shall be done in a timely manner by filing a memorandum with the Clerk, which shall be printed in the Journal if the vote is taken on the floor. If the vote is taken in a committee or council, the memorandum shall be filed with the committee or council administrative assistant, who shall attach such memorandum to the committee or council report. For the purpose of this Rule, family members include the Member's spouse, parents, and children.

3.2—Attendance Upon Meetings Required

A Member shall attend all meetings of committees and councils to which appointed, unless excused by the Chair of the committee or council or by the Speaker. Excuse from House session shall constitute excuse from that day's committee and council meetings. Failure to attend two consecutive meetings, unless excused, shall constitute automatic removal from the committee or council and create a vacancy. Upon notification by the Chair of the committee or council, the Speaker shall make an appointment to fill such vacancy.

3.3—Attendance at Sessions

A Member may not be absent from the sessions of the House without approval from the Speaker.

3.4—Excused Absence

Upon written request of a Member submitted in a timely manner, the Speaker may, by written notice to the Clerk, excuse the Member from attendance on the House for any stated period. Such excused absence shall be noted in the Journal.

3.5—Leave of Absence

Any Member granted a leave of absence due to a meeting of a committee, conference committee, or council that has authority to meet while the House is in session shall be so noted in the Journal. It shall be the responsibility of the excused Member to advise the Clerk when leaving and returning to the Chamber.

3.6—Members Presumed Present Unless Excused or Necessarily Prevented; Failure to Answer Roll Call

(a) Any Member who has answered roll call (either orally or by electronic means) at the opening of any daily session, or who enters after the initial quorum call and informs the Clerk of the Member's presence, shall thereafter be presumed present unless necessarily prevented or leave of absence is obtained from the Speaker. The Speaker shall make each determination as to whether a Member was necessarily prevented.

(b) Any Member who is present and who fails or refuses to record on a roll call after being requested to do so by the Speaker shall be recorded as present by the Speaker and shall be counted for the purpose of making a quorum.

3.7—Possession of Bills

No Member or other person may take possession of an original bill, after filing, with the intention of depriving the Legislature of its availability for consideration.

3.8—Open Meetings

(a) Subject to order and decorum, each Member shall provide reasonable access to members of the public to any meeting between such Member and more than one other Member of the Legislature, if such members of the public have requested admission and such meeting has been prearranged for the purpose of agreeing to take formal legislative action on pending legislation or amendments at such meeting or at a subsequent time. No such meeting shall be conducted in the Members' Lounge, at any location that is closed to the public, or at any location that the Member knows prohibits admission on the basis of race, religion, gender, national origin, physical handicap, or similar classification.

(b) Meetings conducted in the Chamber of either the House or the Senate while such body is in session shall be considered to be held at a location providing reasonable access to, and to be reasonably open to, the public. When the number of persons must be limited because of space considerations or otherwise for the maintenance of order or decorum, at least one representative each of the print, radio, and television media shall be included among the members of the public admitted, if such persons have requested admission.

(c) For the purpose of this Rule, and as used in Section 4 of Article III of the Florida Constitution, legislation shall be considered pending if filed with the Clerk and an amendment shall be considered pending if it has been delivered to the administrative assistant of a committee or council in which the legislation is pending or to the Clerk, if the amendment is to a bill that has been reported favorably by each committee or council of reference, and the term "formal legislative action" shall include any vote of the House or Senate, or of a committee or council of either house, on final passage or on a motion other than a motion to adjourn or recess.

RULE FOUR DUTIES OF THE CLERK, SERGEANT AT ARMS, AND EMPLOYEES

4.1—Clerk

(a) The Clerk shall:

(1) Be the custodian of all bills, resolutions, and memorials. The responsibility for the safekeeping of original filed bills, resolutions, and memorials shall vest in the Clerk, except when such legislation has been committed to a committee or council.

(2) Provide for the keeping of a complete record of introduction and action on all bills, resolutions, and memorials, including the number, the author, a brief description of the subject matter, and each committee or council reference.

(3) Provide to the committee or council Chair each measure referred to a committee or council along with all official attachments thereto.

(4) Keep a correct journal of proceedings of the House. The Journal shall be numbered serially and published from the first day of each session of the Legislature.

(5) Keep open the Office of the Clerk during and between sessions of the Legislature.

(6) Superintend the engrossing, enrolling, and transmitting of bills, resolutions, and memorials.

(7) Not permit any records or papers belonging to the House to be taken out of the Clerk's custody other than in the regular course of business and only then upon receipt. All such records in the custody of the Clerk shall be available for public inspection.

(8) Report any missing papers to the Speaker.

(9) Prepare Daily and Interim Calendars necessary to provide public notice of consideration of bills, resolutions, and memorials by the House and its committees and councils.

(10) Prepare the copy for all printed forms used by the House in the process of considering legislation. The Clerk shall have the responsibility for distribution of documents required by these Rules to be originated in the Office of the Clerk.

(11) Examine bills, resolutions, and memorials upon their tender for introduction to determine whether facially they meet the requirements of the Florida Constitution for the presence of the enacting or resolving clause or the provision in local bills, including local claim bills, for advertising or for referendum; however, beyond calling an apparent defect to the attention of the sponsor, the obligation of the Clerk shall end.

(12) Sign and receive necessary papers in the name of the House between a general election and election of the Speaker.

(b) It shall be a ministerial duty of the Clerk to attest to all writs, issued by order of the House, and to the passage of all bills, resolutions, and memorials.

4.2—Sergeant at Arms

The Sergeant at Arms shall:

(a) Attend the House during its sittings and maintain order under the direction of the Speaker or Member performing the duties of the presiding officer.

(b) Ensure that no person is admitted to the House Chamber except in accordance with these Rules.

(c) Be under the direct supervision and execute all commands of the Speaker.

(d) Be the custodian of furniture, books, and property of the House and shall annually take an inventory of all property under the Sergeant at Arms' charge.

(e) Perform all other duties pertaining to the Sergeant at Arms' Office as prescribed by law or these Rules.

4.3—Employees Forbidden to Lobby; Restriction on Employee Campaign Activities

(a) An employee of the House may not, directly or indirectly, be interested in or concerned with the passage or consideration of any bill without direction from a Member with authority over the designated staff member. If any employee exhibits an improper interest in or concern with any bill, it shall be grounds for dismissal.

(b) An employee of the House may not engage in campaign activities during regular work hours, except when on approved leave, and may neither hold, nor be a candidate for, public office (other than a political party executive committee office) while in the employ of the House.

RULE FIVE

FORM AND INTRODUCTION OF BILLS

5.1—"Bill" Stands for All Legislation

Except when the context otherwise indicates, "bill," as used in these Rules, means a bill, joint resolution, concurrent resolution, resolution, memorial, or other measure upon which a committee or council may be required to report.

5.2—Filing Deadlines

(a) No local bill originating in the House shall be given first reading unless filed with the Clerk by 12:00 noon of the first day of the regular session.

(b) No general bill, joint resolution, concurrent resolution (except one relating to extension of a session or legislative organization or procedures), or memorial originating in the House shall be given first reading unless filed with the Clerk by 12:00 noon of the fourteenth day of the regular session.

(c) Bills, resolutions, and memorials introduced by committees or councils are exempt from the requirements of this Rule.

5.3—Limitation on Member Bills Filed

(a) A Member may not file more than six bills for a regular session. For purposes of this Rule, the Member considered to have filed a bill is the first-named sponsor of the bill or the first-named Member sponsor of a committee or council substitute for the bill, and bills that have been withdrawn from further consideration prior to the filing deadline shall not be considered filed.

(b) Bills not counted toward these limits include:

- (1) Local bills, other than local claim bills.
- (2) House resolutions.
- (3) Concurrent resolutions relating to extension of a session or legislative organization or procedures.
- (4) Trust fund bills adhering to another bill.
- (5) Public records or public meetings exemption bills adhering to another bill.
- (6) Bills introduced by a committee under Rule 7.30.

(7) Bills that only repeal or delete, without substantive replacement, provisions of the Florida Statutes or Laws of Florida.

5.4—Forms of Measures

(a) To be acceptable for introduction, all bills shall be produced in accordance with standards approved by the Speaker. The original bill shall be backed with a folder-jacket, and three copies of the original bill shall also be backed with jackets. On these jackets shall be inscribed the name of the sponsor and enough of the title for identification, and on the original folder-jacket shall be inscribed the signature and district number of the first-named sponsor and each other sponsor agreed to by the first-named sponsor. All signatures and respective district numbers must be on a numbered line as provided on the bill jacket. After bill filing, those Members desiring to be cosponsors must fill out a cosponsor form to be agreed to by the first-named sponsor.

(b) No Member may be added or deleted as a sponsor or cosponsor of a bill without the Member's written consent on forms provided by the Clerk.

(c) Bills that propose to amend existing provisions of law shall contain the full text of the section, subsection, or paragraph to be amended. Joint resolutions that propose to amend the Florida Constitution shall contain the full text of the section to be amended. As to those portions of general bills and joint resolutions that propose to amend existing provisions of the Florida Statutes or the Florida Constitution, new words shall be inserted in the text underlined and words to be deleted shall be lined through with hyphens. If the change in language is so general that the use of these procedures would hinder, rather than assist, the understanding of the amendment, it is not necessary to use the coded indicators of words added or deleted, but, in lieu thereof, a notation similar to the following shall be inserted immediately preceding the affected section of the bill: "Substantial rewording of section. See s. . . ., F.S., for present text." When such a notation is used, the notation, as well as the substantially reworded text, shall be underlined. The words to be deleted and the above-described indicators of such words and of new material are for information and guidance and do not constitute a part of the bill under consideration. Numerals in the margins of the line-numbered paper do not constitute a part of the bill and are shown on the page only for convenience in identifying lines. Section catchlines of existing text shall not be underlined, nor shall any other portion of a bill covered by this Rule other than new material.

5.5—Bills and Joint Resolutions

(a) All bills shall contain a proper title, as defined in Section 6 of Article III of the Florida Constitution, and the enacting clause "Be It Enacted by the Legislature of the State of Florida:".

(b) All joint resolutions shall contain a title and the resolving clause "Be It Resolved by the Legislature of the State of Florida:".

5.6—Local Bills

(a) If a committee or council determines that the substance of a local bill may be enacted into law by ordinance of a local governing body, the committee or council shall not report the bill to the Clerk. However, if a local governing body would be required to call a referendum to enact the substance of a local bill into law, the committee or council may report the local bill.

(b) A local bill that provides an exemption from general law may not be placed on the Special Order Calendar in any section reserved for the expedited consideration of local bills.

(c) All local bills, including local claim bills, must either, as required by Section 10 of Article III of the Florida Constitution, embody provisions for a ratifying referendum (stated in the title as well as in the text of the bill) or be accompanied by an affidavit of proper advertisement, securely attached to the original bill ahead of its first page.

5.7—Claim Bills

(a) Claim bills may be referred by the Speaker to any committee or council for review. If the Speaker determines that a de novo hearing is necessary to determine any issue, including liability, proximate cause, or damages, the Speaker may appoint a Special Master to conduct such hearing pursuant to reasonable notice. The Special Master may administer an oath to all witnesses, accept relevant documentary and tangible evidence offered, tape record the proceedings, and prepare a final report containing findings of fact, conclusions of law, and recommendations. The report shall be signed by the Special Master, who shall be available, in person, to explain his or her report to any committee or council of reference.

(b) Stipulations entered by the parties are not binding on the Special Master or the House or its committees or councils.

(c) The hearing and consideration of a claim, any element of which is pending in litigation, shall be held in abeyance until all judicial activity thereon, including any appellate proceedings, shall have come to rest.

5.8—Reviser's Bills

(a) Reviser's bills are nonsubstantive bills initiated by the Office of Legislative Services pursuant to section 11.242, Florida Statutes, for any of the following purposes:

- (1) To reduce the number and bulk of the statutes.
- (2) To remove inconsistencies and redundancies in the statutes.
- (3) To improve the clarity and facilitate the correct and proper interpretation of the statutes.

(b) Reviser's bills shall be introduced by the Committee on Rules, Ethics, & Elections, which may request prior review by another substantive committee. They shall be filed as soon as possible prior to or during each legislative session. Except by report of the Committee on Rules, Ethics, & Elections, reviser's bills may be amended only by making deletions.

5.9—Memorials

A memorial expresses the opinion of the Legislature to the Federal Government. All memorials shall contain the resolving clause "Be It Resolved by the Legislature of the State of Florida:".

5.10—House Resolutions and Concurrent Resolutions

(a) All House resolutions and all concurrent resolutions originating in the House shall contain a title and a resolving clause. In the case of House resolutions, the resolving clause shall be "Be It Resolved by the House of Representatives of the State of Florida:". In the case of concurrent resolutions originating in the House, the resolving clause shall be "Be It Resolved by the House of Representatives of the State of Florida, the Senate Concurring:". Concurrent resolutions originating in the House shall present only questions pertaining to extension of a session, enactment of joint rules, ratification of federal constitutional amendments, communications with the judiciary, or other procedural legislative matters.

(b) Copies of House resolutions directed in the resolution to be furnished to any person after adoption shall be prepared only by the Clerk. The Secretary of State shall be requested to prepare certified copies of concurrent resolutions after their adoption.

5.11—Prefiled Bills

During the period between the Organization Session and the convening of the first regular session of the legislative biennium and during the period between the first and second regular sessions of the legislative biennium, Members may file with the Clerk for introduction bills that have been prepared or reviewed by the House Bill Drafting Service.

5.12—Requirements for Introduction

(a) All bills (other than a General Appropriations Bill, concurrent resolutions relating to organization of the House, reviser's bills, reapportionment bills or resolutions, and recall of acts from the Governor) shall either be prepared or, in the case of local bills, reviewed by the House Bill Drafting Service. After completion and delivery by the House Bill Drafting Service, no change may be made in the text or title of the bill without returning the bill to the House Bill Drafting Service prior to filing with the Clerk.

(b) The Director of the House Bill Drafting Service shall notify any Member proposing a bill if an identical or similar bill has been filed and, if so, the name of the sponsor of such bill.

5.13—Printing

Upon introduction, all bills (including committee bills and committee or council substitutes) shall be printed for the information of the House and the public, except that reviser's bills and House resolutions shall be printed only upon the order of the Committee on Rules, Ethics, & Elections. The Clerk shall have sufficient copies printed for the needs of the House and the public and shall furnish the copy for all such printing. Except as provided in Section 19(d) of Article III of the Florida Constitution, the absence of a printed copy shall not delay the progress of any bill at any stage of its consideration.

5.14—Identification

All bills shall be introduced in the order they are received by the Clerk and shall be serially numbered, in an odd-number sequence, as filed; however, House resolutions shall be serially numbered separately, in an odd-number sequence. The Clerk shall validate the original copy of each bill, and each page thereof, to ensure its identification as the item introduced in order to prevent unauthorized or improper substitutions therefor. Any device used for such validation shall be used by and at all times shall be in the secure custody of the Clerk, and its use by any person not authorized by this Rule shall be prohibited.

5.15—Companion Measures

A companion Senate bill must be substantially similar in wording, and identical as to specific intent and purpose, to the House bill for which it is being substituted. Whenever a House bill is reached on the floor for consideration, either on second or third reading, and there is also pending on the Calendar of the House a companion bill already passed by the Senate, it shall be in order to move that the Senate companion bill be substituted and considered in lieu of the House bill. Such motion may be adopted by a majority vote, provided the Senate bill is on the same reading, otherwise the motion shall be to waive the Rules by two-thirds vote of the Members present and voting and substitute such Senate bill. At the moment the House substitutes the Senate companion bill or takes up a Senate bill in lieu of a House bill, the House bill so replaced shall be automatically tabled. Recommitment of a House bill shall automatically carry with it any Senate companion bill then on the Calendar of the House.

RULE SIX REFERENCE

6.1—Speaker to Refer Legislation

The authority to make bill referrals rests with the Speaker, except as otherwise provided in these Rules.

6.2—Reference: Generally

(a) Bills, upon first reading, whether House or Senate, shall be referred by the Speaker either to committee or to the Calendar of the House. The order of reference shall be first to substantive committees and then to appropriate fiscal committees. If a bill is referred to more than one fiscal committee, the Speaker shall specify which shall first consider the bill.

(b) A bill or committee substitute therefor, upon receiving a favorable report from each committee of reference, shall automatically be referred to the council of the committee of first reference for the original bill, unless otherwise determined by the Speaker at the time of the original reference. For the purpose of this Rule, the first committee of reference for a committee bill is the committee introducing the bill.

(c) References of bills and the nature of any documents referred shall be recorded in the Journal.

6.3—Reference: Exception; Additional or New References

(a) All bills, whether House or Senate, may be referred by the Speaker to the appropriate committees. A Senate bill with a House companion may be paired with the companion House bill at whatever its stage of consideration, provided both bills are on the same reading.

(b) If a bill is reported with an amendment that contains, or is reported as a committee or council substitute that contains, an issue that was not in the original bill and that issue is within the jurisdiction of another committee, the Speaker may refer the bill or committee or council substitute to the other committee having jurisdiction over the additional subject and, if given an additional reference, such bill or committee or council substitute shall be considered by such committee prior to its consideration by any fiscal committee or council.

(c) Although a committee substitute for a single bill retains all other references of the original bill, a committee substitute for two or more bills shall have all other references of the original bills rescinded, and the Speaker shall make any subsequent references of the committee substitute, if needed.

(d) A council may, during any legislative session or during the interim, refer bills in its possession to a standing committee within its jurisdiction with a request for further consideration, including, but not limited to, combining two or more bills into a committee substitute.

6.4—Reference of Resolutions, Concurrent Resolutions: Exception

All resolutions shall be referred by the Speaker to the Committee on Rules, Ethics, & Elections, except that resolutions on House organization and concurrent resolutions pertaining to extension of the session may be taken up upon motion and adopted at the time of introduction without reference. Concurrent resolutions of a substantive nature, as authorized under Rule 5.10, shall first be referred to an appropriate substantive committee.

6.5—Reference of Appropriations or Tax Measures; General Appropriations and Implementing Bills

(a) All bills carrying or affecting appropriations or mandating the expenditure of funds by county or city government, all claim bills, and all bills affecting tax matters, whether state or local, may be referred to the appropriate fiscal committee, in addition to substantive committee referrals. If the original bill did not affect an appropriation or a tax matter, and an amendment is adopted that calls for or affects an appropriation or a tax matter, then the bill with the amendment may, upon the recommendation of the Chair of the Fiscal Responsibility Council and at the Speaker's discretion, be referred to the appropriate fiscal committee. The bill, if then reported favorably without further amendment, shall be returned to the same reading as when referred. If further amendments are recommended by committee, the bill shall be returned to second reading.

(b) The Fiscal Responsibility Council shall consider the General Appropriations Bills and implementing bills proposed by the appropriations committees within its jurisdiction and, after consideration and amendment, may combine such proposed committee bills into a single General Appropriations Bill and a single implementing bill, which shall be reported to the Clerk.

6.6—Reference of Prefiled Bills

Prefiled bills shall be numbered by the Clerk and presented to the Speaker for reference as otherwise provided under these Rules. After the Speaker has referred a prefiled bill to a committee or council, the Clerk shall notify each committee or council receiving the reference.

6.7—Reference of Veto Messages

The Speaker shall refer veto messages to the appropriate committee or council for recommendations.

RULE SEVEN

COMMITTEES AND COUNCILS—ORGANIZATION, MEETINGS, AND OVERSIGHT

Part One—Organization

7.1—Standing Committee and Council Appointments

(a) The Speaker shall appoint the Chair, the Vice Chair, and any Co-Chairs deemed necessary for each standing House committee and shall also appoint the remaining membership of each such committee. The Speaker shall also appoint the Chair and Vice Chair of each council and may appoint other council members as needed. The Speaker shall give notice of each such appointment in writing to the Clerk for publication in an Interim Calendar and the Session Journal.

(b) If the need arises, the Speaker may appoint a temporary Chair for any standing committee or council.

(c) All standing committee or council Chairs, Vice Chairs, and members serve at the pleasure of the Speaker.

(d) All standing committee and council appointments shall be made by the Speaker prior to the convening of each regular session and shall expire on August 1 of odd-numbered years or, if the Legislature is convened in special or extended session on that date, upon adjournment sine die of such session.

7.2—Appointment of Select and Conference Committees

(a) The Speaker may at any time create a select committee and shall appoint the membership and name the Chair and Vice Chair thereof. A select committee has the jurisdiction, authority, and duties and exists for the period of time specified by the Speaker. A select committee has the powers granted by these Rules to a standing committee except as limited by the Speaker. The Speaker shall give notice of the creation of a select committee in writing to the Clerk for publication in an Interim Calendar and the Session Journal.

(b) The Speaker shall appoint the House managers of all conference committees. The Speaker shall determine the number as need appears and shall appoint no less than a majority who generally supported the House position as determined by the Speaker. In addition, the Speaker shall name the House Chair of each conference committee and may also name the House Vice Chair thereof.

7.3—Vacancies on Standing Committees and Councils

If a vacancy occurs on a standing committee or council after its organization, the Speaker shall appoint an eligible Member to fill the vacancy. The Speaker shall give notice of the appointment in writing to the Clerk for publication in an Interim Calendar and the Session Journal.

7.4—Ex Officio Members

The Speaker may designate the Speaker pro tempore or the Majority Leader as an ex officio, voting member of any standing committee or council. Alternatively, the Speaker may designate the council Chair as an ex officio, voting member of any committee within that council. No standing committee or council may have more than one ex officio member voting at any one time. For the purpose of a quorum, an ex officio member shall not be included in the membership of a committee or council. The Speaker shall give notice of the designation of any such ex officio member in writing to the Member so designated and to the committee or council Chair.

Part Two—Meetings—Powers, Duties, and Procedure

7.5—Powers of the Chair

(a) The committee or council Chair shall sign all notices, vouchers, subpoenas as provided under Rule 16.1, or reports required or permitted by these Rules. Except as otherwise provided in these Rules, the Chair has all authority necessary to ensure an efficient operation of the committee or council, including, but not limited to, presiding over the committee or council, establishing the agenda for the committee or council, deciding all questions of order in committee or council, and determining the order in which matters are considered in committee or council.

(b) Questions of order are subject to an appeal by any committee or council member, and the appeal shall be certified by the Chair to the House for a decision by the Speaker during the daily session of the House next following such certification. The ruling shall be entered in the Journal and shall be subject to appeal as any other question. The Chair may, or on majority vote of the committee or council shall, certify a question of parliamentary procedure to the Speaker as contemplated by the Rule without a formal appeal. Such a certified question shall be disposed of by the Speaker as if it had been on appeal. The certification of an appeal or of a question of parliamentary procedure pursuant to this Rule does not constitute an automatic stay to further legislative action on the measure under consideration.

(c) The responsibility for the safekeeping of original filed bills committed to a committee or council shall vest in the committee or council Chair. The committee or council Chair may authorize a staff member to sign for receipt of bills referred to the committee or council.

7.6—Absence of the Chair

For the purpose of convening or presiding over a meeting in the absence of the Chair, the Vice Chair shall assume all duties of the Chair until the Chair's return or replacement, unless a temporary Chair has been appointed by the Speaker to assume those duties instead.

7.7—Meetings of Committees and Councils

Committees and councils shall meet at the call of the Chair, within the dates and times reserved by the Speaker.

7.8—Notice of Room Assignment to the Public

Each committee or council shall regularly meet in the room assigned for its use by the Sergeant at Arms, and notice of such assignment shall be posted.

7.9—Time for Meetings

A committee or council Chair may arrange with the Sergeant at Arms for an evening or other special meeting; however, no committee or council meeting shall begin before 8:00 a.m. or last beyond 8:00 p.m. unless granted special leave by the Speaker to do so.

7.10—Committees and Councils Meeting During House Session

No committee or council shall meet while the House is in session without the consent of the House, except the Procedural & Redistricting Council and the Committee on Rules, Ethics, & Elections, when meeting to consider matters other than legislation, and conference committees.

7.11—Consideration of Bills, Including Proposed Committee Bills and Proposed Committee or Council Substitutes

(a) The Chair of any committee or council shall give prior notice in writing of the intention to take up any bill or proposed bill or substitute.

(b) Proposed committee bills (PCBs) shall be treated as other bills in meeting the requirements for notice under Rules 7.12-7.14. The committee administrative assistant shall provide a copy of any PCB to each committee member no later than the time of posting of notice and make copies of PCBs available, upon request, to other Members of the Legislature and to the general public. Delivery to committee members shall be by mail or other, appropriate, electronic means during the interim and shall be to House offices when the House is in session. A PCB taken up without the committee conforming to this Rule shall be regarded as being considered in workshop session only, with final action carried over to a future meeting of the committee at which the requirements of this Rule have been met.

(c) Proposed committee or council substitutes (PCSs) shall meet the notice requirements that apply to PCBs.

(d) Before a standing committee may consider a proposed committee bill, the Speaker must approve the consideration by the committee of the proposed bill. A proposed committee bill that does not receive Speaker approval of its consideration may not be noticed for consideration. However, this subsection does not apply to proposed committee bills that re-create trust funds, reviser's bills, resolutions that pertain to rules, procedures, or sessions, or other bills of an entirely technical nature as determined by the Procedural & Redistricting Council.

7.12—Meetings of Committees and Councils: Time Required for Advance Notice

(a) During the first 45 calendar days of a regular session, prior notice shall be given 2 days (excluding Saturday and Sunday) in advance of a committee or council meeting for the purpose of considering legislation.

If the notice is given by 4:30 p.m. to the Sergeant at Arms and the Clerk, a bill or proposed bill or substitute may be heard at any time on the second succeeding day. After the 45th calendar day and during any extended or special session, the notice shall be given at least 1 day in advance of the committee or council meeting.

(b) If a committee or council is approved and scheduled for a meeting by the Speaker, but does not plan to meet, a notice stating that no meeting is to be held shall be filed with the Clerk and posted on the committee or council door.

(c) Except when sitting to consider the substance of legislation, the Committee on Rules, Ethics, & Elections and the Procedural & Redistricting Council shall be exempt from the requirements of this Rule.

7.13—Nature and Distribution of Notice

(a) A notice shall include a listing and sufficient title for identification of any and all bills or proposed bills to be considered by the committee or council holding the meeting, including, time permitting, those pending on reconsideration. However, failure to include a bill pending on reconsideration in the notice does not preclude the motion to reconsider from being made as provided under Rule 7.17(b).

(b) A notice shall state the date, time, and place of a meeting and be provided to the Clerk, the Sergeant at Arms, the sponsor, and the members of the committee or council. The notice shall also be provided to any Member who has given the Chair, on a form provided by the committee or council and signed by the Chair, timely written notice of the Member's desire to be notified on a specific bill. The Sergeant at Arms, in receiving such notices, shall show on a receipt the day and hour received.

(c) Whenever timely, the Clerk shall enter such notices in the Calendar of the House.

7.14—Notices of Meetings Between Sessions

During the period when the Legislature is not in session, before any committee or council holds a meeting for the purpose of considering a prefiled bill, a proposed committee bill (PCB), or a proposed committee or council substitute (PCS), a notice of such meeting shall be filed with the Clerk and the Sergeant at Arms no later than 7 calendar days before the Friday preceding the week of the meeting. If a committee or council is approved and scheduled for a meeting by the Speaker, but does not plan to meet, a notice stating that no meeting is to be held shall be filed. The committee or council administrative assistant shall send copies of the notice to the members of the committee or council, to the first-named sponsor of the bill, and to such sponsors and others who have requested notice. This notice shall state the date, time, and place of the meeting, the bill number, and a portion of the title sufficient for identification. Whenever timely, the Clerk shall enter such notices in an Interim Calendar. When two meetings have been scheduled by a committee or council during a 30-day period when the Legislature is not in session, the Chair may provide in the notice for the first meeting that bills placed on the agenda for the first meeting and not reported out shall be available for consideration at the second meeting without further notice.

7.15—Notices Furnished to Majority and Minority Offices

In addition to any other provisions of these Rules, notices required to be filed with the Clerk shall be furnished to the Majority Office and the Minority Office.

7.16—Continuation of Meetings on Same Day

A committee or council may continue the consideration of properly noticed legislation after the expiration of the time set for the meeting if a majority agree to continue or to temporarily recess to continue the meeting at a time and place certain on the same day, provided there is no conflict with another scheduled committee or council meeting.

7.17—Reconsideration in Committee or Council

The Rules of the House shall govern proceedings in committee or council insofar as they are applicable, except that a motion for reconsideration shall be treated in the following manner:

(a) When a main question has been decided by a committee or council, any Member voting with the prevailing side, or any Member when the vote was a tie or by voice, may move for reconsideration inlander or leave the motion pending. By a two-thirds vote of the Members present and voting, the committee or council may take up for immediate disposition any such motion to reconsider left pending. The motion to reconsider may be made at any time during the same meeting prior to the adoption of a motion to rise or to the committee's or council's rising without motion upon the time of adjournment having arrived.

(b) A motion to reconsider that has been made and left pending shall be a special and continuing order of business for the next succeeding committee or council meeting, which, unless considered at that meeting on the request of any member of the committee or council, shall be deemed abandoned, and the committee or council administrative assistant shall forthwith report the bill to the Clerk.

(c) A motion to reconsider a collateral matter must be disposed of during the course of consideration of the main subject to which it is related.

(d) If the committee or council refuses to reconsider or, upon reconsideration, confirms its prior decision, no further motion to reconsider shall be in order except upon unanimous consent of the committee or council members present.

(e) After the 45th day of a regular session or at any time during an extended or special session, the motion to reconsider must be disposed of when made.

(f) If a motion to reconsider is not made at the meeting at which a bill has been considered and decided, the committee or council administrative assistant shall forthwith report the bill to the Clerk.

7.18—Open Meetings; Decorum

(a) All meetings of all committees and councils shall be open to the public at all times, subject always to the authority of the Chair to maintain order and decorum. However, when necessary for the protection of a witness and with the concurrence of the Speaker, a Chair may close a committee or council meeting, or portion thereof, and the record of such meeting may not disclose the identity of the witness appearing before the committee or council.

(b) The authority of the Chair to maintain order and decorum includes the authority to require all persons attending a committee or council meeting to silence all telephones, audible beepers, and other audible electronic equipment.

7.19—Unfavorable Reports

A bill reported unfavorably to the Clerk shall be laid on the table. A bill so reported may be taken from the table upon the motion of any Member on the floor, adopted by a two-thirds vote of the Members present and voting, after debate not to exceed 6 minutes evenly divided between proponents and opponents of the motion.

7.20—Voting in Committee or Council

A majority of the members of a committee or council present, a quorum having been established, shall agree by their recorded votes upon the disposition of any bill or other main question considered by the committee or council. (Florida Constitution, Article III, Section 4(c): "In any legislative committee or subcommittee, the vote of each member voting on the final passage of any legislation pending before the committee, and upon the request of any two members of the committee or subcommittee, the vote of each member on any other question, shall be recorded.")

7.21—Proxy Voting Prohibited; Votes Recorded After Roll Call

A member of a committee or council may not, under any circumstance, vote by proxy. Absent members may have recorded an indication of how they would have voted if present, but this shall not be counted on a roll call.

7.22—Quorum Required; Reports by Poll Prohibited

A committee or council may not file a report unless the committee or council has met at an authorized time and place, with a quorum present. A majority of the membership of the committee or council shall constitute a quorum. If any matter is reported on the basis of a poll, such matter shall be recommitted by the Speaker or Chair to the committee or council upon a point of order.

7.23—Nature and Contents of Committee and Council Reports

(a) It shall be the duty of committees and councils to report bills either favorably, favorably with (number of) committee or council amendment(s), favorably with committee or council substitute, or unfavorably, but never "without recommendation." A motion to lay a bill "on the table" shall be construed as a motion to report the pending bill unfavorably.

(b) Each report of a committee or council must contain the action of the committee or council on the bill being transmitted, together with a Committee or Council Information Record stating:

(1) The time and place of the meeting at which the action was taken;

(2) The name and address of each person addressing the committee or council relative to the measure and, if any agent, the interest represented; and

(3) The vote of each member of the committee or council on the motion to report each bill.

(c) Each report by a committee or council shall set forth the identifying number of the bill, and, if amendments are proposed by the committee or council, the words "with (number of) amendment(s)" shall follow the identifying number. For the purpose of documentation, committees and councils shall retain copies of their reports and amendments adopted, rejected, or withdrawn, with the committee or council action noted thereon.

(d) After the committee or council report has been filed with the Clerk as provided in these Rules, the Clerk shall preserve the Committee or Council Information Record for the convenient inspection by the public during the legislative session.

(e) Committees and councils shall, after consideration of prefiled bills, report their actions promptly, in the manner prescribed by these Rules. Once received by the Clerk, a committee or council report on a prefiled bill shall not be subject to recall by the committee or council.

7.24—Minority Reports

Minority reports on any matter may be admitted only by majority vote of the House.

7.25—Fiscal Analysis

All general bills affecting revenues, expenditures, or fiscal liability shall be accompanied by a fiscal analysis upon being reported favorably by a fiscal standing committee. Fiscal analyses shall state in dollars the estimated increase or decrease in revenues or expenditures and the present and future fiscal implication of the bill. A fiscal analysis shall be regarded as a memorandum of factual information and may be included within the body of the bill research & economic impact statement that accompanies the bill, which statement shall be made available to Members. The fiscal analysis portion of the bill research & economic impact statement shall not express comment or opinion relative to the merits of the legislation proposed, but should point out technical or mechanical defects. If any bill of this nature is reported favorably by any fiscal standing committee without a fiscal analysis having been prepared or a statement that the bill has no effect on revenues, expenditures, or fiscal liability, it shall be the right of any Member to raise a point of order on second reading and the Speaker may, in the Speaker's discretion, order return of the bill to the appropriate fiscal committee. The accuracy of a fiscal analysis shall not be a basis for a point of order under these Rules. A fiscal analysis prepared for a House bill may be presumed as prepared also for its Senate companion.

7.26—Where Reports Are Delivered

Committee or council reports, whether favorable or unfavorable, shall be delivered to the Clerk at a designated place in the office of the Clerk no later than 12:00 noon of a legislative day. Reports delivered after 12:00 noon shall be considered delivered on the next legislative day. The original bill or bills shall accompany the report.

7.27—Journal Entry

As bills are reported, the identifying number of a bill, together with the action of the committee or council, whether favorable, unfavorable, favorable with (number of) amendment(s), or favorable with substitute, shall be entered in the Journal.

7.28—Committee and Council Amendments

(a) Amendments recommended by committees or councils must be produced on the legislative computer on the prescribed forms in accordance with the requirements of the Clerk and securely affixed to the bill.

(b) Committees and councils may only consider amendments presented in final written form prior to adoption.

(c) Every Member may offer amendments to bills being considered by any committee or council of the House. If not appointed to the committee or council, a Member who offers an amendment must comply with the amendment filing deadline and must be present at the meeting. If such Member is not present, the amendment may still be considered, but only if taken up and offered by a Member who is appointed to the committee or council.

(d) During the first 45 calendar days of a regular session, the filing deadline for amendments to be offered in a committee or council by nonappointed Members shall be 5:00 p.m., 1 day (excluding Saturday and Sunday) in advance of the committee or council meeting. After the 45th day and during any extended or special session, such amendments shall be filed 2 hours before the committee or council meeting. Amendments introduced by committee or council members, including ex officio members, shall not be subject to these filing deadlines and may be offered at any time during consideration of a bill.

(e) Amendments adopted by all committees and councils of reference (except those incorporated in a committee or council substitute) shall accompany a bill when filed with the Clerk. No committee or council shall physically remove from the jacket an amendment adopted by a prior committee or council, and no amendment of a committee or council may be subject to a negative roll call of another committee or council. Instead, there may be adopted nullifying or amendatory language by a subsequent committee or council of reference by way of an amendment to the amendment or a substitute amendment.

7.29—Committee or Council Substitutes

(a) A committee or council, in reporting a bill, may draft a new, substitute bill embracing the same general subject matter, to be returned to the Clerk in the same manner as the favorable reporting of any other bill. A committee or council may also combine two or more bills into such a substitute bill. The substitute bill, signed by the Chair, shall carry the identifying number of each original bill and shall be returned to the Clerk in the same form as required for introduction of a bill. Upon the filing of such report, the original bill or bills shall be laid on the table of the House. Any other committee or council of reference shall direct its attention to the substitute bill.

(b) The sponsor of a committee substitute is the committee, and the sponsor of a council substitute is the council. Each sponsor of the original bill or bills shall be shown by the committee or council administrative assistant as a cosponsor of the substitute unless such sponsor notifies the committee or council administrative assistant in writing that he or she wishes to withdraw as a cosponsor. If every sponsor of the original bill or bills requests to withdraw as a cosponsor, the committee or council substitute shall not be delivered to or accepted by the Clerk for introduction, unless another Member consents to designation as a cosponsor, and the original bill or bills shall be reported “unfavorably” in accordance with Rule 7.23.

7.30—Committee Bills; Designation of Cosponsors

A bill introduced by a committee shall be accompanied by a Committee Information Record. A committee, in introducing a committee bill, shall designate a member of the committee as cosponsor, with the approval of such member, and may designate other members of the committee as cosponsors, with their approval. The bill shall be shown by the Clerk as having been introduced by the committee and the Member or Members so designated. If no Member consents to designation as a cosponsor, the bill may not be delivered to or accepted by the Clerk for introduction.

Part Three—Conference Committees

7.31—Conference Committee Meetings; Procedures

(a) Meetings of conference committees shall be open to the public at all times, subject always to the authority of the Chair to maintain order and decorum.

(b) All actions taken in conference committees shall be by motion.

(c) The Chair of any conference committee shall give prior notice of intention to meet. The notice shall state the date, time, and place of meeting and be posted on the door of the committee or council managing the conference for the House at least 2 hours prior to the time of the meeting.

7.32—Composition of Conference Committee

A conference committee shall consist of managers from each house. The conference committee shall select one of its members to preside. A conference committee report shall require the affirmative votes of a majority of the managers from each house. The report shall be accompanied by the original bill.

7.33—Presentation of Conference Committee Report

(a) The receiving of conference committee reports shall always be in order, except when the House is voting on any proposition. When a conference committee report is presented to the House, the sequence shall be:

(1) The vote first shall be on whether the report shall be considered at that moment.

(2) The next vote shall be on acceptance or rejection of the report as an entirety. The report must be acted upon as a whole, being agreed to or disagreed to as an entirety.

(3) The final vote shall be a roll call on the passage of the bill as amended by the report.

(b) If either paragraph (a)(2) or paragraph (a)(3) fails, the report shall be automatically recommitted to the conference committee. If a motion to reconsider is made, the vote first would be on paragraph (a)(2) and then on paragraph (a)(3).

7.34—Form of Conference Committee Report

(a) When a conference committee has redrafted a bill, the committee shall report an amendment striking everything after the enacting clause, together with an appropriate title amendment if needed.

(b) Each conference committee report must be accompanied by a statement, written or oral, sufficiently explicit to inform the House of the changes in the bill sent to conference.

7.35—Time Restraints on Conference Committees

(a) During the first 54 calendar days of a regular session, it shall be a motion of highest privilege either to discharge the House managers and appoint new House managers or to instruct the House managers after House and Senate managers have been appointed for 7 calendar days and have failed to report.

(b) During the last 6 calendar days of a regular session, it shall be a motion of highest privilege either to discharge the House managers and appoint new House managers or to instruct the House managers after House and Senate managers have been appointed for 36 hours and have failed to report.

7.36—When Managers Are Unable to Agree

When a conference committee is appointed in reference to any bill and the House managers report inability to agree, no action of the House taken prior to such appointment shall preclude further action by the House as the House may determine.

Part Four—Oversight Responsibilities and Powers

7.37—Oversight Role

(a) Standing and select committees and councils shall have oversight responsibilities in order to assist the House in:

(1) Its analysis, appraisal, and evaluation of:

a. The application, administration, execution, and effectiveness of the laws enacted by the Legislature; or

b. Conditions and circumstances that may indicate the necessity or desirability of enacting new or additional legislation; and

(2) Its formulation, consideration, and enactment of such modifications or changes in those laws, and of such additional legislation, as may be necessary or appropriate.

(b) Substantive standing committees shall review the budgets and performance of state agencies within their jurisdictions.

7.38—Oversight Powers

(a) Each standing or select committee or council is authorized to invite public officials and employees and private individuals to appear before the committee or council for the purpose of submitting information to it.

(b) Each standing or select committee or council is authorized to maintain a continuous review of the work of the state agencies concerned with its subject area and the performance of the functions of government within each such subject area, and for this purpose to request reports from time to time, in such form as such committee or council shall designate, concerning the operation of any state agency and presenting any proposal or recommendation such agency may have with regard to existing laws or proposed legislation in its subject area.

(c) In order to carry out its duties, each standing or select committee or council is empowered with the right and authority to inspect and investigate the books, records, papers, documents, data, operation, and physical plant of any state agency.

7.39—Conduct of Meetings of Investigative Committees and Councils

Each standing or select committee or council shall comply with the following procedures with respect to compelling attendance of witnesses, production of documents or evidence, and the conduct of meetings before such committee or council:

(a) If any standing or select committee or council fails in any material respect to comply with the requirements of this Rule, any person subject to subpoena or subpoena duces tecum who is injured by such failure shall be relieved of any requirement to attend the meeting for which the subpoena was issued or, if present, to testify or produce evidence therein, and such failure shall be a complete defense in any proceeding against such person for contempt or other punishment.

(b) In addition, the following rules of procedure will be followed at all meetings of standing or select committees or councils:

(1) A standing or select committee or council may exercise its powers during sessions of the Legislature and in the interim.

(2) A standing or select committee or council that conducts meetings for the purpose of taking sworn testimony from witnesses shall consist of not fewer than five members.

(3) A quorum of a standing or select committee or council that conducts meetings for the purpose of taking sworn testimony from witnesses shall consist of a majority of the total authorized membership.

(4) No action shall be taken by a standing or select committee or council at any meeting unless a quorum is present. Such committee or council may act by a majority vote of the members present at a meeting at which there is a quorum, unless the Rules or any law requires a greater number or proportion.

(5) Any standing or select committee or council, when conducting a meeting for the purpose of taking sworn testimony, shall give each member of the committee or council not less than 3 calendar days' written notice of any meeting to be held when the Legislature is in session and at least 7 calendar days' written notice of any meeting to be held when the Legislature is not in session. Such notices shall include a statement of the subject matter of the meeting.

(6) The presiding member at a meeting may direct a witness to answer any relevant question or furnish any relevant book, paper, or other document, the production of which has been required by subpoena duces tecum. Unless the direction is overruled by a majority vote, disobedience shall constitute contempt as defined in these Rules.

(7) Before or during a meeting, a witness or the witness's counsel may file with the standing or select committee or council, for incorporation into the record of the meeting, sworn written statements relevant to the purpose, subject matter, and scope of the committee's or council's investigation or inquiry. Any such witness, however, shall, prior to filing such statement, consent to answer questions from such committee or council regarding the contents of the statement.

(8) When the Chair of any standing or select committee or council determines that such procedure would expedite the inquiry or save expenses, the Chair, with the concurrence of the Speaker, may authorize the conduct of proceedings by depositions, interrogatories, or compulsory production of documents as provided in this Rule. These proceedings shall be in the nature of statements under oath taken by a state attorney. Counsel for a person under investigation may be allowed to attend such depositions at the discretion of the Chair. Participation by such counsel at the depositions may also be allowed at the discretion of the Chair. Any requests for attendance or participation should be addressed to the Chair. If the requests are denied, a person may appeal the Chair's ruling to the Speaker, but there shall be no stay of proceedings pending such appeal.

(c) When counsel for a person subject to deposition is allowed to participate in the proceedings under the guidelines of the standing or select committee or council, testimony or other evidence taken may be introduced before the standing or select committee or council regardless of whether the person or the person's counsel takes advantage of the opportunity.

(1) The Chair, with the concurrence of the Speaker, may authorize a lawyer for the standing or select committee or council to take depositions of witnesses before a court reporter or notary public of this state. The deposition notice and any subpoena used therewith may identify persons either by name or by job description, and such persons may be required to attend and give testimony pursuant to the guidelines of the standing or select committee or council.

(2) The Chair, with the concurrence of the Speaker, may authorize the issuance of interrogatories to be answered under oath, and these shall require the person to whom they are directed to appear before a notary public or court reporter and answer the questions under oath. These may be served by mail or by personal service and shall be answered under oath no later than 7 days from the date of mailing or 3 days from the date of personal service. Any interrogatory may require that a person to whom it is directed (identified by name or job description) return the interrogatory in the mail or have it available for delivery to the lawyer for the standing or select committee or council on a date certain.

the Chair of the standing or select committee or council or to any committee or council member designated by the Chair to pass on such questions. Communication shall be made with the Chair or any designated committee or council member by the most rapid available means, including telephone, and the resolution of such questions, including without limitation questions on the scope of the discovery, may be communicated by telephone. If any person is dissatisfied with such a decision, appeal may be made to the Speaker, but there shall be no stay of proceedings pending such appeal.

RULE EIGHT
CHAMBER PROTOCOL

Part One—Privilege of the Floor

8.1—Privilege of the Floor

(a) Other than present Members of the House and of the Senate, the persons hereinafter named, and none other, shall be admitted during regular daily sessions to the Chamber of the House: the Governor, the Lieutenant Governor, Cabinet Members, Justices of the Supreme Court, Members of Congress, contestants in election cases during the pendency of their cases in the House, such persons as have, by name, received the thanks of the Legislature, former Governors, former Members of the Cabinet, former Members of the House and Senate who are not interested in any claim or directly in any bill pending before the Legislature, and such employees of the House as may be needed on public business, including such committee or council staff as shall be designated by committee or council Chairs and approved by the Speaker. Visiting dignitaries or official guests may be granted the privilege of the floor upon motion adopted by a majority of the House. Persons granted the privilege of the floor may not lobby the Members while the House is in session, unless by motion granted leave to address the House.

(b) When the House is in session, all persons in the House Chamber shall be dressed in proper business attire.

Part Two—Speaking

8.2—Addressing the House; Requirements to Spread Remarks Upon the Journal

(a) When a Member desires to speak or deliver any matter to the House, the Member shall rise and respectfully address the Speaker as “Mr. (or Madam) Speaker” and shall confine all remarks to the question under debate, avoiding personalities. Once recognized, a Member may speak from the Member’s desk or may, with the Speaker’s permission, speak from the well.

(b) Any motion to spread remarks upon the Journal, except those of the Governor or the Speaker, shall be referred to the Committee on Rules, Ethics, & Elections for recommendation before being put to the House.

8.3—When Two Members Rise at Once

When two or more Members rise at once, the Speaker shall name the one who is to speak first. This decision shall be final and not open to debate or appeal.

8.4—Recognition of Members

There shall be no appeal from the Speaker’s recognition, but the Speaker shall be governed by the Rules and usage in priority of entertaining motions from the floor. When a Member seeks recognition, the Speaker may ask, “For what purpose does the Member rise?” or “For what purpose does the Member seek recognition?”

8.5—Recognition of Gallery Visitors and Physician of the Day

On written request by a Member, on a form prescribed by the Committee on Rules, Ethics, & Elections, the Speaker may recognize or permit the Member to recognize any person or persons in the gallery. After granting a request for recognition, the Speaker shall afford that recognition at a convenient place in the order of business, considering the need for order and decorum and the need for continuity of debate. At an appropriate time during proceedings on the floor, the Speaker may recognize a Physician of the Day.

Part Three—Debate

8.6—Decorum

The Members shall attend to the debates unless necessarily prevented, and no Member shall stand between the Speaker and a Member recognized to speak.

8.7—Speaking and Debate

(a) A Member may not speak more than once or occupy more than 15 minutes in debate on any question. A Member who has the floor may not be interrupted by another Member for any purpose, save the privilege of the House, unless he or she consents to yield to the other Member. A Member desiring to interrupt another in debate should first address the Speaker for the permission of the Member speaking. The Speaker shall then ask the Member who has the floor if he or she wishes to yield, and then announce the decision of that Member. Whether to yield shall be entirely within the speaking Member’s discretion. However, this section shall not deprive the sponsor or mover of the right to close when the effect of an amendment or motion would be to kill the bill, amendment, or motion.

(b) Debate may not be disguised in the form of a question.

8.8—Right to Open and Close Debate

The mover of any proposition, or the Member reporting any measure from a committee or council, or, in the absence of either of them, any other Member designated by such absentee, shall have the right to open and close the debate, and for this purpose may speak each time not more than 10 minutes, unless otherwise limited by majority vote of the House, notwithstanding the limitation in Rule 8.7(a).

Part Four—Materials and Meals in Chamber

8.9—Distribution of Materials in Chamber; Newspapers; Meals in Chamber

(a) The following constitutes policy regarding material distributed to the general membership through the Sergeant at Arms’ Office and pages:

(1) All material prior to such distribution must be approved by the Committee on Rules, Ethics, & Elections, acting through its Chair.

(2) The following official materials have heretofore been approved and will continue to be approved: House and Senate bills, resolutions, memorials, and amendments thereto, and official calendars and journals; committee and council meeting notices; communications from the Speaker and Clerk and official communications from the Senate; and official staff reports of standing or select committees or councils or of the majority or minority parties.

(b) No newspapers may be distributed or otherwise permitted in the House Chamber while the House is in session without waiver of policy by two-thirds vote of the Members present and voting. This subsection does not apply to personal use by an individual Member of a newspaper as resource or reference material for purposes of debate or to the transmittal of material from one Member to another on the floor of the House.

(c) No meals will be allowed on the floor without waiver of policy by two-thirds vote of the Members present and voting. This shall not be construed to prevent the serving of drinks such as juices, coffee, tea, soft drinks, milk, and the like.

Part Five—Miscellaneous Papers

8.10—Miscellaneous Papers

Papers of a miscellaneous nature addressed to the House may, at the discretion of the Speaker, be read, noted in the Journal, or filed with the appropriate committee or council. When the reading of a paper other than one upon which the House is called to give a final vote is demanded, and such reading is objected to by any Member, it shall be determined without debate by the House by majority vote.

RULE NINE VOTING

9.1—Members Shall Vote

Every Member shall be within the House Chamber during its sittings, unless excused or necessarily prevented, and shall vote on each question put.

9.2—Taking the Yeas and Nays

The Speaker shall declare all votes, but if any Member rises to doubt a vote, upon a showing of hands by five Members, the Speaker shall take the sense of the House by oral roll call or electronic roll call. When taking the yeas and nays on any question, the electronic roll-call system may be used, and when so used shall have the force and effect of a roll call taken as provided in these Rules. This system likewise may be used to determine the presence of a quorum. When the House is ready to vote upon a question requiring roll call, and the vote is by electronic roll call, the Speaker shall say, "The question now recurs on (designating the matter to be voted upon). The Clerk will unlock the machine and the House will proceed to vote." When sufficient time has elapsed for each Member to vote, the Speaker shall ask, "Have all Members voted?" And after a short pause the Speaker shall say, "The Clerk will lock the machine and record the vote." When the vote is completely recorded, the Speaker shall announce the result to the House, and the Clerk shall record the action upon the Journal.

9.3—Vote of the Speaker or Temporary Presiding Officer

The Speaker or temporary presiding officer is not required to vote in legislative proceedings other than on final passage of a bill, except when the Speaker's or temporary presiding officer's vote would be decisive. In all yea and nay votes, the Speaker's or temporary presiding officer's name shall be called last. With respect to voting, the Speaker or temporary presiding officer is subject to the same disqualification and disclosure requirements as any other Member.

9.4—Votes After Roll Call

After the result of a roll call has been announced, a Member may advise the Clerk of how the Member would have voted or of the Member's wish to change the Member's vote. The Clerk shall provide forms for the recording of these actions. When timely made, these requests shall be shown beneath the roll call in the Journal. Otherwise, the request shall be shown separately in the Journal. In no instance, other than by reason of an electronic or mechanical malfunction, shall the result of a voting machine roll call on any bill be changed.

9.5—No Member to Vote for Another Except by Request

No Member may vote for another Member except at the other Member's request when absent from his or her seat but present elsewhere in the Chamber, nor may any person who is not a Member cast a vote for a Member. In no case shall a Member vote for another on a quorum call. Any Member who votes or attempts to vote for another Member in violation of this Rule may be punished in such a manner as the House may deem proper. Any person who is not a Member and who votes wrongfully in the place of a Member shall be excluded from the Chamber for the remainder of the session, in addition to such punishment as the House may deem proper.

9.6—Pairing

Pairing shall be permitted only upon the absence of both Members for good cause and shall be in writing and specifically state the bill or bills or questions upon which pairs are arranged. Before the vote, paired votes shall be filed in writing with the Clerk and be recorded in the Journal as an indication of how both Members would have voted. Paired votes are not counted and shall not be shown on roll calls.

9.7—Explanation of Vote

A Member may not explain his or her vote during a roll call, but may reduce his or her explanation to writing, in not more than 200 words, and upon filing with the Clerk, this explanation shall be spread upon the Journal.

RULE TEN
ORDER OF BUSINESS AND CALENDARS

Part One—Order of Business

10.1—Daily Sessions

The House shall meet each legislative day at 9:30 a.m. or as stated in the motion adjourning the House on the prior legislative day on which the House met.

10.2—Daily Order of Business

(a) When the House convenes on a new legislative day, the daily order of business shall be as follows:

1. Call to Order.
2. Prayer.
3. Roll Call.
4. Pledge of Allegiance.
5. Correction of the Journal.
6. Communications.
7. Messages from the Senate.
8. Reports of Councils and Standing Committees.
9. Reports of Select Committees.
10. Motions Relating to Committee References.
11. Matters on Reconsideration.
12. Bills and Joint Resolutions on Third Reading.
13. Special Orders.
14. Unfinished Business.
15. Introduction and Reference.

(b) During special sessions, the order of business of Introduction and Reference shall be conducted immediately following the order of business of Correction of the Journal.

10.3—Chaplain to Offer Prayer

A chaplain shall attend at the beginning of each day's sitting of the House and open the same with prayer. In the absence of a chaplain, the Speaker may designate someone else to offer prayer.

10.4—Quorum

A majority of the membership of the House shall constitute a quorum to do business.

10.5—Consideration of Senate Messages: Generally

Senate messages shall be considered by the House upon review and approval by the Speaker.

Part Two—Readings

10.6—"Reading" Defined

"Reading" means the stage of consideration of a bill or joint resolution after reading of a portion of the title sufficient for identification, as determined by the Speaker.

10.7—Reading of Bills

Each bill shall receive three readings on 3 separate days previous to a vote upon final passage unless two-thirds of the Members decide otherwise. (Florida Constitution, Article III, Section 7, in part: "Any bill may originate in either house and after passage in one may be amended in the other. It shall be read in each house on three separate days, unless this rule is waived by two-thirds vote; provided the publication of its title in the journal of a house shall satisfy the requirement for the first reading in that house. On each reading, it shall be read by title only, unless one-third of the members present desire it read in full.”)

10.8—Reading of Joint Resolutions

Each joint resolution shall receive three readings on 3 separate days previous to a vote upon final passage unless two-thirds of the Members decide otherwise.

10.9—First Reading of Prefiled Bills

Prefiled bills shall be given first reading either on the first day of a regular session or as soon thereafter as possible. The Clerk shall record in the Journal the Speaker's reference of bills.

10.10—First Reading of Committee or Council Substitutes

Publication in the Journal of a committee or council substitute title with sponsors shall constitute first reading in the same manner as Introduction and Reference.

10.11—Reading of Concurrent Resolutions and Memorials

Concurrent resolutions and memorials shall receive two readings on 2 separate days previous to a voice vote upon adoption, except that concurrent resolutions extending a legislative session or involving other procedural legislative matters authorized under Rule 5.10 may be read twice without motion on the same legislative day.

10.12—Reading of House Resolutions

Each House resolution shall receive two readings by title only previous to a voice vote upon adoption, except that resolutions of condolence, commendation, or commemoration may be shown as introduced, read, and adopted by publication in full in the Journal in accordance with Rule 10.20.

10.13—Measures on Third Reading

(a) Bills on third reading shall be taken up in the order in which the House concluded action on them on second reading.

(b) Before any bill shall be read the third time, whether amended or not, it shall be referred without motion to the Engrossing Clerk for examination and, if amended, the engrossing of amendments. In the case of any Senate bill amended in the House, the amendment adopted shall be reproduced and attached to the bill amended in such manner that it will not be lost therefrom.

(c) A bill shall be deemed on its third reading when it has been read a second time on a previous day and has no motion left pending.

Part Three—Bills Subject to Special Rule

10.14—Bills Subject to Special Rule

(a) The Committee on Rules, Ethics, & Elections may recommend that a bill be subject to a Special Rule created by the committee in accordance with the requirements of this Rule. Upon adoption of a recommendation, the Committee on Rules, Ethics, & Elections shall submit the recommendation to the Procedural & Redistricting Council for adoption of the Special Rule, which, if adopted by a two-thirds vote of the council Members present and voting, shall be submitted to the House for its approval.

(b) A Special Rule shall prescribe the time and conditions of debate and amendment of the bill, may govern floor action on both second and third readings, and may include one of the following three types of conditions or such other conditions as are deemed appropriate:

(1) Open, which allows the offering of any amendment, subject to approval of the designated floor manager and the overall time limits established under the Rule.

(2) Structured, which allows the offering of only amendments that have been approved for consideration by the Procedural & Redistricting Council.

(3) Closed, which prohibits the offering of any amendment, except technical amendments offered in the name of the Procedural & Redistricting Council.

(c) The Special Rule may designate two floor managers, one to allocate the time for debate and amendments for the proponents and one to allocate the time for debate and amendments for the opponents. The floor managers shall be subject to approval by both the Majority Leader and the Minority Leader.

(d) A specific provision in a Special Rule is controlling over a conflicting provision of these Rules.

(e) Neither a Senate bill nor a House bill returning from the Senate with further action required may be subject to Special Rule.

Part Four—Calendars

10.15—Special Order Calendar

(a) REGULAR SESSION.

(1) The Procedural & Redistricting Council shall periodically submit, as needed, a Special Order Calendar determining the priority for consideration of legislation. The Procedural & Redistricting Council may include on a Special Order Calendar specific sections for local bills, trust fund bills, bills to be taken up at a time certain, and bills subject to Special Rule. Any amendment of a report proposing a Special Order Calendar requires a two-thirds vote of the Members present and voting. Upon adoption of a Special Order Calendar, no other bills shall be considered for the time period set forth for that Special Order Calendar, except that any bill appearing on that Special Order Calendar may be stricken from it by a two-thirds vote of the Members present and voting or any bill may be added to it pursuant to Rule 10.16. A previously adopted Special Order Calendar shall expire upon adoption by the House of a new Special Order Calendar.

(2) Any committee, council, or Member may apply to the Procedural & Redistricting Council to place a bill on the Special Order Calendar. The Procedural & Redistricting Council may grant such requests by a majority vote.

(3) During the first 45 calendar days of a regular session, the Procedural & Redistricting Council shall publish the Special Order Calendar in two Calendars of the House, and it may be taken up on the day of the second published calendar. For calendar days 46 through 51 of a regular session, the Procedural & Redistricting Council shall provide the Special Order Calendar by 9:00 p.m. of the day prior to its consideration. After the 51st calendar day of a regular session, the Procedural & Redistricting Council shall provide the Special Order Calendar at least 2 hours prior to its consideration.

(b) EXTENDED OR SPECIAL SESSION.

(1) If the Legislature extends a legislative session, all bills on the Calendar at the time of expiration of the regular session shall be placed in the Procedural & Redistricting Council.

(2) During any extended or special session, all bills upon being reported favorably by the last committee of reference shall be placed in the Procedural & Redistricting Council.

(3) During any extended or special session, the Procedural & Redistricting Council shall establish a Special Order Calendar and only those bills on such Special Order Calendar shall be placed on the Calendar of the House.

10.16—Consideration of Bills Not on Special Order

A bill not included on the Special Order Calendar may be considered by the House upon two-thirds vote of the Members present and voting.

10.17—Consent Calendar

The Procedural & Redistricting Council may submit a Consent Calendar designed to expedite the consideration of noncontroversial legislation, according to procedures recommended by the Procedural & Redistricting Council and approved by the House.

10.18—Requirements for Placement on a Calendar

No measure may be placed on a calendar until it has been reported favorably by each committee or council of reference.

10.19—Informal Deferral of Bills

Whenever the Member who introduced a bill, or the Chair of the committee or council that reported it, is absent from the Chamber when the bill has been reached in the regular order on second or third reading, consideration shall be informally deferred until the Member's or committee or council Chair's return, unless another Member consents to offer the bill on behalf of the original Member or committee or council Chair. The bill shall retain its position on the Calendar during the same legislative day. The Member or committee or council Chair shall have the responsibility of making the motion for its subsequent consideration.

Part Five—Resolutions of Condolence, Commendation, or Commemoration

10.20—Resolutions of Condolence, Commendation, or Commemoration Published in Journal

Upon favorable report by the Committee on Rules, Ethics, & Elections, a resolution of condolence, commendation, or commemoration may be shown as introduced, read, and adopted by publication in full in the Journal. The Procedural & Redistricting Council shall periodically distribute a list of such resolutions 1 day (excluding Saturday and Sunday) prior to the day of their publication, during which time any Member may file an objection with the council to any resolution listed. Each resolution for which an objection has been filed shall be removed from the list and placed on the Calendar of the House. All resolutions without objections shall be printed on the next legislative day in the Journal and considered adopted by the House.

Part Six—Consideration Limits

10.21—Consideration Limits to Bills After Day 55

After the 55th calendar day of a regular session, no House bills on second reading may be taken up and considered by the House.

10.22—Consideration Limits After Day 58

After the 58th calendar day of a regular session, the House may consider only:

- (a) Senate Messages.
- (b) Conference Reports.
- (c) Concurrent Resolutions.

RULE ELEVEN
MOTIONS

11.1—Motions: How Made

Every motion shall be made orally, except when requested by the Speaker to be reduced to writing.

11.2—Precedence of Motions During Debate

(a) When a question is under debate, the Speaker shall receive no motion except:

- (1) To adjourn at a time certain.
- (2) To adjourn.
- (3) To recess to a time certain.
- (4) To lay on the table.
- (5) To reconsider.
- (6) For the previous question.
- (7) To limit debate.
- (8) To temporarily postpone.

(9) To postpone to a time or day certain.

(10) To refer to or to recommit to committee or council.

(11) To amend.

(12) To postpone indefinitely.

(13) To amend by striking out the enacting or resolving clause.

(b) Such motions shall have precedence in the descending order given.

11.3—Questions of Order Decided Without Debate

All procedural questions of order, arising after a motion is made for any of the motions named in Rule 11.2 and pending that motion, shall be decided by the Speaker without debate, whether on appeal or otherwise; however, the Speaker may ask the House for comment.

11.4—Division of Question

Any Member may call for a division of a question when the sense will admit of it. A motion to strike out and insert shall be deemed indivisible. A motion to strike out, being lost, shall preclude neither amendment nor a motion to strike out and insert.

11.5—Motion to Recess to a Time Certain

A motion to recess to a time certain shall be treated the same as a motion to adjourn, except that the motion is debatable when no business is before the House and can be amended as to the time to recess and duration of the recess. It yields only to a motion to adjourn.

11.6—Motion to Lay on the Table

A motion to lay on the table is not debatable and cannot be amended; however, before the motion is put, the sponsor of a bill or debatable motion shall be allowed 5 minutes within which to discuss the same and may divide the time with, or waive this right in favor of, some other Member. A motion to table a main question requires a majority vote. A motion to lay an amendment on the table, if adopted, does not carry with it the measure to which it adheres. A motion to lay an amendment on the table may be adopted by a majority vote.

11.7—Motion to Reconsider

(a) When a motion or main question has been made and carried or lost, it shall be in order at any time as a matter of right on the same or succeeding legislative day for a Member voting with the prevailing side, or for any Member in the case of a voice or tie vote, to move for reconsideration thereof. When a majority of Members vote in the affirmative but the proposition is lost because it is one in which the concurrence of a greater number than a majority is necessary for adoption or passage, any Member may move for a reconsideration. No bill referred or recommitted to a committee or council by a vote of the House shall be brought back into the House on a motion to reconsider. The motion to reconsider shall require a majority vote for its adoption, and such motion shall not be renewed on any proposition, after once being considered by vote of the House, except by unanimous consent. Debate shall be allowed on a motion to reconsider only when the question that it is proposing to reconsider is debatable. When debate upon a motion to reconsider is in order, no Member shall speak thereon more than once or for more than 5 minutes. The adoption of a motion to reconsider a vote upon any secondary matter shall not remove the main subject under consideration from consideration of the House. A motion to reconsider a collateral matter must be disposed of at once during the course of the consideration of the main subject to which it is related, and such motion shall be out of order after the House has passed to other business.

(b) The Clerk shall retain possession of all bills and joint resolutions for the period after passage during which reconsideration may be moved; however, during the last 14 calendar days allowed under the Florida Constitution for a regular session and during any extensions thereof, or during any special session, these shall be transmitted to the Senate forthwith.

(c) The adoption of a motion to waive the Rules and immediately certify any bill to the Senate shall be construed as releasing the measure from the Clerk's possession for the period of reconsideration. Local bills, concurrent resolutions, and memorials shall be transmitted to the Senate without delay. Messages relating to procedural motions, to House action on Senate amendments, or to conference committee reports shall be transmitted forthwith.

11.8—Motion for the Previous Question

(a) The previous question may be asked and ordered upon any debatable single motion, series of motions, or amendment pending, and the effect thereof shall be to conclude all action on the same day. If third reading is reached on another day, the order for the previous question must be renewed on that day.

(b) The motion for the previous question shall be decided without debate. If the motion prevails, the sponsor of a bill or debatable motion and an opponent shall be allowed 3 minutes each within which to discuss the same, and each may divide the time with, or waive this right in favor of, some other Member. The motion for the previous question shall be put in the following form: "Shall the main question be now put?"

(c) When the motion for the previous question is adopted on a main question, the sense of the House shall be taken forthwith on pending amendments and such question in the regular order. If amendments have been adopted, the regular order shall include the adoption of necessary title amendments.

(d) The motion for the previous question may not be made by the sponsor or mover.

11.9—Motion to Limit Debate

When there is debate by the House, it shall be in order for a Member to move to limit debate and such motion shall be decided without debate, except that the sponsor or mover of the question under debate shall have 5 minutes within which to discuss the motion and may divide the allotted time with, or waive it in favor of, some other Member. If, by majority vote, the question is decided in the affirmative, debate shall be limited to 20 minutes for each side, unless a greater time is stated in the motion, such time to be apportioned by the Speaker; however, the sponsor or mover shall have an additional 5 minutes within which to close the debate and may divide the allotted time with, or waive it in favor of, some other Member.

11.10—Motion to Temporarily Postpone

The motion to temporarily postpone shall be decided without debate and shall cause a measure to be set aside but retained on the desk. If a main question has been temporarily postponed after having been debated or after motions have been applied and is not brought back before the House on the same legislative day, it shall be placed under the order of unfinished business on the Calendar of the House. If a main question is temporarily postponed before debate has commenced or motions have been applied, its reading shall be considered a nullity and the bill shall retain its original position on the order of business. The motion to return to consideration of a temporarily postponed main question shall be made under the proper order of business when no other matter is pending. If applied to a collateral matter, the motion to temporarily postpone shall not cause the main question to be carried with it. After having been temporarily postponed, if a collateral matter is not brought back before the House in the course of consideration of the adhering or main question, it shall be deemed abandoned.

11.11—Motions to Withdraw or Refer Bills

(a) Any Member may, no later than under the order of business of Motions Relating to Committee References on the legislative day following reference of a bill, move for reference from one committee or council to a different committee or council, which shall be decided by a majority vote.

(b) A motion to withdraw a bill from committee or council, or to refer a bill from one committee or council to another committee or council other than as provided in subsection (a), may be made during the regular order of business and shall require an affirmative vote of two-thirds of the Members present and voting.

(c) A motion to refer a bill to an additional committee or council may be made during the regular order of business and shall require an affirmative vote of two-thirds of the Members present and voting.

(d) A motion to refer shall be debated only as to the propriety of the reference.

(e) A motion to withdraw a bill from further consideration of the House shall require an affirmative vote of two-thirds of the Members present and voting.

(1) For the purpose of withdrawing bills from further consideration, the first-named Member sponsor shall be regarded as the only Member empowered to move for the withdrawal of a bill. The first-named Member sponsor of a bill may, prior to its introduction, withdraw the bill by letter to the Clerk.

(2) The introducer of an original bill laid on the table upon introduction of a committee or council substitute therefor has no right to move for the withdrawal of the substitute from further consideration.

(3) In moving for the withdrawal of a bill from further consideration by floor motion, the introducer shall be required to identify the nature of the bill.

11.12—Motion to Recommit

(a) After a committee or council report on a bill has been received by the Clerk, the bill may not be recommitted by the House to any committee or council except by a majority vote.

(b) A motion to recommit to committee or council a bill that is before the House may be made during the regular order of business. The motion shall be debatable only as to the propriety of that reference and shall require an affirmative majority vote.

(c) Upon the third reading of any bill, it may not be committed to any committee or council, except to the appropriate fiscal committee as provided elsewhere in these Rules.

11.13—Motion to Postpone Indefinitely

Motions to postpone indefinitely are debatable and shall be applicable only to a main question. The adoption of a motion to postpone a bill indefinitely shall dispose of such bill for the duration of the legislative session and all extensions thereof. Any motion to postpone consideration to a time beyond the last day allowed under the Florida Constitution for the current legislative session shall be construed as a motion to postpone indefinitely.

11.14—Dilatory Motions

No dilatory or delaying motions shall be entertained by the Speaker.

11.15—Withdrawal of Motions

The mover of a motion may withdraw the motion at any time before it has been amended or a vote on it has commenced, except that a motion to reconsider may be withdrawn only on the day made.

RULE TWELVE AMENDMENTS

12.1—Form

(a) Amendments shall be stored on the legislative computer in a format approved by the Clerk.

(b) The sponsor of an amendment shall file with the Clerk a printed original of the amendment, which shall be free of interlineations and which shall include as a part of its original printed text the name of the sponsor, the bill number, and the page and line to be amended. Amendment cosponsors may be added on forms provided by the Clerk.

12.2—Filing

(a) REGULAR SESSION.

(1) During the first 45 calendar days of a regular session, no Member floor amendment shall be considered unless a printed original of the amendment has been delivered to the Clerk in the required form prior to 3:00 p.m. of the day, excluding Saturday and Sunday, preceding the daily session at which the sponsor seeks to offer the amendment, and no amendment to the amendment or substitute amendment shall be offered unless a printed original of the amendment to the amendment or substitute amendment has been delivered to the Clerk not later than 5:00 p.m. of the day, excluding Saturday and Sunday, preceding the daily session at which the sponsor seeks to offer the main amendment.

(2) For calendar days 46 through 51 of a regular session, no Member floor amendment shall be considered unless a printed original of the amendment has been delivered to the Clerk in the required form at least 1 hour prior to the daily session at which the sponsor seeks to offer the amendment, and no amendment to the amendment or substitute amendment shall be offered unless a printed original of the amendment to the amendment or substitute amendment has been delivered to the Clerk not later than 30 minutes prior to the daily session at which the sponsor seeks to offer the main amendment.

(3) After the 51st day of a regular session, no Member floor amendment shall be considered unless a printed original of the amendment has been delivered to the Clerk in the required form not later than 30 minutes after the convening of the daily session at which the sponsor seeks to offer the amendment or 2 1/2 hours after the Special Order Calendar has been provided, whichever is later, and no amendment to the amendment or substitute amendment shall be offered unless a printed original of the amendment to the amendment or substitute amendment has been delivered to the Clerk not later than 1 hour after the convening of the daily session at which the sponsor seeks to offer the main amendment or 3 hours after the Special Order Calendar has been provided, whichever is later.

(b) EXTENDED OR SPECIAL SESSION. During any extended or special session, no Member floor amendment shall be considered unless a printed original of the amendment has been delivered to the Clerk in the required form at least 1 hour prior to the daily session at which the sponsor seeks to offer the amendment, and no amendment to the amendment or substitute amendment shall be offered unless a printed original of the amendment to the amendment or substitute amendment has been delivered to the Clerk not later than 30 minutes prior to the daily session at which the sponsor seeks to offer the main amendment.

(c) WAIVER OF DEADLINE. By a majority vote, the time limitation for filing any amendment may be waived.

12.3—Presentation and Consideration

(a) Amendments shall be taken up only as sponsors gain recognition from the Speaker to move their adoption, except that the Chair of the committee or council (or any member thereof designated by the Chair) reporting the measure under consideration shall have preference for the presentation of committee or council amendments.

(b) Upon motion, committee or council amendments may be adopted en bloc.

(c) The adoption of an amendment to a section shall not preclude further amendment of that section. If a bill is being considered section by section or item by item, only amendments to the section or item under consideration shall be in order.

(d) For the purpose of this Rule, an amendment shall be deemed pending only after its proposer has been recognized by the Speaker and has moved its adoption.

12.4—Second and Third Reading; Vote Required on Third Reading

(a) A motion to amend is in order during the second or third reading of any bill.

(b) Amendments proposed on third reading shall require a two-thirds vote of the Members present and voting for adoption, except that technical amendments introduced in the name of the Procedural & Redistricting Council shall require a majority vote for adoption.

(c) A motion for reconsideration of an amendment on third reading requires a two-thirds vote of the Members present and voting for adoption.

12.5—Amendment of General Appropriations Bill

(a) Whenever an amendment is offered to a General Appropriations Bill that would increase any line item of such bill, such amendment shall show the amount by line item of the increase and shall, from within the jurisdiction of the same fiscal standing committee, decrease a line item or items in an amount or amounts equivalent to or greater than the increase required by the amendment.

(b) A floor amendment to the General Appropriations Bill that proposes to move spending authority between sections of the bill shall require a two-thirds vote of the Members present and voting.

12.6—Consideration of Senate Amendments

(a) After the reading of a Senate amendment to a House bill, the following motions shall be in order and shall be privileged in the order named:

(1) Amend the Senate amendment by a concurrence of the majority required for the final passage of the bill.

(2) Concur in the Senate amendment by a concurrence of the same majority required for the final passage of the bill.

(3) Refuse by the majority of the required quorum to concur and ask the Senate to recede.

(4) Request the Senate to recede and, failing to do so, to appoint a conference committee to meet with a like committee appointed by the Speaker.

(b) If the Senate refuses to concur in a House amendment to a Senate bill, the following motions shall be in order and shall be privileged in the order named:

(1) That the House recede.

(2) That the House insist and ask for a conference committee.

(3) That the House insist.

(c) The Speaker may, upon determining that a Senate amendment substantially changes the bill as passed by the House, refer the Senate message, with the bill and Senate amendment or amendments, to the appropriate House committee or council for review and report to the House. The Speaker, upon such reference, shall announce the date and time for the committee or council to meet. The committee or council shall report to the House the recommendation for disposition of the Senate amendment or amendments under one of the four options presented in subsection (a). The report shall be given to the House, in writing, by the Chair of the reporting committee or council.

12.7—Motion to Amend by Striking Out Enacting or Resolving Clause

An amendment to strike out the enacting clause of a bill or the resolving clause of a resolution or memorial shall, if carried, be considered as equivalent to rejection of the bill, resolution, or memorial by the House.

12.8—Sequence of Amendments to Amendments

An amendment to a pending amendment may be received, but until it is disposed of no other motion to amend will be in order except a substitute amendment or an amendment to the substitute. Such amendments are to be disposed of in the following order:

(a) Amendments to the amendment are voted on before the substitute is taken up. Only one amendment to the amendment is in order at a time.

(b) Amendments to the substitute are next voted on.

(c) The substitute then is voted on. The adoption of a substitute amendment in lieu of an original amendment shall be treated and considered as an amendment of the bill itself.

12.9—Germanity of House Amendments

(a) GERMANITY.

(1) Neither the House nor any committee or council shall consider an amendment that relates to a different subject or is intended to accomplish a different purpose than that of the pending question or that, if adopted and passed, would require a title amendment for the proposal that is substantially different from the proposal's original title or that would unreasonably alter the nature of the proposal.

(2) The Speaker shall rule on the admissibility of any amendment when the question of germanity is timely raised.

(3) An amendment of the second degree or a substitute amendment must be germane to both the main amendment and the measure to which it adheres.

(b) AMENDMENTS THAT ARE NOT GERMANE. House amendments that are not germane include:

- (1) A general proposition amending a specific proposition.
- (2) An amendment amending a statute or session law when the purpose of the bill is limited to repealing such law, or an amendment repealing a statute or session law when the purpose of the bill is limited to amending such law.
- (3) An amendment that substantially expands the scope of the bill.
- (4) An amendment to a bill when legislative action on that bill is by law or these Rules limited to passage, concurrence, indefinite postponement, or nonconcurrence as introduced.

(c) AMENDMENTS THAT ARE GERMANE. Amendments that are germane include:

- (1) A specific provision amending a general provision.
- (2) An amendment that accomplishes the same purpose in a different manner.
- (3) An amendment limiting the scope of the proposal.
- (4) An amendment providing appropriations necessary to fulfill the original intent of a proposal.
- (5) An amendment relating only to clarification of details.
- (6) An amendment that changes the effective date of a repeal, reduces the scope of a repeal, or adds a short-term nonstatutory transitional provision to facilitate repeal.

12.10—Amendments Out of Order

An amendment is out of order if it is the principal substance of a bill that has received an unfavorable committee or council report.

12.11—Printing of Amendments in Journal

All amendments taken up, unless withdrawn, shall be printed in the Journal, except that an amendment to a General Appropriations Bill constituting an entirely new bill shall not be printed until the filing of the conference committee report.

RULE THIRTEEN
RULES

13.1—Initial Adoption of Rules of the House

The initial adoption of the Rules of the House shall require a majority vote. Once adopted, the Rules of the House shall remain in effect, unless waived or amended as provided in these Rules.

13.2—Waiver of Rules of the House

Any Rule of the House, except a Rule requiring unanimous consent, may be waived by a two-thirds vote of the Members present and voting; however, the waiver shall apply only to the matter under immediate consideration and shall not extend beyond adjournment of a session day.

13.3—Amending Rules of the House

No Rule of the House may be amended except by a report or resolution from the Committee on Rules, Ethics, & Elections adopted by the House by majority vote. A report or resolution of the Committee on Rules, Ethics, & Elections proposing amendments to these Rules is always in order; however, any amendment of such a report or resolution prior to its adoption requires a two-thirds vote of the Members present and voting.

13.4—Parliamentary Authorities

In all cases not provided for by the Florida Constitution, the Rules of the House, or the Joint Rules of the Senate and House, the guiding, but nonbinding, authority shall be first the Rulings of the Speaker and then the latest edition of Mason's Manual of Legislative Procedure.

13.5—Majority Action

Unless otherwise indicated by these Rules, all action by the House or its committees or councils shall be by majority vote of those Members present and voting. When the body is equally divided, the question is lost.

13.6—"Days" Defined

Wherever used in these Rules, a "legislative" day means a day when the House convenes and a quorum is present. All other references to "days" mean "calendar" days.

RULE FOURTEEN
MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS
Part One—Public Records

14.1—Legislative Records

There shall be available for public inspection, whether maintained in Tallahassee or in a district office, the papers and records developed and received in connection with official legislative business, except as provided in section 11.0431, Florida Statutes, or other provision of law.

14.2—Legislative Records: Maintenance, Control, Destruction, Disposal, and Disposition

(a) Records that are required to be created by these Rules or that are of vital, permanent, or archival value shall be maintained in a safe location that is easily accessible for convenient use. No such record need be maintained if the substance of the record is published or retained in another form or location. Whenever necessary, but no more often than annually or less often than biennially, records required to be maintained may be transferred to the Legislative Library Service of the Division of Library and Information Services of the Department of State for retention in accordance with law.

(b) Other records that are no longer needed for any purpose and that do not have sufficient administrative, legal, or fiscal significance to warrant their retention shall be disposed of systematically.

(c)(1) The committee administrative assistant for each existing committee shall ensure compliance with this Rule for all records created or received by the committee or for a former committee whose jurisdiction has been assigned to the committee.

(2) The council administrative assistant for each existing council shall ensure compliance with this Rule for all records created or received by the council or for a former council whose jurisdiction has been assigned to the council.

(3) The Speaker, the Speaker pro tempore, the Minority Leader, the Majority Leader, and the Sergeant at Arms shall ensure compliance with this Rule for all records created or received by their respective offices and their predecessors in office.

(4) Each Member shall ensure compliance with this Rule for all records created or received by the Member or the Member's district office.

(5) The director of an ancillary House office shall ensure compliance with this Rule for all records created or received by the director's office.

(6) The Clerk shall ensure compliance with this Rule for all other records created or received by the House of Representatives.

(d) If a committee, council, or office is not continued in existence, the records of such committee, council, or office shall be forwarded to the committee, council, or office assuming the jurisdiction or responsibility of the former committee, council, or office, if any. Otherwise, such records shall be forwarded to the Clerk.

(e) The Clerk, with the approval of the Speaker, shall establish a schedule of reasonable and appropriate fees for copies of legislative records and documents; however, there shall be no charge for a single copy of any individual, separately obtained bill (other than a General Appropriations Bill) or a bill research & economic impact statement or other record required by these Rules to be created.

Part Two—Distribution of Documents; Display of Signs

14.3—Distribution of Documents

Documents required by these Rules to be printed or published may be produced and distributed on paper or in electronic form.

14.4—Display of Signs, Placards, and the Like

Signs, placards, or other objects of similar nature shall be permitted in the rooms, lobby, galleries, or Chamber of the House only upon approval of the Committee on Rules, Ethics, & Elections.

Part Three—House Seal

14.5—House Seal

(a) REQUIREMENT. There shall be an official seal of the House of Representatives. The seal shall be used only by or on behalf of a Member or officer of the House or when specifically authorized in writing by the Committee on Rules, Ethics, & Elections.

(b) CONFIGURATION. The seal shall be a circle, having, in the center thereof, a view of the sun's rays over a highland in the distance, a sabal palmetto palm tree, a steamboat on the water, and a Native American female scattering flowers in the foreground, encircled by the words "House of Representatives."

(c) USE. Unless a written exception is otherwise granted by the Speaker:

(1) Material carrying the official seal shall be used only by a Member, officer, or employee of the House or other persons employed or retained by the House.

(2) The use, printing, publication, or manufacture of the seal, or items or materials bearing the seal or a facsimile of the seal, shall be limited to official business of the House or official legislative business.

(d) CUSTODIAN. The Clerk shall be the custodian of the official seal.

RULE FIFTEEN

ETHICS AND CONDUCT OF MEMBERS

15.1—Legislative Ethics and Official Conduct

Legislative office is a trust to be performed with integrity in the public interest. A Member is respectful of the confidence placed in the Member by the other Members and by the people. By personal example and by admonition to colleagues whose behavior may threaten the honor of the lawmaking body, the Member shall watchfully guard the responsibility of office and the responsibilities and duties placed on the Member by the House. To this end, each Member shall be accountable to the House for violations of this Rule or any provision of the House Code of Conduct contained in Rules 15.1-15.8.

15.2—The Integrity of the House

A Member shall respect and comply with the law and shall perform at all times in a manner that promotes public confidence in the integrity and independence of the House and of the Legislature. Each Member shall perform at all times in a manner that promotes a professional environment in the House, which shall be free from unlawful employment discrimination.

15.3—Improper Influence; Solicitation of Campaign Contributions

(a) A Member may not accept anything that reasonably may be construed to improperly influence the Member's official act, decision, or vote.

(b) A Member may neither solicit nor accept any campaign contribution during the 60-day regular legislative session on the Member's own behalf, on behalf of a political party, or on behalf of a candidate for the House of Representatives; however, a Member may contribute to the Member's own campaign.

15.4—Ethics; Conflicting Employment

A Member shall:

(a) Scrupulously comply with the requirements of all laws related to the ethics of public officers.

(b) Not allow personal employment to impair the Member's independence of judgment in the exercise of official duties.

(c) Not directly or indirectly receive or agree to receive any compensation for any services rendered or to be rendered either by the Member or any other person when such activity is in substantial conflict with the duties of a Member of the House.

15.5—Use of Official Position

A Member may not corruptly use or attempt to use the Member's official position in a manner contrary to the trust or authority placed in the Member, either by the public or by other Members, for the purpose of securing a special privilege, benefit, or exemption for the Member or for others.

15.6—Use of Information Obtained by Reason of Official Position

A Member may engage in business and professional activity in competition with others, but may not use or provide to others, for the Member's personal gain or benefit or for the personal gain or benefit of any other person or business entity, any information that has been obtained by reason of the Member's official capacity as a Member and that is unavailable to members of the public as a matter of law.

15.7—Members to Advise Legislative Employees of House Requirements

Each Member is responsible for calling the regulations, policies, and procedures approved by the Speaker relating to legislative staff and the Rules of the House relating to legislative staff to the attention of any staff for whom the Member is directly responsible. A Member may not engage, or permit another to engage, in conduct that the Member knows or should have known to be harmful to a professional environment in the workplace, which shall be free from unlawful employment discrimination. A professional environment in the workplace, which shall be free from unlawful employment discrimination, is one in which there is compliance with state and federal law and the regulations, policies, and procedures relating to employment discrimination approved by the Speaker.

15.8—Representation of Another Before a State Agency

A Member may not personally represent another person or entity for compensation before any state agency other than a judicial tribunal. For the purposes of this Rule, “state agency” means any entity of the legislative or executive branch of state government over which the Legislature exercises plenary budgetary and statutory control.

15.9—Advisory Opinions

(a) A Member, when in doubt about the applicability and interpretation of these Rules with respect to legislative ethics and Member conduct, may convey the facts of the situation to the House general counsel for an advisory opinion. The general counsel shall issue the opinion within 10 days after receiving the request. The advisory opinion may be relied upon by the Member requesting the opinion. Upon request of any Member, the committee designated by the Speaker to have responsibility for the ethical conduct of Members may revise an advisory opinion rendered by the House general counsel through an advisory opinion issued to the Member who requested the opinion.

(b) An advisory opinion rendered by the House general counsel or the committee shall be numbered, dated, and published by the Clerk in an annual publication of the House. Advisory opinions from the House general counsel or the committee may not identify the Member seeking the opinion unless such Member so requests.

15.10—Felony Indictment or Information of a Member

(a) If an indictment or information for a felony of any jurisdiction is filed against a Member of the House, the Member indicted or informed against may request the Speaker to excuse the Member, without pay, from all privileges of membership of the House pending final adjudication.

(b) If the indictment or information is either nolle prossed or dismissed, or if the Member is found not guilty of the felonies charged, or lesser included felonies, then the Member shall be paid all back pay and other benefits retroactive to the date the Member was excused.

15.11—Felony Guilty Plea of a Member

A Member who enters a plea of guilty or nolo contendere (no contest) to a felony of any jurisdiction may, at the discretion of the Speaker, be suspended immediately, without a hearing and without pay, from all privileges of membership of the House through the remainder of that Member’s term.

15.12—Felony Conviction of a Member

(a) A Member convicted of a felony of any jurisdiction may, at the discretion of the Speaker, be suspended immediately, without a hearing and without pay, from all privileges of membership of the House pending appellate action or the end of the Member’s term, whichever occurs first.

(b) A Member suspended under the provisions of this Rule may, within 10 days after such suspension, file a written request for a hearing setting forth specific reasons contesting the Member’s suspension. Upon receipt of a written request for a hearing, the Speaker shall appoint a select committee, which shall commence a hearing on the Member’s suspension within 30 days and issue a report to the House within 10 days after the conclusion of the hearing. The report of the select committee shall be final unless the Member, within 10 days after the issuance of the report, requests in writing that the Speaker convene the full House to consider the report of the select committee. Upon receipt of a request for such consideration, the Speaker shall timely convene the House for such purpose.

(c) If the final appellate decision is to sustain the conviction, then the Member’s suspension shall continue to the end of the Member’s term. If the final appellate decision is to vacate the conviction and there is a rehearing, the Member shall be subject to Rule 15.10. If the final appellate decision is to vacate the conviction and no felony charges remain against the Member, the Member shall be entitled to restitution of back pay and other benefits retroactive to the date of suspension.

RULE SIXTEEN

PROCEDURES FOR LEGAL PROCEEDINGS

Part One—Committees and Councils Conducting Legal Proceedings

16.1—Procedures for Committees and Councils Conducting Legal Proceedings

(a) ISSUANCE OF SUBPOENA.

(1) In order to carry out its duties, each standing or select committee or council, whenever required, may issue subpoena with the approval of the Speaker and other necessary process to compel the attendance of witnesses before such committee or council or the taking of a deposition pursuant to these Rules. The Chair of the standing or select committee or council shall issue such process on behalf of the standing or select committee or council. The Chair or any other member of such committee or council may administer all oaths and affirmations in the manner prescribed by law to witnesses who shall appear before such committee or council for the purpose of testifying in any matter about which such committee or council may desire evidence.

(2) Each standing or select committee or council, whenever required, may also compel by subpoena duces tecum the production of any books, letters, or other documentary evidence it may desire to examine in reference to any matter before it. The Chair of the standing or select committee or council shall issue process on behalf of the standing or select committee or council.

(b) CONTEMPT PROCEEDINGS.

(1) Either house may punish by fine or imprisonment any person who is not a Member and who is guilty of disorderly or contemptuous conduct in its presence or of a refusal to obey its lawful summons.

(2) A person shall be deemed in contempt if the person:

a. Fails or refuses to appear in compliance with a subpoena or, having appeared, fails or refuses to testify under oath or affirmation;

b. Fails or refuses to answer any relevant question or fails or refuses to furnish any relevant book, paper, or other document subpoenaed by or on behalf of such committee or council; or

c. Commits any other act or offense against such committee or council that, if committed against the Legislature or either house thereof, would constitute contempt.

(3) A standing or select committee or council may, by majority vote of all of its members, apply to the House for contempt citation. The application shall be considered as though the alleged contempt had been committed in or against the House itself. If such committee or council is meeting during the interim, its application shall be made to the circuit court pursuant to subsection (f).

(4) A person guilty of contempt under this Rule shall be fined not more than $500 or imprisoned not more than 90 days or both, or shall be subject to such other punishment as the House may, in the exercise of its inherent powers, impose prior to and in lieu of the imposition of the aforementioned penalty.

(5) The sheriffs in the several counties shall make such service and execute all process or orders when required by standing or select committees or councils. Sheriffs shall be paid as provided for in section 30.231, Florida Statutes.

(c) FALSE SWEARING. Whoever willfully affirms or swears falsely in regard to any material matter or thing before any standing or select committee or council is guilty of perjury in an official proceeding, which is a felony of the third degree and shall be punished as provided in section 775.082, section 775.083, or section 775.084, Florida Statutes.

(d) RIGHTS OF WITNESSES.

(1) All witnesses summoned before any standing or select committee or council shall receive reimbursement for travel expenses and per diem at the rates provided in section 112.061, Florida Statutes. However, the fact that such reimbursement is not tendered at the time the subpoena is served shall not excuse the witness from appearing as directed therein.

(2) Service of a subpoena requiring the attendance of a person at a meeting of a standing or select committee or council shall be made in the manner provided by law for the service of subpoenas in civil action at least 7 calendar days prior to the date of the meeting unless a shorter period of time is authorized by majority vote of all the members of such committee or council. If a shorter period of time is authorized, the persons subpoenaed shall be given reasonable notice of the meeting, consistent with the particular circumstances involved.

(3) Any person who is served with a subpoena to attend a meeting of any standing or select committee or council also shall be served with a general statement informing the person of the subject matter of such committee's or council's investigation or inquiry and a notice that the person may be accompanied at the meeting by private counsel.

(4) Upon the request of any party and the approval of a majority of the standing or select committee or council, the Chair shall instruct all witnesses to leave the meeting room and retire to a designated place. The witness will be instructed by the Chair not to discuss the testimony of the witness or the testimony of any other person with anyone until the meeting has been adjourned and the witness has been discharged by the Chair. The witness shall be further instructed that if any person discusses or attempts to discuss the matter under investigation with the witness after receiving such instructions, the witness shall bring such matter to the attention of such committee or council. No member of such committee or council or representative thereof may discuss any matter or matters pertinent to the subject matter under investigation with any witness to be called before such committee or council from the time that these instructions are given until the meeting has been adjourned and the witness has been discharged by the Chair. Any person violating this Rule shall be in contempt of the Legislature.

(5) Any standing or select committee or council taking sworn testimony from witnesses as provided herein shall cause a record to be made of all proceedings in which testimony or other evidence is demanded or adduced, which record shall include rulings of the Chair, questions of such committee or council and its staff, the testimony or responses of witnesses, sworn written statements submitted to the committee or council, and such other matters as the committee or council or its Chair may direct.

(6) A witness at a meeting, upon advance request and at the witness's own expense, shall be furnished a certified transcript of the witness's testimony at the meeting.

(e) RIGHT OF OTHER PERSONS TO BE HEARD.

(1) Any person whose name is mentioned or who is otherwise identified during a meeting being conducted for the purpose of taking sworn testimony from witnesses of any standing or select committee or council and who, in the opinion of such committee or council, may be adversely affected thereby, may, upon the request of the person or upon the request of any member of such committee or council, appear personally before such committee or council and testify on the person's own behalf, or, with such committee's or council's consent, file a sworn written statement of facts or other documentary evidence for incorporation into the record of the meeting. Any such witness, however, shall, prior to filing such statement, consent to answer questions from such committee or council regarding the contents of the statement.

(2) Upon the consent of a majority of the members present, a quorum having been established, any standing or select committee or council may permit any other person to appear and testify at a meeting or submit a sworn written statement of facts or other documentary evidence for incorporation into the record. No request to appear, appearance, or submission shall limit in any way the committee's or council's power of subpoena. Any such witness, however, shall, prior to filing such statement, consent to answer questions from any standing or select committee or council regarding the contents of the statement.

(f) ENFORCEMENT OF SUBPOENA OUT OF SESSION. If any witness fails to respond to the lawful subpoena of any standing or select committee or council at a time when the Legislature is not in session or, having responded, fails to answer all lawful inquiries or to turn over evidence that has been subpoenaed, such committee or council may file a complaint before any circuit court of the state setting up such failure on the part of the witness. On the filing of such complaint, the court shall take jurisdiction of the witness and the subject matter of the complaint and shall direct the witness to respond to all lawful questions and to produce all documentary evidence in the possession of the witness that is lawfully demanded. The failure of any witness to comply with such order of the court shall constitute a direct and criminal contempt of court, and the court shall punish such witness accordingly.

Part Two—Complaints Against Members and Officers of the House

16.2—Complaints of Violations of the Standards of Conduct By Members and Officers of the House; Procedure

(a) FILING OF COMPLAINTS. The Chair of the Committee on Rules, Ethics, & Elections shall receive and initially review allegations of improper conduct that may reflect upon the House, violations of law, violations of the House Code of Conduct, and violations of the Rules and regulations of the House relating to the conduct of individuals in the performance of their duties as Members or officers of the House. Complaints of improper conduct against the Chair of the Committee on Rules, Ethics, & Elections shall be reviewed and managed by the Speaker or, if designated by the Speaker, the Speaker pro tempore.

(1) Review of Complaints. The Chair of the Committee on Rules, Ethics, & Elections shall review each complaint submitted to the committee relating to the conduct of a Member or officer of the House.

(2) Complaints.

a. A complaint shall be in writing and under oath, setting forth in simple, concise statements the following:

1. The name and legal address of the party filing the complaint (complainant);

2. The name and position or title of the Member or officer of the House (respondent) alleged to be in violation of the House Code of Conduct or a law, rule, regulation, or other standard of conduct;

3. The nature of the alleged violation, based upon the personal knowledge of the complainant, including, if possible, the specific section of the House Code of Conduct or law, rule, regulation, or other standard of conduct alleged to have been violated; and

4. The facts alleged to have given rise to the violation.

b. All documents in the possession of the complainant that are relevant to, and in support of, the allegations shall be attached to the complaint.

(3) Processing Complaint and Preliminary Findings.

a. Upon the filing of a complaint, the Chair shall, within 5 working days, notify the Member or officer against whom the complaint has been filed and give such person a copy of the complaint. Within 20 days, the Chair shall take the necessary actions as provided in subparagraphs b.-g.

b. The Chair shall examine each complaint for jurisdiction and for compliance with paragraph (a)(2).

c. If the Chair determines that a complaint does not comply with such Rule, the complaint shall be returned to the complainant with a general statement that the complaint is not in compliance with such Rule and with a copy of the Rule. A complainant may resubmit a complaint, provided such complaint is resubmitted prior to the expiration of the time limitation set forth in subsection (o).

d. If the Chair determines that the verified complaint does not allege facts sufficient to constitute a violation of any of the provisions of the House Code of Conduct, or a law, rule, regulation, or other standard of conduct, the Chair shall dismiss the complaint and notify the complainant and the respondent of such action.

e. If the Chair determines that the complaint is outside the jurisdiction of the House, the Chair shall dismiss the complaint and notify the complainant and the respondent of such action.

f. If the Chair determines that a violation is inadvertent, technical, or otherwise of a de minimis nature, the Chair may attempt to correct or prevent such a violation by informal means.

g. If the Chair determines that such a complaint does allege facts sufficient to constitute a violation of any of the provisions of the House Code of Conduct, or a law, rule, regulation, or other standard of conduct, and that the complaint is not de minimis in nature, the Chair shall, within 20 days, transmit a copy of the complaint to the Speaker and, in writing, request the appointment of a Probable Cause Panel or Special Master regarding the complaint. A copy of the letter shall be provided to the complainant and the respondent.

(4) Withdrawal of Complaints. A complaint may be withdrawn at any time.

(b) PROBABLE CAUSE PANEL OR SPECIAL MASTER.

(1) Creation. Whenever the Speaker receives a copy of a complaint and request made pursuant to subsection (a), the Speaker shall, within 20 days, either appoint a Probable Cause Panel (the panel) consisting of an odd number of members or appoint a Special Master. If the Speaker appoints a Probable Cause Panel, the Speaker shall also appoint one member of the panel as its Chair. The Speaker may appoint up to two additional persons who are not Members of the House to serve as nonvoting, public members of a Probable Cause Panel.

(2) Powers and Duties. The members of the panel or the Special Master shall have the following powers and duties:

a. Investigate complaints and make appropriate findings of fact promptly regarding allegations of improper conduct sufficient to establish probable cause of violations of law, violations of the House Code of Conduct, and violations of Rules and regulations of the House relating to the conduct of individuals in the performance of their duties as Members or as officers of the House;

b. Based upon the investigation by the Special Master or the panel, make and report findings of probable cause to the Speaker and to the House as it relates to the complaint that occasioned the appointment of the Probable Cause Panel or the Special Master;

c. Recommend to the Committee on Rules, Ethics, & Elections such additional Rules or regulations as the Probable Cause Panel or the Special Master shall determine are necessary or desirable to ensure proper standards of conduct by Members and officers of the House in the performance of their duties and the discharge of their responsibilities; and

d. Adopt rules of procedure as appropriate.

(3) Quorum. A quorum of a Probable Cause Panel, when appointed, shall consist of a majority of the members of the panel. All action by a Probable Cause Panel shall require the concurrence of a majority of the full panel.

(4) Term. A Probable Cause Panel or Special Master, as appropriate, shall serve until the complaint that occasioned the appointment of the panel or the Special Master has been dismissed or until a finding of probable cause has been transmitted to the Speaker.

(c) PRELIMINARY INVESTIGATION AND PROBABLE CAUSE FINDING.

(1) Preliminary Investigation.

a. The Probable Cause Panel or the Special Master shall provide the respondent an opportunity to present to the panel, the Special Master, or staff of the panel, orally or in writing, a statement addressing the allegations.

b. The panel, Special Master, or the staff of the panel may interview witnesses and examine documents and other evidentiary matters.

c. The panel or Special Master may order the testimony of witnesses to be taken under oath, in which event the oath may be administered by the Chair or any other member of the panel, by the Special Master, or by any person authorized by law to administer oaths.

d. The panel or Special Master may require, by subpoena issued pursuant to these Rules or otherwise, the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of such books, records, correspondence, memoranda, papers, documents, and other items as it deems necessary to the conduct of the inquiry.

(2) Probable Cause Finding.

a. Findings.

1. The panel, by a recorded vote of a majority of the full panel, or the Special Master, as appropriate, shall determine whether there is probable cause to conclude that a violation within the jurisdiction of the panel or the Special Master has occurred.

2. If the panel or Special Master, as appropriate, finds that probable cause does not exist, the panel or Special Master shall dismiss the complaint and notify the complainant and the respondent of its determination.

3. If the panel or Special Master, as appropriate, determines that probable cause exists to believe that a violation occurred but that the violation, if proven, is neither of a de minimis nature nor sufficiently serious to justify expulsion, censure, or reprimand, the panel or Special Master may recommend an appropriate, lesser penalty or may resolve the complaint informally. If the respondent agrees, a summary of the panel's or Special Master's conclusions, as appropriate, shall be published in the House Journal and the penalty agreed upon shall be imposed. If the panel or Special Master is unable to satisfactorily settle the complaint, the complaint shall be subject to a full evidentiary hearing before the Select Committee on Standards of Official Conduct pursuant to subsection (d).

4. If the panel or Special Master determines that probable cause exists to believe that a violation occurred and that, if proven, would be sufficiently serious to justify expulsion, censure, or reprimand, the panel or Special Master shall cause to be transmitted to the respondent a Statement of Alleged Violation. The statement shall be divided into counts, and each count shall be related to a separate violation and shall contain a plain and concise statement of the alleged facts of such violation, including a reference to the provision of the House Code of Conduct or law, rule, regulation, or other standard of conduct alleged to have been violated. A copy of the statement shall also be transmitted to the Speaker.

b. Collateral Proceedings. If the complaint against a Member or officer of the House has been the subject of action before any other body, the panel or Special Master may forward the complaint directly to a hearing pursuant to subsection (d).

(d) HEARING.

(1) Select Committee on Standards of Official Conduct. Upon receipt by the Speaker of a Statement of Alleged Violation, the Speaker shall appoint, within 20 days, a Select Committee on Standards of Official Conduct (the select committee) to hold hearings regarding the statement and make a recommendation for disciplinary action to the full House. Upon the receipt by the Speaker of a complaint and findings by the Commission on Ethics regarding a Member of the House, the Speaker shall appoint, within 20 days, a Select Committee on Standards of Official Conduct to hold hearings to determine whether a violation has occurred and, if so, to make a recommendation for disciplinary action to the full House.

(2) Hearing. A hearing regarding a violation charged in a Statement of Alleged Violation or in a complaint and findings by the Commission on Ethics shall be held promptly to receive evidence upon which to base findings of fact and recommendations, if any, to the House respecting such violation.

a. Chair. The Chair of the select committee or other member presiding at a hearing shall rule upon any question of admissibility of testimony or evidence presented to the select committee. Rulings shall be final unless reversed or modified by a majority vote of the members of the select committee. If the select committee appoints a referee pursuant to subsection (i), the referee shall make all evidentiary rulings.

b. Referee. The select committee shall serve as referee for all proceedings under these Rules, unless the select committee retains an independent referee pursuant to subsection (i).

c. Prosecutor. The select committee's staff shall serve as a legal advisor to the committee. The select committee may retain independent counsel pursuant to subsection (j) to serve as prosecutor in all proceedings conducted under these Rules.

d. Respondent's Rights. The respondent shall have the right to be represented by legal counsel, to call witnesses, to introduce exhibits, and to cross-examine opposing witnesses. The respondent or respondent's counsel shall be permitted to take the deposition of the complainant in accordance with sub-subparagraph (d)(3)a.3.

e. Complainant's Rights. The complainant is not a party to any part of the complaint process or these proceedings. The complainant has no standing to challenge these Rules or procedures and has no right to appeal. The complainant may submit a list of witnesses or questions for the select committee's consideration to assist in its preparation for the hearing.

(3) Procedures.

a. Procedure and Evidence.

1. Procedure. The select committee may adopt rules of procedure as appropriate to its needs.

2. Evidence. Irrelevant, immaterial, or unduly repetitious evidence shall be excluded, but all other evidence of a type commonly relied upon by reasonably prudent persons in the conduct of their affairs shall be admissible, whether or not such evidence would be admissible in a trial in the courts of Florida. However, hearsay evidence may not be used unless same would be admissible under the Florida Rules of Evidence and it shall not be sufficient in itself to support a factual finding unless it would be admissible over objection in civil actions.

3. Discovery. Discovery may be permitted upon motion, which shall state the reason therefor. Discovery shall be in accordance with the Florida Rules of Civil Procedure, but may be limited in time, scope, and method by the Chair or the referee.

4. Testimony. The select committee shall order the testimony of witnesses to be taken under oath, in which event the oath may be administered by the Chair or a member of the select committee, by any referee appointed pursuant to subsection (i), or by any person authorized by law to administer oaths.

5. Subpoenas. The select committee may require, by subpoena issued pursuant to these Rules or otherwise, the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of such books, records, correspondence, memoranda, papers, documents, and other items as it deems necessary to the conduct of the inquiry.

b. Order of Hearing. The order of the full hearing before the select committee or the referee shall be as follows:

1. The Chair or the referee shall open the hearing by stating the select committee's authority to conduct the hearing, the purpose of the hearing, and its scope.

2. Testimony from witnesses and other evidence pertinent to the subject of the hearing shall be received in the following order, whenever possible: witnesses and other evidence offered by the independent counsel, witnesses and other evidence offered by the respondent, and rebuttal witnesses. The select committee may call witnesses at any time during the proceedings.

3. Witnesses at the hearing shall be examined first by the independent counsel. The respondent or the respondent's counsel may then cross-examine the witnesses. The members of the select committee may then question the witnesses. Redirect and recross may be permitted in the Chair's or the referee's discretion. With respect to witnesses offered by the respondent, a witness shall be examined first by the respondent or the respondent's counsel, and then may be cross-examined by the independent counsel. Members of the select committee may then question the witness. Redirect and recross may be permitted in the Chair's or the referee's discretion. Participation by the select committee at the hearing stage is at the sole discretion of the select committee and is not mandatory.

(4) Burden of Proof. At the hearing, the burden of proof rests on the appointed independent counsel to establish the facts alleged by clear and convincing evidence with respect to each count.

(e) COMMITTEE RECOMMENDED ORDER.

(1) Committee Deliberations. As soon as practicable, the select committee shall consider each count contained in a Statement of Alleged Violation or in a complaint and findings, as the case may be. A count shall not be proven unless at least a majority of the select committee votes for a motion that the count has been proved. A count that is not proved shall be considered as dismissed by the select committee.

(2) Dismissal of Complaint. After the hearing, the select committee shall, in writing, state its findings of fact. If the select committee finds that the respondent has not violated any of the provisions of the House Code of Conduct, or a law, rule, regulation, or other standard of conduct, it shall order the action dismissed and shall notify the respondent and the complainant of such action.

(3) Recommended Order.

a. Recommended Order. If the select committee finds that the respondent has violated any of the provisions of the House Code of Conduct, or a law, rule, regulation, or other standard of conduct, it shall, in writing, state its findings of fact and submit a report to the House. A copy of the report shall be sent to the respondent and the complainant and shall be published in the House Journal.

b. Penalty. With respect to any violation with which a Member or officer of the House is charged in a count that the select committee has voted as proved, the select committee may recommend to the House that the Member or officer be fined, censured, reprimanded, placed on probation, or expelled, as appropriate, or may recommend such other lesser penalty as may be appropriate.

(f) PROPOSED RECOMMENDED ORDER.

(1) Referee. When a hearing is conducted by referee, as provided in subsection (i), the referee shall prepare a proposed recommended order and file it, together with the record of the hearing, with the select committee. Copies of the proposed recommended order shall be served on all parties.

(2) Proposed Recommended Order. The proposed recommended order will contain the time and place of the hearing, appearances entered at the hearing, issues, and proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law.

(3) Exceptions. The respondent and the independent counsel may file written exceptions with the select committee in response to a referee's recommended order. Exceptions shall be filed within 20 days after service of the recommended order unless such time is extended by the referee or the Chair of the select committee.

(4) Recommended Order. The select committee shall deliberate and render a recommended order pursuant to the provisions of subsection (e).

(g) CONSENT DECREE. At any stage of the proceedings, the respondent and the select committee may agree to a consent decree. The consent decree shall state findings of fact and shall be published in the House Journal. The consent decree shall contain such penalty as may be appropriate. If the House accepts the consent decree, the complaint pursuant to these proceedings shall be resolved. If the House does not accept the consent decree, the proceedings before the select committee shall resume.

(h) CONFIDENTIALITY. Any material provided to the House in response to a complaint filed under this Rule that is confidential under applicable law shall remain confidential and shall not be disclosed except as authorized by applicable law. Except as otherwise provided in this section, a complaint and the records relating to a complaint shall be available for public inspection upon the dismissal of a complaint by the Chair of the Committee on Rules, Ethics, & Elections, a determination as to probable cause or informal resolution of a complaint by a Special Master or Probable Cause Panel, or the receipt by the Speaker of a request in writing from the respondent that the complaint and other records relating to the complaint be made public records.

(i) REFEREE. The Select Committee on Standards of Official Conduct may, in its discretion and with the approval of the Speaker, employ a referee to preside over the proceedings, to hear testimony, and to make findings of fact and recommendations to the select committee concerning the disposition of complaints.

(j) INDEPENDENT COUNSEL. The Select Committee on Standards of Official Conduct is authorized to retain and compensate counsel not regularly employed by the House, as authorized by the Speaker.

(k) ATTORNEY'S FEES. When a Probable Cause Panel or a Special Master finds that probable cause does not exist or the select committee finds that the respondent has not violated any of the provisions of the House Code of Conduct or a law, rule, regulation, or other standard of conduct, the panel or Special Master or the select committee may recommend to the Speaker that the reasonable attorney's fees and costs incurred by the respondent be paid by the House. Payment of such reasonable fees and costs shall be subject to the approval of the Speaker.

(l) ELIGIBILITY; SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE. If any allegation under this Rule involves the conduct or activities of the Speaker, the duties of the Speaker pursuant to this Rule shall be transferred to the Speaker pro tempore.

(m) COLLATERAL ACTIONS.

(1) Criminal Actions. Any criminal complaints relating to Members shall be governed by these Rules.

(2) Commissions or Quasi-Judicial Agencies with Concurrent Jurisdiction. If a complaint against a Member or an officer of the House is filed with a commission or quasi-judicial agency with concurrent jurisdiction, the Chair of the Committee on Rules, Ethics, & Elections, a Probable Cause Panel or a Special Master, and the Select Committee on Standards of Official Conduct shall have the discretion to refrain from processing a similar complaint until such commission or quasi-judicial agency has completed its review of the matter. If such a complaint is filed initially with the Chair of the Committee on Rules, Ethics, & Elections and subsequently filed with a commission or quasi-judicial agency with concurrent jurisdiction, the Chair of the Committee on Rules, Ethics, & Elections, the panel or Special Master, and the select committee shall have the discretion to suspend their proceedings until all such commissions and agencies have completed their review of the matter.

(n) EX PARTE COMMUNICATIONS.

(1) A Special Master or a member of a Probable Cause Panel or of a Select Committee on Standards of Official Conduct shall not initiate or consider any ex parte communication relative to the merits of a pending complaint proceeding by:

a. Any person engaged in prosecution or advocacy in connection with the matter; or

b. A party to the proceeding or any person who, directly or indirectly, would have a substantial interest in the action of the panel, Special Master, or select committee, or authorized representatives or counsel thereof.

(2) Except when acting in official capacity as a Special Master or as a member of a panel or select committee, a Special Master or a member of a Probable Cause Panel or of a Select Committee on Standards of Official Conduct shall not comment upon or discuss with any other person the matters that occasioned the appointment of the Special Master, panel, or select committee during the pendency of proceedings held pursuant to this Rule before the Special Master, panel, or select committee. This section shall not apply to communications initiated or considered by the Special Master or the Chair of the panel or select committee relating to a settlement pursuant to sub-paragraph (c)(2)a.3. or to a consent decree authorized pursuant to subsection (g).

(o) TIME LIMITATIONS.

(1) On or after the effective date of these Rules, all sworn complaints alleging violation of the House Code of Conduct, including any violation of law or of the Rules and regulations of the House, shall be filed with the Committee on Rules, Ethics, & Elections within 2 years after the alleged violation.

(2) A violation of the House Code of Conduct is committed when every element of the Rule has occurred and time starts to run on the day after the violation occurred.

(3) The applicable period of limitation is tolled on the day a sworn complaint against the Member or officer is filed with the Committee on Rules, Ethics, & Elections. If it can be concluded from the face of the complaint that the applicable period of limitation has run, the allegations shall not be considered a complaint for the purpose of requiring action by the Chair of the Committee on Rules, Ethics, & Elections. The complaint and all material related thereto shall remain confidential.

16.3—Penalties for Violations

Separately from any prosecutions or penalties otherwise provided by law, any Member determined to have violated the foregoing requirements of these Rules shall be fined, censured, reprimanded, placed on probation, or expelled, or have such other lesser penalty imposed as may be appropriate. Such determination and disciplinary action shall be taken by a two-thirds vote of the House, except that expulsions shall require two-thirds vote of the membership, upon recommendation of the select committee so designated under Rule 16.2.

Part Three—Complaints Against Lobbyists

16.4—Lobbyists

(a) OBLIGATIONS OF A LOBBYIST.

(1) A lobbyist shall supply facts, information, and opinions of principals to legislators from the point of view that the lobbyist openly declares. A lobbyist shall not offer or propose anything that may reasonably be construed to improperly influence the official act, decision, or vote of a legislator, nor shall a lobbyist attempt to improperly influence the selection of officers or employees of the House. A lobbyist, by personal example and admonition to colleagues, shall maintain the honor of the legislative process by the integrity of the lobbyist's relationship with legislators as well as with the principals whom the lobbyist represents.

(2) A lobbyist shall not knowingly and willfully falsify, conceal, or cover up, by any trick, scheme, or device, a material fact or make any false, fictitious, or fraudulent statement or representation, or make or use any writing or document knowing the same to contain any false, fictitious, or fraudulent statements or entry.

(3) No registered lobbyist shall be permitted upon the floor of the House while it is in session.

(b) ADVISORY OPINIONS; COMPILATION THEREOF. A lobbyist, when in doubt about the applicability and interpretation of subsection (a) in a particular context, shall submit in writing the facts for an advisory opinion to the Speaker, who shall either refer the issue to the House general counsel for an advisory opinion or refer the issue to a committee designated by the Speaker to have responsibility for the ethical conduct of lobbyists and may appear in person before such committee. The House general counsel or this committee shall render advisory opinions to any lobbyist who seeks advice as to whether the facts in a particular case would constitute a violation of such Rule by a lobbyist. Such opinion, until amended or revoked, shall be binding in any subsequent complaint concerning the lobbyist who sought the opinion and acted on it in good faith, unless material facts were omitted or misstated in the request for advisory opinion. Upon request of the lobbyist or any Member, the committee designated by the Speaker to have responsibility for the ethical conduct of lobbyists may revise any advisory opinion issued by the House general counsel or may revise any advisory opinion issued by the general counsel of the Office of Legislative Services under Joint Rule 1.7. The House general counsel or committee shall make sufficient deletions to prevent disclosing the identity of persons in the decisions or opinions. All advisory opinions of the House general counsel or this committee shall be numbered, dated, and published in an annual publication of the House. The Clerk shall keep a compilation of all advisory opinions of the House general counsel or committee designated by the Speaker to have responsibility for the ethical conduct of lobbyists.

16.5—Complaints of Violations Relating to Lobbyists; Procedure

(a) FILING OF COMPLAINTS. The Chair of the Committee on Rules, Ethics, & Elections shall receive and initially review allegations of violations of the Rules of the House, Joint Rule 1, or violations of a law, rule, or other standard of conduct by a lobbyist.

(1) Review of Complaints. The Chair of the Committee on Rules, Ethics, & Elections shall review each complaint submitted to the Committee on Rules, Ethics, & Elections relating to the conduct of a lobbyist.

(2) Complaints.

a. A complaint shall be in writing and under oath, setting forth in simple, concise statements the following:

1. The name and legal address of the party filing the complaint (complainant);

2. The name and address of the lobbyist (respondent) alleged to be in violation of the Rules of the House, Joint Rule 1, or a law, rule, or other standard of conduct;

3. The nature of the alleged violation based upon the personal knowledge of the complainant, including, if possible, the specific section of the Rules of the House, Joint Rule 1, or law, rule, or other standard of conduct alleged to have been violated; and

4. The facts alleged to give rise to the violation.

b. All documents in the possession of the complainant that are relevant to, and in support of, the allegations shall be attached to the complaint.

(3) Processing Complaint and Preliminary Findings.

a. Upon the filing of a complaint, the Chair shall, within 5 working days, notify the lobbyist against whom the complaint has been filed and give such person a copy of the complaint. Within 20 days, the Chair shall take the necessary actions as provided in subparagraphs b.-g.

b. The Chair shall examine each complaint for jurisdiction and for compliance with paragraph (a)(2).

c. If the Chair determines that a complaint does not comply with such Rule, the complaint shall be returned to the complainant with a general statement that the complaint is not in compliance with such Rule and with a copy of the Rule. A complainant may resubmit a complaint, provided such complaint is resubmitted prior to the expiration of the time limitation set forth in subsection (m).

d. If the Chair determines that the verified complaint does not allege facts sufficient to constitute a violation of any of the provisions of the Rules of the House, Joint Rule 1, or a law, rule, or other standard of conduct, the Chair shall dismiss the complaint and notify the complainant and the respondent of such action.

e. If the Chair determines that the complaint is outside the jurisdiction of the House, the Chair shall dismiss the complaint and notify the complainant and the respondent of such action.

f. If the Chair determines that a violation is inadvertent, technical, or otherwise of a de minimis nature, the Chair may attempt to correct or prevent such a violation by informal means.

g. If the Chair determines that such a complaint does allege facts sufficient to constitute a violation of any of the provisions of the Rules of the House, Joint Rule 1, or a law, rule, or other standard of conduct, and that the complaint is not de minimis in nature, the Chair shall transmit a copy of the complaint to the Speaker and, in writing, request the appointment of a Probable Cause Panel or Special Master regarding the complaint. A copy of the letter shall be provided to the complainant and the respondent.

(4) Withdrawal of Complaints. A complaint may be withdrawn at any time.

(b) PROBABLE CAUSE PANEL OR SPECIAL MASTER.

(1) Creation. Whenever the Speaker receives a copy of a complaint and request made pursuant to subsection (a), the Speaker shall, within 20 days, either appoint a Probable Cause Panel (the panel) consisting of an odd number of members or appoint a Special Master. If the Speaker appoints a Probable Cause Panel, the Speaker shall also appoint one member of the panel as its Chair. The Speaker may appoint up to two additional persons who are not Members of the House to serve as nonvoting, public members of a Probable Cause Panel.

(2) Powers and Duties. The members of the panel or the Special Master shall have the following powers and duties:

a. Investigate complaints and make appropriate findings of fact promptly regarding allegations of improper conduct sufficient to establish probable cause of violation of the Rules of the House, Joint Rule 1, or a law, rule, or other standard of conduct;

b. Based upon the investigation by the Special Master or the panel, make and report findings of probable cause to the Speaker and to the House as it relates to the complaint that occasioned the appointment of the Probable Cause Panel or the Special Master;

c. Recommend to the Committee on Rules, Ethics, & Elections such additional Rules or regulations as the Probable Cause Panel or the Special Master shall determine are necessary or desirable to ensure proper standards of conduct by lobbyists; and

d. Adopt rules of procedure as appropriate to its needs.

(3) Quorum. A quorum of a Probable Cause Panel, when appointed, shall consist of a majority of the members of the panel. All action by a Probable Cause Panel shall require the concurrence of a majority of the full panel.

(4) Term. A Probable Cause Panel or Special Master, as appropriate, shall serve until the complaint that occasioned the appointment of the panel or the Special Master has been dismissed or until a finding of probable cause has been transmitted to the Speaker.

(c) PRELIMINARY INVESTIGATION AND PROBABLE CAUSE FINDING.

(1) Preliminary Investigation.

a. The Probable Cause Panel or the Special Master shall provide the respondent an opportunity to present to the panel, the Special Master, or staff of the panel, orally or in writing, a statement addressing the allegations.

b. The panel, Special Master, or the staff of the panel may interview witnesses and examine documents and other evidentiary matters.

c. The panel or Special Master may order the testimony of witnesses to be taken under oath, in which event the oath may be administered by the Chair or any other member of the panel, by the Special Master, or by any person authorized by law to administer oaths.

d. The panel or Special Master may require, by subpoena issued pursuant to these Rules or otherwise, the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of such books, records, correspondence, memoranda, papers, documents, and other items as it deems necessary to the conduct of the inquiry.

(2) Probable Cause Finding.

a. The panel, by a recorded vote of a majority of the full panel, or the Special Master, as appropriate, shall determine whether there is probable cause to conclude that a violation within the jurisdiction of the panel or the Special Master has occurred.

b. If the panel or Special Master, as appropriate, finds that probable cause does not exist, the panel or Special Master shall dismiss the complaint and notify the complainant and the respondent of its determination.

c. If the panel or Special Master, as appropriate, determines that probable cause exists to believe that a violation occurred but that the violation, if proven, is neither of a de minimis nature nor sufficiently serious to justify the imposition of a penalty pursuant to Rule 16.6, the panel or Special Master may recommend an appropriate, lesser penalty or may resolve the complaint informally. If the respondent agrees, a summary of the panel's or Special Master's conclusions, as appropriate, shall be published in the House Journal and the penalty agreed upon shall be imposed. If the panel or Special Master is unable to satisfactorily settle the complaint, the complaint shall be subject to a full evidentiary hearing before the Select Committee on Lobbyist Conduct pursuant to subsection (d).

d. If the panel or Special Master determines that probable cause exists to believe that a violation occurred and that, if proven, would be sufficiently serious to justify imposition of a penalty pursuant to Rule 16.6, the panel or Special Master shall cause to be transmitted to the respondent a Statement of Alleged Violation. The statement shall be divided into counts, and each count shall be related to a separate violation and shall contain a plain and concise statement of the alleged facts of such violation, including a reference to the provision of the Rules of the House, Joint Rule 1, or law, rule, or other standard of conduct alleged to have been violated. A copy of the statement shall also be transmitted to the Speaker.

(d) HEARING.

(1) Select Committee on Lobbyist Conduct. Upon receipt by the Speaker of a Statement of Alleged Violation, the Speaker shall appoint, within 20 days, a Select Committee on Lobbyist Conduct (the select committee) to hold hearings regarding the statement and make a recommendation for disciplinary action to the full House.

(2) Hearing. A hearing regarding a violation charged in a Statement of Alleged Violation shall be held promptly to receive evidence upon which to base findings of fact and recommendations, if any, to the House respecting such violation. The hearing before the select committee shall be subject to Rule 7.18.

a. Chair. The Chair of the select committee or other member presiding at a hearing shall rule upon any question of admissibility of testimony or evidence presented to the select committee. Rulings shall be final unless reversed or modified by a majority vote of the members of the select committee. If the select committee appoints a referee pursuant to subsection (i), the referee shall make all evidentiary rulings.

b. Referee. The select committee shall serve as referee for all proceedings under these Rules, unless the select committee retains an independent referee pursuant to subsection (i).

c. Prosecutor. The select committee's staff shall serve as prosecutor in all proceedings conducted under these Rules, unless the select committee retains independent counsel pursuant to subsection (j).

d. Respondent's Rights. The respondent shall have the right to be represented by legal counsel, to call witnesses, to introduce exhibits, and to cross-examine opposing witnesses. The respondent or respondent's counsel shall be permitted to take the deposition of the complainant in accordance with sub-subparagraph (d)(3)a.3.

e. Complainant's Rights. The complainant is not a party to any part of the complaint process or these proceedings. The complainant has no standing to challenge these Rules or procedures and has no right to appeal. The complainant may submit a list of witnesses or questions for the select committee's consideration to assist in its preparation for the hearing.

(3) Procedures.

a. Procedure and Evidence.

1. Procedure. The select committee may adopt rules of procedure as appropriate to its needs.

2. Evidence. Irrelevant, immaterial, or unduly repetitious evidence shall be excluded, but all other evidence of a type commonly relied upon by reasonably prudent persons in the conduct of their affairs shall be admissible, whether or not such evidence would be admissible in a trial in the courts of Florida. However, hearsay evidence may not be used unless same would be admissible under the Florida Rules of Evidence and it shall not be sufficient in itself to support a factual finding unless it would be admissible over objection in civil actions.

3. Discovery. Discovery may be permitted upon motion, which shall state the reason therefor. Discovery shall be in accordance with the Florida Rules of Civil Procedure, but may be limited in time, scope, and method by the Chair or the referee.

4. Testimony. The select committee shall order the testimony of witnesses to be taken under oath, in which event the oath may be administered by the Chair or a member of the select committee, by any referee appointed pursuant to subsection (i), or by any person authorized by law to administer oaths.

5. Subpoenas. The select committee may require, by subpoena issued pursuant to these Rules or otherwise, the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of such books, records, correspondence, memoranda, papers, documents, and other items as it deems necessary to the conduct of the inquiry.

b. Order of Hearing. The order of the full hearing before the select committee or the referee shall be as follows:

1. The Chair or the referee shall open the hearing by stating the select committee's authority to conduct the hearing, the purpose of the hearing, and its scope.

2. Testimony from witnesses and other evidence pertinent to the subject of the hearing shall be received in the following order, whenever possible: witnesses and other evidence offered by the select committee's staff or the independent counsel, witnesses and other evidence offered by the respondent, and rebuttal witnesses. The select committee may call witnesses at any time during the proceedings.

3. Witnesses at the hearing shall be examined first by the select committee's staff or the independent counsel. The respondent or the respondent's counsel may then cross-examine the witnesses. The members of the select committee may then question the witnesses. Redirect and recross may be permitted in the Chair's or the referee's discretion. With respect to witnesses offered by the respondent, a witness shall be examined first by the respondent or the respondent's counsel, and then may be cross-examined by the select committee's staff or the independent counsel. Members of the select committee may then question the witness. Redirect and recross may be permitted in the Chair's or the referee's discretion. Participation by the select committee at the hearing stage is at the sole discretion of the select committee and is not mandatory.

(4) Burden of Proof. At the hearing, the burden of proof rests on the select committee's staff or the appointed independent counsel to establish the facts alleged by clear and convincing evidence with respect to each count.

(e) COMMITTEE RECOMMENDED ORDER.

(1) Committee Deliberations. As soon as practicable, the select committee shall consider each count contained in a Statement of Alleged Violation. A count shall not be proven unless at least a majority of the select committee votes for a motion that the count has been proved. A count that is not proved shall be considered as dismissed by the select committee.

(2) Dismissal of Complaint. After the hearing, the select committee shall, in writing, state its findings of fact. If the select committee finds that the respondent has not violated any of the provisions of the Rules of the House, Joint Rule 1, or a law, rule, or other standard of conduct, it shall order the action dismissed and shall notify the respondent and the complainant of such action.

(3) Recommended Order.

a. Recommended Order. If the select committee finds that the respondent has violated any of the provisions of the Rules of the House, Joint Rule 1, or a law, rule, or other standard of conduct, it shall, in writing, state its findings of fact and submit a report to the House. A copy of the report shall be sent to the respondent and the complainant and shall be published in the House Journal.

b. Penalty. With respect to any violation with which a lobbyist is charged in a count that the select committee has voted as proved, the select committee may recommend to the House that the lobbyist be censured, reprimanded, or prohibited from lobbying for all or any part of the legislative biennium during which the violation occurred, or such other penalty as may be appropriate.

(f) PROPOSED RECOMMENDED ORDER.

(1) Referee. When a hearing is conducted by referee, as provided in subsection (i), the referee shall prepare a proposed recommended order and file it, together with the record of the hearing, with the select committee. Copies of the proposed recommended order shall be served on all parties.

(2) Proposed Recommended Order. The proposed recommended order shall contain the time and place of the hearing, appearances entered at the hearing, issues, and proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law.

(3) Exceptions. The respondent and the independent counsel may file written exceptions with the select committee in response to a referee's recommended order. Exceptions shall be filed within 20 days after service of the recommended order unless such time is extended by the referee or the Chair of the select committee.

(4) Recommended Order. The select committee shall deliberate and render a recommended order pursuant to the provisions of subsection (e).

(g) CONSENT DECREE. At any stage of the proceedings, the respondent and the select committee may agree to a consent decree. The consent decree shall state findings of fact and shall be published in the House Journal. The consent decree shall contain such penalty as may be appropriate. If the House accepts the consent decree, the complaint pursuant to these proceedings shall be resolved. If the House does not accept the consent decree, the proceedings before the select committee shall resume.

(h) CONFIDENTIALITY. Any material provided to the House in response to a complaint filed under this Rule that is confidential under applicable law shall remain confidential and shall not be disclosed except as authorized by applicable law. Except as otherwise provided in this section, a complaint and the records relating to a complaint shall be available for public inspection upon the dismissal of a complaint by the Chair of the Committee on Rules, Ethics, & Elections, a determination as to probable cause or informal resolution of a complaint by a Special Master or Probable Cause Panel, or the receipt by the Speaker of a request in writing from the respondent that the complaint and other records relating to the complaint be made public records.

(i) REFEREE. The Select Committee on Lobbyist Conduct may, in its discretion and with the approval of the Speaker, employ a referee to preside over the proceedings, to hear testimony, and to make findings of fact and recommendations to the select committee concerning the disposition of complaints.

(j) INDEPENDENT COUNSEL. The Select Committee on Lobbyist Conduct is authorized to retain and compensate counsel not regularly employed by the House, as authorized by the Speaker.

(k) ELIGIBILITY; SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE. If any allegation under this Rule involves the conduct or activities of the Speaker, the duties of the Speaker pursuant to this Rule shall be transferred to the Speaker pro tempore.

(l) EX PARTE COMMUNICATIONS.

(1) A Special Master or a member of a Probable Cause Panel or of a Select Committee on Lobbyist Conduct shall not initiate or consider any ex parte communication relative to the merits of a pending complaint proceeding by:

a. Any person engaged in prosecution or advocacy in connection with the matter; or

b. A party to the proceeding or any person who, directly or indirectly, would have a substantial interest in the action of the panel, Special Master or select committee, or authorized representatives or counsel thereof.

(2) Except when acting in official capacity as a Special Master or as a member of a panel or select committee, a Special Master or a member of a Probable Cause Panel or of a Select Committee on Lobbyist Conduct shall not comment upon or discuss with any other person the matters that occasioned the appointment of the Special Master, panel, or select committee during the pendency of proceedings held pursuant to this Rule before the Special Master, panel, or select committee. This section shall not apply to communications initiated or considered by the Special Master or the Chair of the panel or select committee relating to a settlement pursuant to subparagraph (c)(2)c. or to a consent decree authorized pursuant to subsection (g).

(m) TIME LIMITATIONS.

(1) On or after the effective date of these Rules, all sworn complaints alleging violation of the Rules of the House, Joint Rule 1, or any law, rule, or other standard of conduct by a lobbyist shall be filed with the Committee on Rules, Ethics, & Elections within 2 years after the alleged violation.

(2) A violation of the Rules of the House is committed when every element of the Rule has occurred, and time starts to run on the day after the violation occurred.

(3) The applicable period of limitation is tolled on the day a sworn complaint against the lobbyist is filed with the Committee on Rules, Ethics, & Elections. If it can be concluded from the face of the complaint that the applicable period of limitation has run, the allegations shall not be considered a complaint for the purpose of requiring action by the Chair of the Committee on Rules, Ethics, & Elections. The complaint and all material related thereto shall remain confidential.

16.6—Penalties for Violations

Separately from any prosecutions or penalties otherwise provided by law, any person determined to have violated the foregoing requirements of these Rules, any provision in Joint Rule 1 adopted by the House and the Senate, or any law, rule, or other standard of conduct by a lobbyist may be reprimanded, censured, prohibited from lobbying for all or any part of the legislative biennium during which the violation occurred, or have such other penalty imposed as may be appropriate. Such determination shall be made by a majority of the House, upon recommendation of the select committee so designated under Rule 16.5.

—was read the first time by title. On motion by Rep. Byrd, the resolution was read the second time by title.

Remarks Relating to HR 1-Org.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Byrd has moved the adoption of the resolution and is recognized to explain the resolution. Give Representative Byrd your attention, this will be your first vote on a set of Rules in the Florida House. Representative Byrd, you're recognized.

Rep Byrd: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Members, I know the hour is late but this is an important resolution. The Organization Session we are to accomplish two things: the joyous selection of our officers and to organize. In order to organize we must adopt our Rules.

The Florida Constitution vests in the House exclusive right to adopt our Rules, free from the interference of another branch of government.

The Rules provide the structure for the backbone for our deliberations, for us to transact business. The Rules provide for the majority's ability to act. The Rules provide for the minority's ability to be heard, and the Rules provide for the public, the right to know.

Learn the Rules. But, as you learn the Rules, learn the Rules in the context of these three purposes of the Rules: the right of the majority to act, the right of the minority to be heard, and the right of the public to know.

Knowledge of the Rules will serve you well. I would admonish you first, new Members, to read the sections of the Rules that deal with Members, that deal with your responsibility toward our legislative staff and that deal with the rules of ethics contained in the Rules. And ask questions. Do not be timid. There's no question that should not be asked if it's on your mind. Seek out the Clerk. Seek out distinguished former Members. Seek out veteran Chairs. Seek out the Speaker. Seek out the staff. There's no question that you should not ask.

The Rules on your desk have been reorganized, at the Speaker's direction, to be simpler, better stated, better organized. They're renumbered to be completely logical.

And I would like to thank the Clerk and his staff, the Rules Committee staff, especially the Minority staff, and the Minority Leader. We've made every effort to accommodate the suggestions of the minority, and I think that we've shown a real bipartisan effort there.

The committee structure, which is probably your most immediate concern in the work that you'll do over the next several months, has been condensed. We have seven councils; five of those are substantive, one is procedural, and one is fiscal. There will be 34 standing committees.

You may want to make a few notes here. The bill filing deadline—we now have one, historically we did not. But we do have a bill filing deadline that will be at noon on the 14th day of the Regular Session. Note: The local bill deadline is the first day of the Regular Session. There will be a bill limit, and there is a change from the last two years. The bill limit will be a set limit of six bills. Exempt from that are local bills, trust fund bills, public records bills, but contained in that are memorials that you may file.

The structure of the committees being under a council; each council will now have more activities. Each council, under the new Rules, will be able to take up bills, amend bills, pass out to council substitute bills, and so there will be action on bills at the council level.

The Special Order Calendars will be set by the Procedural Council. And the Rules have been condensed to eliminate all the multiple Local Calendars, Consent Calendars, the different types of calendars. We've reduced that to simply say that the Procedural Council will set the calendar. Of course this will be done with the advice and counsel of the Minority Leader.

And we have adopted a Rule that committees will not be able to adopt proposed committee bills without permission from the Speaker.

So we're focusing the Members; you have six bills you can file and the Rules have been streamlined.

I would like to yield, Mr. Speaker.

The last part of the Rules that you'll probably want to really read as we approach session, is a new Rule that allows the Committee on Rules to propose a special rule for a particular bill rather than applying the general rules to every bill. Then in the case of a particular bill, the Rules Committee may want to set a special rule.

And I'll yield to, if I could, Mr. Speaker, to Representative Goodlette to explain the special rule procedure.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Goodlette, a year ago I got a little concerned about you when you discarded that wonderful curly hairdo you had. [laughter] This week I have seen you walking around with the new Rules and the Federalist Papers. You're back in good graces. You are recognized.

Rep. Goodlette: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Members, I'll be short, or brief, maybe. [laughter]

A special rule must be approved by the council, that is the Procedural & Redistricting Council, by two-thirds vote before it is submitted to the House for approval. A special rule shall prescribe the time and the conditions of debate and the amendment of the bill. A special rule, and this is important, may include conditions for limiting or prohibiting any amendments. A special rule may designate two floor managers; one on the proponent side, another on the opponent side. Both of which, the floor managers that is, must be approved by the Majority and the Minority Leaders.

There are a few additional changes that Representative Byrd has alluded to. But, by and large, Members, these Rules combined the strengths of the past rules with some exciting, I believe, new changes. As you study this resolution more carefully, you will see that the work that went into creating the Rules for an effective, for a fair, and most importantly, for an open process, in the Florida House of Representatives.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Speaker Feeney: Thank you. Representatives Byrd and Goodlette having explained the Rules, we will move into questions and debate. Would anybody like to be recognized for questions? Would anybody like to be recognized in debate? Representative Wiles, for debate on the Rules. You are recognized.

Rep. Wiles: Thank you, Mr. Speaker and let me offer first my congratulations to you on your new post.

Mr. Speaker and Members, I rise for two purposes this morning. The first is to recognize and acknowledge the cooperative atmosphere of you and the leadership team in the Florida House of Representatives and working with the Minority Party on developing these Rules. As it has been explained to you here briefly, as you review some of the Rules, you'll know and note, some of the older Members, that there have been several changes that we feel in the Minority Party, in the Democratic Party, are important. But the second reason for my brief remarks today is to point out one area that remains a concern. And I would direct your attention to your Rules on your desk to page 76, item number 12.5(b). That particular part of the Rules deals with an amendment to the general appropriations bill and it requires a two-thirds vote. This is not a change from the previous Rules, but has been a part of the House Rules since they were significantly overhauled in 1996. The Members, those of you who are new, and certainly all of those who have returned, will recognize that the appropriations bill is the only bill that our Florida's Constitution requires that we pass during an entire session. It certainly is one of the most significant bills that we deal with. Because out of five to six hundred bills, this one is probably the most significant in making policy decisions and in appropriating sufficient funds in order to realize the priorities that we have established here in the Florida House in cooperation with others. So it is with some concern, in fact great concern, among those of us here that we have a rule that in light of the significance of this bill, still requires such a significant majority. And we would ask that we continue to work together in some form of compromise to work on this issue as well as several others. But in the spirit of bipartisan cooperation, let me tell you that I do not anticipate anything other than a unanimous vote on the House Rules today, at least from the House Democratic side.

Mr. Speaker and Members, I appreciate your patience as we explain some of the concerns that we have and look forward to voting on the Rules in just a few minutes.

Speaker Feeney: Thank you Representative Wiles. Is there further debate? There being none, Representative Byrd or Goodlette, would you like to close?

Rep. Byrd: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. These Rules will be the backbone and the structure as we move forward and I can assure you that the Speaker, Representative Wiles, Representative Frankel, we are committed to having a unanimous vote on the appropriations bill and that we will use every effort and that is the Speaker's desire to move forward into the next millennium in a real bipartisan spirit. So, without further ado, I would move the bill.

On motion by Rep. Byrd, HR 1-Org. was adopted. The vote was:

Messages from the Senate

The Honorable Tom Feeney, Speaker

I am directed to inform the House of Representatives that the Senate has adopted SCR 2-Org. and requests the concurrence of the House.

Faye W. Blanton, Secretary

By Senator Rossin—

SCR 2-Org.—A concurrent resolution repealing present Joint Rule 7 and creating Joint Rules 7 and 8 of the Joint Rules of the Legislature.

Be It Resolved by the Senate of the State of Florida, the House of Representatives Concurring:

That present Joint Rule 7 of the Joint Rules of the Legislature is repealed and Joint Rules 7 and 8 of the Joint Rules of the Legislature are created to read:

JOINT RULES JOINT RULE SEVEN JOINT LEGISLATIVE BUDGET COMMISSION

7.1—General Responsibilities

(1) The commission, as provided in chapter 216, Florida Statutes, shall receive and review notices of budget and personnel actions and proposed actions taken or to be taken by the executive and judicial branches and shall approve or disapprove such actions.

(2) Through the chairman, the commission shall advise the Governor and the Chief Justice of actions or proposed actions that exceed delegated authority or that are contrary to legislative policy and intent.

(3) To the extent possible, the commission shall inform members of the Legislature of budget amendments requested by the executive or judicial branches.

(4) The commission shall consult with the Comptroller and the Executive Office of the Governor on matters as required by chapter 216, Florida Statutes.

(5) The President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives may jointly assign other responsibilities to the commission in addition to those assigned by law.

(6) The commission shall develop policies and procedures necessary to carry out its assigned responsibilities.

(7) The commission, with the approval of the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives, may appoint subcommittees as necessary to facilitate its work.

7.2—Zero-based Budgeting

(1) The commission shall develop a schedule and apply zero-based budgeting principles in reviewing the budget of each state agency at least once every 8 years.

(2) By July 1 of each year, the commission shall issue instructions to the agencies whose budgets are to be reviewed prior to the next legislative session.

(3) The commission shall provide these reviews to the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives by December 31 of the year in which they are completed.

(4) By February 1, 2001, the commission shall provide to the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives a schedule for completing zero-based budgeting reviews of all state agencies prior to December 31, 2008.

7.3—Organizational Structure

(1) The commission shall be composed of seven members of the Senate appointed by the President of the Senate and seven members of the House of Representatives appointed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives. The appointees shall include the chairman of the Fiscal Responsibility Council in the House of Representatives and the chairman of the Committee on Appropriations in the Senate.

(2) The members of the commission shall elect a chairman and a vice chairman. In even-numbered years, a Senator shall be chairman and a House member vice chairman. In odd-numbered years, a House member shall be chairman and a Senator vice chairman.

(3) The commission shall meet at least quarterly and more frequently at the direction of the presiding officers or the chairman. Meetings may be conducted through teleconferences or other electronic means.

(4) A quorum shall consist of a majority of the commission members of each house plus one additional member of the commission.

(5) Action by the commission shall require a majority vote of the members present of each house.

(6) The commission shall be jointly staffed by the appropriations committees of both houses. During even-numbered years, the Senate shall provide the lead staff. During odd-numbered years, the House of Representatives shall provide the lead staff.

7.4—Notice of Commission Meetings

Not less than 7 days prior to a meeting of the commission, a notice of the meeting, stating the items to be considered, date, time, and place, shall be filed with the Secretary of the Senate when the chairman is a Senator or with the Clerk of the House of Representatives when the chairman is a Representative. The Secretary or the Clerk shall distribute notice to the Legislature and the public, consistent with the rules and policies of their respective houses.

JOINT RULE EIGHT

CONTINUING EXISTENCE OF JOINT RULES

8.1—Continuing Existence of Joint Rules

All joint rules adopted by concurrent resolution, and amendments thereto, shall continue in effect from session to session or Legislature to Legislature until repealed by concurrent resolution.

—was read the first time by title. On motion by Rep. Byrd, the rules were waived and the concurrent resolution was read the second time by title.

Rep. Byrd moved the adoption of the concurrent resolution.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Byrd having moved the adoption of the resolution, he's recognized to explain it.

Rep. Byrd: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Members, this is a concurrent resolution with the Senate that will create a Joint Rule 7 regarding the Joint Legislative Budget Commission. And, Mr. Speaker, I would ask to yield to Representative Lacasa for further explanation.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Lacasa, you're recognized for further explanation.

Rep. Lacasa: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, I appreciate that. This rule implements the changes made in law during the last session regarding the budget amendments by state agencies that actually increases substantially the democratic process associated with post-session amendments to the budget.

It provides for the appointment of a Joint Legislative Budget Commission which assumes the responsibilities formerly held by the Administration Commission of the Cabinet, for approving or disapproving interim budget amendments. The commission is made up of seven Members of the House appointed by the Speaker and seven members of the Senate appointed by the President. It's also responsible for developing a schedule for, and implementing, zero-based budgeting for each state agency at least once every eight years, although we plan to do it a lot earlier than that. The commission is to be chaired by the Senate in even-numbered years and by the House in odd-numbered years and will be staffed in alternating years by our respective staffs. All votes of the commission are unit votes, that is, a majority of each side must approve any action.

Speaker Feeney: Thank you. Representative Lacasa having explained the concurrent resolution, are there questions on the resolution?

Representative Greenstein, you are recognized.

Rep. Greenstein: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. First of all I want to congratulate you and I'd also like to thank Representative Frankel and you for letting me sit on the Legislative Budget Commission.

Unlike Representative Goodlette, I'm going to stand tall here and just ask the question. Section 216.77 allows any member to request a revision of any action or proposed action that exceeds delegated authority. The statute requires this provision in the Joint Rules, but it is not included in this proposal. Would the rules and the statute be interpreted to allow a member to make such a request, Representative Lacasa?

Speaker Feeney: Representative Lacasa, for a response.

Rep. Lacasa: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Absolutely, Representative Greenstein. In fact the rules do not limit who can file the objections, they simply state the process for it, so it's open.

The question recurred on the adoption of SCR 2-Org., which was adopted and, under the Rule, immediately certified to the Senate.

Motion

On motion by Rep. Byrd, seconded by Rep. Goodlette, the Clerk was allowed to make technical and clerical changes to the House Rules adopted earlier today.

Select Committee Assignments

In response to the notice of contest received by the Clerk on November 6, 2000, the Speaker announced that he had created, under Rule 7.2, a Select Committee to Review the Charges of a Contested Seat in District 17 and had appointed Reps. Kendrick, Greenstein, Crow, and Ball to serve with Rep. Byrd, Chair.

The committee shall hold a hearing and report its findings and recommendations as soon as reasonably possible in accordance with Rule 1.4(b).

Remarks by the Speaker

Speaker Feeney: I'm going to start by telling you how fun and emotional it was to be nominated for Speaker of the Florida House of Representatives. I should start with my great friend, Mike Fasano. I've got a lot of friends here today. I've got friends that are with me all day long. Sometimes I've got some college buddies, friends who have been with me all night long. But, nobody has been by my side more regularly, 24 hours a day. They say that even Homer nods, but when it comes to his friendship and support of me, Mike Fasano has never nodded for a second. Thank you very much, Michael. [applause] Johnnie Byrd, you've been right there by John Thrasher's side and my side and it's a great comfort to know that you're going to be in that chair, first violin, for the next two years. It will give me the moral support and the confidence I need to go forward and make sure that we do our work on behalf of the people of Florida. I'm glad you're there. Representative Argenziano, you made me emotional as well. I've seen you choked up and I've seen you fired up. I'd rather have you choked up any day of the week. [laughter] Is that right, Speaker Thrasher? [laughter] And finally, Carlos Lacasa. The one bill that we do have to pass every year and the only bill that we have to pass is the appropriations bill. Because of the supreme confidence I have in the wisdom and the patience and the intellect of Carlos Lacasa, I've asked him to make sure we have an appropriations bill that all of us can be proud of in meeting the needs of Floridians. Thank you very much for being here.

I want to recognize all of the dignitaries that are here. Thank you to all the former Speakers, Lieutenant Governor Brantley, Senator Kiser, Leader Mortham, Speaker Thrasher, and my good friend, Senator Connie Mack, and his wife, Priscilla. We're so grateful that you could join us today as well as the Governor and our Cabinet. I would suggest to you that as we enter some difficult philosophical debates that all of us feel passionate about, that we could all take a great lesson from Senator Connie Mack. He is able to deal with the most difficult and contentious of issues in a dispassionate, honorable, and respectful way that gives all Americans, whether they agree with him or not, great confidence in their public servants that are in Washington representing them. If we could emulate Senator Mack as we deal with our most difficult and contentious issues I would be forever proud. Thank you for being here and thank you for your service. [applause]

I sat with Speaker Wetherell the other night. We've got some great Speakers here, but he was the first Speaker that I served under. From T. K. I learned a couple of things; number one, respect for the institution. I'm not sure he was convinced after two years of dealing with me that I had learned anything, let alone respect for the institution. But I assure you, I did. I also got some advice from T. K. the other night—and he's an advisor as these gentlemen are on both sides of the aisle—and we're grateful for your help. I got some advice, and that was to have fun. And that will be some advice I'd give to all 120 Members. This is a difficult process and it's a process where we have to work hard, but while we're at it we can have a great deal of fun. And I hope that you will do as Speaker Wetherell advised.

Under Dan Webster, when I came back to the House in 1996, and Speaker Webster was down here earlier, we did some dramatic things. We changed dramatically the process in the Florida House. For example, we no longer regularly conduct business at 10:00 at night, 12:00 at night, sometimes 2, 3, 4 in the morning. Just one of the many things we were so proud of as Speaker Webster instituted a process that we could do in the daylight and be proud of and answer for. And we were very grateful and I had a great opportunity to serve at the side of Speaker Webster. Under Speaker John Thrasher, he gave me every opportunity to participate, kept me probably more busy than I was able to do sometimes. But, it really was the best thing possible to prepare me for the challenges of the next two years. And under Speaker Thrasher, when we had the first Republican Governor, Senate, and House since Reconstruction, we were able to accomplish some dramatic things that I'm proud of. We have a reduced taxation environment on our families and businesses. We have reduced regulation. I think we have a fairer civil litigation environment. None of that would have happened without your great leadership. Thank you so much for being here. [applause]

And I'm grateful to all the Members and their families who are here today. I'm asked especially by some of the newer Members what it's like to become Speaker of the House. I've travelled this state twice on two political missions: one was in 1994 when I ran with Governor Bush, and the second one was as I ran the last two, three years to meet the people of Florida and to become Speaker of the House. And some of the things I like to tell folks, to show how diverse and incredibly interesting our state is, is that I've had the opportunity, Jerry Maygarden and Melvin, to become a member of the Irish Politicians Club in Pensacola. Thanks Representative Sorensen and the Mayor of Key West, I'm an honorary Conch. I have a key to Jacksonville and several other cities. One of my favorite stories, Representative Kilmer, is about attending the Possum Festival. Now, for those of you in Northwest Florida, you know all about the Possum Festival. But unless you've run for statewide office, trust me you don't. And I'll give you all a hint because enough of us former Yankees have been surprised by this one. When you first show up for your first Possum Festival, you are a statewide dignitary, you are shuffled into a line to have your share, believe it or not, of possum. It was only after I had eaten halfway through my plate—Representative Kendrick is laughing over here—only after I had gotten halfway through my plate of possum which would have gone down much better, by the way, with two or three cold beers I'm sure, only after I had got through that plate did I recognize that none of the local folks were eating possum. [laughter] And I went up to, this is a true story, I went up to a gentleman who looked about 72, 74 years old and I asked him if they had eaten before we'd come and why weren't they sharing in the possum. And he said, Representative Feeney, I haven't eaten possum since the Depression. [laughter] Those of you that wander out in pursuit of statewide office, I've given you a hint. I hope you're forever grateful. For you taste possum you will be, trust me. [laughter]

I want to congratulate all of you who are here today and to say that this is a great opportunity to serve you as your Speaker is an incredible understatement. Abraham Lincoln reminded us that "Nearly all men can stand adversity, but if you [really] want to test a man's character, give him power." I want to assure you that I intend to pass that test. I will do my absolute best to honor that trust that you, on behalf of the people and all of the people of Florida, have placed in me today. I also want to say that I fully understand that just as each of us derives what power we have from the people we represent, I derive what little power I have from each of you individually on behalf of those people you represent. I pledge to you that I will use that power only in the best interest of the House of Representatives and ultimately in the interest of the people of the great state of Florida.

And I need to first introduce to you a small group of friends. I've got some friends over here from the Oviedo area, my law partner, Cheryl, and Andy Feeney. It's great to have all of you. Shannon, who also does a great job working in my office, I'm glad that you're here today. You met some of my family. I've got some of my college friends, some of my other friends from the Orlando area, I'm glad to have all of you here. But I want to reintroduce, you know, my most immediate family very quickly. Those of you who have had the chance to meet my wife, Ellen, and she's got a respite from my two boys because they are with the rest of the kids and the first time she's sat down in about four days in Tallahassee. Ellen works as a chemical engineer at Kennedy Space Center. In addition she raises two very rambunctious boys, often with little help from me. My adversaries have pointed out over time that I'm no rocket scientist and that's true, but my wife, Ellen, is. Ellen, I'm so proud to have you here. [applause] Tommy, who led the Pledge of Allegiance today along with a lot of the children of the Members of the House and grandchildren, got his first report card the other day and I was very, very proud and somewhat surprised that he got straight As. He's a good looking young man for those of you who have seen him. And he is lucky to get both his looks and his brains from his mom. And we're grateful for Tommy. Sean, who you may have recognized wandering around, he turned over two plants full of dirt in the Speaker's Office last night. We ejected our first two-year-old from the Speaker's Office, to my knowledge. Sean has curly hair and we're just hopeful—he doesn't have a report card yet—that he gets only his looks and not his brains from my side of the family. But we've got two wonderful boys and we're very proud of them. And for Uncle Ed and Aunt Darlene, mom and dad, my brother-in-law Doug Laman, my sister Jo, my sister Carole, my niece Jenny, and Joshua is upstairs with the kids, and all of my friends, we're really grateful you're here. I should say that my third sister is not here today. She has two very, very brave young boys. Chris, who's 10, just recently underwent his second treatment for cancer. His brother was the donor and we're very proud of him, too. [applause]

And I want to thank Justice Wells here today. He helped make this a very special occasion for us. He has some incredible duties on a year-round basis, but, as you can imagine those duties are especially significant and demanding now and we are grateful. I think all of our new Members will come to be grateful for the fact that he took time to come over and participate in your first swearing in. And, I know I'm grateful as well.

I'd like to welcome another distinguished group of people, 63 brand-new state Representatives. I'm informed, former Representative Bullard, that not only do we have the first male spouse of a former Rep. but I'm informed by Representative Brutus that we have our first Haitian-American Representative. Congratulations. [applause] And only once since our first Legislative Session in 1845 have we had more new Members of the Florida House of Representatives. And some may mourn the loss of experience that accompanies term limits, but I prefer to celebrate the vibrancy and the new ideas that this influx of great new Members will bring. While their term in the Florida House has been limited, their potential for rapid advancement into leadership roles, not just in this House but throughout the state and the country is limitless. I believe deeply it's a great honor to preside over a class that in my view will probably include future Florida Governors, U.S. Senators, Congressmen and women, probably future Speakers of the Florida House, and for those wayward few who head down to the Florida Senate, maybe even a Senate President. We are so excited about the opportunity to participate with our new freshman class. Congratulations. [applause]

We have a substantial advantage over that first Legislature. We've got 57 experienced Members who are here to complement that freshman class. I am confident that this combination of experience and enthusiasm will result in the best two years the Florida Legislature has ever had. We senior Members have an incredible opportunity and obligation to mentor this wonderful new class and demonstrate by example how true leaders can make a difference on behalf of the people of Florida. Our returning Members, along with Speaker pro tem Murman, Representatives Frankel and Wiles, Representative Fasano, the Majority Leader, and my guidance, along with the rest of our returning Members, I think are prepared to meet that incredible task of helping these new Members. We're prepared, we'll be there.

It may surprise you to know, Bill Daniels and Robert King, among others, that I'm not the first Speaker of the Florida House of Representatives from Oviedo. In 1887, George H. Browne from Oviedo took over as Speaker when Speaker Samuel Pasco resigned to take a seat in the United States Senate. Speaker Browne's distinguished service on behalf of Oviedo and the people of Florida lasted only 10 days, which was the time remaining until the end of that Legislative Session. I certainly hope to quickly beat his record of 10 days [laughter] as Speaker from Oviedo. Back in 1887, Speaker Browne dealt with some interesting issues, such as an effort to punish people selling liquor during election time. Speaker Browne also had to call upon Congress to establish better mail service between Hillsborough and Pinellas Counties. I understand we still have some communication problems from time to time between Hillsborough and Pinellas Counties. [laughter] Interestingly enough, in 1887 the Legislature dealt with requiring school boards to make an equal distribution of money. The 1887 Legislature appropriated just a little bit over $400,000 for the entire state budget for Florida. Already many of you already have a couple in mind, a couple of Member projects, that far exceed the total budget in 1887.

And the eyes of the world, whether we like it or not, have been on us the last few days in Florida. As public officials we have an opportunity to lead this great state forward with dignity and show the world that we're not the state that is sometimes portrayed in the evening news. If there are challenges, we tend to them. If there are problems, we fix them. And the solutions normally start right here in the Florida House of Representatives. We are up to the task.

Two weeks ago we were all passionately involved in our campaigns, some of them very contentious and heated, but all of them successful as evidenced by your presence here today. Campaigns and politics are about contrasts and differences. The campaigns are over. We're here to do the people's business. And this is not a Republican House of Representatives. This is not a Democratic House of Representatives. This is the people's house. And every decision we make, if we remember the people we are here to serve and ensure that our decisions reflect their concerns and values, we will have fulfilled that sacred trust that they have placed in us, and we will have done our duty as servants of the public.

I'd like to outline some goals and some principles, very briefly, that may be significant to you if you are interested in councils and the committee assignments. In order to prepare Florida for the new economy, I'd like to outline those five goals that our council structure will reflect. Florida and the world is a changed place since Speaker Browne held the House gavel. We are headed toward a wireless world where information moves at an unimaginable pace. Our economy is now driven by knowledge and technology. It is critical that as we move through the thousands of bills we'll consider over the next two years, we make sure we do everything we can to prepare Florida for this new economy. The United States is uniquely positioned as a leader in the world's digital economy, and Florida is uniquely positioned to lead America. Our demographics make Florida look like what the rest of America will look like decades from now. This gives us a great opportunity to lead the nation into this interesting, fascinating, and challenging future. Florida also has the resources to lead our nation's economic engine as we move into this era. Other states have taken advantage in some cases of the new opportunities with fewer resources than are available to us. It's time that we make sure that we are using all those resources at our disposal, including our wonderful cultural diversity, to help the people of Florida take advantage and enjoy all the benefits we can provide.

The first goal that we're going to set out is a goal of LIFELONG LEARNING.

And it's going to be a council that encompasses much of our education work. Education is the single largest barrier to Florida's dominance of the new economy. George Washington said, "... there is nothing which can better deserve your patronage, than the promotion of Science and Literature. Knowledge is in every country the surest basis of public[k] happiness." Our duty as Representatives is to promote and protect life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. And, a prerequisite to reaching that goal is to provide every Floridian with a quality education. That is also the first step we must take in preparing Florida for this new economy.

We have to continue the innovative education reforms laid out by Governor Bush and [Lieutenant Governor] Brogan, which have begun to revitalize our K-12 education system. We have to ensure every child is given the tools to succeed in today's world, and each child in our public schools is challenged to receive a year's worth of knowledge in a year's worth of time.

We must provide every Floridian with quality, lifelong learning opportunities. The traditional education model where people graduate from high school at 18, go on to some college and graduate by 22 is obsolete. Too many of the students in our colleges and universities are non-traditional, older students seeking a degree to begin a second or a third career. They are single parents going back to get a degree and provide for their children. They may also be students who put their education on hold for one reason or another and now want to complete it and improve their opportunities. For many of these new students, distance learning, among other new technological advantages, will give tomorrow's class the tools to succeed in our dynamic business environment. Their success is what Florida's tax dollars ought to be purchasing. It should no longer be necessary for a student to move to a university town, sit in the same classroom at the same time each day for 13 weeks, to complete a course. A few years ago, the United States Department of Education announced that 50 percent of Americans were functionally illiterate. We all know that we cannot afford to leave one child behind, but we must also make sure that we don't leave any adults behind either. [applause] Thank you.

My mom and dad have been public educators for all of their lives. When I was in middle school my father became, at a local community college, the Assistant Dean of Continuing Education, which meant adult education and lifelong learning. Today, 67-year-old Pa-Pop, when he comes to our house, after he says hello to Tommy and Sean, gets on the Internet so he can communicate with the rest of his grandchildren around the country. And that is an example of lifelong learning. I am proud to be able to name the Lifelong Learning Council after my dad, Tom Feeney, the "real Tom Feeney", he will tell you. [applause]

The way to achieve this goal of lifelong learning is to make sure we have a seamless approach to education in Florida. Our education structure system must recognize the myriad of personal situations affecting students' lives and utilize the incredible new technologies available to make sure every child, every adult, has access to first-rate educational opportunities.

Our second goal is going to be SMARTER GOVERNMENT.

In preparing Florida for the new economy, we must also provide smarter government. Florida's citizens can't afford to allow government to be the sole provider of critical services. That old system fails in accountability and it fails in providing the varied services Floridians, all of us, need and want. Smarter government means we must examine every aspect of how we function, from our personnel systems to our service delivery, and we must demand that all of those systems are functioning in the most efficient manner possible. We must run government as a 21st-century enterprise.

Our government should encourage Floridians to participate in the multitude of new opportunities available, and we must make sure that our state government does not stifle the entrepreneurial spirit, which is the lifeblood of our vibrant economy. We must use all of the tools of technology to ensure that state government doesn't shuffle responsibility through multiple layers of bureaucracy, but looks proactively to solve our citizen's problems and actively seeks their input on issues important to them. In all of our deliberations, we must ensure that government serves the people and not itself.

Our third goal and third council structure will be that for COMPETITIVE COMMERCE.

Government must not treat business as the enemy. Rather it should exalt our businesses throughout the state as our citizens' employers and the economic engine that funds our state services. Critical to our success is to promote an atmosphere of competitive commerce in Florida. We should strive to get rid of any non-competitive environments that occur when special interests take precedence over the public interest. As we look to purge our government of unnecessary laws that promote and preserve anti-competitive advantages, we will go a long way towards enabling new jobs and economic growth for all of our communities. Not only must we ensure a level playing field for business, we must also ensure that government does not unduly burden our businesses. While we were working to get elected, community leaders throughout Florida have been studying this issue and will report to us their conclusions about the way Florida currently responds to the needs and challenges of growth and the structure of our tax system. We will soon be called upon to ensure that our growth management laws properly serve our citizens and that our tax structure is both fair and appropriate to meet the needs of the people of Florida.

Our fourth goal is that of READY INFRASTRUCTURE.

As Florida continues to grow, we must be prepared with the best infrastructure that we can afford and we can build. We are facing massive challenges in providing the basic services upon which all Floridians depend. We can no longer afford to be satisfied with a top-down, one-size-fits-all approach to solving the unique problems our diverse communities are facing. State government should retain the authority to set important statewide priorities, but we should empower local communities to solve their own problems—trusting local people to know what is best in their own counties, their cities, and their neighborhoods. Our ports, our airports, our roads, and our mass transit systems must be world-class to facilitate this new economy.

Our fifth and final goal will be that of HEALTHY COMMUNITIES.

Possibly the greatest challenge we face in the next two years is to ensure that all Floridians are able to live in healthy communities. That means building on Florida's success with the KidCare program to make sure our children have access to preventative health care and immunizations that will allow them to grow and learn and to achieve their full potential as Floridians and as human beings. It also means allowing our seniors to live their retirement years with the dignity and respect that they have earned by their great service to our state and our nation. When it becomes necessary, we must also ensure that community-based care is available, as it both preserves the dignity of our citizens and is cost efficient to our taxpayers. In order to be healthy our communities must also be safe. Crime rates have plummeted, I think in large part to the work of this Florida House, and thanks to the effects of 10-20-Life, tougher minimum sentences, and awareness that Florida will punish and remove from society those who are violent and can't follow society's rules. Therefore, we must continue finding innovative ways to crack down on violent criminals as well as those who prey upon those most vulnerable in our society—our seniors and our children.

Over the next two years, I urge each of you to help us, join us, in these bipartisan and nonpartisan goals:

Improving lifelong learning;

Creating smarter government;

Encouraging competitive commerce;

Providing ready infrastructure; and Promoting healthy communities.

And I promise that in these two years that you will be challenged, you will be challenged repeatedly. You will not always be able to please everyone, but you will be involved in working through the significant issues that face your communities and all of the state of Florida. As you evaluate proposals that you will confront, whether it's a small bill or an amendment or rather it's the biggest package that we send through the House, I would ask you, and I would remind you, to reaffirm, if you would, and the leadership of the Florida House will reaffirm, the five principles that we've used in meeting our goals under Speaker Webster and Speaker Thrasher: Smaller Government, Lower Taxes, More Freedom, Individual Responsibility, and yes, Representative Murman, Empowered Families. Those are the principles that we will use to enact our five goals.

I like to consider myself a man of ideas and ideals. But the fact is that I am guided by certain principles and that I adhere strongly to them hardly makes me afraid of new discussion, new ideas, and different principles and ideals. On the contrary, I really look forward to presiding over a House that's full of new proposals, fresh ideas, spirited debate between honorable men and women in this Chamber, in this House, today.

We have come a long way in recent years toward ensuring that the people's voice is heard in every decision we make, but I believe we can go further. If we hope to retain the trust of the people in Florida, I think it is imperative that we conduct the people's business where the people can participate. It's my goal, therefore, that most of the work of forming and amending legislation will be accomplished in the committees and respective councils, leaving the Chamber floor as a place where we can debate with our great ideas and principles the yeas or nays of individual proposals.

It was Aristotle who reminded us that "We are what we repeatedly do. Excellence, then, is not an act but a habit." As we begin this new day in the Florida House of Representatives, let us make excellence our habit, work together to cast off the burdens of the past and dedicate every decision we make to the health and the prosperity of the people of Florida.

It's been a long session, we're going to have other long sessions. I want to say that I am very grateful for the participation of all the family members, that we really do have a great opportunity to have a lot of fun and do a lot of good these next two years. Thank you, and God bless each and every one of you. [applause]

December 8 through December 12, 2000

of the Eightieth House
since Statehood in 1845

The Journal OF THE House of Representatives

FIRST SPECIAL SESSION—"A" of 2000-2002

Friday, December 8, 2000

Journal of the House of Representatives for a Special Session of the 80th House since Statehood in 1845, convened by Proclamation of the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives and held at the Capitol in the City of Tallahassee in the State of Florida on Friday, December 8, 2000.

Pursuant to the following proclamation, the House was called to order by the Honorable Tom Feeny, Speaker, at 12:00 noon.

Prayer

The following prayer was offered by Dr. Jerry Garrard, Senior Pastor of Celebration Baptist Church of Tallahassee:

Let's bow our heads together for prayer. King David prayed in the presence of all the officials of Israel when he said, "Yours, O Lord, is the greatness and the power and the glory and the majesty and the splendor, for everything in heaven and in earth is Yours. Yours, O Lord, is the kingdom; You are exalted as head over all. Wealth and honor come from You; You are the ruler of all things. In Your hands are strength and power to exalt and to give strength to all. Now, our God we give You thanks, and we praise Your glorious name." (1 Chronicles 29:11-13) We give thanks to You, O God, for this day of life. We give thanks to You, O God, for the strength that comes from You to reason and to make decisions. We give thanks to You for our nation, for our state, and for our leaders.

We acknowledge, today, the sacrifices being made by each person here, the families that support them in their endeavor to serve the citizens of Florida. Grant them today words and deeds of courtesy, honor, grace, peace, and kindness.

Make Your presence felt, Your way known, and Your will done. Give clarity of thought, wisdom to discern, and resolution to follow the way of truth.

I pray in His name Who is the Way, the Truth, and the Life. Amen.

The following proclamation was read:

THE FLORIDA LEGISLATURE JOINT PROCLAMATION

TO THE HONORABLE MEMBERS OF THE FLORIDA SENATE AND THE FLORIDA HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES:

WHEREAS, it is of critical importance to the citizens of the State of Florida that they be represented by electors appointed to the electoral college and voting on December 18, 2000, and

WHEREAS, the election of electors for President and Vice President of the United States on November 7, 2000, has led to numerous recounts and challenges, and it is increasingly less likely that all legal challenges will have reached finality prior to December 12, 2000, as is necessary to make those election results conclusive when Congress counts the electoral votes, and

WHEREAS, actions by the courts may have rewritten provisions of the Florida Election Code and policies, procedures, or practices of local and state election officials after November 7, 2000, creating serious doubt as to whether the conduct of certain aspects of the recounting and reporting of the 2000 election for electors for President and Vice President of the United States were conducted in accordance with the laws, policies, procedures, and practices in existence prior to November 7, 2000, as required by Title 3, Section 5 of the United States Code, which could jeopardize the conclusiveness of Florida's electors and possibly result in all of the voters of the State of Florida being disenfranchised, and

WHEREAS, there remains serious doubt as to the validity and conclusiveness of any appointment of electors arising out of an election process which failed to fully comply with the laws, practices, and procedures in existence prior to November 7, 2000, and

WHEREAS, Article II, Section 1 of the United States Constitution provides that the Legislature of Florida shall provide for the manner in which electors shall be appointed to the electoral college to represent the voters of the State of Florida, and

WHEREAS, Title 3, Section 2 of the United States Code provides that in the event that an election for presidential electors fails to produce a choice of electors, the electors may be appointed on a subsequent day in such a manner as the legislature of such state may direct, and

WHEREAS, failure of the Florida Legislature to prepare for the possibility that the results of the 2000 General Election may still be in doubt on December 12, 2000, may disenfranchise and deny the citizens of Florida any voice in the selection of the 43rd President of the United States of America,

NOW, THEREFORE, We, John McKay, President of The Florida Senate, and Tom Feeney, Speaker of the Florida House of Representatives, by virtue of the authority vested in us by Article III, Section 3(c), Florida Constitution, and Section 11.011, Florida Statutes, do hereby proclaim:

1. That the Legislature of the State of Florida is convened in Special Session pursuant to Article III, Section 3(c), Florida Constitution, and Section 11.011, Florida Statutes, at the Capitol in Tallahassee, Florida, at 12:00 noon on Friday, the 8th day of December 2000, for a period of 11 days ending on Monday, the 18th day of December, 2000.

2. That the Legislature is convened for the sole and exclusive purpose of exercising its power by resolving or enacting legislative measures:

Providing for the manner in which electors shall be appointed if the 2000 General Election fails to produce a final, constitutional choice of electors, conclusive under Title 3, Section 5, of the United States Code, in accordance with the Constitution of the United States and with statutes enacted, and policies, procedures, and practices in existence, prior to November 7, 2000.

Providing for the appointment of electors for President and Vice President of the United States.

Providing for any other matter necessary to fulfill the duty of the Florida Legislature under Article II, Section 1 of the United States Constitution or federal laws incidental thereto.

Making a final determination of any controversy or contest concerning the appointment of all or any of Florida's Electors for President and Vice President of the United States, appointed by the Legislature.

KATHERINE HARRIS
Secretary of State

Pledge

The Members, led by the Honorable Joe Negron, pledged allegiance to the Flag.

House Physician

The Speaker presented the Honorable Frank Farkas, who served as Doctor of the Day.

Special Rule for House Concurrent Resolution 1-A

LEGISLATION

The House will take up for consideration a concurrent resolution, HCR 1-A, relating to the appointment of presidential electors. The Special Rule governs all aspects of the legislative process including the amendatory process and debate of HCR 1-A. HCR 1-A will be referred only to the Select Committee on Electoral Certification, Accuracy & Fairness. HCR 1-A will be brought before the House on Tuesday, December 12, 2000, as the first item under the order of business of Special Orders.

FLOOR LEADERS

Rep. Byrd for the proponents

Rep. Frankel for the opponents

AMENDMENTS

A structured rule will be in effect. Except for technical amendments offered in the name of the Procedural & Redistricting Council and all amendments shall be filed before 8:30 a.m. on Tuesday, December 12, 2000.

DEBATE

Questions, answers, amendments and debate on final passage of the concurrent resolution shall be limited to five hours if amendments are offered by the proponents or opponents, with time to be equally divided between the proponents and the opponents. If no amendments are offered by the proponents or opponents, questions, answers and debate shall be limited to four hours, with time to be equally divided.

The proponent's floor leader will control the first thirty minutes of debate and the opponent's floor leader will control the next thirty minutes. To the extent possible, the Speaker will alternately recognize the floor leaders after that point. The last ten minutes of each side's time will be for the purpose of closing remarks. The opponent's floor leader will make the first closing remarks, and the proponent's floor leader will make the final closing remarks.

All amendments, questions and answers will count against the time of the floor leader who yields to the questioner.

No Member may be recognized for any purpose unless a floor leader yields time to that Member. All recognitions will go through the Speaker.

Each floor leader may designate up to two Members who will be allowed to speak from the well.

All comments made on second reading shall be spread upon the Journal.

Any Member will be allowed to provide written remarks setting forth their comments on HCR 1-A. Remarks may not exceed 300 words, and will be spread upon the Journal of the House if received electronically by the Clerk before 8 p.m. on the day of the debate.

Rep. Frankel moved that the rules be waived and the House adopt the Special Rule for HCR 1-A.

Rep. Goodlette briefly explained the Special Rule.

The question recurred on the motion by Rep. Frankel to waive the rules and adopt the Special Rule for HCR 1-A, which was agreed to by the required two-thirds vote.

Remarks Relating to Special Session

Speaker Feeney: I'd like to take a moment—and then invite Representative Frankel, if she wishes, to take a moment—and from my perspective address you very quickly about why we're here and the way we ought to conduct ourselves. I would ask that you allow me to impose on the House and say a few words to the people—not just of Florida who may be watching, but people all across the United States, and, in fact, the rest of the world—as to why I believe it was my duty to call this special session.

To the American people I must say that the only reason we are here today is because of our duty; it's outlined in the United States Constitution. Article II, Section 1, states, and I quote, "Each State shall appoint, in such Manner as the Legislature thereof may direct, a Number of Electors. . . ." The United States Constitution, in my view, gives the state Legislature and the Legislature alone, the solemn duty of establishing the manner in which Presidential Electors will be chosen. This Legislature honored its duty when we put in place a system of choosing Electors that, for a combination of reasons, has to this date failed to produce a timely and universally accepted outcome.

Florida's House's duty required a special session, in my view, at this time. Any concern that anyone has about what is to take place here in the next several days, I would suggest to them it's not a concern with the role of the Florida Legislature, but really a concern with the structure of government that our founding fathers established. Responsibility that the Constitution has placed on us alone requires that we do our best to carry out that responsibility in a way that we can be a source of pride for all Floridians and Americans.

And ladies and gentlemen, the first vote that I cast in a special session, as a new Member of the House, was a claims bill having to do with some issues of citrus canker. And I appreciate that, for especially our 63 new Members, this is a little tougher vote than my first vote on a citrus canker claims bill.

But regardless of the import of any given issue, we conduct ourselves in a very proud and respectful way in the Florida House. And as the people watch us we can be a great example about our republican form of government.

Members, this is not the first time the House of Representatives has convened to address issues of great historical importance, issues that every Member cares about deeply, issues that carry with them a certain emotional content. That's why I wanted to take a moment and call your attention to Rule 2.3 of the House Rules. The Rule begins, and I quote, "The Speaker shall preserve order and decorum in the Chamber of the House." I'd like the general public watching us to know that this is our duty and I take it very seriously and very personally. I want them to understand that the Members can disagree, sometimes vehemently, without being disagreeable. Now more than ever the preservation of order and decorum, in the Chamber of this great institution of the Florida House, is absolutely essential to our ability to fulfill our responsibilities under both the Florida Constitution and the United States Constitution.

I love and respect this great institution of the Florida House. When I do my job here, upholding the integrity of this great institution is more important than who wins or loses on any given issue or debate. I hope our new 63 Members will grow and come to revere this House and the people we serve the way that I do. The Rule continues, in quotes, "The Speaker shall see that the Members conduct themselves in a civil manner in the Chamber of the House in accordance with accepted standards of parliamentary conduct. . . ." And I'm confident that all of our Members, no matter what the circumstances, will conduct themselves in a civil manner. I'm confident that our respective partisan leaders, Representative Frankel, Representative Fasano who, by the way, in front of the world cameras, have done a remarkable job of advocating for very different positions in a very civil, polite, and respectful manner. But I'm confident they will help me in assuring that all of our debate will be conducted in this Chamber in an atmosphere of respect for each of our fellow Members. It is my goal that the commentators around the country, who often complain about the decline of civility in American politics, will be able to point to the forthcoming debates that we have here in the House as examples of how people can disagree deeply and yet be civil and respectful to one another. Leader Fasano, Leader Frankel, while passionately advocating their position, have done a tremendous job outside this Chamber and I know all of us can do a great job inside the Chamber.

Mason's Manual of Legislative Procedure, which we rely on as an authority in construction and application of our Rules, sets out good guidelines for our behavior; and I quote Mason's, "Members must not be permitted by their conduct to deny to others that which they may claim for themselves. It is the duty of all members to conduct themselves so as not to obstruct the like rights of other members. Freedom of speech involves obedience to all the rules of debate." And so it may be that our civil behavior in this legislative debate is a great golden rule for the country to watch.

Churchill in referring to his country's legislature said, in quote, "The object of Parliament is to substitute argument for fisticuffs." We're not going to have any fisticuffs here. We may have a great debate and I hope we do. You'll be judged by your colleagues in the House, not just this week, but perhaps for the rest of your stay, not so much based on which side of an argument you take, but the demeanor in which you press your case, and the statesmanship and character you display in expressing your views.

Let me add that the powers of the Speaker to preserve decorum inside the House also include the power, if necessary, to clear galleries in the case of disturbance or disorderly conduct. Just as decorum requires the cooperation of the Members, so it also requires the cooperation of the public that may wish to view us. We've never—quite before—found ourselves in quite this exact situation. Today, literally much of the world is watching and history is watching us as well. We have before us duties under the Constitutions of our state and nation. And Members, we also have a duty and a grand opportunity to be an example of representative government at it's best. Thank you, and we'll probably refer to that again before the debate on Tuesday.

Representative Frankel, do you have a comment? You're recognized for a comment.

Rep. Frankel: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Well, you know, I have a vigorous disagreement with the necessity and the legality of this Legislature appointing Electors. And getting along doesn't mean going along, but I agree with you, we do need to get along. We're not here to burn bridges, but to represent our constituents in a thoughtful and conscientious manner.

I want to thank you, Mr. Speaker, for the courtesy that you and your leadership has extended to our leadership in getting to this point, in this very difficult issue. And I want to echo you, and I want to just say to the Members, we are going to have some very, very passionate differences of opinion on this floor. But I want to remind you that when all the cameras leave us, we are going to remain behind to work together for the citizens of Florida. And what I want to say to you is this—that when this is over, I know that we will rise above the partisanship and work for our constituents. And, say to all of you, that while the world may be watching us, I know that each one of us inside ourselves are going to do the best that we can. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Correction of the Journal

The Journal of November 21, 2000, Organization Session, was corrected and approved as corrected.

Introduction and Reference

By Representatives Cantens, Byrd, Goodlette, Diaz-Balart, Fasano, Rubio, and Maygarden—

HCR 1-A—A concurrent resolution providing for the manner of appointing electors for President and Vice President of the United States; providing for the appointment of such electors; providing for the filling of vacancies.

WHEREAS, an election was held in this state on November 7, 2000, for the purpose of selecting electors from Florida to cast the state's vote for President and Vice President of the United States of America on December 18, 2000, and

WHEREAS, Article II, Section 1 of the Constitution of the United States provides, in pertinent part, that "Each State shall appoint, in such Manner as the Legislature thereof may direct, a Number of Electors, equal to the whole Number of Senators and Representatives to which the State may be entitled in the Congress," and

WHEREAS, Section 5 of Title 3 of the United States Code provides:

"If any State shall have provided, by laws enacted prior to the day fixed for the appointment of the electors, for its final determination of any controversy or contest concerning the appointment of all or any of the electors of such State, by judicial or other methods or procedures, and such determination shall have been made at least six days before the time fixed for the meeting of the electors, such determination made pursuant to such law so existing on said day, and made at least six days prior to said time of meeting of the electors, shall be conclusive, and shall govern in the counting of the electoral votes as provided in the Constitution, and as hereinafter regulated, so far as the ascertainment of the electors appointed by such State is concerned," and

WHEREAS, the names of the electors who were appointed following the Florida Secretary of State's certification on November 26, 2000, were forwarded to Congress by the Governor of the State of Florida with a certificate of ascertainment pursuant to a timetable and scheme dictated by the November 21, 2000, decision of the Florida Supreme Court, and that decision has been vacated by the December 4, 2000, ruling of the Supreme Court of the United States, thus increasing the uncertainty and confusion regarding the validity of the appointment of those electors, and

WHEREAS, the electors who were appointed on November 26, 2000, are the same electors as those who would have been appointed pursuant to a certification made on November 17, 2000, had the Florida Secretary of State been allowed to do so, and

WHEREAS, it appears that there exists a reasonable risk that the Congress of the United States, in exercising its counting powers pursuant to the Twelfth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States and Title 3 of the United States Code over the votes cast for President and Vice President by the members of the Electoral College, may determine that the election held in this state for the purpose of choosing electors has failed to make a choice on the day prescribed by law because contests and controversies have arisen concerning that election, and that the Congress may decide that those contests and controversies either were not finally determined by December 12, 2000, or that such determination was not pursuant to pre-existing election law or was not in compliance with Article II, Section 1 of the United States Constitution, and that accordingly Congress may not count the votes of the 25 electors already certified and sent to the Congress by the Governor of the State of Florida, and

WHEREAS, the Florida Legislature wishes to fulfill its constitutional obligation to ensure that Florida's six million voters are not disenfranchised and that its 25 electoral votes will be counted by Congress, and

WHEREAS, Section 2 of Title 3 of the United States Code provides that "Whenever any State has held an election for the purpose of choosing electors, and has failed to make a choice on the day prescribed by law, the electors may be appointed on a subsequent day in such a manner as the legislature of such State may direct," NOW, THEREFORE,

Be It Resolved by the House of Representatives of the State of Florida, the Senate Concurring:

That the Florida Legislature finds that the election for electors for President and Vice President of the United States of America held on November 7, 2000, ultimately failed to make a choice of such electors.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the manner that the Florida Legislature directs that electors for President and Vice President of the United States of America be appointed in the year 2000 is by appointment by the Florida Legislature.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Florida Legislature hereby appoints as the 25 electors for President and Vice President of the United States of America, such number being equal to the whole number of Senators and Representatives to which the State of Florida is entitled in the Congress, the following named persons: Charles W. Kane, Maria De La Milera, Sandra M. Faulkner, H. Gary Morse, Armando Codina, Carole Jean Jordan, Tom Slade, Marsha Nippert, Robert L. Woody, John Thrasher, Mel Martinez, Feliciano M. Foyo, Al Hoffman, Alfred S. Austin, Thomas C. Feeney, III, John M. McKay, Cynthia M. Handley, Darryl K. Sharpton, Dr. Adam W. Herbert, Berta J. Moralejo, Jeanne Barber Godwin, Deborah L. Brooks, Dr. Dorsey C. Miller, Glenda E. Hood, and Dawn Guzzetta.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that, if for any reason an elector appointed by this resolution is unable to serve because of death, incapacity, or otherwise, the Governor of the State of Florida may appoint a person to fill such vacancy who is a citizen of the State of Florida, who was registered and otherwise eligible to vote in the general election held on November 7, 2000, and who is not prohibited from serving as an elector under Article II, Section 1 of the United States Constitution.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that each elector for President and Vice President of the United States appointed by this resolution shall, before 10 a.m. on December 18, 2000, give notice to the Governor of the State of Florida that such elector is in Tallahassee and ready to perform the duties of an elector for President and Vice President of the United States and, if it shall be found that one or more electors appointed pursuant to this concurrent resolution are absent, the electors present, subject to the provisions of section 103.061, Florida Statutes, shall elect by ballot, in the presence of the Governor, a person or persons to fill such vacancy or vacancies as may have occurred through the nonattendance of the elector.

Point of Order

Rep. Kosmas raised a point of order that HCR 1-A did not fall within the scope of a concurrent resolution as defined by Rule 5.10. She argued that the rule limited the concurrent resolution form to procedural matters. HCR 1-A, she said, could not reasonably be construed as presenting a procedural matter but was instead of such magnitude that it was more in the nature of a law. In support of her position, she cited 46(a)-1 from Rulings & Opinions (2000 Edition).

Several Members spoke to the point. Speaker Feeney then recognized Rep. Goodlette, Chair of the Committee on Rules, Ethics & Elections, for a recommendation. Rep. Goodlette argued that Rule 5.10 permits a concurrent resolution to deal with procedural matters and that elections are procedural matters in that no new laws are being created when elections occur. He further noted that the Rule expressly permits the use of concurrent resolutions for ratification of amendments to the United States Constitution and that the Florida Legislature would be exercising the same power when it undertakes to name Electors for President and Vice President of the United States. Finally, he noted that since Rule 5.10 provides for the use of a concurrent resolution as a vehicle for other procedural legislative matters and since the election of Electors is a procedural matter, the point should not be well taken.

Speaker Feeney affirmed the reasoning of Rep. Goodlette in his recommendation to the Chair. He further noted "selecting Electors is not a matter of statutory law" and that the bill included a resolving, not an enacting clause, which it would were it proposing new law. The Speaker further noted that the use of a concurrent resolution for ratification of amendments to the United States Constitution goes well beyond a question internal to the Legislature.

For these reasons, as well as the contemplation by the Special Rule of the use of a concurrent resolution, the Speaker ruled the point not well taken.

June 6, 2000

Dear Secretary Harris:

By the authority vested in me as Governor of Florida, under the provisions of Article III, Section 8, of the Constitution of Florida, I do hereby withhold my approval and transmit to you with my objections, Committee Substitute for Committee Substitute for House Bill 113, enacted during the 102nd Session of the Legislature, since statehood in 1845, during the Regular Session of 2000, and entitled:

An act relating to suspension of a driver's license.

Current Florida law mandates the administrative suspension of driving licenses for individuals arrested for DUI violations with a blood alcohol level of .08 or higher. This administrative suspension may be appealed to a hearing officer and Florida's circuit courts if an individual believes the suspension occurred in error or was unwarranted. Committee Substitute for Committee Substitute for House Bill 113 was intended to provide for the automatic administrative reinstatement of driver's licenses for individuals who are acquitted at trial of a criminal violation of Florida's DUI laws. According to data provided by the Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles, this would have benefited approximately 436 Floridians last year whose licenses may have been wrongly suspended.

Unfortunately, the specific language in this legislation sweeps too broadly. It provides for automatic driver's license reinstatement in cases that have been "dismissed" or "nolle prossed," often without consideration of the facts and circumstances of each case, or the individual's actual innocence or guilt. Last year, this would have meant that an additional 4061 individuals would have had their driver's license automatically reinstated - at least some of whom were, as a matter of fact, driving with an illegal blood alcohol level. This unintended consequence has led Mothers Against Drunk Driving and the Florida Police Chiefs Association, among others, to oppose this legislation.

My staff has spoken with the bill sponsors, and they indicated that their original intention in supporting the legislation was simply to provide automatic administrative relief to individuals who have been acquitted by a court of law - not to provide relief to drivers whose criminal cases have been dismissed or "nolle prossed" because of legal technicalities. Furthermore, for drivers who feel they have wrongly had their driver's licenses suspended, or have had their cases dismissed or "nolle prossed," there is an existing, available remedy - the administrative hearing process.

Nevertheless, I intend to work with the Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles as well as the Legislature to ensure consideration of a bill that is narrowly tailored to reflect the original intent of Committee Substitute for Committee Substitute for House Bill 113's sponsors.

Sincerely,
Jeb Bush

Dear Secretary Harris:

By the authority vested in me as Governor of Florida, under the provisions of Article III, Section 8, of the Constitution of Florida, I do hereby withhold my approval and transmit to you with my objections, House Bill 2179, enacted during the 102nd Session of the Legislature, since statehood in 1845, during the Regular Session of 2000, and entitled:

An act relating to school district revenue

House Bill 2179 limits the ability of counties to levy school impact fees. First, counties that currently impose school impact fees are prohibited from levying any school impact fee in excess of 37.5% of the county's fees adopted prior to May 1, 1999. Essentially, this caps current school impact fees. Second, House Bill 2179 provides that state funds may be appropriated to counties currently levying school impact fees to replace local school impact fee revenue lost as a result of 37.5% cap. Should the State of Florida appropriate an amount less than 62.5% of the school impact fee revenue collected in 1999-2000, a county may increase the impact fee levy to offset the revenue loss incurred. In short, counties levying school impact fees will be "made whole" under this bill through a state appropriation. Finally, in its application, House Bill 2179 prohibits the 52 counties that currently do not levy school impact fees from ever creating a new school impact fee.

In its effort to accomplish these reforms, House Bill 2179 unfortunately creates an inequality among counties and Floridians in the distribution of state funds for school construction. The General Appropriations Act for 2000-2001 includes Line Item 87A, a $50,000,000 appropriation to implement House Bill 2179. This state funding is provided to a limited number of counties to offset the loss of school impact fee revenue. I have decided to exercise my line item veto authority to strike this appropriation, as well as the bill that would implement this line item. My objections are as follows:

As a result of the $50 million appropriation and the legislation, the State of Florida would be creating a new state-financed school construction program whereby the only eligible counties to receive funding would be those levying school impact fees in 1999-2000. For example, Dade, Broward, and Palm Beach Counties would all receive additional state funding for school construction through this appropriation while counties such as Pinellas and Duval would not.

While I agree that we need to meet the demands of a growing population and provide more schools for our students, additional state funding for these needs, if it is to be provided, must be provided in a rational and equitable manner. Increases in funding for facilities should be based on a set of criteria, which should include such factors as need and local effort. But this legislation does not take into account the actual need for school construction and does not apply objective criteria. Its only requirement is that a county has levied a school impact fee. If a county charges a school impact fee, it will receive state funding. The higher the impact fee, the more state money it will receive. If a county has not levied a school impact fee, it will receive no additional state dollars regardless of growth in student population. In many cases, this process may correlate with need, but not necessarily. Fifty-two counties will be locked out of this new program altogether, and nothing in the bill accounts for changing patterns of population growth and school need. Therein lies the unfairness.

Ultimately, this bill is less about fee reductions, and more about the creation of a new state-financed school construction program. The latter may be a worthy concept, but the course of action I take today is done for the sake of equity. It protects the interests of all Florida taxpayers, not just those in select counties. I encourage the Legislature to continue its work in easing governmental burdens on home purchasers, but to also ensure that where state tax dollars are utilized to promote school construction, they are utilized in a manner that is equitable and fair. If necessary, we should look to make adjustments to the current school facilities funding programs, including the allocation of Public Education Capital Outlay (PECO) funds. Nevertheless, the distribution of state expenditures for school construction should be grounded on something more than a particular local revenue collecting practice.

Sincerely,
Jeb Bush, Governor

May 30, 2000

Dear Secretary Harris:

By the authority vested in me as Governor of Florida, under the provisions of Article III, Section 8, of the Constitution of the State of Florida, I do hereby withhold my approval of portions of House Bill 2145, enacted during the 102nd Session of the Legislature, since Statehood in 1845, during the Regular Session of 2000, and entitled:

An act making appropriations; providing moneys for the annual period beginning July 1, 2000, and ending June 30, 2001, to pay salaries, and other expenses, capital outlay - buildings, and other improvements, and for other specified purposes of the various agencies of State government; providing an effective date.

Florida once again has been blessed by another year of economic growth and productivity. There is much to celebrate. Seizing the opportunity to fund critical state priorities, the Legislature has provided well for our children, teachers, disabled citizens, and the environment. It has done so without diminishing the importance of other issues vital to the well-being of Florida.

Education in particular has never experienced greater levels of funding. With the budget, our K-12 system will enjoy an $868 million increase in potential spending and the largest increase in the Florida Education Finance Program (7.8%) in the history of the state. Additionally, low performing schools will receive $34 million in additional assistance as well as $12.2 million (up to $3,500 per teacher) in salary incentives for teachers in those schools trying to improve student achievement. There is also enough money in this education budget to provide every teacher in this state worthy of special recognition with a substantial raise. As a result of our A+ reforms and the tremendous outpouring of resources into our schools, Florida's public education system is fast becoming a model for the rest of the nation.

This year, I am especially pleased by the Legislature's funding for the environment, and more specifically, the Everglades. The historic $105 million down payment we have provided to restore the River of Grass will blossom into more than $2 billion over the next 10 years. The state's commitment to restoration is unparalleled in our nation's history. Still, the Everglades are not the only beneficiary of our environmental efforts. Lake Okeechobee as well as other important watersheds across Florida will benefit from more than $144 million in resources for water projects. This marks a 176% increase in spending over last year to protect our watersheds.

And finally, the $300 million we appropriate for Florida Forever's first year of implementation will continue our state's acquisition and protection of environmentally sensitive lands. Indeed, friends of our natural treasures would be hard pressed to identify a better year for environmental funding.

Yet spending on education and the environment has not come at the expense of our other important state priorities. In particular, the Legislature has continued for a second year its historic commitment to our children and individuals with disabilities. This year, with the help of the Lawton Chiles Endowment Fund, we will increase spending on child welfare programs by $131 million, a two-year increase of 58%. This will enable Florida to move to a community-based care model of child welfare, where the focus for our children can truly be on prevention rather than just crisis management. An additional $96.1 million in health benefits will also be extended to our children through the Kidcare program. By the end of next year, it is anticipated that more than 280,000 low and moderate-income children in Florida will be receiving comprehensive health benefits from the state.

This also marks the second year of record funding for individuals with disabilities in Florida. Coupled with last year's increase, the $130 million in additional spending for nearly 24,000 Floridians with disabilities amounts to a two-year 51% increase. For the first time ever, Florida will have funded developmental services in a manner that is sufficient to serve the entire waiting list of persons with developmental disabilities. Other funding items in this year's budget that will improve the well-being of Floridians include $10 million in community grants to address health disparities among ethnic and racial minorities, a 52% increase or $55 million in services for seniors to enable them to age in place, and $11.5 million to begin the construction of Florida's fourth and fifth veteran nursing homes. The investment we make today on our most vulnerable will ultimately salvage lives that might otherwise be diminished or lost.

And finally, our Legislature deserves much credit for passing a major transportation package that advances over $4 billion of road and bridge improvements over a 10-year period. Mobility 2000 will help to relieve urban congestion, expand hurricane evacuation routes, and provide corridors of commerce for our thriving economy.

Again, there is much to celebrate. The good we will do this year is a direct result of Florida's hard working individuals and families. Our prosperity is their prosperity. It is through their increased contribution to government that we have redoubled our efforts to fund these priorities. But as we all know, the blessings of prosperity can often give way to euphoria of spending. The taxpayers of Florida have been generous in sharing their earnings and their good fortune, but prosperity is no excuse for government to embark on a risky spending spree. And we cannot justify a government that grows at a pace that exceeds our thriving economy or personal income. Outstripping a fast-paced economy is a recipe for unnecessary big government. We must show temperance and discipline. We must also show vision. Indicators and economic forecasts suggest that we may not see a year like this for some time to come. We must plan, prepare and save.

In this budget there are fine examples of how the Legislature and Administration worked together to honor the principles of limited government. This year, we called for a budget process that is taxpayer-friendly, policy-based, accountable and priority-driven. We presented Florida's first e-budget so that ordinary Floridians could better access information on how their tax dollars are spent. We also made the budget a far easier document to understand. For the first time ever, budget items now have objective criteria measures. The budget also shows what we will spend on whole programs rather than just layers of categories, upon components, upon line items. All of these measures will have enhanced accountability.

We also gave millions of dollars back to Florida's families and businesses, over $400 million in tax relief. The largest portion of this tax cut will go to help our state's seniors and savers. The insidious intangibles tax rate will be rolled back for a second year in a row, freeing up $279 million in personal investment by those who have saved for security. All told, and when combined with last year's record tax relief, these tax cuts will amount to a four-year savings of $5 billion.

And finally, through the hard work of Legislative members and staff, we created new and objective processes for reviewing local projects. These processes provided the means for not-for-profits, advocacy groups and other worthy ventures to compete fairly for state assistance. For instance, after multiple meetings and hours of work with House and Senate, we developed a Water Advisory Panel and a Juvenile Justice Review Panel to implement criteria for water clean up and programs that assist our troubled youths. The panels consisted not only of Legislators but the citizens of Florida, providing lay people with the opportunity to serve as trustees of our tax dollars. Criteria were also developed in consultation with legislators and staff for health and human services contracts, requiring projects to demonstrate local matches of 25% and proof of a statewide benefit or participation in a statewide program. Other objective processes were created, including processes for agricultural promotion projects, energy efficiency projects and local emergency management projects. Coupled with processes that had previously existed for local parks, education facilities, cultural and historic preservation, roads and mass transit, Florida now has more than a dozen means for reviewing local projects through objective criteria.

Still, we have much work to do to make these processes truly accountable to the taxpayers.

While the processes worked well this year, they also revealed flaws that could ultimately bankrupt the state. The criteria, for example, did not prove rigorous enough in some cases. Out of the 266 applications for water projects, only 19 were rejected for their failure to comply with criteria. This not only reflects the great need for addressing Florida's water needs, but also a failure of the criteria to prioritize those needs. In addition, the out-year costs of many projects are crippling. If in 2001-2002 the state continues its commitment to the $144 million worth of water projects it financed this year, while adding additional new water projects, taxpayers will see water funding escalate uncontrollably and irresponsibly. During the period between now and the next legislative session, we will be working with leadership in the House and Senate to address these particular issues.

In addition, local projects that receive funding from the state should have real performance measures. In implementing this year's budget, we will require that all contracts with providers, not-for-profits and other local groups have performance measures as allowed by law and that those covenants are met in the expenditure of funds. The Board of Regents will require major new construction projects to have outside funding in place before state funds are spent. Next year, during the budget process, we will closely review the requests from groups and programs that return for additional state funding. In the end, those projects that fulfilled their contractual expectations will be eligible for continued funding, those that have not will not.

And finally, despite the good we accomplish in this budget and despite the positive efforts to inject more objectivity and accountability into the process, government is still poised to grow too much. While personal income has accelerated at an admirable clip of 6.8%, the Legislature has presented to me a budget that grows general revenue government spending at a rate of 7.7%. The temptation to spend our surpluses was no doubt hard to resist, and many local projects continued to evade objective review. But as I have said on innumerable occasions, government cannot grow faster than our ability to pay for it. As a trustee of the people's tax dollars, I have an obligation to act.

In total, my line-item vetoes represent $313 million. While many of these projects support worthy, benevolent, or productive causes, they also represent funding that did not go through an approved process; were not part of a policy priority for state funding and were directed to a specific group; were funded from inappropriate funding sources; or were for under-performing vendors. There are a number of education facilities in the budget that did not go through the facility review processes of the Board of Regents or Community Colleges. There are dozens of local park projects that did not go through the statutory process for parks funding. Criteria set for juvenile justice and health and human services contracts did not include the state constructing buildings for providers, yet there are several such construction projects in the budget. In addition, we vetoed fixed capital outlay projects that inappropriately provide state funds for private nonprofit organizations and providers. There are museums that requested money beyond that approved through the Secretary of State's processes for cultural and historical museums. And there are random local public safety programs that go beyond the scope of our state agencies.

With the knowledge that our prosperity has limits, I am grateful that these vetoed dollars will now go into the state's reserve funds to meet the future needs of Florida. As a result, our reserves will reach its highest level ever, at $2.9 billion, including almost $900 million in the Budget Stabilization Fund. With these vetoes, government spending will more closely approximate the growth of personal income. In order to reach this goal, I have decided to line item veto the following items:

Funds in Specific Appropriation 2646C are provided to assist in the creation of new children's museums for the acquisition, renovation, or new construction of facilities and furniture, fixtures, and equipment. The Department shall implement a competitive grant process with an initial application deadline by January 31, 2001. Eligible projects shall be selected by March 31, 2001. Grants of up to $150,000 per project shall be awarded on a 1:1 match basis. These grants are only for the creation of new children's museums in communities where no such museum currently exists. For this purpose, a children's museum targets 2-12 years olds for 90% of its educational events, displays, and other activities.

General Revenue funds provided in Specific Appropriation 2646C shall be transferred to the Children's Museum Facility Account within the Cultural Institutions Trust Fund. Private sector contributions to match the state appropriation shall also be deposited to the account and made available for grant awards. State funding shall be matched by private sector contributions on a 1:1 match basis prior to any expenditure from the account. The Department may process a budget amendment under the legislative notice and review requirements set forth in s. 216.177, Florida Statutes, to request budget authority for any private sector contributions. Applications for future projects shall be accepted annually as long as funds remain available in the trust fund account.”

The Journal OF THE House of Representatives

Number 2

Tuesday, December 12, 2000

The House was called to order by the Speaker at 10:00 a.m.

Prayer

The following prayer was offered by the Reverend John F. Green of Bethel AME Church of Tallahassee, upon invitation of Rep. Richardson:

O God, we gather this hour in Your name to deliberate the affairs affecting the great people of this great state of Florida. We pray that You would open our minds to the significance of our duties and the blessings of truth and fairness.

We meet today aware of our desire for greatness and to serve rather than to be served. But we delight in the knowledge that by the power of Your spirit we can work together with loving compassion and in humble service.

Speak to us, O God, as You spoke ages ago bringing order out of chaos. Speak to us in these troubled times and give us the will and the spirit to let order and peace prevail.

Shed Your light upon us so we may see clearly that in our lives, our labor, and the tough decisions of each day, You are with us. We invite You into the sessions of today and the days to come, so that as we begin and end we can truly say, Your power, not ours, and Your presence prevailed. Amen.

Motion to Defer Printing of Remarks

On motion by Rep. Byrd, the Clerk was permitted to print, in an addendum to today's Journal, remarks made on the floor today pursuant to the Special Rule.

Introduction and Reference

By Representative Byrd—

HCR 3-A—A concurrent resolution providing for adjournment of the House of Representatives for more than 72 consecutive hours.

—was read the first time by title.

Special Orders

HCR 1-A—A concurrent resolution providing for the manner of appointing electors for President and Vice President of the United States, providing for the appointment of such electors; providing for the filling of vacancies.

WHEREAS, an election was held in this state on November 7, 2000, for the purpose of selecting electors from Florida to cast the state's vote for President and Vice President of the United States of America on December 18, 2000, and

WHEREAS, Article II, Section 1 of the Constitution of the United States provides, in pertinent part, that "Each State shall appoint, in such Manner as the Legislature thereof may direct, a Number of Electors, equal to the whole Number of Senators and Representatives to which the State may be entitled in the Congress," and

WHEREAS, Section 5 of Title 3 of the United States Code provides:

"If any State shall have provided, by laws enacted prior to the day fixed for the appointment of the electors, for its final determination of any controversy or contest concerning the appointment of all or any of the electors of such State, by judicial or other methods or procedures, and such determination shall have been made at least six days before the time fixed for the meeting of the electors, such determination made pursuant to such law so existing on said day, and made at least six days prior to said time of meeting of the electors, shall be conclusive, and shall govern in the counting of the electoral votes as provided in the Constitution, and as hereinafter regulated, so far as the ascertainment of the electors appointed by such State is concerned," and

WHEREAS, the names of the electors who were appointed following the Florida Secretary of State's certification on November 26, 2000, were forwarded to Congress by the Governor of the State of Florida with a certificate of ascertainment pursuant to a timetable and scheme dictated by the November 21, 2000, decision of the Florida Supreme Court, and that decision has been vacated by the December 4, 2000, ruling of the Supreme Court of the United States, thus increasing the uncertainty and confusion regarding the validity of the appointment of those electors, and

WHEREAS, the electors who were appointed on November 26, 2000, are the same electors as those who would have been appointed pursuant to a certification made on November 17, 2000, had the Florida Secretary of State been allowed to do so, and

WHEREAS, it appears that there exists a reasonable risk that the Congress of the United States, in exercising its counting powers pursuant to the Twelfth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States and Title 3 of the United States Code over the votes cast for President and Vice President by the members of the Electoral College, may determine that the election held in this state for the purpose of choosing electors has failed to make a choice on the day prescribed by law because contests and controversies have arisen concerning that election, and that the Congress may decide that those contests and controversies either were not finally determined by December 12, 2000, or that such determination was not pursuant to pre-existing election law or was not in compliance with Article II, Section 1 of the United States Constitution, and that accordingly Congress may not count the votes of the 25 electors already certified and sent to the Congress by the Governor of the State of Florida, and

WHEREAS, the Florida Legislature wishes to fulfill its constitutional obligation to ensure that Florida's six million voters are not disenfranchised and that its 25 electoral votes will be counted by Congress, and

WHEREAS, Section 2 of Title 3 of the United States Code provides that "Whenever any State has held an election for the purpose of choosing electors, and has failed to make a choice on the day prescribed by law, the electors may be appointed on a subsequent day in such manner as the Legislature of such State may direct," NOW, THEREFORE,

Be It Resolved by the House of Representatives of the State of Florida, the Senate Concurring:

That the Florida Legislature finds that the election for electors for President and Vice President of the United States of America held on November 7, 2000, ultimately failed to make a choice of such electors.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the manner that the Florida Legislature directs that electors for President and Vice President of the United States of America be appointed in the year 2000 is by appointment by the Florida Legislature.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Florida Legislature hereby appoints as the 25 electors for President and Vice President of the United States of America, such number being equal to the whole number of Senators and Representatives to which the State of Florida is entitled in the Congress, the following named persons: Charles W. Kane, Maria De La Milera, Sandra M. Faulkner, H. Gary Morse, Armando Codina, Carole Jean Jordan, Tom Slade, Marsha Nippert, Robert L. Woody, John Thrasher, Mel Martinez, Feliciano M. Foyo, Al Hoffman, Alfred S. Austin, Thomas C. Feeney, III, John M. McKay, Cynthia M. Handley, Darryl K. Sharpton, Dr. Adam W. Herbert, Berta J. Moralejo, Jeanne Barber Godwin, Deborah L. Brooks, Dr. Dorsey C. Miller, Glenda E. Hood, and Dawn Guzzetta.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that, if for any reason an elector appointed by this resolution is unable to serve because of death, incapacity, or otherwise, the Governor of the State of Florida may appoint a person to fill such vacancy who is a citizen of the State of Florida, who was registered and otherwise eligible to vote in the general election held on November 7, 2000, and who is not prohibited from serving as an elector under Article II, Section 1 of the United States Constitution.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that each elector for President and Vice President of the United States appointed by this resolution shall, before 10 a.m. on December 18, 2000, give notice to the Governor of the State of Florida that such elector is in Tallahassee and ready to perform the duties of an elector for President and Vice President of the United States and, if it shall be found that one or more electors appointed pursuant to this concurrent resolution are absent, the electors present, subject to the provisions of section 103.061, Florida Statutes, shall elect by ballot, in the presence of the Governor, a person or persons to fill such vacancy or vacancies as may have occurred through the nonattendance of the elector.

—was read the second time by title.

Rep. Goodlette briefly explained the Special Rule for HCR 1-A, which was adopted on Friday, December 8.

The Speaker referred to Rule 2.3 relating to the preservation of order and decorum.

Representative(s) Frankel, Wiles, Kosmas, Henriquez, Smith, Wilson, Ryan, Heyman, Bucher, Cusack, Gannon, Romeo, Lerner, Peterman, Holloway, Jennings, Justice, Wishner, Weissman, Bendross-Mindingall, Brutus, Bullard, Joyner, Lee, Rich, Siplin, Slosberg, Sobel, Gelber, Meadows, Harper, McGriff, Betancourt, Gottlieb, Ausley, and Greenstein offered the following:

(Amendment Bar Code: 113811)

Amendment 2 (with title amendment)— remove: everything after the resolving clause and insert in lieu thereof:

That the Florida Legislature take no action to interfere with the lawful ongoing election process created prior to the election of November 7, 2000.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Florida Legislature congratulate the next President of the United States.

And the title is amended as follows:

remove: everything before the resolving clause

and insert in lieu thereof:

WHEREAS, Article II, Section 1 of the Constitution of the United States provides, in pertinent part, that "Each state shall appoint, in such Manner as the Legislature thereof may direct, a Number of Electors, equal to the whole Number of Senators and Representatives to which the State may be entitled in Congress," and

WHEREAS, the Legislature of this state has placed the decision for election of the President of the United States, as well as every other elected office, in the citizens of this state through a statutory scheme as set forth in section 103.011, Florida Statutes, and

WHEREAS, an election was held in this state on November 7, 2000, for the purpose of selecting electors from Florida to cast the state's vote for President and Vice President of the United States of America on December 18, 2000, and

WHEREAS, on November 7, 2000, over 6 million Floridians went to the polls to vote for President and Vice President, and

WHEREAS, on November 8, 2000, George W. Bush was leading in Florida's popular vote according to initial returns reported by Florida's 67 counties, and

WHEREAS, Florida law provides that any candidate shall have the right to protest the returns as being erroneous, and further that "the county canvassing board may authorize a manual recount" pursuant to section 102.166(4)(c), Florida Statutes, and

WHEREAS, Al Gore filed a protest of the November 7 election and requested a manual recount in certain counties where punch card ballots were used, and

WHEREAS, the manual recount was not completed, and

WHEREAS, on November 26, 2000, Florida certified its 25 presidential electors for George W. Bush, and

WHEREAS, on November 26, 2000, Governor Jeb Bush signed an ascertainment of such certification and delivered such ascertainment to the National Archives, and

WHEREAS, Florida law provides that after the certification of an election, an unsuccessful candidate may contest the results of an election if there is a "receipt of a number of illegal votes or rejection of a number of legal votes sufficient to change or place in doubt the result of the election" pursuant to section 102.168(3)(c), Florida Statutes, and

WHEREAS, Florida law provides that an election contest shall be resolved in a judicial forum pursuant to section 102.168, Florida Statutes, and

WHEREAS, Al Gore filed a complaint, Albert Gore and Joseph Lieberman vs. Katherine Harris, as Secretary, etc., et al., in the Circuit Court for Leon County contesting such certification, and

WHEREAS, the Legislature has mandated that no vote shall be ignored "if there is a clear indication of the intent of the voter" on the ballot, unless it is "impossible to determine the elector's choice" as provided for in section 101.5614(5)-(6), Florida Statutes, and

WHEREAS, the Legislature has also provided that the focus of any manual examination of a ballot shall determine the voter's intent as provided in section 102.166(7), Florida Statutes, and

WHEREAS, the Legislature has specifically authorized the circuit court judge to "fashion such orders as he or she deems necessary to ensure that each allegation in the complaint is investigated, examined, or checked, to prevent or correct any alleged wrong, and to provide any relief appropriate under such circumstances" pursuant to section 102.168(8), Florida Statutes, and

WHEREAS, the matter of the contest of George W. Bush vs. Albert Gore now lies in the United States Supreme Court, and

WHEREAS, the will of the people should be paramount to the will of the Legislature, and

WHEREAS, thousands of our forefathers and mothers have struggled and died for universal suffrage, and

WHEREAS, the right to vote is the right to participate; it is also the right to speak, but more importantly the right to be heard, and

WHEREAS, the Legislature's appointment of electors would violate Section 1 of Title 3 of the United States Code and would set a dangerous precedent which could lead other states to follow Florida's example and disenfranchise their electorates, and

WHEREAS, we should respect the rule of law, NOW, THEREFORE,

Rep. Frankel moved the adoption of the amendment.

On motion by Rep. Frankel, further consideration of Amendment 2 was temporarily postponed under Rule 11.10.

The House returned to consideration of HCR 1-A.

WHEREAS, Section 5 of Title 3 of the United States Code provides:

of any controversy or contest concerning the appointment of all or any of the electors of such State, by judicial or other methods or procedures, and such determination shall have been made at least six days before the time fixed for the meeting of the electors, such determination made pursuant to such law so existing on said day, and made at least six days prior to said time of meeting of the electors, shall be conclusive, and shall govern in the counting of the electoral votes as provided in the Constitution, and as hereinafter regulated, so far as the ascertainment of the electors appointed by such State is concerned," and

WHEREAS, the names of the electors who were appointed following the Florida Secretary of State's certification on November 26, 2000, were forwarded to Congress by the Governor of the State of Florida with a certificate of ascertainment pursuant to a timetable and scheme dictated by the November 21, 2000, decision of the Florida Supreme Court, and that decision has been vacated by the December 4, 2000, ruling of the Supreme Court of the United States, thus increasing the uncertainty and confusion regarding the validity of the appointment of those electors, and

WHEREAS, the electors who were appointed on November 26, 2000, are the same electors as those who would have been appointed pursuant to a certification made on November 17, 2000, had the Florida Secretary of State been allowed to do so, and

WHEREAS, it appears that there exists a reasonable risk that the Congress of the United States, in exercising its counting powers pursuant to the Twelfth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States and Title 3 of the United States Code over the votes cast for President and Vice President by the members of the Electoral College, may determine that the election held in this state for the purpose of choosing electors has failed to make a choice on the day prescribed by law because contests and controversies have arisen concerning that election, and that the Congress may decide that those contests and controversies either were not finally determined by December 12, 2000, or that such determination was not pursuant to pre-existing election law or was not in compliance with Article II, Section 1 of the United States Constitution, and that accordingly Congress may not count the votes of the 25 electors already certified and sent to the Congress by the Governor of the State of Florida, and

WHEREAS, the Florida Legislature wishes to fulfill its constitutional obligation to ensure that Florida's six million voters are not disenfranchised and that its 25 electoral votes will be counted by Congress, and

WHEREAS, Section 2 of Title 3 of the United States Code provides that "Whenever any State has held an election for the purpose of choosing electors, and has failed to make a choice on the day prescribed by law, the electors may be appointed on a subsequent day in such manner as the legislature of such State may direct," NOW, THEREFORE,

Be It Resolved by the House of Representatives of the State of Florida, the Senate Concurring:

That the Florida Legislature finds that the election for electors for President and Vice President of the United States of America held on November 7, 2000, ultimately failed to make a choice of such electors.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the manner that the Florida Legislature directs that electors for President and Vice President of the United States of America be appointed in the year 2000 is by appointment by the Florida Legislature.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Florida Legislature hereby appoints as the 25 electors for President and Vice President of the United States of America, such number being equal to the whole number of Senators and Representatives to which the State of Florida is entitled in the Congress, the following named persons: Charles W. Kane, Maria De La Milerá, Sandra M. Faulkner, H. Gary Morse, Armando Codina, Carole Jean Jordan, Tom Slade, Marsha Nippert, Robert L. Woody, John Thrasher, Mel Martinez, Feliciano M. Foyo, Al Hoffman, Alfred S. Austin, Thomas C. Feeney, III, John M. McKay, Cynthia M. Handley, Darryl K. Sharpton, Dr. Adam W. Herbert, Berta J. Moralejo, Jeanne Barber Godwin, Deborah L. Brooks, Dr. Dorsey C. Miller, Glenda E. Hood, and Dawn Guzzetta.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that, if for any reason an elector appointed by this resolution is unable to serve because of death, incapacity, or otherwise, the Governor of the State of Florida may appoint a person to fill such vacancy who is a citizen of the State of Florida, who was registered and otherwise eligible to vote in the general election held on November 7, 2000, and who is not prohibited from serving as an elector under Article II, Section 1 of the United States Constitution.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that each elector for President and Vice President of the United States appointed by this resolution shall, before 10 a.m. on December 18, 2000, give notice to the Governor of the State of Florida that such elector is in Tallahassee and ready to perform the duties of an elector for President and Vice President of the United States and, if it shall be found that one or more electors appointed pursuant to this concurrent resolution are absent, the electors present, subject to the provisions of section 103.061, Florida Statutes, shall elect by ballot, in the presence of the Governor, a person or persons to fill such vacancy or vacancies as may have occurred through the nonattendance of the elector.

Explanations of Vote

In accordance to House Rule 9.7, I would like to provide an explanation of my vote on Tuesday, December 12, 2000.

My vote on House Concurrent Resolution 1-A was not to select the next President of the United States or to follow partisan lines. Instead, it was to be certain Florida voters have a slate of electors to represent them and our great state of Florida on December 18, 2000, when the Electoral College votes to decide the next President of the United States of America.

In my oath of office, I swore to support, protect, and defend the Constitution of the United States. Therefore, after researching the laws and listening to my constituents, as well as my fellow colleagues, I cast my vote in favor of House Committee Resolution 1-A.

*Rep. Heather Fiorentino
District 46*

Today, as we filed into the House Chamber for this historic and solemn occasion, it seemed important to share in writing my thoughts as a member of the Florida Legislature, due to limited oral debate set forth by House Rules.

Just two weeks ago, we were sworn in with the oath to uphold the Florida and United States Constitution and I believe, as much as I would have never chosen to be here and make this decision, it is my constitutional duty to do so.

The cloud over our election compels us to act now. My support of this resolution has never wavered. Even as a non-attorney, it appears very clear to me that we must act now to preserve the 6 million votes that were cast and the 15 million citizens of the state of Florida. With the legal controversies at hand, there is doubt regarding Florida's participation in the Electoral College.

For these reasons, I cast my vote in support of Resolution 1-A.

*Rep. Carole A. Green
District 75*

The Florida Legislature had no choice but to be part of history today. We were not convened in an effort to choose the 43rd President of the U.S. but to protect the voices of 6 million Floridians who went to the polls to be heard.

The U.S. Constitution, U.S. Supreme Court interpretations, number of Federalist papers, U.S. Codes and laws are very specific that state legislatures have the ultimate responsibility to ensure that votes from their respective states are represented on December 18, 2000, the day the electoral college convenes to select our next President.

Over the past several weeks, it has become very clear to me, and all Floridians, there is no end in sight to the legal battles being waged across our state and country to determine the real intent of the Florida voter.

As the State Representative for District 31, I was called to duty to defend the votes of my constituents and I answered that call with pride. After hearing the testimony given by my colleagues in the House, it was my belief that it was in the best interest of my district and all of Florida to vote for House Concurrent Resolution 1A.

*Rep. Mitch Needelman

As a freshman legislator, and a student of the law, I find it particularly honorable and humbling to participate in this most important vote today. There is no dispute that the Florida Legislature has been given, by way of the US Constitution, the plenary power to provide the manner and method of choosing Florida's presidential electors. There is no dispute that the existing list of certified electors is at risk by various court challenges. We must preserve the electoral process for the State of Florida. This legislative action is a safety net to assure that Florida is not left out of the electoral process. I understand that I will never erase the label of partisan politics for this vote, but I also understand that I have a constitutional duty to perform. I strongly urge the passage of this resolution.

*Rep. Dennis A. Ross
District 63*

On motion by Rep. Byrd, the rules were waived and—

HCR 3-A—A concurrent resolution providing for adjournment of the House of Representatives for more than 72 consecutive hours.

Be It Resolved by the House of Representatives of the State of Florida, the Senate Concurring:

The Florida House of Representatives shall stand adjourned from 3:39 p.m., December 12, 2000, to reconvene at the call of the Speaker.

—was read the second time by title. On motion by Rep. Byrd, the concurrent resolution was adopted and, under the rule, immediately certified to the Senate.

Reports of Councils and Standing Committees

Committee Reports

Received December 11:

The Select Committee on Electoral Certification Accuracy & Fairness recommends the following pass:

HCR 1-A

The above bill was placed on the appropriate Calendar.

Written Remarks Pursuant to Special Rule for HCR 1-A

Mr. Speaker, I rise today to express and demonstrate my commitment to the citizens of Florida by fulfilling my Constitutional duty and my duty as a Representative.

As a newly sworn State Representative, I am honored by the opportunity to vote for all the citizens of our great State. The appointing of electors for President and Vice President of the United States is an important decision that I do not take lightly. I have formed my decision carefully, with input from my constituents and with a foundation of duty given to me by our US and State Constitutions.

Florida has election laws, passed by the Legislature and followed by our Secretary of State for the certification of our electors to the Electoral College. The Florida Supreme Court reacted to the many election protests by over-reaching their legal authority to create new rules and standards, which jeopardize the certification of our State's electors.

It is our duty and responsibility to insure that Florida's vote is counted in this election. The US Constitution requires that the Legislature of Florida be responsible for Florida's six million voters inclusion in the US Electoral College. Legally cast ballots, which have followed Florida's law, must be counted.

I am ready to accept that responsibility and do my Constitutional and Representative duty by voting in favor of HCR 1-A.

*Rep. Bob Allen
District 32*

Today's actions will bring finality to the choice of electors that Florida will send to Washington, D. C. It is right that we do this because the close vote for president has dragged on in many forms that have not resolved the issue to everyone's satisfaction. Six weeks is enough. When we look back over the past weeks one thing sticks out in my mind that has made the recount process less than democratic. I refer to the actions of some of the canvassing boards and how they chose to count or not count ballots. This process should be non-partisan and yet it was not only less than non-partisan, but also showed inconsistencies in how to discern a voting mark from county to county. In addition, it is easy to recognize that not all people were interested in voting in the presidential race, and yet there seems to be a "need" to make something out of any mark, no matter how slight into a vote. This has created a "wishful thinking" on the part of some people that appears to have clouded their judgment in their "official capacities". These inconsistencies are rendering less, rather than more comfort in the public's mind that the outcome would be genuine.

Under the authority of the Constitution of the United States giving the final authority to the state legislature and also to protect the equal rights of all voters, now is the time to act. On behalf of the citizens of Florida we need to name the electors for President of the United States in Bush vs. Gore. I support the resolution and I urge my fellow members to do the same.

*Rep. William F. "Bill" Andrews
District 87*

Mr. Speaker, I am very much aware of the magnitude of the vote that I am about to undertake and the historical implications of such a vote.

I am positive that the forefathers of this great nation at the time of drafting and ratifying the constitution of the United States in Article 2, Section 1, bestowed the right for appointing Electoral College delegates to the State Legislature.

Section 5 of the federal code states that in case of controversy/contest the legislature of each state has the right to protect its participation in the electoral election. It also establishes a clear timeline to protect its participation.

I vote to ensure and protect the certification of the election results that gave Florida's 25 electoral college votes to Texas Governor George W. Bush. As I vote, I think of the 69% of the voters in my district from Hialeah, Hialeah Gardens, Miami Lakes, and Collier County who on November 7 cast their votes for George W. Bush. I would like to mention and thank the residents of District 102 who on September 5 entrusted me as their State Representative by the exact same %, 69%. It is an honor for me to cast my vote in the presence of my wife, Eris and my four children; Jaclyn, Christina, Tony and Katherine who sit in the gallery of this great institution, and witness their father participate in the great democracy of this great nation. I also think of my 9th and 11th grade history students from Miami High who witness their teacher become a part of history.

I will vote for HCR1-A, that Florida will be represented in the electoral election on December 18 and guarantees 25 Electoral College votes for George Bush therefore making him the 43rd President of the United States.

*Rep. Rafael "Ralph" Arza
District 102*

The debate we are having today is one that will be viewed by many generations to come, thus it cannot be a debate of which slate of electors we use, or which candidate's side we want. It must be how we arrive to our conclusions to select these electors. It would be a travesty, for the end result to be that all 6 million voters in Florida be disenfranchised in the Electoral College.

A competitive race for America's next President was held. Floridians were actively involved in the process on both sides as the results clearly show. To not ratify and to risk electors not representing Florida is not an option.

Our election process has served Floridians well, until now. Look at the numbers, nearly 50,000 ballots were gathered this past weekend because there was no vote recorded on them. The Florida Supreme Court ordered a manual recount. However, there is no standard on what is considered a vote, if in fact a machine could not determine the voter's intent. In addition, questions arose on counting absentee ballots from patriotic warriors serving in our military overseas and defending us from harm's way. However, a time honored tradition is that the mail of those serving abroad does not require a post mark. Canvassing boards changed the rules. Florida's Supreme Court changed the rules. There is no conclusivity on the results. There is no finality. Ben Franklin said we had a democracy “if we could keep it.” Our constitution is a living document that has given us a great democracy for over 200 years. My duty as an American is to confirm their vision of a great democracy. My oath as a member of the Florida House requires me to ensure that every vote counts equally.

*Rep. Frank Attkisson
District 79*

I favor the resolution. The resolution may be the only way to ensure that Florida’s votes are counted and the voices of 6 million Floridians are heard.

On January 5th, Congress will count each State’s electoral votes. Congress may reject Florida’s electoral votes certified on November 26 because those votes are based upon the Florida Supreme Court’s now vacated November 21st decision. To paraphrase Chief Justice Wells, we are faced with the very real possibility that those nearly six million voters who cast their ballots on Election Day will be disenfranchised.

This nation’s laws provide one way to ensure that Congress counts a State’s electoral votes. If a State, following laws enacted before Election Day, determines its electors at least six days before the electors meet, that determination shall be conclusive and govern the counting of that State’s electoral votes. The converse is true—if a State did not follow laws enacted before Election Day in determining its electors, that determination is not conclusive. Arguably, Congress may find that here.

If subsequent to our actions today, the U.S. Supreme Court calls for another recount of the Florida vote then I will call upon this Legislature to support that process. Furthermore, I will call upon us to ensure that our slate of electors accurately reflects the outcome of a complete, fair and consistent recount.

The resolution before us today affirms the slate of electors certified on November 26. Its passage is not an act of substituting the will of the Legislature for the will of the people. The contrary is true. Passage ensures that the election results as expressed by the people of Florida—as best we can discern on this final date for the naming of our electors—are represented in the electoral college.

*Rep. Jeff Atwater
District 83*

During this historic special session, I feel compelled to disclose the thoughts and principles that now guide my actions.

A constitutional crisis involving the election of our next President now threatens to silence the voices of the people of Florida. The Florida Legislature must now stand and recognize its duty by halting the seemingly endless litigation that jeopardizes this election.

Our constitution and federal law explicitly states that the Legislature alone shall choose the manner in which electors are selected and that manner cannot be changed after the fact.

Having sworn to defend and uphold the constitution, it is my duty to recognize the honest and fair results of Florida’s November 7th presidential election.

It is with great diligence and pride that I cast my vote for the electors of George W. Bush. God bless America.

*Rep. Carey Baker
District 25*

While we keep hearing “count every vote” it is even more imperative that we be sure “every vote can count”. As we pass this Resolution, we can rest assured that we, as legislators, have done everything in our power to fulfill our oath and constitutional duty to see that 6 million Florida voters will have their vote count when the electoral college ballots are tabulated. We are living through unusual times, but it is also an unusual opportunity to act in behalf of our constituents and our country.

May we not be guilty of doing nothing when we have this opportunity to act, and may our efforts contribute to the much-needed finality in this presidential election. We have an unresolved contest although Governor

Bush has won the first count, the second count, and the third count devised by the Florida Supreme Court’s over reaching legislating on new election rules in the midst of the contest.

May god bless our efforts to bring this contest to conclusion and may we ever be thankful that our founding fathers laid this path for us to follow that we might have a civil conclusion and peace in our land.

*Rep. Dennis K. Baxley
District 24*

On Tuesday, November 7th as I celebrated my victory in our election process, not once did the events we have had unfold before us these past weeks ever cross my mind. I am sure that I speak for everyone here as well.

This has been an historical election! A monumental civics lesson, a motivational experience in our governmental process for all citizens world wide. This is the greatest nation on earth and we, as Florida Legislators are proud, honored and indeed humbled by the faith and trust that our constituents have put in us. In the oath that we all took, we vowed to “Protect and defend the Constitution”, not when it was convenient or popular, but at all times. We are here today to test that oath.

When we were young, we all learned the pledge of allegiance. Standing in our school rooms, reciting the pledge every morning, was at the time, part of the daily routine. It is so much more than that today. We all take an oath every time we stand and place our hand over our heart, to pledge our allegiance to America and the Constitution, to our Republic, our nation that was founded on principals and faith in God. We must continue to strive to be indivisible even with our differing philosophies, working together to protect our liberties and justice for all. “God Bless America.”

*Rep. Marty Bowen
District 65*

As a State Representative I have sworn to support, protect, and defend the government and Constitution of the United States and the State of Florida. On this historic day, we have convened in the Chambers to perform our duties to the State. It is of optimum importance that we guard the rights of all Floridians and have their votes included in the electoral college.

*Rep. Donna Clarke
District 69*

It is with a great deal of personal pride that I submit these comments to be included in the Journal of the House of Representatives for Special Session-(A) of 2000-2002.

I feel very strongly that, as a newly elected legislator, my swearing to protect, defend and uphold the Constitution of the United States and the State of Florida dictates that I support and vote for House Concurrent Resolution 1-A. The Constitution is very clear that only the legislatures of the states have the sole and plenary power to decide the method by which electors are appointed and we must take the necessary action to assure that a slate of electors is properly certified by today’s deadline of December 12, 2000.

The constituents of District 18 have sent me a clear signal that they feel Governor George W. Bush won the majority of votes in Florida on November. 7, 2000 and has continued to maintain a lead of popular votes in Florida, in spite of court ordered recounts of disputed ballots.

The Supreme Court of Florida has usurped the authority of the Florida Legislature by “changing the rules” after the game has been played. By extending the deadline dates for certifying votes from the county canvassing boards and allowing hand counts of disputed or undervotes, the courts have changed our election laws. Since Governor Bush has won the majority of the official votes of the citizens of Florida, the voters of my district want me to do everything within my legislative power to certify the 25 electors committed to Governor Bush so that the voters of Florida will be properly represented at the Electoral College vote on December 18, 2000.

Today's special session has been an exciting experience which will last a lifetime and I am firmly convinced that we have done the right thing for the citizens of Florida and our great country.

*Rep. Don Davis
District 18*

Today I feel both humbled and privileged for having the opportunity to participate in a course of action that will undoubtedly be regarded as one of the most significant events in the history of our great nation. As an elected representative, I am faced with the awesome responsibility of representing my constituency in a manner that honors and reflects its most valued right in our democracy: namely, the right to vote.

Approximately forty years ago, the citizens of Cuba were abruptly denied the power of their vote and, as a result, the power to participate in a democratic process. My parents were exiled as a result of their opposition to such an oppressive regime. In turn, they made the bold decision of fleeing their homeland and settling in a country where their voices would not be drowned out by that of one individual. This great country of ours opened its arms to my parents and allowed them not only to settle but also to participate in its sacred democratic process. My parents, in return, instilled in me the idea that the right to vote is the most basic human right in that it provides individuals with control over their own destinies.

It is this belief in the value of our right to vote which lead me to vote in the manner in which I did today. I feel that my vote today not only reflects the votes of my constituency for President of the United States but also honors the votes that placed me here today. Our citizens have spoken and it is my duty to ensure that their voices are not ignored. As Thomas Jefferson once said, "The basis of our governments being the opinion of the people, the very first object should be to keep that right. . ."

*Rep. Renier Diaz de la Portilla
District 115*

I support HCR-1A because it is the right thing to do. Today we are here arguing whether or not we should certify the electors we have. If we don't, not one of the 6 million votes cast in Florida will count. I don't want that to happen. It is our constitutional duty to ensure that Florida be present at the electoral college. We all want the same thing, and that is that everyone's vote be counted equally. Every member of this House has been subject to the same election laws and the same counting procedure. In every race there have been hundreds of votes that have been thrown away for a number of reasons. We have all lived with this process. It is an injustice to all those who have sought public office if we now start counting all the under-votes and dimpled chads. If we were to do that then we must go back to every election and do the same for everyone else. The election law was in place before the election, it might not be the best law but it is law and we are all subject to it, including Gov. George W. Bush and Vice-President Al Gore. We cannot change the rules of the game after the fact, this is simply unfair.

*Rep. Rene Garcia
District 110*

The privilege of voting for President of the United States is one of the highest honors and most important responsibilities bestowed on the American people. As free citizens, we exercise our liberty by choosing that fellow citizen we believe best suited to lead our Nation.

This year, we have witnessed a most unusual election and post-election period. The eyes of the Nation have been focused on Florida with its twenty-five electoral votes.

On November 7th, George W. Bush won the majority of votes cast by Florida's citizens. On November 8th, after the recount mandated by Florida statute, Governor Bush again, won the vote. When overseas ballots were completely tabulated, Governor Bush was, again, the winner of the election and was so certified under Florida law by the Secretary of State.

To the shame of our Nation, Democratic candidate Al Gore has refused to accept the legally expressed will of Florida's voters. He has dragged our great State through a judicial and political quagmire with the help of the liberal-activist justices on the Florida Supreme Court. Vice President Gore has disgraced himself and his party. In plain language, he and his "Clintonian companions" have sought to steal an election. In Florida, in America. . . this cannot and will not stand.

I am today casting my vote in confirmation of those electors sworn to George W. Bush. I cast this vote as my sworn duty as a Florida Legislator under our State Constitution and in order to ensure that the legally expressed will of Florida's 6 million voters be heard. I perform this duty in the fervent hope that the United States of America never again face such a scurrilous attack on our elective system as the one unleashed by Vice President Gore. I perform this duty with the firm resolve that Florida's voters be heard and that the rule of law be upheld.

*Rep. Hugh Gibson
District 42*

Today the Florida Legislature, in enacting the Concurrent Resolution, is about to take a historic step to begin the process of ensuring that the people of Florida have a voice in the election of the 43rd president of the United States. The United States Constitution is very clear that the state legislatures have the ultimate responsibility to ensure that the voters in their respective states are represented on the day that the Electoral College convenes to select our next president. As the elected Representative for District 81, it is my responsibility to do what is necessary to see that this is accomplished. I accept that responsibility with humility and great thoughtfulness.

Due to the legal wrangling that has taken place, today has arrived with no conclusively being reached. The possibility exists that Congress will contest Florida's electors and Florida's voters will have no voice in the election for the 43rd President of these United States. While this legal turmoil exists, our state's electors and the votes of over six million citizens are in jeopardy.

In addition, the U.S. Code requires that the rules must be enacted prior to the election. The many changes in the process of determining a winner in this election also calls the acceptance of our electors into question.

I take my responsibility as an elected official very seriously. In making my decision concerning Concurrent Resolution 1-A I have thought of my husband, James, who served our country in Viet Nam. He assumed a responsibility to support, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States, with his life, if necessary. I have thought of our youngest daughter, Melinda, who is currently serving our country in the US Air Force over in the Middle East. She too is putting her life on the line for our country. Stephanie, Jennifer, and James Jr. would also expect their mother to vote for this resolution.

When I was sworn in as the Representative for District 81 I also took the oath to support, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States and the State of Florida. In all good conscious, I cannot allow my constituents' voices or votes to be silenced and I will vote to support the Concurrent Resolution.

*Rep. Gayle Harrell
District 81*

On November 7, 2000, we were elected by the people of our respective districts to represent their interest and to vote on their behalf on issues that impact their communities, the State of Florida and the Nation. On November 21, 2000 we swore an oath to uphold the constitutions of the great state of Florida and the United States.

The Presidential election results in Florida have come under attack by the losing candidate Vice President Al Gore. The Florida vote has been counted, recounted and even endured a partial manual count in "cherry picked" counties; each time the results were the same-Governor George W. Bush of Texas was/is the winner of Florida's 25 electoral college vote. The Florida Secretary of State, Katherine Harris, and the Election Canvassing Commission have certified the election.

In the face of this information, indeed in spite of it, Vice President Al Gore is still disputing the vote and is vigorously and recklessly pursuing legal challenges to overturn the vote of the people. Despite recent court victories, the threat remains that Florida's electors will not be counted on December 18, 2000 when the U.S. Electoral College convenes. For that reason the Legislature of our great state must act to preserve our electors and the vote of almost 6 million Floridians. Article II, Section 1 of the United States Constitution clearly outlines our responsibility as legislators concerning this issue.

My fellow Representatives, we could best serve the citizens of our State by insuring that their voices are heard and their votes are counted in this important Presidential election. Therefore, I urge you to support this Resolution.

*Rep. Mike Hogan
District 13*

As this honorable body, the Florida House of Representatives, today gives consideration to the concurrent resolution, HCR 1-A, regarding the appointment of presidential electors, I urge all of us to be mindful of our purpose for being here in the first place. Only a few short weeks ago each of us in this House stood and repeated that solemn oath to "support, protect, and defend the Constitution and Government of the United States and of the State of Florida. . . So help me God." Drafting and passing legislation is secondary to embracing those principles upon which this great Republic and our beloved State are founded. In doing so today, we do our utmost to support the interests of the citizens of our Florida.

We are here today not to elect the next President of the United States but to ensure that the people of Florida, to whom we have a solemn commitment, are actually represented in the Electoral College. It is true that our actions here will have national, and even international implications. But, that is merely a matter coincidence. It is our obligation, first and foremost, regardless of consequences, to fulfill our promise by ensuring that the voice of Florida's voters is represented in the Electoral College.

It is our U.S Constitution, the supreme law of the land, that also beckons us. We are assembled here in Special Session not out of decision or desire, but as demanded by the Constitution. We, the State Legislature, are required by law to certify a slate of electors in times of confusion and doubt. Confusion was created when the results of the November 7th election—an election that was conducted according to pre-established laws—were unlawfully challenged. Doubt has been created because the existing Electors have been certified under pretentious circumstances. If we do not respond to the task laid out before us then we will have ignored our duties as elected State Representatives and violated the very oath that we all took just days ago.

Finally, let us all remember that the duty is in our hands and the results are in God's.

*Rep. Jim Kallinger
District 35*

The honor of serving in this House is accompanied by legal and moral responsibilities. The legal responsibility to follow the Constitution and laws. The moral responsibility to do what is right.

Today we find our Presidential election results swimming in a sea of uncertainty. The laws of our State and Nation mandate that we take this action of last resort. We do so not to impose our will on an election, but rather, to insure that voices of Florida's voters are heard in the Electoral College. We take action, not just because the law mandates that we do so. . . but because it is the right thing to do.

Those who oppose our undertaking do so under the mantra of "Let every vote count". Yet they support a candidate who initiated a systematic effort to exclude the votes of the soldiers who defend our Nation. Their cause is not to count every vote, but to alter the outcome of the election. We cannot. . . we will not. . . allow that to happen.

History will record that despite pressure and threat from every corner the men and women of this noble chamber stood tall for the rule of law and principle of right. In the shadow of a Vice-President who fails to accept defeat, who resorts to lawsuit after lawsuit to threaten our State's electoral votes. . . the members of this body have bravely put principle over the personal interest to send a loud and clear message that we will fulfill our Constitutional duty.

We must insure that our State's electoral votes get counted. If we are to safeguard our liberty and honor the lives lost in the defense of our freedom. . . we must act. . . we must do so in order to restore faith in our election process and to secure our Republic for the generations to follow.

It is with both pride and personal commitment that I submit the following remarks to be included in the Journal of the House of Representatives in its Special Session "A" on Tuesday, December 12, 2000.

It has become abundantly clear to me after hearing the testimony and the evidence presented to me in my capacity as an elected State Representative that under the powers granted to us by the Constitution of the United States, we have the duty to insure that our state sends a slate of electors that have been properly certified by today's deadline of December 12, 2000.

The action we took today by passing House Resolution 1A was granted to our body under Article 2: Section 1 of the United States Constitution. These are powers that can neither be taken away from us not abdicated by us.

Our action today guarantees that the voters of the State of Florida will have a voice through the selection of their twenty-five certified electors committed to Governor George W. Bush.

This is a proud moment for the Florida House of Representatives and for the citizens of our state and of our great country.

*Rep. Dick Kravitz
District 19*

This is an important moment in my life. Today marks my first address to this august body, but far more important today is a historic moment for the Florida State Legislature, our state and our nation. As members of the Florida State Legislature, we have the awesome responsibility to insure that the citizens of Florida are not disenfranchised for any reason. Our legislative branch has a constitutional right and obligation to insure that this election was fair, open, and honest. I had hoped that the courts would have taken the necessary action to guarantee that Florida's voters will be heard, sadly I cannot be sure of that today. Perhaps the federal Supreme Court will still do so, but the appropriateness of the state legislature to act in this matter, in my view, is clear, proper, and required by the Constitution. For us in the Legislature to walk away from our constitutional responsibility, would undermine the founding father's view of the legislature's proper role in the importance of the separation and balance of power that must exist in government. Politics should never override the constitutional obligation that this legislature has in performing its role as a co-equal branch of government. I'm saddened, that politics seems to be driving the actions of the day instead of constitutional procedure. The people of my district have a right to know that the state election process will follow both the letter and the spirit of the law. That's why I urge my colleagues in the state legislature to stand fast in defense of the proper role of this body and vote to insure that Florida's voice is heard and vote in favor of the concurrent resolution.

*Rep. Connie Mack
District 91*

When I started out on the path to become a Florida State Representative over a year ago, I thought I was fully aware of the awesome responsibility I was seeking. Never could I have imagined that an ordinary person like myself be caught up in an amazing event like this with national implications. Historically, the Freshman Class is gifted with the time-honored banner of obscurity. Not so for the class of 2000. We are being called to duty.

Where does that call to duty come from? For me, as a career law enforcement officer and a member of the freshman class of 2000, the answer is simple—from the law of the land, which I swore to uphold when I took my oath of office in this very room 20 days ago.

To me, that event was more than a ceremony. It was a solemn oath, just like the oath I swore to 29 years ago that placed my life on the line for my fellow Floridians. On November 21, 2000, I obligated myself, just as you have, my fellow representatives, to uphold the laws not only of the state of Florida but to support and defend the Constitution of the United States of America.

Look around you, look at the portraits of great Floridians giving testimony to the history of our state. It humbles me to realize that we have joined the ranks of these patriots who took the same oath to the very same constitution. We have no choice but to uphold Article II Section 1.2 of the United States Constitution which sets forth “Each State shall appoint, in such Manner as the Legislature thereof may direct a number of electors. . . .” Please join me in preserving the law of our great country by supporting this resolution.

*Rep. Mitch Needelman
District 31*

Fellow members, fellow Floridians and fellow Americans, the issue attempting to stare us down today may not emerge again for hundreds of years in this country. But if it does, our actions may be called upon as precedent necessary to not just select a future president but to preserve a fragile yet stubborn model of government that Madison, et al. crafted hundreds of years before us . . . a dividend tomorrow that will be measured by our courage today.

History will not likely remember any present figure the way we now recognize Madison, but one of our country's future legislatures might well look back on us as an institution and be grateful that we chiseled out a record renewing earlier principles currently lost on our press, partisans and some citizenry—principles that may be lost again on the same long in the future.

In some small way let us be remembered for having carried out our oath to uphold our constitution. Let us be remembered for protecting Florida's 6 million voters and 25 electoral votes lest they otherwise be rendered a nullity.

*Rep. Jerry Paul
District 71*

As a freshman legislator I hoped to make history, although not quite this soon. As I listen to the comments of my colleagues today, one thing is clear – uncertainty and lack of finality abound in our current circumstance.

If it is correct, as has been argued, that Florida has made a clear choice and that we already have a valid slate of electors in place, our action today simply confirms and protects their right to serve with the conclusivity the law requires and the voters of Florida deserve. If, on the other hand, Florida has failed to make a clear choice, then we ensure the right of the majority of the lawful voters of Florida to have their voices heard.

If we pass HCR 1A and our action, by whatever circumstance, is proved to have been necessary to have Florida's votes counted in the Electoral College, we have fulfilled the obligations of our oath of office in the most courageous and historical manner imaginable. If on the other hand, we fail to act, and our inaction results in Florida not securing valid, conclusive electors, we will have abandoned the responsibilities of our oath of office in the most shameful and historical manner imaginable.

In this historic session, we were urged to vote our conscience, which I intend to do supporting HCR 1A, because it confirms and protects the electors for the candidate whom a majority of the lawful voters of Florida elected as certified on November 26, 2000.

On this most historical of issues, I choose action over inaction and will vote the courage of my convictions. History will be my judge. I cannot, however, leave the fate of our voters to the whims of uncertainty. I support HCR 1A and urge my colleagues to do so as well.

*Rep. Joe H. Pickens
District 21*

Mr. Speaker, fellow members, I stand before you to speak against this resolution.

On Nov. 26th, Governor Jeb Bush signed a slate of electors that were certified by our Secretary of State. I hold that very document before you here today. This slate of 25 Republican electors is now on file in the national archives in Washington, D.C. where it will remain until January 5th, when all slates are opened and counted by the U.S. Congress.

There has never been a time when the State of Florida has not acted in the manner prescribed by law to have our electors in place. There has never been a time when Florida's certified slate of 25 Republican electors was at risk of being lost or stolen. And there has never been a time when it was acceptable to change the rules of the game in the 4th quarter, with the goal in sight. We have never failed to make a choice.

Florida's electoral votes will be counted along with all other states votes on January 5th . To interrupt the process at this point in the game would be counter productive and risk the very votes we are arguing to protect today. I urge you all to leave the certified slate in place, and let our laws work as there were designed.

*Rep. Sara Romeo
District 60*

Let the record show that the following constituents and friends have sent me to Tallahassee, not to vote for President, but to represent their voice within our State government, the families of: Warren; Ostrowsky; Podell; Flanick; Ahamonitz; Leiberman; Rolla; Orloff; Tobin; Weiner; Bernie; Glazer; Klepfu; Stavitskey; Stutchin; Katz; Stutchin; Kramer; Dashefsky; Feinberg; Berman; Guberman; Jugber; Fried; Singer; Nora; Eisenberg; Harold; Marjorie; Pinkonitz; Frances; Stone; Hammelstein; Farkas; Pure; Moses; Myers; Bard; Deitchman; Schlackman; Samberg; November; Moser; Hoback; Reer; Schacher; Meltzer; Bolinko; Grosswacks; Kaufman; Schectman; Weiss; Agulmick; Miller; Cohen; Hirsch; Novatt; Steinfeld; Schwartz; Miller; Levine; Bankis; Rosenthal; Stein; Kaye; Mazzara; Kleiber; Berlinsky; Romaine; Berkley; Aaronson; Altman; Apsel; Archer; Auster; Baer; Berman; Bernstein; Blackman; Blatt; Boikes; Borkan; Bornstein; Chalfin; Chopp; Darer; Diamond; Epstein; Feinstein; Feldman; Fleischman; Garber; Gillman; Glazer; Goldman; Goren; Gottlieb; Grab; Greco; Gross; Grosse; Grossman; Guskakoff; Glushakoff; Hauser; Hass; Hersh; Hilfer; Hochbaum; Hornick; Horowitz; Jam; Jacobs; Kantow; Kantrowitz; Karp; Katz; Kaufman; Kelter; Klarman; Klein; Kolatka; Koval; Kriner; Kwal; Lenowsky; Leone; Leviton; Metzger; Mondshein; Perlstein; Protney; Ross; Reginsky; Rosenblatt; Rosman; Rubin; Scheckner; Schnepf; Schulick; Schwartz; Seligmann; Serafin; Shandalove; Siegel; Silverman; Singer; Steinberg; Stollowitz; Strent; Sussman; Wachtel; Wasserman; Weiner; Weinstock; Werner; Winkler; Winkoff; Wolfson; Zipkin; Winkler; Wolfson; Weiner; Zimmerman; Yellow; Blustein; Fink; Rickenback; Freidken; McArthur; White; Odgis; Sandow; Fields; Gruber; Slosberg; Slosberg; Victoria; Kubek; Wasserman; Flaidell; Epstein; Harris; Bush; Biechuch; Bleiweise; Ostrow; Epstein; Kalich; Rosenblatt; Block' Rotterman; Schneiber; Goldman; Rose; Walter; Foxy; Kartek; Myer; Coffen; Lubin; Shepard; and Cowen.

Today we find our country, our state, our counties, our communities, and even in some cases, families, at heights of political disagreement not witnessed since the civil war era. Having the responsibility assigned to me by serving on the Joint Select Committee on the Manner of Appointment of Presidential Electors as well as the House Select Committee on Electoral Certification Accuracy & Fairness gave me opportunity and insight on the Presidential Election process. An appropriate description of this process would probably be a “mess”. We have allowed our election process to become judicialized. We have all been unconcerned, and complacent with our election process. All other states are certainly glad they are not under this scrutiny.

I supported HCR 1-A in committee for several reasons. I voted against having a Special Session while serving on the Joint Select Committee.

My supporting HCR 1-A was based on principles, philosophy, my interpretations of facts and constitutional law. The fact that a large majority of the people in my legislative district supported the Republican candidate, even though it consists of 70 + % of registered Democrats, was not the most important factor in my decision. My heart was. I believe it is the right thing to do.

This was by far the most difficult vote in my legislative career. I had many suggestions of help. Some of these were sincere and some ridiculous, but all were welcome. Whether you agree with me or not is important, but not nearly as important as you knowing I did what I believed was right for District 11 and our state, and certainly in this case, our nation.

*Rep. Dwight Stansel
District 11*

This country has a shameful history of silencing African-American voters—with the majority stepping on the voting rights of minorities. . . imposing poll taxes. . . establishing literacy tests. . . threatening violence and actually murdering those who would seek to register black voters.

In 1965, President Johnson signed the Voting Rights Act. The Voting Rights Act began turning around centuries of oppression. By ensuring minorities the right to vote, it gave us a strong voice. We can't afford to go back.

African-Americans turned out in record numbers in the last election—and many of their votes were not counted. The truth of the matter is, there seems to have been a coordinated, systematic and disturbing effort to target African-American precincts.

Votes from mainly black precincts were discarded by out-of-date voting machine technology. 1950's Jim Crow-era machines that produce predictable undercounts were distributed to poor black neighborhoods.

All of the work of our greatest civil rights champions—black and white—who suffered in the struggle to gain the right to vote. . . those who stared down the burning crosses of the Klan. . . the nightriders. . . the lynch mobs. . . the water hoses. . . the attack dogs. . . the dynamiting of churches and homes while families slept. . . those who died in the struggle—the sacrifice of those heroes should not go in vain.

That's why I oppose this Legislative aggression on our right to vote and our right to be heard by counting our votes.

There was a time when a Black person in our country was counted as three-fifths of a person. We will not go back to those days. We are 100-percent people, 100 percent human beings. We are voters and our votes must count as much as the next person. That's not only right, but it's what the very foundation of this country is supposed to be about.

Motion to Adjourn

Rep. Byrd moved that the House stand in adjournment, pursuant to HCR 3-A, to reconvene upon the call of the Chair. The motion was agreed to.

Adjourned

Pursuant to the motion previously agreed to, the House adjourned at 3:39 p.m., in accordance with HCR 3-A, to reconvene upon call of the Chair.

Remarks Relating to Consideration of HCR 1-A

[HCR 1-A (shown earlier in the Journal) was read the second time by title.]

Speaker Feeney: The resolution, having been introduced on second reading, the first thing that we'd like to do, Members, is to go over the Special Rules that have been adopted unanimously by the Florida House of Representatives. I'd like you to give your attention to Representative Goodlette, who will explain the Special Rule and if you have questions about the rule, now would be the appropriate time to ask those questions. Representative Goodlette to explain the Special Rule, you are recognized.

Rep. Goodlette: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Members, as you will recall when we were in session on Friday, I went through the Special Rule briefly. I would like to do so again. I have had the privilege of meeting with Representative Frankel, and Representative Wiles, and Representative Byrd to further discuss these rules, and I think that we are all in agreement. But I did want to review those with you briefly.

This is the first use of the new Special Rule process so I want to just review it and answer your questions. The process included in the Special Rule is designed to provide for a fair and orderly way to consider this very important resolution. The Special Rule governs all aspects of the legislative process including—and it's important Members—including the amendatory process and the debate on the resolution.

As you know there are two floor leaders who have been designated: Representative Byrd for the proponents, Representative Frankel for the opponents. These two floor leaders will coordinate the discussion, the questions, offering of amendments, and debate on the floor today. While all recognitions will still go through the Speaker, no Member may be recognized for any purpose—questions, amendments, debates, etc.—unless the floor leader yields time to those Members. For example, Mr. Byrd may yield 5 minutes to Representative Bennett to discuss the resolution. The Speaker would then recognize Representative Bennett for 5 minutes. At the end of that 5 minutes, the Speaker will announce that the time has expired.

The Special Rule also allows for extensive debate on the concurrent resolution and the amendments and permits the proponents and the opponents equal time to express their views. Consideration of the resolution and the amendments will be limited to five hours, with time to be equally divided between the proponents and the opponents. On the large screen will be a timer for each side of the debate, so that the floor managers can follow the time that they have remaining for each Member. Each floor manager will be allowed a 30-minute opening. After that point, questions and then amendments will be in order. Finally, there will be time for final debate. Where it's practical to do so, the Speaker will alternate recognizing the floor leaders for blocks of time. Those blocks of time, it is anticipated, will be 30 minutes for the proponents, 30 minutes for the opponents, 30 more minutes for the proponents, 30 minutes for the opponents, 45 minutes for the proponents, 45 minutes for the opponents, 35 minutes for the proponents, 35 minutes for the opponents and then 10 minutes remaining for each with the opponents going first, and the final 10 minutes reserved for the proponents of the resolution. So that's the rough order subject to the floor managers relinquishing time, where necessary, or reserving time, where necessary, in order for the debate to proceed in an orderly way.

There are several specific points that need to be emphasized on how the time will be counted. Questions and answers will count against the floor leader who yields to the Member asking the question. That floor leader can limit the amount of time that is allocated for a specific question and the answer to that question, so this is not an open-ended grant of time. Again, it's controlled by the floor managers.

The offering of an amendment will count against the time of the floor manager who has authorized the amendment. The deadline, of course, for amendments was 8:30 this morning.

For your information, Members, all comments made upon the floor during the second reading today will be spread upon the Journal. Also, so that all Members will be allowed to express their particular views, any Member wishing to do so will be allowed to provide written remarks setting forth his or her comments on the resolution. The remarks may not exceed 300 words and will be spread upon the Journal of the House if received electronically by the Clerk before 8 o'clock p.m. this evening.

I realize that this is indeed a new approach to debate on the House floor and I want to be sure that this new process is very clear to all Members.

At this point I am available to attempt to answer any of your questions. We do appreciate your cooperation and we look forward to your thoughtful, civil debate and discourse. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Speaker Feeney: Thank you. Are there questions of the Rules Chairman? Are there questions? There being none, I would ask the indulgence of the House just a moment again, as I did on Friday, to remind you what a special place and institution this is. The Florida House of Representatives has a great, proud history. We are widely respected around the country as one of the most progressive and professional institutions in state government. This is not the first time that the Florida House has taken up and addressed issues of historic importance and great controversy—issues Members care deeply and passionately about. That is why I would like all of you to take a moment to call attention to Rule 2.3 of the House Rules. That rule begins in quotes, “The Speaker shall preserve order and decorum in the Chamber of the House.” That is a duty that I take personally and seriously, because now, more than ever, the preservation of order and decorum in our Chamber is absolutely essential so we can fulfill our responsibilities under the Florida and the United States Constitutions. The rule continues and I quote: “The Speaker shall see that the Members conduct themselves in a civil manner in the Chamber of the House in accordance with accepted standards of parliamentary conduct. . . .” I am confident that all of our Members today, here, no matter what the circumstances, will conduct themselves in a civil manner. That all debate conducted in our Chamber today will be conducted in an atmosphere of respect for our fellow Members and for the institution of the Florida House.

I hope the many commentators and pundits around the country, who complain about the lack or the decline of civility in American politics today, will be able to point to our debate as a debate where great men and women who felt passionately about their responsibilities, although they differed in what those responsibilities required, were able to set an example of how people can disagree deeply and yet be civil and respectful to one another.

And I would suggest to you a few things. Representative Goodlette has just advised all of the Members that if you wish, there will be an opportunity to spread up to 300 words of remarks on the Journal today. Since history will be watching us, it is something I suggest Members consider taking advantage of. I would also tell you that because all of our remarks today that are made orally, if they concern the main resolution, are going to be spread upon the Journal. The Clerk's staff does a wonderful job at this, it is not easy to do, but they are going to make sure we have a full record. So the level of your voice won't count much for historical purposes, but the level and intellect of your debate may count a great deal. And I guess with that I believe we are ready to have the floor leader for the proponents address the Chamber. One second, Representative Byrd.

Representative Frankel, for what purpose do you rise?

Rep. Frankel: Mr. Speaker, just for an introduction. We have with us Congressman Robert Wexler from Palm Beach County, I just wanted to welcome to the Chamber today. [applause]

Speaker Feeney: Congressman Wexler, it is great to have you. We will add you to the list of dignitaries that we don't usually get this time of year in Tallahassee. Thank you for being here today.

There being no questions, the proponent's floor leader, Representative Byrd, is recognized and provided approximately 30 minutes. Representative Byrd.

Rep. Byrd: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I would first yield to Representative Goodlette for 12 minutes.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Goodlette is recognized on behalf of the proponents for 12 minutes and is given permission to approach the well.

Rep. Goodlette: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I want to at the outset, Members, tell you that this is a very solemn moment that we approach as we take up this important resolution that has statewide and national implications and ramifications. I also want to thank the Speaker for permitting me and for permitting six of our colleagues here in the House to serve on the Joint Committee with the Senate who went for three days last week in hearings to receive the testimony of expert witnesses and to receive, importantly, the input from the citizens of the State of Florida on these important issues. I'm also appreciative of the leadership that has been provided by Representative Byrd on the Select Committee of this House that met yesterday, most all day, again for the purpose of receiving expert testimony and to listen to citizens, not only from around the state of Florida but from around this great country, to provide their thoughts on this important subject to us.

And I would be remiss if I did not indicate at this moment that I appreciate the respect, the cordial conversations, and, frankly, the quality of the thought and the debate from both the Democrats and the Republicans on both the Joint Committee and the Select Committee. And for those of you who do not know, the seven of us, that is Representative Byrd, who was our chairman, Representative Diaz-Balart, Representative Cantens, myself, Representative Betancourt, Representative Stansel, and Representative Gottlieb; I want to thank all of them for their cooperation, for the quality of the input that they provided. And I think that we looked upon these important issues and showed the people in this state, indeed the people in this country, that we can do so in a thoughtful, in a deliberative way. And I would be remiss if I didn't take this opportunity to express my gratitude and my appreciation to them and to you, Mr. Speaker, for giving us that opportunity.

What I want to now cover is the resolution itself. Other speakers who will follow will, perhaps, go into some more detail. First, I would like to talk about what the United States Constitution says about this important issue. And you will see behind me, and I'd like for you to follow if you can, some of these important concepts. Article II, Section 1, of the United States Constitution provides that, “Each State shall appoint, in such Manner as the Legislature thereof may direct, a Number of Electors, equal to the whole Number of Senators and Representatives to which the State may be entitled in the Congress. . . .” Those are indeed, ladies and gentlemen and Members, the 25 electors that have been certified and whose certification we are here, and this resolution contemplates preserving their ability to cast ballots on behalf of the over 6 million voters in the state of Florida who voted on November the 7th and 15 million residents of the State of Florida when the electoral college convenes next Monday.

Now I want to move briefly into what the United States Supreme Court has said about that particular provision of Article II, Section 1, of the United States Constitution. It was in 1892 that the United States Supreme Court, in the case of McPherson v. Blacker, stated the following and it's so crystal clear that I think it bears repeating and being shown to you on the screen, “The appointment of these electors is thus placed absolutely and wholly with the legislatures of the several states. . . . This power is conferred upon the legislatures of the states by the constitution of the United States, and cannot be taken from them or modified by their state constitutions. . . . Whatever provisions may be made by statute, or by the state constitution, to choose electors by the people, there is no doubt of the right of the legislature to resume the power at any time, for it can neither be taken away nor abdicated.” And that, Members, is all contained within the resolution that is before you. Now, that is a statement of the United States Constitution and a statement of our United States Supreme Court interpreting that constitutional provision.

Now it's further incumbent upon Congress to implement that constitutional provision. And Congress has done so in Title 3 of the United States Code and I want to review two important sections with you. First, United States Code, Title 3, Section 2, pertains to the failure to make a choice on the prescribed day. And others will speak more directly to this but I want to lay the foundation. And that important provision states clearly that, "Whenever any State has held an election for the purpose of choosing electors, and has failed to make a choice on the day prescribed by law, . . ." here November the 7th, Members, "the electors may be appointed on a subsequent day in such manner as the Legislature of such State may direct." A very important statutory provision found in Title 3 of the United States Code.

The next, safe harbor provision of the United States Code, again Title 3, Section 5, I think bears your further consideration and your specific attention. Section 5 pertains to the determination of a controversy as to the appointment of electors. "If any State shall have provided, by laws enacted. . ." and this is very important, "prior to the day fixed for the appointment of the electors, for its final determination or any controversy or contest concerning the appointment of all or any of the electors of such State, by judicial or other methods. . ." other methods in Florida delegated to the Secretary of State "or procedures, and such determination shall have been made at least six days before the time fixed for the meeting of the electors, such determination made pursuant to such law so existing on said day, and made at least six days prior to said time of the meeting of the electors, shall be conclusive. . ." This is important, Members, as we talk about this process because it helps define what the role of Congress is in determining whether or not there has been conclusivity in this process. Congress' responsibility is to establish the time, the date of the election, and to count the votes. The remaining responsibilities are those of the legislatures of the various states.

Now moving forward to what the United States Supreme Court said about this safe harbor provision, just last week in their ruling on December the 4th in the case of Bush v. Palm Beach County. "Since § 5 contains a principle of federal law. . ." now this is the United States Supreme Court speaking just last week, "of federal law that would assure that finality of the State's determination if made pursuant to a state law in effect before the election, a legislative wish. . ." that is the desire of this institution "to take advantage of the 'safe harbor' provision in Section 5 "would counsel against any construction of the Election Code that Congress might deem to be a change in the law." And if those of you who may have followed any of the debates before the United States Supreme Court yesterday know that several justices were concerned, and it will reflect on these conversations today as to how the Florida courts could change the law, but that the legislature was prohibited from changing the law. And we will be discussing that in further detail.

Let me mention—how am I doing on the time, Mr. Speaker? thank you—let me just mention two important provisions in the Federalist Papers. You know, as we are thinking about how to govern ourselves prospectively in these important constitutional issues, I think it's important at times to reflect upon what our forefathers, what our founding fathers, said and how they set in place these provisions that we are now dealing with. And I think it's important to note that they actually anticipated and contemplated that these kinds of controversies may arise. There are two provisions from the Federalist Papers that I want to share with you, briefly, in closing. The first is the view of the founding fathers found in the Federalist Paper No. 45. And I think these words are of some import. These were written by James Madison who's the author, of course, of that Federalist Paper, 45. "Without the intervention of the State legislatures, the President of the United States cannot be elected at all. They must in all cases have a great share in his appointment, and will, perhaps, in most cases, of themselves determine it."

And finally, and in conclusion, I want to also bring to you the views of Alexander Hamilton as expressed in Federalist Paper No. 68. And what he was talking about in Federalist Paper, 68, Members, was the electoral college process and the wisdom that was devised for this republic. And his comments are excerpted here and they bear repeating, "It was also peculiarly desirable, to afford as little opportunity as possible to tumult and disorder. But the precautions which have been so happily concerted in the system under consideration. . ." the electoral college "promise an effectual security against this mischief." Thank you.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Goodlette, your time, and Treasury Secretary Hamilton's, has run out. Representative Byrd, you're recognized with approximately 18 minutes remaining.

Rep. Byrd: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We would yield 10 minutes to Representative Alexander.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Byrd yields 10 minutes to Representative Alexander and your time begins.

Rep. Alexander: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'd like permission to approach the well.

Speaker Feeney: You're granted permission to approach the well. Members, while Representative Alexander comes up, and his clock should be starting—travel time counts, we've given permission of both the proponents and opponents for up to two Members to approach the well. Representative Alexander.

Rep. Alexander: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Members, so much has happened in the five weeks since election day and I think it would be a benefit to us all to remind ourselves of the sequence of events—both as required by law and as the events actually occurred. As we walk through the timeline, try to keep in mind the question, this question: did the Supreme Court of Florida change the law as it was in effect on election day? Why is this question of changes to election laws important? As Representative Goodlette has summarized, in Title 3, Section 5, of the United States Code, which was put in place after the disastrous election of 1876, requires that states determine presidential elections according to the laws in effect on election day if Congress is to treat the results as conclusive.

And as we go through the timeline, please pay attention to three points:

First, the Florida Supreme Court imposed a new election deadline that conflicted with Florida law as it existed on November 7. Second, since the court intervened, there are no standards for manual counting of ballots in our Statutes. And today, December 12th, is the deadline for resolving controversies about the selection of presidential electors.

So, how did we get here? Five weeks ago today, six million Floridians went to the polls to vote for President and George W. Bush received more votes than his opponent. That was November 7th. The difference between the two candidates' votes was less than one-half-of-one-percent and so the automatic recount requirements of Florida law kicked in. Four days after the election day, on November 11th, the recount—the first and only statewide recount—confirmed that George W. Bush won the election.

We move forward to November 14th, one week after election day, the day set by Florida Statute for certification of the results of the election. That was also the day that the Gore campaign filed suit here in Leon County to extend the deadline for certification. As you may recall, Circuit Judge Terry Lewis ruled that the November 14th deadline was mandatory, but that the Secretary of State had the discretion to accept or ignore late-filed returns.

The next day, November 15th, Secretary of State Harris, relying on Judge Lewis's ruling, used her discretion and certified election results and found within her discretion that the requests for extensions did not meet the appropriate criteria.

Two days later, on November 17th, Judge Lewis upholds Secretary Harris's actions and the Gore campaign appeals to the Florida Supreme Court. The Supreme Court, in its first interference with the statutory scheme of events, stays the certification.

On November 18th, the count of foreign absentee ballots was announced and, again, the results of November 7th were not disturbed.

Then two weeks later, after election day, November 21st, the Supreme Court of Florida announces new law. It orders the Secretary of State to accept and certify results through 5 p.m., Sunday, November 26. This decision changed Florida election law. The State Supreme Court changed the deadline for certification from November 12th to November the 26th—this was no mere procedural change—and required the Secretary of State to accept counts that the law gives her discretion to accept or “ignore.” The Supreme Court added 12 days of vote counting not provided for by law and they changed “may ignore” to “shall not ignore.” These are not mere acts of interpretation, these are changes to the law.

When November 26 arrived, the Secretary of State complied with the Florida Supreme Court order and certified the results that had been received by the Supreme Court’s 5 p.m. deadline. The final results were: Governor Bush, 2,912,790 and Vice President Gore, 2,912,253—a margin of 537 votes for Governor Bush. The next day, the Gore campaign filed a contest in Leon County Circuit Court.

Over the next few days, the Legislature began Joint Committee meetings to examine our role in this undecided election and the Florida Supreme Court dismissed one of the many lawsuits arising out of the election, the action involving the so-called “illegal butterfly ballots” that were used in Palm Beach County.

Which brings us to December the 4th. That’s when the U.S. Supreme Court vacated the November 21st Florida Supreme Court decision, finding that there was “considerable uncertainty” about the basis for the Florida decision. They requested clarification, which came only yesterday. Also on December 4th, Leon Circuit Judge Sanders Sauls, after a nationally-televised two-day trial, rejected the Gore contest on all counts and the Joint Committee recommended that the Legislature act to assure that Florida’s electoral votes were to be counted.

Then, in rapid succession, Vice President Gore appealed Judge Sauls’ ruling, Speaker Feeney and President McKay issued a call for this special session, two Leon County judges ruled against the challenges to Seminole and Martin County absentee ballots, and the Florida Supreme Court ruled again.

In their December 8th decision, the Florida Court further changed the law, ordered statewide partial manual recounts without specifying any uniformity of process, ordered the acceptance of the Palm Beach recount that came in after the court’s own deadline, ordered the acceptance of the partial Miami-Dade recount, and so on. The U.S. Supreme Court stayed the various manual counts this weekend and then heard oral arguments yesterday.

That’s where we stand today. Where do we go from here? Today, December 12th, is the last day to resolve controversies over electors and benefit from the safe harbor Congress has given us.

December the 18th, electors will meet to cast their votes; January 6, Congress will count the votes; but today is the day to begin resolving this matter, for once and for all.

Why must we act? Because, in the words of Judge Birch for the dissenters in the U.S. 11th Circuit Court, the Florida Supreme Court “superimposed a new model onto the state’s statutory election scheme” and “unconstitutionally changed the election system after the election had taken place.” “By changing the rules of the game after it was played, the Supreme Court debased the votes of thousands of Florida voters and denied them equal protection of the laws guaranteed by the Fourth Amendment.”

Members, we are here for a clear purpose: to protect the votes of 6 million Floridians and to assure all Floridians the rights guaranteed them under the U.S. Constitution. Thank you. [applause]

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative Alexander, who yields back the balance of his time to Representative Byrd.

Representative Byrd, let me just take a minute, or a second or two, of your time. For the visitors in the gallery and any visitor or Member on the floor, please make sure that you don’t have your cell phones on with you. I recognize you may be from the press and have to stay in contact, but we would ask that cell phones be turned off so that we can conduct this important debate in the appropriate manner.

With that, Representative Byrd, you have approximately 9 minutes.

Rep. Byrd: Mr. Speaker, we yield the balance of our time to Representative Dockery.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Dockery, you are recognized.

Rep. Dockery: Thank you. Thank you, Representative Byrd. Good morning, Mr. Speaker, colleagues, and fellow Floridians. The eyes of the nation remain upon us as there is still no closure on the outcome of the presidential race in the great state of Florida. We are here today because of our constitutional obligation to assure the inclusion of our 25 electoral votes. These 25 electors represent the votes of some 6 million Floridians who cast their ballots in accordance with the laws that were in effect on November 7th.

Members, this is an awesome responsibility and one that we cannot, must not, shy away from. On November 21st, each of us raised our right hand and swore to “support, protect and defend the government and Constitution of the United States and of the State of Florida.” We are here today to honor that commitment.

Representative Goodlette has explained in great detail the constitutional and legal issues. It is my hope that each of you understands that we are not here to circumvent the law but rather to adhere to its clear instruction.

Representative Alexander has provided a recap on the events that have unfolded over the past 35 days since the November 7th election. It is regrettable that our action today is necessary—but make no mistake—it is indeed necessary. This election process has shown the inherent flaws of an election system where 6 million voters cast their ballots. Because this is a rare case where the margin of error exceeds the margin of victory, we are left to defend the outcome of the election in Florida. Fortunately, there are laws in place to direct us in this determination. I am proud to say that all those involved have followed those laws and as a result Florida has certified the election and a slate of electors to represent our 6 million voters.

Why then are we here today? Because the certification took place on November 26th rather than on November 14th which was the legal certification deadline and because the official result was altered due to the Florida Supreme Court’s intervention. As Representative Alexander pointed out this ruling by the State Supreme Court violated federal law Title 3, Section 5, which prohibits changes in the election laws after the election.

Today is a solemn day—a day of decision. A day we have approached with caution and concern. We have nervously watched the clock tick away hoping and sometimes praying for finality in this unimaginably close election for President of these United States. Sadly, we have reached the December 12th deadline and that decision has not come. Now it is time for us, the Members of the Florida Legislature, to perform our solemn duty. A duty thrust upon us by the Constitution of the United States which says, in part, “Each State shall” not may “appoint in such manner as the Legislature thereof may direct, a number of electors. . . .” The Constitution is not unclear or ambiguous on that point. It is not an option or a choice. We shall. We are supposed to exercise our duty based on the laws that existed prior to the election in question. Since there is a subsequent contest and the outcome is unclear it becomes our lawful duty to determine the electors of this great state. The 2000 election is spiraling out of control and we must stop it now.

Your vote, Yea or Nay, on the resolution before you is a responsibility you cannot avoid. To abdicate this awesome and solemn duty is not a choice. We must support, protect, and defend the Constitution. I will do so by voting for a slate of electors who are pledged to cast their ballots for Governor George W. Bush for President. He won the state on November 7th. He has won on each recount. He is the winner today—December 12th. I urge each member of this House to vote with me. However, I acknowledge that some of you will not agree with me and will cast a vote of conscience against the proposed slate of electors—that is your right and your duty. Many of you who disagree with me are not only my colleagues but also my friends. We have worked together in committees, we have worked together in this Chamber and on occasion we have attended social events together. It is my hope and belief that we will continue to work together after this historic moment of decision and refocus our attention on those issues of importance to our constituents who sent us here.

I want to express my appreciation for the open dialogue that continues across the aisle with members of the minority party. Their willingness to work through this difficult moment speaks volumes about our ability to conduct the affairs of our state.

I want to say a few words to our newest Members. To the 63 freshmen legislators who are attending their first special session, I regret that your first vote in this House will be a matter of such grave concern to the country. You have been campaigning for six months or more and the good people of your district rewarded your efforts by electing you to represent them in the Florida House of Representatives. They decided that you would speak for them on matters of grave importance to the community, our state, and our nation.

Many of you have yet to be hooked up to our computer system and may not have received the abundance of electronic mail from around the state and throughout the country. These communications reflect the intensity of emotion that the American people feel. This is a deeply divisive issue and the best you can do is examine the facts, understand the law and vote your conscience. You are not here to determine the next President of the United States, you are here to ensure that Florida's 25 electoral votes are included along with the other 49 states to determine who the next President will be. We as a state did not seek to be in the position we find ourselves, but we do not fear it either.

Today is a good day, a day in which we will reinforce our history as a nation of laws and a state of laws. Tomorrow is another day, one I hope will be a day of healing. A day when we return to the friendly debate of public policy in committees and here in the Chamber of this great institution—the Florida House of Representatives. And soon another day will come when we join together in a common goal of helping to improve the lives of all Floridians.

In closing, I would like to express my gratitude to all those who participated in this election process. We as a state have a lot to be proud of. We stood up to the intense scrutiny of the media, our critics, the late night comics and indeed the world. We conducted our election process in accordance with the law in a fair and open manner. I for one am very proud to represent the wonderful people of Imperial Polk County. I am proud to be a Floridian and proud to be an American.

Representative Byrd, thank you for the opportunity to address the Members of the House. [applause]

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative Dockery. Representative Byrd, you have approximately a minute and 42 seconds remaining.

Rep. Byrd: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We would reserve that. There are amendments on the desk that we'd like to yield time to the sponsor for. Representative Cantens has an amendment; we'd like to yield 5 minutes for him to present that amendment.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Byrd, perhaps if we could stop the time clock for a second, I could ask a question of Representative Goodlette. Representative Goodlette, my understanding was we were going to have roughly 30 minutes for the proponents; and now I am advised that there is an amendment that the proponents wish to offer. What happens with respect to the clock at this point? Representative Goodlette, you are recognized.

Rep. Goodlette: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. With the indulgence of Representative Frankel, if we could just take a couple of extra minutes out and present that amendment now, I think we have discussed this and she will be offering their strike-everything amendment immediately following this, Mr. Speaker.

Speaker Feeney: OK, with the indulgence of Representative Frankel, Representative Cantens, you've been recognized for purposes of offering and explaining an amendment.

Rep. Cantens: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Members, this amendment is a technical amendment that provides the address of each one of the 25 electors and includes that address in the resolution.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Goodlette, all 25 of us will be glad that you have told the world our address. Could we have the technical amendment read by the Clerk?

[Amendment 1, by Representative Cantens (shown in the Journal earlier today), was read.]

Representative Cantens having explained the amendment, the amendment having been read, are there questions about the amendment? Are there questions? Is there a debate on the amendment? There being no debate, Representative Cantens, you are recognized to close on your amendment.

Rep. Cantens: Waive closing, Mr. Speaker.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Cantens having closed, all Members in favor shall state so by saying Aye; all opposed, Nay. [voice vote] Well, let's try it again. All those in favor, please state by saying Aye; all those opposed, Nay. [voice vote] I think the Ayes have it that time. [laughter] The amendment is passed.

[Amendment 1 was adopted.]

Representative Byrd, you still have 28 seconds on your original clock, Representative Byrd.

Rep. Byrd: We'd like to reserve the balance of that time, Mr. Speaker.

Speaker Feeney: Show it done.

Representative Frankel, we are going to begin, what I have on my script as 30 minutes for the opponents of the resolution and for purposes of debate, you're recognized.

Rep. Frankel: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Well, we almost won one there. [laughter] I want to tell you that I'm very proud to represent the "red team" today. Mr. Speaker, we have an amendment on the table that we'd like to take up.

Speaker Feeney: The Clerk will read the amendment.

[Amendment 2, by Representative Frankel (shown in the Journal earlier today), was read.]

Representative Frankel, are you the proponent of this amendment?

Rep. Frankel: Mr. Speaker, I'm just going to explain the amendment and then I'm going to waive my time to other Members to debate it.

Speaker Feeney: OK, I will state that you're recognized to explain the amendment and Members that have questions can ask you, or if you prefer somebody else that you would like to have answer the question. To explain her amendment, Representative Frankel.

Rep. Frankel: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Now I told you that we were going to try to work in a bipartisan spirit, and so I want to tell you we're going to try to help you out here today. So, if you all listen carefully, I think this is a very good amendment. And the essence of this resolution, this is really a—we're presenting an alternative resolution here, folks—the essence of this resolution is really, it really tells us all to respect the rule of law. We've created a legal process here in Florida prior to the election, and we believe and this resolution concludes, that we should take no action to interfere with that process; that it is up now to the Supreme Court of the United States to evaluate the actions of the Florida Supreme Court. And what I would like to do, as I explain this resolution, with the help of our Clerk's staff, I will go through it with you. It sets out what we think is the important chronology and some of the legal references that will be later explained by some of my colleagues.

We agree that Article 2, Section 1, of the Constitution of the United States, provides that each state shall appoint, in a manner as the Legislature shall direct, a number of electors. And the resolution goes on to say that this Legislature has placed the decision for the election of the President of the United States in a statutory scheme, which you all find in your law books in your offices or in any legal library in the state. And specifically Section 103.011 has that provision in it.

We did have an election pursuant to that statute, on November 7th, 2000, and as we all know 6 million Floridians went to the polls to vote. On November 8th, George Bush was leading in that vote according to the returns. And Florida law provides that any candidate has the right to protest the returns as being erroneous and further that the canvassing boards may authorize a manual recount, and you can find that in Section 102.166(c) of the Florida Statutes.

Al Gore did file a protest and he requested a manual recount in certain counties. And as we know, the manual recount was not completed. And then on November 26th, 2000, Florida certified its 25 presidential electors for George Bush. And then on that same day, Jeb Bush, our Governor, signed an ascertainment of the certification and he delivered it to the National Archives, in which it now rests. And then Florida law provided that after this certification, an unsuccessful candidate could contest the election if there was a receipt of a number of illegal votes or a rejection of a number of legal votes sufficient to place the election in doubt. You can find that in your law books at Section 102.168(3)(c). It's right in the law books, there. And the Florida law further provided that an election contest shall be resolved in a judicial forum. You will also find that in Florida Laws 102.168. And so Al Gore, following the process that we had set out prior to the election, filed a complaint, Gore v. Harris, that went to the Leon Circuit Court. You will also note in our resolution that the Florida Legislature mandated, in law, that no vote be ignored and I'm quoting from the statute, "if there is a clear indication of the intent of the voter" and unless it was "impossible to determine the elector's choice." And you will also find that in the law books, 101.561(4)(5) and (6). And the Legislature also provided that the focus of any manual examinations of a ballot should determine the voter's intent, and that's also in law. The Legislature also specifically authorized a circuit court judge to fashion such orders as he or she deems necessary to ensure that each allegation in the complaint is investigated, examined, or checked to prevent or correct any alleged wrong and to provide any relief appropriate under the circumstances. That's in 102.168(3)(c).

And now as the resolution continues, as we all know, the matter of the contest of Bush v. Gore lies in the United States Supreme Court. We believe, as this resolution goes on, that for us to go forward with this measure today would violate Section 1, Title 3, of the United States Code and set a dangerous precedent which could lead to other states doing the same. And so, we resolve today, that the Legislature take no action to interfere with the ongoing election process created prior to November 7th, and then, in a spirit of bipartisanship, we resolve that this Legislature should, together, congratulate the next President of the United States.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker, and I would waive at this time. I'd like to waive 20 minutes to Mr. Gelber.

Speaker Feeny: Representative Frankel, I would appreciate while you are recognizing your Members if you'll point to them and make them stand up and wave their hand. [laughter]

Representative Gelber, welcome to the House and you are recognized for 20 minutes.

Rep. Gelber: May I approach the well, Mr. Speaker?

Speaker Feeny: You're given permission to approach the well. While Representative Gelber does that, for people that aren't familiar, the Florida House of Representatives just underwent our first term limits and we have 63 freshmen and we're very excited about working with them. Representative Gelber, you are recognized.

Rep. Gelber: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, and thank you for affording me the privilege to speak from the well. Members, I speak today in support of the amendment and the Speaker's comments would remind me that I am a freshman. It's pretty obvious he doesn't even know who

I am—most of you don't know who I am, we don't know who each other are—and here we are making one of the most important votes, I think, any legislature anywhere is ever going to make. But the irony of this moment should not be lost on anybody in this Chamber, especially the citizens of our state.

In the same breath that we are told that this session is about preserving the votes of Floridians, by the majority resolution today we will be disenfranchising every single voter who went to the polls on November 7th. While we are told that this session is about respecting the rules, the majority's resolution will declare irrelevant all of the rules that this Legislature has created to govern and resolve elections.

While we are told that we must act to protect our electors, I believe that if you look at the United States Code and read it you will see that this action does nothing but jeopardize our electors. Perhaps most ironic is we are about to insert ourselves into a process and declare ourselves the paramount authority when the United States Supreme Court, as many of my colleagues on the Republican side have said, are about to consider the exact same issues. And I wonder, just like my fine colleague from Tallahassee, why we are here today?

We are here, as the majority have said, because of the oaths that were taken when we assumed our office. Well, we in the minority took exactly the same oath that you did, and for me it was not my first oath. In fact, I swore to uphold the Constitution as an Assistant U.S. Attorney, as a Chief Counsel in the United States Senate, and each time I took that oath it was very interesting. I never, ever took an oath of fidelity to a particular party or to any particular candidate. Rather, each time that I took that oath, just like every public officer who takes that oath, I took an oath of allegiance to the Constitution, to a set of rules, to the wonderful notion that respect for the paramount authority of law is what separates us from nations where the absence of such law is a constant and daily threat to freedom.

It has been said that we are a nation of laws. It will be said throughout this debate, I am sure. But the matter before us today will test the truth of that statement and its continued vitality in this Chamber and I urge all of you, even though I am a freshman, we need to look at this very carefully. And to my fellow freshmen we need to know what we are doing here. Because, what we are about to do and where we are about to embark will be a very, very terrible precedent for Legislatures to come.

Now the legal reason, we are told, we have been here by the folks that spoke before me, is our fear that our inaction will leave Florida's electors at sea. I submit to you, that if you look at the law in this regard, you will see that this proposition is wrong. And further, those same laws assure us that the singularly most perilous course we can take in this Chamber is the course that is being offered through the majority's resolution, because it robs the people of their right to have their votes counted. And while we can talk all we want about our preserving the rights of votes, when we vote today and if the majority votes and they win, the people of America who showed up in Florida to vote for their President will have wasted their trip to the polls. And that is the truth and we'll be giving that decision to this Chamber. I urge my colleagues to consider the minority amendment.

Let me first address the majority's argument that this body is compelled to act because of Section 2 of Title 3 of the United States Code. Read that provision very carefully, because it doesn't exactly comport with this notion of plenary and absolute authority. "Whenever any State has held an election for the purpose of choosing electors, and has failed to make a choice on the day prescribed by law, the electors may be appointed on a subsequent day in such a manner as the Legislature of such State may direct."

This is why we are here, according to the majority, this provision of law. The majority's view is that this compels us to act and the key phrase here—the key phrase in the logic of the majority—is that there has been a failure to make a choice, a failure to make a choice. That is the key. What do they point to—what do my colleagues point to—to show there has been a failure to make a choice?

There is a contest of the election, there are all these lawsuits, everybody is making a big deal, it's a close race. That, under the law, is not failure to make a choice. There has been no case ever, there is nothing in the enabling legislation of that provision, no legislature in the history of our country, at least since it's been, this act has been enforced, has ever interpreted an election contest. The mere existence of a contest to mean we have failed to make a choice, and that is where the majority and the minority depart in their analysis.

Why has nobody ever advanced such an interpretation? There's a very good reason, because an interpretation like that would turn the rule on its head. The purpose of the rule is to say to the Legislature, you do have authority to create the manner, but Congress has the authority to tell you the time. And you cannot act for all this talk about the plenary or absolute power of this body. Isn't it sort of interesting that we have this provision that exists here today, that tells us we cannot act until that has been found? Why can't we? Think about the problems that will happen if just merely the presence of litigation allows the Legislature to hijack an election. The state with a legislative majority whose candidate of choice appears to have lost, simply needs somebody, any partisan or just anyone. And in Florida there's enough lawsuits, we know somebody will file a lawsuit about something. And if the presence of the litigation continues, the Legislature will simply be able to disenfranchise itself.

Now, during the hearings of the Select Committee that preceded this session, the majority's experts and some of my colleagues from the majority, suggested the question that whether an election has failed is a factual issue for us to determine. We must look at the facts and we must consider the law. We must make that determination. And then it occurred to me as I was listening, haven't we created a process to do exactly that? Are we suppose to prejudge every single lawsuit that comes to decide whether it is meritorious, and then if it might be meritorious and contest the election, then we must act? Well, why would we do that in the first place? If it is a meritorious lawsuit, wouldn't that suggest that we ought not act? To give ourselves the ability to throw every election in such disarray is to invite a horrible precedent that would be a stain on this Chamber.

Now we should note that there has been some discussion about taking out of this resolution the phrase, and it is in the current form, "that the Florida Legislature finds that the election for electors. . . and Vice President. . . [has] ultimately failed;" that's in the majority's resolution as it stands. There's been some talk about taking that out. Listen, for you to act, when you act, you are finding by your vote that this election has failed to make a choice. And you are saying the determination of that is simply the presence of an election contest.

The obvious meaning of Section 2—the obvious meaning of failure to make a choice—we don't have to look very far for. It's upstairs in this building, it's in the Department of Elections. We have a code section that creates exactly this process. Go to 103.011, that provision just does two very simple things. First of all, my colleagues are correct. We have the right to create the manner in which our electors are established; that provision is us telling our constituents they have that right. That's what the first part of that does, we gave it to them. But the second thing it does is it tells the Department of State to certify the electors of the candidate who receives the highest number of votes—to declare a winner.

In our case we had an election on November 7th. A winner was certified, exactly as the provision requires and, in fact, Mr. Roberts, who is an employee of Secretary Harris, appeared at our hearing. I was permitted, with leave of the committee, to ask a question of Mr. Roberts. I had one simple question; who won the election? According to the authority of the state, who is the winner of the election? Mr. Roberts, without pause, go and ask him right now, will tell you, Governor Bush won the election, he is the winner. He has a certification that he has won. That certification has been sent to the National Archives, it is waiting to be counted. Now, it is possible that that winner may change. But if that happens, Governor Bush, our Governor Bush, will simply send another certification over replacing the one that exists.

The point is—the point is—our process has declared a winner. We do not need to decide that we have to declare a winner. Section 2 simply cannot provide a basis for this body to act. But the majority have suggested that Section 2 is not the only authority and they point to the McPherson opinion, and this whole notion—and this is an important notion—that the Legislature has a plenary, or the sole and unlimited power to do as it sees fit with regard to the selection of electors. This is an important notion. Let's understand something about McPherson. When McPherson occurred, African-Americans in this country were counted as three-fifths people. McPherson has to comport and obviously our actions have to comport with the Constitution. Does anybody in this great Chamber think we could decide that only white men who own land can pick electors? Obviously not, because that would violate at least two concepts of our Constitution. So, McPherson is not sort of this idea that we can do as we seem fit whenever we want to. In fact, it's much different than that.

First, the Federal Constitution has only told us we can do the manner, we can decide whether we pick it or whether the people pick it. But, it has also told us that we have to comport with the Constitution. And in fact, in the hundred or so years since McPherson, obviously all those things that give people rights have grown up around this concept of plenary power. But once we create that process, we are obliged to follow it; that's the manner we chose. We gave people the right to request recounts, to create grounds for contest, to create a contest phase in the courts and to give the courts the right to fashion pretty broad remedies.

But there's something else you should note about this, and why it's pretty obvious we can't do whatever we want to. Look at Section 2 itself again. It is by its very nature a conscription on our ability to act. We cannot act until there has been a failure to make a choice. So if everyone stands up and says we can do whatever we want, ask yourself why there's a United States Code provision that says until there has been a failure to make a choice, you must stand down.

You know, the scholars that came before us—and there were a lot more lawyers than I wanted to see, a lot more law professors, I had a bad flashback to law school—who came before us, there is something that the 50 that signed that letter said. And they said that if we act right now, we will be turning this rule on its head. We will find that a failure to act, a failure to reach a vote, has happened when we shouldn't trigger that yet. And they said that the frolic that the Legislature has come will not be merely unwise and irresponsible but it will be also unlawful. And I think that's something we need to think about, whether we are actually committing an unlawful act by attempting to jump into this fray when we really are not allowed to.

Now let's talk about this safe harbor that has been put up here. And the safe harbor is very important, because first of all it's not really relevant to our debate here today. The safe harbor is simply the following: the safe harbor of Section 5 basically says, in very simple terms, it's a pledge between Congress and the states. If we get our act together by December 12th—if we get our act together—and we select a slate by a process that does not change after election day, then our slate will be deemed conclusive. So long as our process is complete and that section talks about contest, so long as there is no contest pending.

There is no question the safe harbor is gone, we are out of the harbor, folks. It doesn't exist anymore. First of all, it doesn't exist because there is a contest. And a lot of you may say, well wait a second, if there is a contest doesn't that mean that the election hasn't reached a conclusion according to that other section, Section 2? And the difference is, see there are two different provisions, not having reached conclusivity is different from failing to make a choice. Those two provisions were created decades apart and have little to do with each in this regard.

But the key here is that it's a promise that if we stick by the rules we will be able to actually have a winner that will be viewed conclusively by the Congress. It is no longer relevant. And by the way, our action cannot put us there because the one thing we know about the safe harbor is that it has to be done by December 12th and I believe our counterparts are not acting until tomorrow. But we also know that we can't change the rules after the election. And clearly we have rules that, in the courts, are suppose to decide this election. And, if we act, it'll be a change in the rules, it'll be something new that obviously was not happening on November 7th when we told people that they should vote to pick their President. So, that's not going to happen.

Now, the best way to assure that our slate is as conclusive as it can be is to rely on the certification that we have sent up on November 26th, which was certified within our legislative framework. Our action might jeopardize, in fact, that slate. The Governor and Secretary Harris have signed that slate. Now that may change if the Vice President prevails; it's possible we'll have to have Governor Jeb Bush send a new slate up to the archivist. If the Supreme Court allows us to count, we count and we have a new winner.

But in any event, if we do nothing, if we follow the minority's amendment and we do nothing, we will always have only one slate. And one slate is always better than two. You see, if you look at Section 15 of Title 3, it tells you the only way, when you have one slate, that one slate will not be counted is if both houses of the federal Congress agree to reject that slate. That's very important. Let me repeat it, the only way to lose your one slate is if both houses agree to reject that slate. And we all know what the current lineup of our House and our Senate is. There's no chance there is going to be agreement to reject the only slate Florida sends up. This clearly will not happen. However, if we throw in our other slate—and this is a second slate—we now have two slates pending before the House and the Senate; two slates in the mix. Now go to Section 15. And according to Section 15, when there are two slates pending, the houses of Congress must agree on which one they prefer. So, the same difficulty you have in rejecting our slate, when there is only one, you have in agreeing on a slate for number two. Now that might not be a problem if all the slates are for Governor Bush, but we are here because we want the process to be fair. And if the Supreme Court turns around the election and the votes count the other way, as the Democrats are hoping, we will have two slates of different parties. And we will have created a serious constitutional problem.

Professor Ackerman said he did not want to even think about it. I'm sure he does want to think about it because that's what, apparently, he likes to do. But this is a real problem and we will have created it because we will have created less conclusivity in this process by our very action.

Now, let me finally speak to the actions and the rulings of the Florida and United States Supreme Courts; and I agree with Representative Alexander, I am not sure why we are here.

Look, it is ironic that the majority is relying so greatly on the Supreme Court's opinions in this matter. And the points that were raised were raised by the Supreme Court. But remember what the high court said to the Florida Supreme Court, think about it. They basically said when they extended that Katherine Harris seven-day deadline—the Supreme Court said to the Florida Supreme Court, you know, we're not sure whether you did that based on a statutory interpretation or whether you did that based upon some frolic of the State Constitution. We don't know what exactly you did. If you did it as a statutory interpretation, it's probably OK. But if you did it otherwise it might endanger the safe harbor. Some other problems, well the safe harbor, when they made that opinion, the safe harbor was still a possibility; it's not any more. But the point is the U.S. Supreme Court was saying, you could have done it right, it's possible you did it wrong.

But what should be important, and the lesson here is that all the concerns that have been raised—and they all have been constitutional concerns for the most part, all the concerns that have been raised—apparently are being reviewed by the United States Supreme Court. They are there right now, they are writing an opinion that is going to shed light for all of us. So, I am unsure as to why we are here. We are about to change a process that we created, while literally just hijacking the entire process and saying everything that's going on in the courts, we don't care about. We have the plenary authority to do as we see fit, when the actual high court of the land is making that decision right now. Now, I may not agree with what the U.S. Supreme Court does or I may, I don't know. But it won't matter what any of us, how much we agree or disagree, because, at the end of the day they are, and no one disputes this, the highest authority in our land. And I wonder why this body believes that we should render an opinion now, when the exact same issues that have been attached for our debate are also being debated by the U.S. Supreme Court, and they will resolve. I don't think anyone here thinks we are better suited or better able to navigate these legal waters.

And I believe that this act really reflects an act that is not befitting of the peoples' House. I don't think that throwing ourselves into this mix in this way is appropriate.

Ultimately, today's impending action, I believe, is an assault on the rule of law, and we have heard about that. But in supporting this extraordinary action, the Republican majority is saying that they do not want the election process to go forward pursuant to the laws that we created. They do not want the courts to consider the appeals. They do not want the established process to run its course.

The Republican majority's resolution is bad government in its worst. I urge you to support the Democratic amendment.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Gelber, your 20 minutes has expired. Representative Frankel, you have about 2 minutes and 27 seconds.

Rep. Frankel: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I would yield the floor to Representative Romeo for some questions.

Speaker Feeney: Just so we're clear, we're going to yield through the Chair. Representative Romeo, you have a question?

Rep. Romeo: Yes, Sir.

Speaker Feeney: And who would you address that question to?

Rep. Romeo: To Representative Frankel.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Romeo, you're recognized for a question if Representative Frankel will yield for an answer.

Rep. Romeo: Thank you, Sir. Representative Frankel, why did our forefathers use an electoral college process rather than just allowing the state Legislators to vote on a President?

Rep. Frankel: Thank you, Representative Romeo. Now you're going to test whether I was listening to our expert testimony this week.

One of the main reasons for using an electoral college is, with my understanding, that the electoral college evaporates right after the election. And it was our forefathers belief that it was in the best interest of the country that a President not be obligated to any particular body that would remain in existence. That's why we have this process of choosing electors and we got away from the fact of having a state Legislature directly choose the President. That's the same reason why the Legislature, why our forefathers, determined that everybody should have the election on the same date, so that one state would not have more influence than another.

Rep. Romeo: Further to my question, Representative Frankel. . .

Speaker Feeney: Representative Romeo, you're recognized for another question.

Rep. Romeo: I apologize, Sir. I'm learning as I go.

Speaker Feeney: You're doing great.

Rep. Romeo: Thank you so much. Are the electors in the resolution the same electors previously certified by Governor Jeb Bush and do they have the legal authority, or how could they lose their legal authority?

Speaker Feeney: Representative Frankel, you've got 23 seconds to answer unless Representative Byrd will give you some additional time. You've got 19 seconds.

Rep. Frankel: Representative Byrd, would you like us just to finish out our questions, and we'll take it off the back end?

Speaker Feeney: Absolutely, you have as long as you like to answer Representative Romeo's question. Representative Frankel, you are recognized.

Rep. Frankel: Thank you. Representative Romeo, from reading the resolution of the majority today, it appears that they have put in their resolution the same electors that have been certified to the National Archives. And it is my understanding that those electors will be the certified electors unless one of two things happen. Really, the only thing that could happen that would change that would be if, in fact, a recount was ordered or allowed by the United States Supreme Court and Al Gore would then win the recount. At that point, it would be up to the Florida Supreme Court to disqualify the Bush electors and then have one of the executive officers of this state certify the Gore electors. The only other thing that could possibly happen is if the Florida Supreme Court's case was vacated and reversed—the first one that was in the United States Supreme Court—all that would mean is that the certification as of November 14th would stand and that also would be Jeb Bush electors. So it seems to me, Representative Romeo, that unless Al Gore wins a recount, and his electors are certified that the same electors that we're trying to certify here today have already been certified.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Romeo, you're recognized for another question.

Rep. Romeo: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To follow up with Representative Frankel, I heard in yesterday's hearings that Justice Kennedy said that the Florida State Legislature had no authority to change the law after the election. How does this relate to the matter in front of us here today?

Speaker Feeney: Representative Frankel, you're recognized for an answer.

Rep. Frankel: Well, thank you. I heard that same statement by Justice Kennedy to one of the attorneys and Justice Kennedy seemed to make it clear that you cannot change the law or the rules after the date of the election. And I think this relates to the fact that although we have plenary ability we are not all-powerful. We can't just do anything we want. And since we set a process and we set in statute, a code, for an election prior to November 7th, that any action we take today, in fact, we would be holding a new election to go ahead and appoint these electors. And it is my belief based upon what Justice Kennedy said that the Federal Court and the United States Supreme Court would hold anything that we did now to be unlawful.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Romeo, you're recognized for another question.

Rep. Romeo: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Representative Frankel, I've also heard a great deal of complaining that once election day is over the votes should not be recounted. What is the standard procedure in the state of Florida to be used in the situation of a recount? And who set those standards?

Speaker Feeney: Representative Frankel, you're recognized for an answer.

Rep. Frankel: Thank you, Representative Romeo. I think the relevant answer to your question here, in this context, would be that it is actually the Florida Legislature in our law books that set the procedure for the recount and also the standards to use the intent of the voter. And that is the issue that is being litigated and is in the United States Supreme Court now. But it was the Florida Legislature that set that process.

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative Frankel. Representative Romeo, do you have another question?

Rep. Romeo: Yes, Mr. Speaker, this is my last question.

Speaker Feeney: You're recognized.

Rep. Romeo: Appreciate it, thank you so much. There is a committee in the House that has been set up to hear an election contest of a state legislative race. How is that contest different from presidential contest?

Speaker Feeney: Representative Frankel, you're recognized for an answer.

Rep. Frankel: Representative Romeo, for a freshman you sure have a lot of good questions. [laughter] [applause] You get four stars today. But that is a very good question. If you look at the laws of this state and the Rules of this Legislature we actually reserve the right to hear the election contest for state legislators. And, in fact as the Members may remember, we do have a contest coming up that was filed by our former Member, Representative Tullis. And so we hear in this body the election contest of state representatives, but it's specifically written in law we have provided a judicial forum to hear the contest elections for all other candidates, including the President. That is why we have this presidential contest that's been working its way through the courts and now in the United States Supreme Court. So I want to thank you for that good question.

Speaker Feeney: Thank you. Representative Frankel, if it's your desire, what we'd like to do now, there is an amendment pending.

Representative Frankel moves that we temporarily pass the amendment.

We'll get back to that in approximately 30 minutes, after the proponents have had an opportunity. We're going to go back to the main resolution, with the consent of the Minority Leader, and we're going to provide approximately 30 minutes to the proponents to be led by Representative Byrd. And we're back on the main resolution. The anticipation is we will get back to the amendment in about 30 minutes so that the opponents of the main resolution can further proceed explaining and arguing for their amendment.

[Further consideration of Amendment 2 was temporarily postponed under Rule 11.10 and the House returned to consideration of HCR 1-A.]

Representative Byrd, you are recognized on the main resolution.

Rep. Byrd: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We would request a 30-minute block of time and I would request to yield to Representative Fasano for 5 minutes.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Fasano, you're recognized.

Rep. Fasano: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Members, we stand here today facing the very real possibility that, in the selection of America's next President, Florida's voice may be mute. After almost six weeks of legal challenge after legal challenge, and delay after delay, there is still a lingering doubt as to the validity of our 25 representatives in the electoral college.

It is simply unconscionable that we could leave here today without absolutely and finally guaranteeing that Florida's 15 million people are represented on December 18th.

It is not our option, nor our choice, but our sacred constitutional duty.

And, with your permission, I'd like to read it to you one more time. "Whenever any state has held an election for the purpose of choosing electors, and has failed to make a choice on the day prescribed by law, the electors may be appointed on a subsequent day in such a manner as the Legislature of such State may direct."

Members, with every vote, every bill, and every measure we pass as a body, there is an ultimatum that we must all adhere to, the United States Constitution. It is bold as it stands, deafening as it speaks, and all-encompassing as it governs.

It is the ultimate defender of our nation's people, and a timeless predator of impediments on our free society. It allows a country of individuals to stand together as one, equally protected, equally represented.

It is a document that recognizes no colors, no genders, and no politics. By all accounts, it is the sole pillar of our society.

It is a manifesto of sorts, authored by 38 men who had a vision, ambition, and will to construct the framework of a free, self-governing society yet had the foresight and humility to place in reserve, corrective passages.

Members, I speak of your commitment today. A commitment to represent, as the Constitution calls us to do, all Floridians who exercised their most precious right as an American on November 7th.

But now the ultimate privilege stands the risk of falling prey to courtrooms and litigation. To allow legal briefs and appeals to play substitute for Florida's votes and electors would demonstrate a complete lack of stewardship on our part as elected officials. Yet we are not here to cast blame or find fault, as any such declaration would simply be a step backwards. We must keep in mind that the citizens of Florida put us in office to ensure every step we take as a state is a step forward. In doing so, we must not make a mistake by going in motion just for reaction.

We must act in the will of the people. We must act with courage, foresight, and humility. We must stand above all lines of division, pausing not to find reason to delay but rather to recognize a call to action, to act as the ultimate public servants, hearing only the will of our people and being guided by the conscience of each. We must act not as pieces to a partisan chess game, but rather as statesmen—working not in the interest of a candidate for office, but in compliance with the framework which has thus created the office.

It is not our duty to select the next President of the United States, Members; that is not what we were elected to do. But rather it is our duty, Members, to strictly adhere to all such direction spelled out in the United States Constitution.

Ladies and gentlemen, I submit to you, as elected representatives it is now that we are called upon to uphold the laws of our Union, which are written amongst the words in our Constitution, and, Members, I would ask you to support the resolution offered by Representative Cantens. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Thank you, Members.

Speaker Feeny: Thank you. Representative Fasano yields back the balance of his time to Representative Byrd. Representative Byrd, you are recognized.

Rep. Byrd: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We would yield 12 minutes to Representative Maygarden.

Speaker Feeny: Representative Maygarden, for the proponents, you are recognized for 12 minutes.

Rep. Maygarden: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, and I appreciate the opportunity. I know that we are going to cast thousands of votes in here in the course of a session, but probably none will ever have the gravity of the one we consider here today.

I promise not to take the 12 minutes. There has been a lot of good things said here already, and I am not a lawyer, Mr. Speaker, in fact, which my parents are probably grateful since November 7th. So I am not going to try to relive the law. But I am a student of human behavior and observation, and I am going to take the liberty, as Representative Goodlette did, to resurrect the life of a person gone past. He brought up Hamilton and Alexander. I want to talk about a young Frenchman who came to our country in the mid-19th century, who was a good observationist. He traveled our back roads, he visited our small hamlets, as well as our cities, and he really absorbed our culture. He recorded some astute observations about the political, social, and economic life here in America. He recorded them in a two-volume treatise entitled Democracy in America.

Alexis de Tocqueville wrote, "There is only one country on the face of the earth where the citizens enjoy unlimited freedom of association for political purposes." Young Mr. de Tocqueville recognized that he had really come face-to-face with a very special nation. A place that derived its authority, a place that derived all of its power from the governed—from the people themselves. And I know we are talking a lot about law, but I want us to focus a little bit on human behavior and the people concerned with this issue.

America is a place where people can come together. It is a place where we come together to build better communities and shape our national destiny. We don't rely on kings, or potentates, or royal magistrates, or other such people to conduct our public affairs. We come together as a people, of our own free will, to select our leaders, engage in honest discourse. From time to time we have to build great public works. But we come together to resolve the complex problems of a truly great society and that is why we are here today. We have come together for the purpose of fulfilling our oath to uphold, and protect, and defend the Constitution of the United States of America. We have come together, I think, to right a wrong and to express our collective distaste for a national political contest that has, somehow, slipped off the track; it has sort of eased into a morass of perplexing legalese, and from time to time some low-lying political rhetoric. And I happen to believe that the 2000 election is spiraling out of control and we really must stop it now.

We have come together to express our heartfelt concern over the manner in which our votes—and let me emphasize here, not just the votes of Floridians, but the votes of Americans, people from coast to coast, from sea to shining sea. I don't know if you have been trying to read your e-mail or not. I was knocking them down at about one every 20 to 30 seconds, there for two weeks. And we are getting it from all over the country. They are deeply concerned about their vote and what their vote means. Not just the people of Palm Beach County or Broward—who are certainly very important to those of us here in the Legislature—but Americans. This is their election and they are afraid that their votes being systematically devalued in favor of a languishing debate over hanging chads and pregnant chads and dimpled chads.

Every time there is an election in this country, unfortunately, ballots are kicked out as invalid or illegal, because the voter may have failed to follow instructions, maybe didn't complete the task, or simply refused to cast a vote for the choices available. I understand, at least I have been told, there are nearly 2 million such votes that have existed since the November 7th count all across America.

There is no way, ladies and gentlemen, I submit to you, humanly possible to discern the clear intent of every voter after the fact. Now I've received an awful lot of mail and sadly most Americans are convinced that we have somehow put common sense to death and substituted, in its place, endless legal arguments and silver-tongued lawyers hell-bent to destroy the American electoral process. I submit to you, ladies and gentlemen, that this, the course we've been on since November 7th, is fatally flawed and extremely dangerous and as Representative Dockery said, "spiraling out of control."

Now, I know you're going to hear some anecdotal evidence from the loyal opposition as to why it is necessary to seek a—and hear me now—"full, fair and accurate count of all the ballots." And today I heard "assault" and I heard "hijack." So, Mr. Speaker, I want to close with a personal anecdotal story from my hometown, one that troubles me greatly.

Last month, I was handed a memo, and I brought a copy of it with me if any of you ever want to see it, from a lawyer by the name of Herron, no doubt a good lawyer, probably a fine person, outlining what it takes to discredit, or at least outlining the procedures to discredit, so-called "overseas ballots."

Now I've got to tell you something, the audacity of such instruction sort of stirred my emotion. You see, Mr. Speaker, most overseas ballots come from young men and women wearing the uniform of the United States military. And as you know, I live in a naval town—Pensacola, the Cradle of Naval Aviation. It is not uncommon to meet and greet combat heroes, former POWs from every world confrontation, and commanding officers from all branches of the military who, at one time or at least on more than one occasion, have jumped into harm's way for the preservation and the extension of freedom.

Now, I couldn't help wondering what they must think of a political strategy that would seek to systemically strip service men and women of their right to vote. Well, I got an answer two Saturdays ago. We held a good old-fashioned rally in front of the old courthouse in Pensacola. As you might expect, all of the local political figures were there. Representative Miller was there, along with Senator Clary. Congressman Joe Scarborough was a featured speaker, and all of us got an opportunity to lament the current crisis. But there were, however, three speakers on the platform who seemed, well they seemed out of place. They were three retired Admirals—old salts of the highest rank—they had joined the rally to express serious concerns about a system that would discard the votes of military men and women overseas.

Now, if you know anything at all about career military, you must know that they don't engage in political protest. Their job is to serve the Commander-in-Chief without regard for political persuasion. But they were deeply troubled to think that a young airman on duty in the Middle East, or a sentry on guard near the DMZ in Korea, or a young sailor standing watch at sea, or perhaps even a survivor of the USS Cole, might be denied their suffrage. They elected to speak out on a political matter, a matter of grave importance, for the first and only time in their long careers. And between the three of them it spanned 80 years of military career.

Surely, "a full, fair and accurate count" would include votes cast by American defenders of liberty on guard around the world. Yet, I read in the Sunday edition, I think you have a copy of it on your desk, the Sunday edition, of the Fort Lauderdale Sun-Sentinel, that the loyal opposition has, once again, filed another legal challenge requesting the court, requesting the judge to overturn a judge's decree to count some 2400 overseas ballots. So much for "a full, fair and accurate count." I submit to you that all of America counts. All the votes that have spilled out of those machines because they were dimpled or punched in the wrong direction or whatever the reason may be, those became illegal, and we can't just forget those Americans, and we certainly shouldn't forget the Americans who serve us overseas.

Last week, Mr. Speaker, you invited our attention to Federalist 68, and Representative Goodlette did the same thing today, by Alexander Hamilton. You pointed out that Hamilton described the selection of electors and the participation of the Legislature as designed "to afford as little opportunity as possible [for] tumult and disorder." Well I read on, Mr. Speaker, it is dangerous to point me in the right direction, and I found something else I thought you might find interesting. It is included in that same essay "we may safely pronounce," Hamilton said, "that the true test of a good government is its aptitude and tendency to produce a good administration." I happen to think we have the greatest government ever devised under the watchful eyes of God Almighty. And I trust that we will adopt House Concurrent Resolution 1-A and get on with the business of establishing a good resolution. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. [applause]

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative Maygarden. Representative Byrd, you've got approximately 15 minutes and 46 seconds until we're going to return to the amendment. You're recognized.

Rep. Byrd: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We yield to Senator Diaz-Balart for 8 minutes.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Diaz-Balart, you're recognized for 8 minutes.

Rep. Diaz-Balart: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm glad that my colleague mentioned common sense. We've heard a lot of people spinning the story in the press outside these Chambers. And what I keep hearing is only part of the story. And, I can't blame both sides, or all the sides, who do that—they all want to make sure that their part of the story comes out. But I think it is important that we understand the entire story.

I think where there is a huge disagreement, Mr. Speaker, between some of us and some of our friends in the minority, is this: is there a chance that Florida has failed to make a decision? And we heard today by my wonderful, bright colleague from south Florida, saying that, no, Florida has not failed to make a choice. I would just want to pose a question. The reason that Florida, probably, has failed to make a choice is twofold. Number one, obviously, that it looks like the Supreme Court of Florida changed the rules after the election. That's pretty clear. The United States Supreme Court showed that it was pretty clear. There is another reason though; which is that we are still in litigation. And I would, pretty much, pose the question not to us here, ask any American in the entire country; no, don't even do that, ask any fourth grader in the entire country, whether the results of this election are a certainty. I have asked some of them. They have told me, "I don't think so." So, again, common sense. Let's bring some common sense.

You know there is not one person here, I can speak for the Democrats and the Republicans on this, that doesn't believe that every vote should count. That is part of the story. Every vote, Mr. Speaker, needs to be counted, equally. You cannot have preferential treatment for votes in this country. You can't decide that one vote is more important than another vote in this country.

My dear friends, we're going to be spending a lot of time the next couple of years on reapportionment. We all know that. And we're going to learn more than we want to learn about the Voting Rights Act. The Voting Rights Act, as you know, passed in '65, and was amended in '82. It was originally to make sure that African-Americans were not disenfranchised in the electoral process. In 1982, it was amended to include minorities of language, such as Hispanics.

You all know how much I love this institution. When I was serving in this institution in 1992, I sued this very own institution, because I thought and I felt that Hispanics and African-Americans were not being treated equally and that it was a violation of the Voting Rights Act in the United States of America. Let me give you a little story of why I bring that up.

Let me explain to you how that relates to, for example, what happened in Dade County, my beloved Miami-Dade County. You'll recall that they started counting the entire county, because that's what Judge King said the law required. And that is what the law requires. And when they were counting the entire county, they all of a sudden realized that they were going to run out of time, I guess. So they stopped counting. But, let me tell you what they had counted when they stopped counting. In a county that is over 50 percent Hispanic. I don't mean to be disrespectful, but it is hard to go to Dade County and not find Hispanics, people like me, people like Cantens, people like Annie Betancourt, it's tough to not find us. We are very proud that it's tough to not find us. But, yet when the canvassing board was counting the votes, they somehow counted 62 percent of the white, non-minority vote. They counted 21 percent of the African-American vote, we're glad for that. But somehow, they were only able to get to 2 percent of the Hispanic vote. And then they realized that was not a fair, partial count, that they were clearly discriminating a protected class under the Voting Rights Act. Let me quote from Judge King. And he said, I quote, I do not disagree that every attempt should be made to do so, to recount for a third time, but not at the expense, sir, and I hope you understand this, because the republic is watching, not at the expense of disenfranchising one voter. That's why they stopped, because they knew that they could not be fair, and they could not protect the votes of the Hispanic community in Miami-Dade County.

You know when the Supreme Court of Florida then decided in their wisdom to take and accept a partial recount of Miami-Dade County that the canvassing board said was illegal because they were not counting Hispanic votes. They clearly were not only in violation of the rules of the statutes of the Equal Protection Clause of the United States Constitution, but also as a Voting Rights Act that I sued this institution in order to protect that those minorities not be disenfranchised. Again, the full story. Yes, every vote counts. The full story though is every vote counts equally.

Mr. Speaker, if we don't pass this resolution we may very well witness the disenfranchising of every single Floridian. Not one single vote may mean anything, if we just sit back here, because even fourth graders know that Florida has got a bit of a problem. Let's admit it folks. We've got a bit of a problem. We've got a thousand lawyers out there making in an hour more than we make in a year. God bless them. I love that. [laughter] And, Mr. Speaker, that would be a great shame, because not only would that be a shame for the American people, for the people of the state of Florida.

Mr. Speaker, we all took an oath of office, to uphold the Constitution of the United States of America. If we do not do that, why are we here? And Mr. Speaker, I would respectfully, respectfully say that we need to support this resolution. We don't have a choice. We cannot sit back and allow not one or a thousand or a hundred thousand—and allow every single voter in the state of Florida to be disenfranchised. The only way that we can guarantee that doesn't happen, and the only way we can be truthful to the oath of office that we all took, in my humble opinion, is to support Representative Cantens' resolution.

Mr. Speaker, with that I would like to waive the remaining part of my time back to Representative Byrd. [applause]

Speaker Feeney: Representative Byrd, Representative Diaz-Balart has yielded you back 14 seconds of his time. [laughter] And you're recognized.

Rep. Byrd: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We yield the rest of our 30-minute block, approximately 5 minutes and 14 seconds, to Representative Argenziano.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Argenziano, you're recognized.

Rep. Argenziano: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Members, I am not an attorney, I do not slice baloney for a living, and I am not given to lexical alchemy. I am just a citizen, who, in this time and place, is trying to do the job I was sent here to do. And the way the rules keep changing in this election it reminds me of a chameleon changing to accommodate the circumstances and the situations. I am not referring to the mere interpretations, I am referring to substantive changes, where you and I would have to file a bill to effect such changes.

Some examples: The date of certification was changed. Florida Law provides discretion to the Secretary of State as to acceptance of vote tallies and certification. The court usurped that statutory authority and mandated a new date for certification out of thin air. Statewide recounts were mandated when they weren't even requested. The discretion of the Miami-Dade Canvassing Board was usurped in compelling a manual recount. The state statute requires that the clear intent of the voter be determined.

But, and I know all of you have been through this, after viewing many times on TV two and three members of a canvassing board anguishing, they're straining, holding the ballot up to the light, even using magnifying glasses to determine the intent of the voter, performing all manner of ocular acrobatics, somehow the meaning of the word "clear" has been made "unclear." It can't be clear if they have to go through all that. Maybe who we need is Johnny Carson—remember Johnny Carson—Johnny Carson's Karnak to hold the ballot up to his forehead and psychically determine the intent of the voter.

The bottom line is that the rules keep changing. You can't do that after the fact. And as long as there is legal controversy, as long as that remains, there's a darn good chance that we're going to lose all of Florida's votes. Make no mistake, we certainly do have a constitutional obligation to protect and secure those votes. I have no doubt about that.

This whole election swamp is a result of uncertain votes, uncertain votes, ones we are not sure how the voter intended to vote or if the voter intended to vote at all. We should and must be concerned with those certain votes, the ones where the voters made their selections very clear and made them in accordance with the rules.

I urge my colleagues to vote to secure those clear, intentional votes of the people of the State of Florida and bring some finality to this process that has just ever-changing rules. So I thank you, Mr. Speaker, and I yield my time back to Representative Byrd.

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative Argenziano. [applause]

Representative Byrd, you've got about 3 minutes and 40 seconds if you wish to use it.

Rep. Byrd: We'd like to reserve that, Mr. Speaker.

Speaker Feeney: OK. Representative Frankel moves that the House do now return to consideration of the Frankel amendment. Is that the motion you wish to make, Representative Frankel?

Rep. Frankel: Yes, thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Speaker Feeney: All those in favor please state so by saying Aye; all those opposed, Nay. [voice vote] We're back on the amendment and I would ask the Clerk to read the Frankel amendment.

[The House returned to consideration of Amendment 2, which was read.]

Representative Frankel, you have got approximately 30 minutes, and you are recognized to advocate on behalf of your amendment.

Rep. Frankel: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. At this time I would yield to Representative Chris Smith for 8 minutes.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Smith, you are recognized for 8 minutes as a proponent of the amendment to the main resolution.

Rep. Smith: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise today in support of the strike-all amendment.

But, before I make my comments, I'd like to address a couple of comments that have been made. We've heard about the courts changing the rules, and changing the rules, and how this is so bad, but let's not forget Members, the first thing we did today, the first thing we did when this session started was to change the rules. We have a special circumstance, we changed the rules. We changed the rules on this session. We changed the rules on the speaking order, we changed the rules by what vehicle to use. We changed the rules in order to get the peoples' will heard. Even today, when Representative Frankel had to answer a question, we had a rule. It said your time is up. What did we do? Representative Byrd, in his good heart, stood up and said I waive that rule and, Representative Frankel, you can finish answering your question. Why? Because it was the right thing to do. So as we stand here today and talk about changing rules, changing rules, changing rules, let's not forget we changed rules to be here today.

Now, right now, the Supreme Court is listening to—is deciding on this issue. But here we stand today trying to usurp the responsibility of the courts. We are better than that. We are much better than that.

If we walk through history and look at times when the courts have ruled and bodies have spoken in contravention of the courts, we are better than that. We are better than the Texas Legislature of 1920. Let me tell you what they did in Texas. In Texas they had white-only primaries. The court spoke and said you know what? That is wrong. You cannot disenfranchise people. So the Texas Legislature went in session, and said OK, it is not mandatory you have white-only primaries; but it is permissive to have white-only primaries. The court again said that is wrong, you are disenfranchising people so the Texas Legislature went back in and said OK, political parties are now private clubs so they can have their own election. The Supreme Court went in again and said that is wrong, you cannot disenfranchise people. We are better than Texas. We're better than that.

The Oklahoma Legislature back in the 1920s came up with a set of rules that disenfranchise people. And one of their rules, believe it or not, was literacy tests. The Supreme Court came in and said you know what? That is wrong. They had a godfather clause. That is wrong, you cannot disenfranchise people and what did the Legislature do? It went right back in session and came up with other rules, anything to disenfranchise voters in Oklahoma. We're better than Oklahoma, ladies and gentlemen. We're better than Texas, ladies and gentlemen.

As I look around this Chamber I know we are better, because I see Representative Diaz-Balart, I see Representative Phillip Brutus, I see Representative Betancourt. I see a myriad of people. I see a rainbow of people. We are better than those legislators of past.

We are better than the Mississippi Legislature of 1890, the Alabama Legislature of 1901, that despite court rulings went in and tried to disenfranchise people with all kinds of voting trickery to keep people from voting. They even came up with a eight box rule, that said when you go in to vote you have to put each vote in the right box. What they would do in the minority districts is change around the boxes and don't label the boxes. They went through all kinds of legal trickery to disenfranchise voters. We are better than that.

We should not be here. We should not be doing what we're doing today as long as the Supreme Court, as long as the Supreme Court sits in Washington now deciding, we should not be in session. I should be home, as a lawyer, billing hours, I am sure my partners are glad to hear that. And we all should be in our districts or doing other works for the people. We're better than those past legislators. If we do not know our history, we're doomed to repeat it.

Let's look at our history of disenfranchisement of people through circumvention and contravention of the Supreme Court. Let's not forget during the discrimination cases, the anti-discrimination cases, the state legislators went in and came up with all kinds of rules. That you had governors calling in National Guard to contravene what the Supreme Court had said, that you had state legislators coming up with all kinds of rules to get around what the courts have said; ladies and gentlemen, we need to wait to see what the courts will say. Representative Diaz-Balart brought up a good point earlier, about the voting in Miami and how they did not count in Hispanic districts. That is absurd. I am from Broward County and I spend a lot of time in Dade County, you cannot get around Hispanic districts in Dade County.

Up in Broward County, most of the ballots thrown out were in African-American precincts, were in my precincts. I had the highest number in Florida of disenfranchised voters' ballots thrown out. If we want to be here today, that's what we should be here about. That's what our committees should be hearing. Our committees need to be talking about polling places changing without telling people where they are. Our committees need to hear about voters not being assisted in the voting booths, our committees need to be here and we need to be here discussing Haitian precincts that did not have ballots in Creole.

If we want to spend time in Tallahassee, if we want to spend the time here, to do the right thing by the people of Florida, to do the right thing by this election, we need to be here discussing things like Representative Diaz-Balart said, we need to be here discussing the disenfranchisement of people of the state of Florida. So I rise in support of this strike-all amendment, because what it does is it leaves the decision up to the courts and then ultimately the people of Florida, not us. I voted November the 7th, I'm through voting for President, and I hope the rest of us are. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. [applause]

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative Smith.

Representative Frankel, you're recognized. Representative Smith yields back the balance of his time to you.

Rep. Frankel: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I would yield to Representative Joyner for 3 minutes.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Joyner, welcome to the House, you're recognized for 3 minutes.

Rep. Joyner: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise today to speak in favor of the amendment.

I rise in praise of our great country. And I rise with a public acknowledgement of my gratitude at being able to serve the citizens of this great state. But more importantly, I rise as Sojourner Truth rose, as a female patriot of color, to tell her audience "what time it is."

Ladies and gentlemen, Sojourner's launch and this opportunity for Arthenia Joyner are centuries apart, yet we still need to be reminded of the time.

It is time to consider the moral responsibility of this august body. It is time to place foremost in our thoughts, the citizens of this great state. It is time to advocate for the lowest and the least.

Each of us can bring to bear the power of our office to this occasion. We can, in fact, threaten, bully, and bluster our way to resolution. I urge you, instead, to don the mantle of compassion and forge your way into the deep waters of conscience.

Our collective action, without decency and integrity, will go down as one of the darkest moments in Florida's history. But our individual commitment to fairness can and will lift us all to the level of statesmen, a goal to which each of us should strive.

History will long remember what we do here today. Our measure of who we are and what we are depends on how we act in this time of controversy. I, therefore, ask you to rise for every citizen of this great state, regardless of age, gender, or ethnicity, and ensure by whatever means necessary to have every vote count.

It is upon this inalienable right that our country was founded. When Crispus Attucks, a black man, was felled by the first bullet in the American Revolution, he made it possible for us to convene here today.

I beg you to leave clean his legacy. Let us not sully his sacrifice with political partisan efforts. I challenge you to rise and stand tall as servants and protectors of the citizens of Florida.

Lest we forget, there was a time when African-Americans were considered three-fifths of a person as proclaimed by legislative fiat; then by legislative fiat we became a whole person. We must not go back. Let every vote count. Thank you.

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative Joyner. Representative Frankel, if you have additional time you're welcome to yield it back at any Members but it will count against the team clock. Representative Frankel, you're recognized.

Rep. Frankel: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I would yield to Representative Gannon for 3 minutes, please.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Gannon, welcome to the House and you're recognized.

Rep. Gannon: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Members, I rise to speak in favor of this amendment. On November 2, 1920, Charlotte Woodard stepped into a poll to cast her vote for the very first time at the age of 81. In 1848, at the age of 19, she attended the Seneca Falls Women's Rights Convention, an event that would spark a movement, not unlike the one our founders started with the Declaration of Independence.

These women and men gathered in New York to declare that a nation of the people should be true to its fundamental principle. The long road that combined the efforts of the nation's most treasured figures, Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Sojourner Truth, Frederick Douglass, and Susan B. Anthony are just a few who weathered imprisonment and hardship so that America could realize its promise. By the time victory came, Charlotte Woodard would be the only living alumni to partake from the fruit of their labor, one vote from the many voices that rippled through the text of history.

Our history is filled with intense struggle over voting. It is a right that has come at a high price, but liberty rarely comes easily. And today, I focus on the battle that allows me, as an elected official, the battle that allowed me to vote on November 7th, in case we forget the basic principle that has brought us to this point.

In a speech before the Seneca Falls Convention, Clara Barton pleaded with the American people, "Brothers, when you were weak, and I was strong, I toiled for you. Now you are strong, and I ask your aid. I ask the ballot for myself and my sex. As I stood by you, I pray you stand by me and mine." It is the plea similar to those issued by some of our citizens in Florida over the past few weeks. However strong those voices gathered, the opposition was no less strident and claimed that the suffrage movement would lessen the influence of the intelligence and true, and increase the influence of the ignorant and vicious. The word ignorance has rung through the nation for a month now meant to diminish the value of our constituents.

Just as Charlotte Woodard displays the meaning of a single vote cast at a poll. I am also reminded of the power a vote can hold in this Legislature. In 1919, 35 of the necessary 36 states had ratified the 19th Amendment. The battle came down to Nashville, Tennessee, and all sides. . . .

Speaker Feeney: Representative Gannon, if we can, let's see if we can get Representative Frankel to yield you an additional 30 seconds or whatever her desire is.

Rep. Frankel: Mr. Speaker, yield 30 seconds.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Gannon, you're recognized for 30 additional seconds.

Rep. Gannon: Mr. Speaker. It was a cause that had seen many setbacks and disappointments. The Civil War and World War I had taken place and at both times the leader of our country asked the suffrage movement to halt their activities.

Today, crisis is warned of or even threatened in order to bring this debate to an end. Yet what crisis will follow if we choose to ignore the votes of the people? Are we the product of those who struggled or those who struggled against? Every vote should count, not for any political purpose but rather a moral one. Each vote bears the weight of our history on its back and is made sacred by the sacrifice it required. That cannot be ignored.

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative Gannon. Representative Frankel, you are recognized.

Rep. Frankel: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I yield to Representative Betancourt for 2 minutes.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Betancourt, you're recognized for 2 minutes.

Representative Betancourt, this won't count against your time. I wanted to thank you, personally, and all the other members of the Joint Select Committee and the Select Committee. You did a marvelous job and the House is proud of the job that all of you did.

So, Representative Betancourt, you are back on your 2 minutes.

Rep. Betancourt: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, and thank you for allowing me to serve on the Select Committee. Members, I rise today to speak in favor of the amendment and I also want to share a personal account with you all. In 1972, I became a naturalized American. I immediately registered to vote and I was no longer a second-class citizen. I could fully participate in this experiment we call democracy. I have cast a vote in every single election. I represent a lot of people just like me, people who came to this country and embraced the freedom that America represents.

Our form of government protects the rights of individuals to express themselves. There is no voice more powerful than the vote of a citizen. The right to vote is the right to participate. It is also the right to speak, but more importantly, the right to be heard. I deeply believe that every vote should count, and that is why I became involved, for years, with the League of Women Voters, an organization where I served as president. And we volunteered often with the Department of Elections in being unbiased observers on election night. I am here today to ensure that every vote counts.

This process, in my opinion, is moving right along. The Florida Legislature should be out of this disputed presidential election. In my opinion, this is the wrong way to go. I believe the Legislature takes any action today, it cuts the peoples' role in the process of electing the President. And we would show that we have lost faith in the principles. Members, this weekend I had the opportunity to visit our nation's capital . . .

Speaker Feeney: Representative Betancourt, your 2 minutes is up. Representative Frankel, Representative Betancourt's 2 minutes is up; she may desire some additional time.

Rep. Frankel: Thirty seconds.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Frankel yields 30 seconds. Representative Betancourt, you're recognized.

Rep. Betancourt: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I just want to ask together that we as Floridians restore integrity in the electoral process. God knows we have a monumental task ahead of us. And although the unspeakable word of fraud has not come up, I'm sure it will come up, particularly when it comes to absentee ballots. Together we must work very hard, Members, to ensure that every vote counts. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative Betancourt.

Representative Frankel, you are recognized and by my clock you've got about 12 minutes left until we get back to the main resolution. You are recognized, Representative Frankel.

Rep. Frankel: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I yield to Representative Richardson for 1 minute.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Richardson, thank you for inviting Pastor Green to be with us today and you are recognized.

Rep. Richardson: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Mr. Speaker, I rise to speak in favor of the Frankel amendment. Mr. Speaker, I represent a district that is heavily populated by African-American voters. And traditionally African-Americans have been disengaged from the electoral process. They have believed that if they voted, their vote wouldn't count, or their vote didn't matter. And through the Herculean efforts of many individuals and organizations during this election cycle, African-Americans were convinced that the issues were so great and that the stakes were so high for our community that it was imperative that we turn out to vote and vote in record numbers, which we did. Now African-Americans are watching as their votes are not counted in record numbers in precincts that are populated by African-American voters. Those votes are being thrown out. They are being accused of not being intelligent enough to vote.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Richardson, thank you. Representative Frankel, I have a suggestion and if we can stop the clock. Because you have a lot of Members wishing to speak, and you have Members that have prepared for a minute or two, but things sometimes take longer—maybe if you will yield some additional time and whatever is left we will yield back to you, you will not lose it. That way the Chair doesn't have to interrupt Members who are speaking, and with that, Representative Richardson requests an additional minute, 30 seconds. Thirty seconds, Representative Frankel yields an additional 30 seconds.

Rep. Frankel: Thank you. Yes.

Rep. Richardson: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, I would suggest to you, ladies and gentlemen of the House of Representatives today, that if we take this action we will again tell the voters of the state of Florida, particularly those in African-American precincts, that neither do your votes count nor do they matter, in selecting who your President will be. The Legislature will usurp that authority from you. And, Mr. Speaker, I would suggest that that is not the path that this Legislature wants to take, today. So I would encourage each of you to support the Frankel amendment. Thank you very much.

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative. Representative Frankel, you are recognized.

Rep. Frankel: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We yield to Representative Sobel for 3 minutes.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Sobel, you are recognized for 3 minutes.

Rep. Sobel: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Colleagues, good afternoon. I rise to support the strike-all amendment to the Concurrent Resolution 1-A.

I also rise on this momentous day in the history of Florida because partisan politics has replaced the will of the people. Prior to this election, we heard over and over again how people count, how all our issues were people driven, how the will of the people was important. After the election not the people of this great state or nation are paramount, but it is machines, machines that are being touted as the ultimate authority.

My grandparents came to this great country on a crowded freighter, cramped into tight ship quarters from Tsarist Russia, because they believed this was the country where their voices would be heard, that their votes would be counted. If they lived in Florida today, their votes would not be counted because some people believe machines count more than people.

My ninety-year-old father- and mother-in-law, who live in Broward County, went to the polls and wanted their votes to be counted. Did they push the stylus through the hole so that their chads fell out? They don't know. But with a hand recount, that should not be thrown out by the courts, they can be assured that their votes will be counted and count.

There were no founding mothers when creating the Constitution. In 1919, women fought for and won the right to vote, because women believed how important it was to vote and be counted. Women make up more than 50 percent of our population and their votes should be counted. Women of Florida will be denied their right to vote if we don't manually count their votes.

And what about our African-American, our Haitian, our Hispanic and Asian brothers and sisters? All minorities who went to vote, some for the first time, in the greatest democracy in the history of the world, who would like to have their votes counted, we all know that they will be disenfranchised unless we count their ballots by hand, not just by machines.

As you know, I am from Broward County, representing people who overwhelmingly voted for Al Gore and Joe Lieberman. My constituents had their votes counted by hand, not just by machines. In Broward, we addressed the inadequacies of a machine count. No doubt we need to address the urgent demand for new, modern voting machinery, not only in Broward County, but in all other counties in Florida that use this antiquated, flawed system of voting. But for now, with the archaic punch card ballot machinery we have in place here in Florida, we need a manual recount. What does this historic event look like to the rest of the world—I'll speed it up—where the Florida Legislature has taken upon itself. . . .

Speaker Feeney: Representative Sobel, Representative Frankel yields you an additional 30 seconds.

Rep. Sobel: What kind of democracy are we living in, if the will of the people will be thwarted by partisan politics and a rush to judgment? We need to exercise restraint and patience and let democracy reign. Why should my vote count here today, when the peoples' votes are not being counted in Florida? Thank you, and God bless America.

Speaker Feeney: Thank you. Representative Sobel yields back the balance of her time. Representative Frankel, you're recognized.

Rep. Frankel: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I yield to Representative Rich, for 3 minutes.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Rich, you're recognized for 3 minutes.

Rep. Rich: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Members, I speak in favor of the strike-all amendment. On November 7th, as we all know, 6 million Floridians went to the polls to cast their votes for those who would represent them at all levels of government. In doing this they expressed the paramount right in our democracy, to vote and have your vote counted. House District 97, the district I now represent, has, I have been told, the largest number of voters, registered voters, in the state—over 121,000. The Supervisor of Elections in Broward County placed over 8,000 of those voters, in my own precinct, in Weston. On election day I watched the voters in my precinct come back two and three times to cast their vote. All day long I watched voters wait in lines that were an hour to an hour and a half long because they wished to express their precious right to vote. I watched my excited 7-year-old grandson pass out literature to voters in those lines for 4 1/2 hours, asking them to vote for his grandmother. I watched voters stream to another precinct in my district, this one filled with senior citizens, who take their right to vote very seriously. This Lauderhill precinct continually receives awards for the highest percentage of voting in Broward County. In the end 53,410 voters in District 97 voted for Vice President Gore, and 29,262 voted for Governor Bush. What do I now say to my grandson and to all these voters? The Florida Legislature wants to disenfranchise you? They want to appoint their own slate of electors? That flies in the face of all those voters who took their duty seriously and braved long lines to cast their votes. It is arrogant, presumptuous, and many believe unlawful for the Florida Legislature to take this election into their own hands. I believe it is a reckless move to usurp the role of our courts and ignore the will of the people.

Long ago this country decided that the judiciary was the right place to resolve questions about the law. In the election before us we have laws to govern this process. I urge this Legislature to let the contest of the presidential election be played out in the courts. Let us take no action to interfere with the lawful, on-going election process created by the Florida Legislature prior to the election of November 7th. Let us all respect the rule of law and then, let us all get on with the important business of the people of the state of Florida for which we were all elected. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Rich, thank you very much. You yield back the balance of your time to Representative Frankel.

Rep. Frankel: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, I yield to Representative Bendross-Mindingall.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Frankel yields to Representative Bendross-Mindingall, who is recognized. Welcome.

Rep. Bendross-Mindingall: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Mr. Speaker and my colleagues, I stand this morning to support the strike-all amendment.

In 1863, a tall straggly man stood very tall on principle and articulated softly on faith that all men are created equal. There are some who don't. During the course of my campaigning I went to my constituents. Some of them were standing in line as they usually do on weekends to purchase food items. Some of them were under the trees making certain that all is well in their neighborhood. Some were catching jitneys and buses. I represent a large number of very poor people. I talked with them and they said "we are not voting." And I asked the question, "why?" "Because it does not matter, it will not count." Now as I stand here do I go back and tell those people you were right? Or do we say to them you were wrong and follow the law, and count every vote and make sure that every vote counts? Please allow the spirit of democracy to move forward, this is the compass that should be our guiding force and these are the principles for which I stand. Count every vote, let every vote count. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative. Representative Frankel, you have about a minute and a half left on your 30 minutes, and you're recognized. If you need additional time at this point, I believe Representative Byrd will probably yield, but you're recognized.

Rep. Frankel: Thank you, I will yield to Representative Harper for a minute then, for the minute and a half.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Harper, you are recognized for 1 minute, as a proponent to the amendment.

Rep. Harper: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise in support of the strike-all amendment. Members, history is replete with injustices and disenfranchisement of voters. Today, we make history again. As lawmakers, it behooves us not to allow Florida's history to be tainted by disenfranchisement of voters.

Constituents throughout Florida are outraged at the difficulties they experienced in executing their vote. In Riviera Beach voters were turned away from the polls because their names were not on the rolls. In Boca Raton voters had problems with styluses which prevented them from voting due to the accumulation of chads. In some instances voters panicked and broke styluses. Voters were told that they could not vote because they were convicted felons; and when in fact, they were not, and were improperly removed from the voter rolls. Haitian-Americans did not receive language voter ballot interpretation assistance. Ballots were not in Creole. Voter polls were overpopulated with police presence intimidating voters.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Frankel, do you want to yield 30 seconds? Representative Harper, you are recognized an additional 30 seconds.

Rep. Harper: Members, Mr. Speaker, the list goes on and on.

In conclusion, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. said, "a threat of injustice anywhere is a threat to justice everywhere." Ladies and gentlemen of the House, to vote or not to vote, that is the question.

Speaker Feeney: Thank you. The Chair on this new rule, the Chair would like to apologize to the Members—this isn't on anybody's time—that it's not my intention to interrupt. But in order to make sure that the floor leaders, Representatives Frankel and Byrd, have control of their clocks, it's important that I keep tight control over each individual's speech's clock. And we will have to interrupt you. If you're in the middle of lavishing praise on the Speaker, I'll yield to you some of my time, [laughter] but otherwise we'll keep tight control.

Representative Frankel, would you like to move that we temporarily postpone the amendment and yield 30 minutes to Representative Byrd? Representative Frankel moves. All those in favor, state by saying Aye; all those opposed, Nay. [voice vote]

[Further consideration of Amendment 2 was temporarily postponed and the House returned to consideration of HCR 1-A.]

Representative Byrd, you are recognized. We are back on the main resolution and you have 30 minutes.

Rep. Byrd: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We'd recognize Representative Crow for 5 minutes.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Crow, you are recognized.

Rep. Crow: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise in support of the concurrent resolution. And I'd like to restrict my comments today, Members, to talking about the United States Supreme Court and the proposition that we should wait to do something 'til they act. And I think that that's the wrong thing to do and the reason that I think it's wrong is that we have to remember that's only one case. OK?

With regard to the voting system in Florida there are over 40 lawsuits filed. Some of them are pro se, meaning people filed them individually but the vast majority of those cases are filed by attorneys.

Now, of course, in Florida attorneys must have a good faith basis for challenging the electoral rules. And as such those cases will have to be litigated to fruition, that means motion stages, discovery, trials, appeals. Of course, in America we're used to not defining civil litigation by terms of days or weeks but by months and years.

And so I would submit to you that, to not take an action is going to have a situation where a cloud is cast over our slate of electors. Any one of these cases could cast that cloud. Now, we also need to understand that no statute of limitations is run. There is no limit on more cases that can be filed, so therefore there is need for finality. You also have to realize that the courts have a right to take up cases sua sponte, we've seen that with regard to this dispute, and we may have more of that. So that is an unknown factor that could rise its head again. Of course, this is a case of first impression and even legal experts disagree on the rules that should be adopted to have finality with regard to this process. But one thing is clear, per the United States Constitution and the existing case law that exists back into the 1800s which would be considered very strong abiding case law by lawyers. If it's in place for a number of years it's considered a defining factor. And that Constitution and case law clearly says, that the state Legislature, in this case Florida, is the final arbiter of the slate of electors.

Now are we usurping any other branch of government? Certainly not, we're just taking our rightful role. And to not take an action will disenfranchise every Florida voter that thought they went out and cast a vote in November. So I believe, Mr. Speaker, the prudent thing is for the Legislature to take its legal, proper, constitutional role to ensure that no voter is disenfranchised and vote in favor of the concurrent resolution. I yield the balance of my time to Representative Byrd.

REPRESENTATIVE MAYGARDEN IN THE CHAIR

The Chair: Representative Byrd.

Rep. Byrd: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We would yield 5 minutes to Representative Kyle.

The Chair: Representative Kyle, you're recognized.

Rep. Kyle: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I think it's important that we all understand our role as legislators in the election of the President of the United States. We're not here today as some people may allege on behalf of the Bush campaign. We are not here today as some people may allege to ensure victory for the Bush campaign. We are here today to ensure that 6 million Floridians who voted in this election and participated will have their voice heard on December 18th.

The U.S. Constitution is very clear that we are to ensure that our voters are represented on December 18th in the electoral college. It's not should we act or may we act; we must act. Under Article II, Section 1 of the Constitution, and I quote, it says, "Each State shall appoint, in such Manner as the Legislature thereof may direct, a Number of Electors, equal to the whole Number of Senators and Representatives to which the State may be entitled in Congress. . . ."

Now this has also been addressed in the McPherson v. Blacker case, 146 U.S. 1. In that case as well, the Supreme Court held, quite clearly, that we have the authority and the sole authority to make sure that this happens. And I quote from that case, "This power is conferred upon the Legislatures of the states by the constitution of the United States, and cannot be taken from them or modified. . . ." And it goes on to say, ". . . there is no doubt of the right of the Legislature to resume the power at any time, for it can neither be taken away nor abdicated."

Federal law is also very clear on this issue, on when we need to intervene. There's two times when we need to intervene. It can be either, or: 1) that if there is no finality to the election contest, and 2) if the rules have changed since the date of the election, November 7th. We have both of those here today. There has been no finality with the ongoing litigation and there won't be in any foreseeable future by December 12th, today. As well as the rules have changed. The Supreme Court even changed their own rules when they came back and addressed it a second time. They've changed several times. So we have both situations and we have a duty to act. And when we do act the United States Code is quite clear on what we should do. Under Title 3, Section 2, of the U.S. Code, it provides that, "Whenever any State has held an election for the purpose of choosing electors, and has failed to make a choice on the day prescribed by law. . . ." by the December 12th control date "the electors may be appointed on a subsequent day in such a manner as the Legislature of such State may direct."

Now I think the law is very clear when you read it and if we don't do what we are going to do today, then we all will have violated our oaths of office that we all took on this very floor of this great body. I think it's clear also from the intent of our founders, a quote from James Madison that was cited earlier by Representative Goodlette, that the intention of our founders was that we have this absolute power if we have a problem to come in and to do this. As an attorney, I took an oath of office. As a prosecutor, I've taken an oath. And as a Representative, I've taken an oath on this body, all to uphold the laws and rules of the Constitution of the U.S. and the Florida laws and Constitution. Don't vote against the Constitution today. Uphold the Constitution. Vote for the resolution and pass it. I want to be able to look into my son's eyes when he is older and tell him that we did the right thing today and we upheld the Constitution. Thank you.

The Chair: Thank you, Representative Kyle. He yields the balance of his time to Representative Byrd. Representative Byrd.

Rep. Byrd: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We would yield 5 minutes to Representative Lacasa.

The Chair: Representative Lacasa, you are recognized.

Rep. Lacasa: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, and thanks to the gentleman from Plant City for yielding.

Members, I'll summarize our situation in the following manner: As of the 7th of November, candidate George W. Bush has been the certified victor of the Florida 2000 Presidential Election. However, it is unlikely that the numerous challenges filed by the Gore campaign in the state and federal courts will be resolved before the December 18th date, the date set under federal law for the designation of our electors. As a means of ensuring that our state will be counted in the electoral college, the Constitution of the United States gives this Legislature the power to appoint electors, but which electors?

I suppose that partisanship at a time like this would strike some of my colleagues as inappropriate in this collegial body. Indeed, as a prelude to the special session, the Minority Leader stated last Friday, quote: "I know we will rise above partisanship and work for all the citizens of Florida." How does my esteemed colleague from West Palm Beach propose we reconcile our respective loyalties to each of the candidates with our need to appoint a slate of electors for only one candidate?

Partisan politics is democracy in action. The absence of partisanship suggests the absence of debate, and the absence of debate, my friends, is a symptom of tyranny. Why shouldn't we rely on party affiliation to guide us in these uncertain times? The November 7th election was a multi-party celebration of our American liberty. If the final resolution of that election is to be found here, in the House and Senate halls, then let us be loyal to the voters who elected us by letting their voices be heard.

The citizens that voted for us relied, among other things, on our Republican and Democratic party affiliations, our respective political ideals and core beliefs. Many of us embraced our party affiliation then, and they embraced us for it. Rather than hiding from my partisanship, I will use it like a beacon to guide me in this vote.

The skeptics have argued that the majority is attempting by this action to ensure the outcome of the election for one candidate. I believe these critics are too consumed by their fervor to capture the White House to realize that the only insurance we seek is that Florida's citizens be represented in the electoral college.

Today, I am acting in the best interests of my beloved State of Florida; the state that gave safe harbor to my family as they fled a one-party tyranny in Cuba. This son of Florida looks forward to a strong working relationship with the Bush White House. I believe that having won every round in this contest to date, the voice of the people will have been heard by the adoption of this measure.

In the best interests of our citizens, our state and our country, I shall support this resolution. Thank you. [applause]

THE SPEAKER IN THE CHAIR

Speaker Feeney: Thank you. Representative Lacasa yields back the balance of his time to Representative Byrd. Representative Byrd, you are recognized.

Rep. Byrd: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We would yield 5 minutes to Representative Kilmer.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Kilmer you are recognized for 5 minutes.

Rep. Kilmer: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Members, our colleagues in the back row would have us believe that due to the fact that there have been partial recounts in selective counties, in one portion of the state, that the current results of the presidential election are inaccurate. However, Amendment 14 of the U.S. Constitution guarantees "equal protection" to the citizens of Florida. The use of arbitrary, standardless, and selective manual recounts to determine the results of a presidential election clearly violates the Equal Protection Clause of the 14th Amendment.

Counting recounts only in selective counties also violates the Equal Protection Clause of the U.S. Constitution. Florida Statutes provide only limited opportunity, such as damaged and defective ballots, to conduct recounts. When they are permitted in statute, the recount must include all ballots affected by the relevant defect. To include votes that were identified in a partial recount of a county clearly violates the standards set in Florida Statutes prior to the election. Under the current counting process, not law, but process, votes can be counted or rejected on an extremely wide range of standards—full perforations, various degrees of partial perforations, some degree of indentations or dimpling of areas intended to be perforated, counting only consistent dimpling, and get this, they even counted dimples if the voters voted for the candidates of the same party in other races.

All of these differences, in some cases, conflicting standards were being used in the manual recounts. In fact, a resident of Wakulla County can vote, can mark his ballot exactly the same as a resident of Miami-Dade County and one have their vote counted and the other be rejected. This is wrong. We have heard allegations that since these ballots are public information under the Florida Sunshine Law, they will be counted in the future and that this may cast a shadow of illegitimacy to the presidency. I believe the citizens of Florida, and the entire country, will recognize that these groups and organizations have personal opinions and biases and that they will make their counts subjective.

It's hard to argue that another recount by a private group or citizen will be any more accurate than the ones already performed. The original counts and recounts were conducted by machines that have no bias. The selective manual recounts were supervised by local officials under the scrutiny of national media. The idea that a private recount would be more accurate than any of the previous counts is questionable at best.

Unfortunately, changes that have been made in the Florida Law by the Florida Supreme Court to allow manual recounts in selected counties has tainted the current slate of electors. The Florida Legislature has a duty to the citizens of Florida to protect our voice in the electoral college. We must select an untainted slate of electors under the laws of the state of Florida that existed prior to the election.

Members, this is our duty. It is our constitutional responsibility and we have no choice. Six million voters cannot have their votes disenfranchised. We must do the right thing and we must do it for the right reasons.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker, and I yield my time to Representative Byrd.

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative Kilmer. Representative Byrd, she yields back the balance of her time and you're recognized.

Rep. Byrd: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We'd like to yield 5 minutes to Representative Wallace.

Speaker Feeney: Thank you. Representative Wallace, you're recognized.

Rep. Wallace: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Members, when I first ran for this House in 1994 I had never heard of undervotes, hanging chads, canvassing boards, or automatic recounts. As it turned out, I won the election first by 19 votes and then by 24 votes out of 7,152 that were cast. And I thought that was a close election. And I thought that up until this presidential election. It turns out I had a landslide back in '94.

Are Florida voters different than voters from around the nation? Are Florida voting systems less accurate than any around the nation? The answer to both those questions is no. Any state with such a fantastically close vote would be having identical problems. And there would be similar dynamics wherever the vote was this close. Indeed, Oregon and New Mexico are having the same elements of this contest. There is nothing wrong with Florida voters.

The close vote and the pivotal nature of our 25 electoral votes makes Florida the fulcrum that can tip the balance one way or the other. And fate has made Florida's inability to make a wide margin decision the center of this drama, 537 votes out of more than 5,963,000 that were cast. Who could imagine an election so close that one precinct could decide so much import for the nation and the world. But Americans put our faith in the electoral process. We hold ourselves out to the world as a bastion of democracy, and we tell them, this is how you should do it. Does one squeaker of a presidential race, and all the jokes about Florida, take away from that? I don't think so. We have just had tougher questions to answer.

When there was 1,784 vote margin after the first machine count, this comprised .0003 percent of the total vote. That's 3/100ths of 1 percent was the margin. And there were still 175,000 undervotes or almost 2.8 percent. Now this would make anyone naturally curious, why are there so many unvoted ballots? Should they be reinspected? But look at some of the other states: Ohio had 4.5 percent undervote; Massachusetts, 1.1

percent; New Hampshire, 2 percent; Oregon, which has had a close race, had 2.1 percent; New Mexico had 3 percent. Indeed nationwide there was 2.5 million uncounted ballots or undervotes, that was about 2.4 percent. Undervotes are a common phenomenon that we only learn about when close races come upon us. I know that that was my case in 1994. In 2000, my race was not that close but in Hillsborough there was a 7.5 percent undervote in my race and in Pinellas a 7.6 percent undervote. The area of the state that has the greatest affinity for Al Gore had the most curiosity about that undervote: Palm Beach County, 6.3 percent; Broward, 2.2 percent; Miami-Dade, 4.4 percent. And those undervotes bore the greatest scrutiny and were checked and rechecked. Those 3 counties produced a margin of lead for Al Gore by over 355,000 votes and after all the magnifying glass inspections there was about an 1,100 vote gain. But the result did still not change the outcome. I know this, when you have a machine count you can have machine error and when you have a manual count you can have human error and you have also introduced human desire as an element. Is a manual count more accurate? I'm not sure. But undervote is a political reality and our undervote is in line with the rest of the nation. In fact, probably Florida has less undervote than many states because of the hot contest that we had in Florida.

One thing is for sure in all this, every Floridian and every American ought to understand full well the importance of their vote, they should remember this lesson for the rest of their lives. Your vote can change the course of human events. What faith Americans have had in the integrity of people and equipment in our elections; this unbelievably close, statistically improbable count has stressed our system. It's tested our faith. And we can now only judge by the information that has presented itself to us in those little void spaces in card stock. The will of the people has been so quantified. But, I also believe that Americans are problem-solvers, and we will learn more about our elections. . . .

Speaker Feeney: Representative Wallace, we engineers and friends of engineers have to run things on time, and your 5 minutes is out. Representative Byrd, do you wish to yield an additional 30 seconds or minute?

Rep. Byrd: A full minute, Mr. Speaker.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Wallace, Representative Byrd yields an additional minute.

Rep. Wallace: Get a recount on that, Mr. Speaker? [laughter] I need 2 minutes.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Wallace, I understand that Representative Byrd yields 2 minutes.

Rep. Wallace: Thank you. The executive branch in this state held an election and called it statewide for George Bush. The judicial branch had made rulings here and there and had been unable to conclude the matter. By the dictates of the U.S. Constitution, the responsibility to determine the outcome now rests with the Florida Legislature and we must resolve the issue. The orderly processes of our nation demand it and like so many things in life we do not have unlimited time. But, I am certain that the original count showed George Bush the winner in a very close race. And I'm certain that statewide recounts reasserted George Bush the winner. And I'm also certain the manual recounts in some of those most pro-Gore areas have failed to change the fact that George Bush won. And if we did count the whole state undervote by hand, I'm certain that it would only add votes to George Bush's victory. My conclusion is this. George Bush won Florida four times and it has come down to this premise, do you believe in majority rule and can you accept someone as a winner even if they win only by one vote?

Members, if you have any doubt as to who won this election, then I suggest you try another approach and vote the way your district did. And I went to confirm what District 47 did in this race and I found that George Bush won by 4,100 votes or 53 percent. And that made my decision much easier. Mr. Speaker and Members, I urge you to vote your conscience and believe the results and vote for the slate of electors that will vote for George Bush for Florida. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. [applause]

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative Wallace. Representative Byrd, you are recognized.

Rep. Byrd: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We yield 5 minutes to Representative Detert.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Detert, you are recognized.

Rep. Detert: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The U.S. Constitution is very clear; it says that we must act. It is not a question of should we act or can we act; it is not our opinion or choice. It is our duty as sworn elected officials to make sure Florida's voters are represented on December 18th. This is not an insurance policy for George Bush. This is an insurance policy to make sure that the voices of 6 million Florida voters are heard in the selection of the 43rd President of the United States. We need finality.

Winston Churchill once said: People who are not prepared to do unpopular things and defy clamor of the multitude are not fit to be ministers in times of difficulty. Secretary of State Katherine Harris, has done exactly this. She bit the bullet and performed her duties as required by law without considering the political ramifications or public opinion polls. And this is exactly what we must do, today.

Section 102.112 of the Florida Statutes, provides that the returns must be filed by 5:00 p.m. on the 7th day following the primary and general election. Further, "[i]f the returns are not received by the department by the time specified, such returns may be ignored and the results on file at that time may be certified by the department." This section contemplates unforeseen circumstances not specifically envisioned by the Legislature at the time of enactment. Such unforeseen circumstances might include a natural disaster. Certainly we live here in Florida and we have had to cover unforeseen circumstances such as hurricanes. This statute does not cover close elections. The statute plainly states when this process must end.

There's been much criticism of Secretary of State Katherine Harris, who happens to come from my community. And there's been a question of whether or not she should recuse herself. I've certainly heard this argument, and know you have too, since she campaigned for Governor George Bush. I think this is a ludicrous argument. If you work in politics, as we all do, it's impossible not to be supportive of one presidential candidate or another. If we do not make the decision today and this decision should be bumped up to the Congress, I have never heard one person say that Vice President Al Gore should recuse himself in a tie-breaker vote in the Senate. I have not heard one person say that Senator Lieberman should recuse himself and certainly no one has more of a vested interest than those two gentlemen have.

As a female legislator I'm proud of the fact that sitting here today we have 31 women on the floor of the House of Representatives. I think that's great. It's still only one-fourth of the Legislature, but it's still good for those of us who, on both sides of the aisle, spent decades encouraging women to run for office. Secretary Harris is our Secretary of State and our only female cabinet member. I'm proud of our 31 House Members. I'm proud of Secretary of State Katherine Harris and the job we've done. But I think as women legislators we want to be judged on our integrity, not our eye shadow, our competence, not our clothing, the hard work that we do, not the way we do our hair. I think Secretary Harris did her job. I think she performed her duties according to the Florida State Statutes and I feel that we must do the same.

I think we've gone past election day, through Thanksgiving, and we are now nearly to Christmas. This has been a historic voyage and certainly a remarkable civics lesson for all of us and for the rest of the country as well. The public has shown great patience and a heightened interest in the political process. And I think we've all learned from this experience, but it's now time to stop. I represent the citizens of Sarasota County. All of our counties have become famous nationwide—mine is Sarasota. My citizens voted for George Bush and like Representative Wallace I feel confident in supporting this resolution because of that. But the public is ready to move on. And I'd like to finish up by making one comment to the freshman legislators.

Speaker Feeney: You're going to need 30 seconds to do that. Representative Byrd yields 30 seconds.

Rep. Detert: I can do that in 30 seconds. Freshmen, this is the second time you'll ever have voted as House Members. The first time was for the important duty of picking the Speaker. Democrats generally voted for Minority Leader Frankel; Republicans generally voted for Speaker Feeney. After that vote in a magnanimous gesture of unity, Representative Frankel conceded and threw all of her support to the Speaker so that we could, after this vote, come together as Representatives. We need to take the vote today. We again need to come together. We need to get on with the business of Florida and that also includes campaign reform. Thank you.

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative Detert. I can assure you Representative Frankel is not ready to concede yet, but she may or may not make it unanimous before the day is over. Representative Byrd, you are recognized.

Rep. Byrd: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We yield 4 minutes to Representative Flanagan.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Flanagan, you're recognized.

Rep. Flanagan: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, Members. I speak in support of the resolution. As the most recent Chairman of the House Committee on Election Reform, I've taken a special interest in the issues surrounding the election of our 43rd President of the United States. One of the most distressing aspects of this situation has been the allegations that Florida's election system is somehow fundamentally unfair.

Republicans and Democrats alike have worked hard on the Election Reform Committee, and in the Florida Legislature—for many years in fact—to make sure our system is fair and enfranchises as many people as possible. We have always striven to strike the balance between making it as easy as possible to vote and eliminating fraud and abuse. We all realize that a perfect system is unattainable. But I believe we have created an extremely fair system, a system that is blind to race, creed or social status and treats every vote equally. A system that, under normal circumstances, works very well.

Of course, these circumstances are far from normal and our system has been put under great pressure, under the microscope of national attention, exposing every flaw and blemish, and yes, every dimple.

It's important to remember, however, that under more normal circumstances and without the heavy-handed influence of the Florida Supreme Court, our election system is fundamentally sound and would have operated properly. It is also important to remember that there have been no allegations of widespread fraud or criminal conduct. And the Florida's Supervisors of Elections and the Canvassing Boards have done an incredible job under extreme circumstances. The problems we are facing are not a result of some fatal flaw in our laws or our Constitution. The problems we are facing are largely a result of the endless and continuing legal wrangling perpetuated in response to the closeness of this election, as well as the actions of numerous courts.

Some say that we should just let the judges and the lawyers decide this issue. However, the Gore lawyers have consistently said they will fight until the bitter end. On this, we can probably take them at their word. That, combined with the multitude of unresolved court cases, leaves the door open for the possibility that Florida's electors will be called into question. It also makes it even more incumbent upon this Legislature to proactively act to fulfill its constitutional duty by ensuring that all of the voices of the 6 million voters are heard in the selection of the 43rd President of the United States.

We've had almost six weeks of legal wrangling, with no end in sight, and any state's elections system would be hard-pressed to hold up under such pressure. Ours, however, has performed admirably.

Again, let me say that our system is fair—not perfect—and while there are obviously a few changes to be made, we should all be proud of how Florida has performed in the national spotlight, Mr. Speaker, and the nation should be thankful that this unforeseeable, unimaginable situation occurred here.

Mr. Speaker, Members, thank you. And I yield back the balance of my time.

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative Flanagan. Representative Byrd, you're recognized.

Rep. Byrd: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We yield 4 minutes to Representative Rubio.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Rubio, you're recognized.

Rep. Rubio: Thank you, Mr. Speaker and Members. I want to address a point real quick, Mr. Speaker, that's been said a few times since this process began, and my good friend, Representative Gelber, just said a few moments ago. And that's that we already have a certified slate of electors, and that is correct. What, unfortunately, they leave out is that that certified slate of electors is unfortunately tainted by two subsequent Supreme Court rulings that place it into highly questionable status.

Obviously, the first ruling, was the one that the Florida Supreme Court unilaterally extended the deadline for vote certification by twelve days. And in the second decision, the Florida Supreme Court, in a four-three decision, overturned the circuit court's determination to dismiss Gore's request for selective recounts.

Now as we've already heard from Representative Byrd and Representative Goodlette, Article 2, Section 1 of the U.S. Constitution expressly delegates to us, the state Legislature, the power to determine how a state's presidential electors are selected. Additionally, the Florida Supreme Court ruling violates a constitutional tenet that says you can't change the rules of the election after that election has passed.

For these two reasons we have a highly questionable slate of electors, not because of the result, but because of the process by which it was arrived at, because the Supreme Court has interfered with it, obviously overextending the limits of their bounds and of their powers. And therefore, we need to address that in this body here today—by today, December 12th—which is the date that the Constitution sets as the so-called safe harbor day.

Now, just three weeks ago today, around this very time, the 120 Members of this body raised their right hands and took an oath of office, and that oath of office was to uphold the Constitution of this state and this country, not to support George Bush, not to support Al Gore, or the Republican or Democratic party, but, to uphold the Constitution. And that is what we are here to do. We are going to consider a lot of important issues in this Chamber. As they have been in the past, they will be again in the future. But I can guarantee every Member of this body that, never, will we ever, consider an issue more solemn and more sacred to this democracy, than the one that we consider here today.

For those of us, like me, who serve here hoping that one day this process will give us the opportunity to contribute to the greatness of this nation, that one day, we will have the opportunity to have our piece of this great history. My friends, that day is today. Thank you.

Speaker Feeney: Thank you. Representative Byrd, you're recognized.

Rep. Byrd: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We yield 4 minutes to Representative Sorensen.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Sorensen, you're recognized.

Rep. Sorensen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker and thank you, Mr. Byrd.

I will just simply try and make a couple of points that I think have been left out. We are not here today to select a Gore slate, a Bush slate. We are here for one simple, clear purpose, which is to protect the vote of all, all Floridians.

It is important that we recognize the Florida vote is maybe in jeopardy. The scenario in the last 30 days was absolutely unbelievable to each and every one of us. Everyone in this room has had an up, a down, and probably multiplied by five or ten. The truest possible scenario with 30 lawsuits out there pending right now.

Let me draw another scenario for you. A circuit court judge who has the power to do so, turns to Katherine Harris, and says: I order you not to certify, it's not going to happen. You must withhold that. That's possible within the power of the circuit court. At that point if we walk out of this Chamber and have not, in effect, put the foundations under this, we do not have electors. I want you to just stop and think about that for a second. We have—the trial courts do not have that potential to order this body to do that. So what we do here is we stand to protect those rights. And that is what I'm suggesting that we do. Our actions will guarantee the voice of Florida Legislators and the people we represent, mostly the people we represent.

If the U.S. Supreme Court, in fact, turns around today, tomorrow, or next week and orders a recount, the reality is the court has the potential to direct the Secretary of State to certify those results also.

And believe it or not, those great men of two hundred years ago stood with rather long hair and tied with ribbons in many cases, and sat in dim daylight and candlelight at home, foresaw what's happening here today. They also foresaw that if we took this vote, and a dual slate became a reality, that in fact, under that situation, they provided a remedy, also. If in fact we have a recount, and if Mr. Gore wins the recount, I doubt very seriously if the two slates went up to Washington that our Congress would do anything other than certify the winner of the actual recount. So, I would say to you, ladies and gentlemen, please join with me, support this resolution. The steps are spelled out in the Constitution, this is just one step along the way. I would say one more thing or two, possibly. Breathe easy, fulfill your duty, do your constitutional duty.

In closing comment, I would say, no one in this Chamber has an exclusive right on minority. I would tell you that my father was an immigrant to this country, from Denmark. He taught me three things: he said learn to speak good American, not English, but good American; he said get a good education and follow the law. So, I too am a minority. In fact, I as a Dane, I may be the smallest minority, and I want you to listen to me. Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. [applause]

Speaker Feeney: Your father would be proud, Representative Sorensen. You are three for three, and you especially speak good American. [laughter]

Representative Byrd, you are recognized.

Rep. Byrd: Mr. Speaker, we would reserve the remainder of our time.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Byrd reserves the remainder of his time. Representative Frankel moves that the House do now return to the consideration of the Frankel amendment. And if I may have the Clerk read the amendment, back on consideration of the Frankel amendment.

[The House returned to consideration of Amendment 2, which was read.]

OK, Members, I believe we are going to have debate now on behalf of the proponents of the Frankel amendment and at the end of that debate, it would be the desire of the Minority Leader that we would take a vote on the amendment. Representative Frankel, you are recognized.

Rep. Frankel: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I yield the 5 minutes to Representative Ryan.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Ryan, you are recognized for 5 minutes as a proponent of the amendment.

Rep. Ryan: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I've listened very carefully to the debate and a thought recurs in my mind—what are you looking for? And so I ask you Members, "What are you looking for?" If you want to follow the laws of the state of Florida, and you want to have the electors appointed in accordance with Florida law, then we need go no further than look at Florida Statute 103.011. We have in place Florida law that states that the presidential candidate that receives the greater number of votes shall be the candidate that receives all of the electoral votes of the state of Florida. And it also further says that the Secretary of State shall certify those results, and they shall be sent to Washington, D.C. That's all contained within Florida Statutes. That having been said, there is not a necessity that we turn to a federal statute when we have a controlling state statute on this point.

There has been some reference to—in fact, there's been a great deal of reference to—a certain provision in the Federal Code, 3 U.S. Code, Section 2. And that says that if the state fails to make a choice then the Legislature may make a choice. In this case, the Secretary of State has made a choice; she has certified the results. Governor Jeb Bush has signed a Certificate of Ascertainment and he has sent that certificate to the Archives in Washington, D.C.

We have made a choice. And when you look at statutes—and you will look at many of them over your career—you're going to look at state statutes, and one of the first rules is that you should look at the clear meaning of the words within the statute. And I think the words are pretty clear, if the state has failed to make a choice then we could make a choice. What it doesn't say, is if the election result is in doubt, if the election is inconclusive, if lawsuits are pending, then we have the right to make the choice. That's not what the law says. We're duty bound to follow the law and thankfully both Republicans and Democrats on this floor have stated and made their allegiance to follow the law.

We have plenty of election laws in place that settle disputes. We have election laws that direct for an automatic recount if the vote is within one-half of 1 percent. We have an election law that states that a candidate has an absolute right to request a manual recount. We have an election law that gives canvassing boards the right to review ballots and to make a manual recount. Now we have given canvassing boards that right. If we are upset with that right, if we think that it is being done improperly, then it's not our position to come before this body and decide what the canvassing boards are to do—this is a duty of the courts. We have a very important checks and balances. We have separation of powers. And it is not for us to make the decision on whether or not the canvassing boards are properly counting disputed ballots.

Some of us may not like the laws that are now in place, but we are duty bound to adhere to those laws. I've also heard some argument about judicial activism and the fact that the courts have rewritten the laws rather than to adhere to our existing laws. That's a subject for debate, whether or not laws have been interpreted or these laws have actually been rewritten. But it is not a question that if there is a wrong, you cannot engage in two wrongs—two wrongs don't make a right. And, if in fact, a court has gone too far in making a determination, that does not give us the authority to then go beyond our authorization to enter a resolution which is unlawful. The foundation of our democracy is based upon the premise that all power is derived from the people. The people have an absolute and sacred right to vote and allow those votes to be counted.

The Legislature is not empowered to substitute its will for the will of the people. That must be respected. Our existing state law must be honored, even though the election is very close. We're all now ready to embark upon a decision. It's a defining moment in our careers. Are we going to vote based upon what our existing law is or are we going to try to put together a theory, to cobble together statutes to try to come up with the result that we want? The ends don't justify the means if we have to ignore our rule of law in order to reach those ends. And so I ask you all to support the amendment that says that we shall not take action on this ongoing. . . .

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative Ryan. Almost perfect timing. Representative Frankel.

Rep. Frankel: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I yield 1 minute to Representative Fields.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Fields, you're recognized for 1 minute.

Rep. Fields: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Today I rise to speak in favor of the amendment.

A great man from Jacksonville at the turn of the century by the name of James Weldon Johnson, an educator, a statesman, and the first secretary of the National NAACP, wrote what is now known as the Black National Anthem. And he said: "Lift ev'ry voice and sing. Till earth and heaven ring. Ring with the harmonies of Liberty. . ." And I rise today for that liberty, for the disenfranchised 22,000 discarded voters in my district. I rise for the 40,000-plus discarded voters and undercounts in the state of Florida. I rise for my late, great grandmother who could not vote in the 1920s, for my grandfather in the 1960s, who had to pay a poll tax to vote, and, for my 13-year-old son, who I wish when he becomes 21 would not go through the stages and the changes that we are going through today.

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative. Representative Frankel, you are recognized.

Rep. Frankel: Mr. Speaker, I yield to Representative Greenstein for 3 minutes.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Greenstein, you're recognized for 3 minutes.

Rep. Greenstein: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Ladies and gentlemen, I rise just a couple of quick moments to tell you, we do have a duty, we did swear an oath to the United States Constitution. But the amazing thing that I've found so far, is for all the thousands and thousands of attorneys out there giving their opinion, we've come down to two. And it comes from constitutional specialists, you have yours, we have ours. We're both defending the Constitution but where interpretation is a little bit different. So, when someone stands on the high ground of the United States Constitution, remember, that document was written over 200 years ago. And it is a very fluid document. It is a document that gives a lot of credence to change, a lot of credence to where we are today—some in the front, some in the back but giving us the right to be in here. So when you're saying that you have an oath to defend the Constitution, that's right, but don't think that either one of the opinions are absolutely the truth. Sometimes we're driven by outside forces.

I have to tell you I'm pretty impressed, Representative Maygarden. My mother wanted me to be an attorney, too, and I didn't become one. And I assure you I make more legal opinion in one day than some attorneys might want to.

But freshmen, let me turn you to the most important piece of paper you'll see here. It's an analysis, and on the current bill that's in front of us, you have an analysis, but one of the things that is left out of the amendment that you're not hearing is the substantive analysis. I truly think that this has an important structure of less government, because we shouldn't be making this decision 'til the Supreme Court makes a ruling. Individual freedom, because you have the right to vote; personal responsibility, it is also your right to vote; and family empowerment, ladies and gentlemen, don't disempower anybody. And I, like Jerry Maygarden, think every vote should count, no matter where they come from. And I truly, as a veteran, and a disabled veteran, think every vote, and last Friday showed that every vote was going to be counted. Ladies and gentlemen, it is important that we support the strike-all amendment because it allows for the ability of us to give a little bit push back here and wait and see what the Supreme Court is going to do, either today or tomorrow. I pray and hope you all can see it in your heart to vote for the strike-all. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative Greenstein. Representative Frankel, you are recognized.

Rep. Frankel: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I yield 1 minute to Representative Bullard.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Bullard, is the former Representative Bullard here today with us? Well, will you tell her we all said hello? You're recognized.

Rep. Bullard: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise today to speak in favor of the amendment. I stand here today as a newly elected legislator, but most important, as a voter. The right to vote, especially with the African-American, was earned by bloodshed and death. Yes, many suffered for this right. And on this occasion we have an obligation as lawmakers to protect the right of the voter. Do we not believe that justice will not prevail in one of the most important decisions rendered in the United States, the election of our commander in chief? One man, one vote, is the everlasting legacy left by our forefathers.

We have an obligation as Members of this great House to mend the rift that plagues our nation. We stand at the crossroads of history. Let our decision be the right one and just. We can do this by supporting the strike-all amendment: electing the President the way it was intended, by letting every vote count. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative Bullard. Representative Frankel, you are recognized.

Rep. Frankel: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to Representative Cusack.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Cusack, welcome and you're recognized. Representative Cusack, is your microphone. . . ?

Rep. Cusack: It is on now. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Speaker Feeney: Start Representative Cusack's clock as of now.

Rep. Cusack: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I stand here to speak in support of the strike-all amendment.

On November 7th in the year 2000, I had the opportunity to be a part of four generations, my mother, my daughter, my granddaughter, and myself, to cast the vote for me to become a part of this august body. As the Representative from House District 26, it is my duty to protect and defend the will of the people. That includes all of the votes that were cast for President on November 7, regardless of party affiliation or political belief.

We should not disenfranchise the voters of this state. I am honored to live in a country that allows all of us the opportunity to vote and have that vote counted. We need to step back, take a deep breath, and wait for the courts to rule.

This is a sad day in our nation's history, in our state's history, also. We must be very careful, to the manner in which we handle the authority that the citizens of this great state have placed in our hands. As legislators, we should not, under any circumstances, be here today. Our being here appears to be for the sole purpose of avoiding the rights of the citizens of this great state. We have a set of laws in place to determine the outcome of close elections and a process for contested elections. The matter of appointing Florida's electors should be allowed to proceed through our judicial system, in accordance with the separation of powers that is outlined in our state and federal constitutions.

This is a democracy. Every vote counts in a democracy. The power of democracies rests with the people. As legislators, we must respect the will of the people, not like unto that of a dictatorship. It is not a matter of who wins. What does matter is that we respect the will of the people and follow the rule of the law. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. [applause]

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative Cusack. Representative Frankel, Representative Cusack yields back the balance of her time and you're recognized.

Rep. Frankel: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I yield to Representative McGriff for 1 minute.

Speaker Feeney: Representative McGriff, you are recognized.

Rep. McGriff: Mr. Speaker, a point of privilege. You said if we said nice things about the Chair. . . I would like to. . .

Speaker Feeney: You've got two years ahead of you, Representative McGriff, [laughter] we'll give you all the time you need.

Rep. McGriff: But as you know we're a part of history and I would like to congratulate our leadership, Representative Frankel, Representative Wiles, the Majority Leader Fasano, Representative

Byrd, and you, as our Speaker. These are tough times. America is looking at us. Florida is looking at us and the world is looking at us. Thank you, very much. I'm ready to start. [applause]

Speaker Feeney: That's well said, Representative McGriff. Either side would be proud to have that one on their record. Representative Frankel, you're recognized.

Rep. McGriff: That was not my comment. [laughter]

Speaker Feeney: Oh, now you have a minute. I hope you don't undo the great things you just did, Representative McGriff. [laughter]

Rep. McGriff: I won't, I promise.

Speaker Feeney: Representative McGriff has 1 minute restored.

Rep. McGriff: Mr. Speaker, I support the electors already sent by Katherine Harris and by Governor Jeb Bush. I think the best thing to say is a short speech that government should be of laws rather than of men. Thank you.

Speaker Feeney: Thank you very much. Representative Frankel, you are recognized.

Rep. Frankel: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, I feel like this is a football game. Do I have to get more time back on the clock?

Speaker Feeney: Representative Frankel, we're not going to move the field goals up or back, or the time either way. You have an hour and 7 minutes. I've got you scheduled in your last two sections to debate against the resolution about 57 minutes that you had tentatively scheduled. So if you've got a couple of people you'd like to talk at this point, you're recognized.

Rep. Frankel: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. At this time I would yield to Representative Slosberg for 2 minutes.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Slosberg, we've got to turn your mike on so we can all hear you.

Rep. Slosberg: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise today to speak in favor of the amendment. I am here representing the great people of Boca Raton and Delray Beach, Florida. Thanks for sending me here, guys. I love you. Anyway, I just want to share a little note from one of my constituents. Her name is Rose Glushakoff from Century Village in Boca Raton. She says, "You must take care of your people. We are putting all of our hopes in you. You have a lot to conquer, but being the mensch that you are it's just another hurdle for you." Rose, I'm sorry. You sent me here for lower cost prescription drugs. I'm sorry because of the fact it seems like I'm here voting for President. Rose, I'm sorry on another account. Basically, what happened to senior citizens is the government is chipping away at your income and now you know what's happening, Rose? They're trying to chip away at your votes. Rose, the only comfort that I can give you and the citizens I represent in District 89 are a few words. Basically, it's not over until the fat lady sings and nobody has seen the fat lady yet.

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative Slosberg. Representative Frankel, do you have rebuttal or. . . ? [laughter] You are recognized. [laughter]

Let's stop the clock until the House can compose itself. Representative Frankel, you are recognized.

Rep. Frankel: Mr. Speaker, you do not want to hear me sing, I can assure you, unless Representative Fasano would join me. Mr. Speaker, I will waive 1 and 1/2 minutes to Representative Jennings.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Jennings, you're recognized for 1 minute.

Rep. Jennings: Mr. Speaker, I rise to support the amendment. Mr. Speaker, as a five-generation Floridian, I stand here as a product of the promise of America. Representing a majority district in the words of the late Robert F. Kennedy, some men see things as they are, and ask why? But, I dream of things that never were and ask, why not? My forefathers and mothers could never have imagined that I would even have the opportunity to stand among men and women of great esteem in this historic institution we call the House of Representatives to weigh in on this election of our President and the future of our great democracy.

As I reflect on our unparalleled history, even in our representative democracy, our foundation is one man, one woman, one vote. The Peoples' House, as we affectionately call it, was established at the national level so that the rights of the citizens in smaller populated areas, like my home of Gainesville/Ocala, would also always be represented and never not in question as compared to the other counterparts of more rural and urban areas like Jacksonville, Miami, Panama City, Palatka, and even Imperial Polk, and those words would not be eroded.

I remember during our first orientation, that Mr. Clerk informed us of the historic nature of this great freshman class and that we sat as a quorum in the Florida House. All of us, Republicans and Democrats alike, were excited about making alliances to set the agenda for Florida in the new millennium. I was even more emboldened, Mr. Speaker, by your comments of us working together during the Organization Session. But in the recent days of the impending special session I have seen the environment of the House grow dark and somber where once Members in a bipartisan. . .

Speaker Feeney: Representative, let's—Representative Frankel, would you like to yield a minute? An additional minute.

Rep. Jennings: But in the recent days of the impending special session I have seen the environment of the House grow dark and somber where once Members in a bipartisan fashion spoke to each other with a jovial exuberance. And, they expected to see a collegial session and now hesitate to glance to each other because they expect to draw ire. We must today begin to remove the cloud of the uncertainty and not go quietly into that dark night. We must remember our role in a tri-party uniquely American system of government. We make the laws and the judicial branch interprets them. We made them and let's allow them to be interpreted. Even when we are uncomfortable with the results we go on to fight another day, never questioning the legitimacy of our courts' authority. From Dred Scott to Plessy to Brown to Roe, from Chief Justice John Marshall to Justice Thurgood Marshall, the courts have always been the supreme arbiter of the rights of all the citizens. Let us have faith in them that the Florida's 6 million votes cast will continue to be represented in the electoral college as they are today, but most of all let us have faith in the One that I call God, who has shown us that though it is always darkest before the dawn, but joy does come in the morning.

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative.

Representative Frankel, I understand that you'd like to close on your amendment before the vote. And before you take some time to close I'd like the proponents' time to begin and the opponents' time to the main resolution to stop. And I'd like Representative Byrd, who yields himself 5 minutes, to close in opposition to the Frankel amendment. And then Representative Frankel will be recognized to close on her amendment.

Representative Byrd, and this time will be counted against proponents of the main resolution.

Rep. Byrd: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise in opposition to the Frankel amendment. Members, I am happy that the amendment is on the board. You can purely read that the amendment says that the Florida Legislature shall take no action, that the Legislature shall take no action. And that we shall merely congratulate the next President of the United States.

I didn't come to Tallahassee to be a "do-nothing." I didn't come here to abdicate my constitutional responsibility. In the 1850s in our nation there was a political party called—the Know-Nothing political party—and when they were asked a question they said we don't know nothing. And they didn't do nothing. And they didn't last long. And it was over by 1855.

There's a yearning in our country, in America. There's a yearning in the state of Florida. There's a yearning for finality. I received a letter this week, a scratchy handwritten letter, from Woodland Hills, California; I've never been there. "Saw you tonight on T.V. and just wanted to let you know you have the support of millions of us across the country who applaud the anticipated action of the Florida Legislature. God bless and do your duty."

I want to be a member of the "do-something" party. I want to be a member of a Legislature that does everything. I want to be a member of a Legislature that does all we can do to do our duty, to protect, support, and defend the Constitution and the government of the United States of America. This is a day of decision. I'll talk to you a little later about the prayer we have for heroes in our church. But today is a day of action, Members. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to any motion to take no action. Thank you. [applause]

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative Byrd. The balance of your time is to be reserved to the proponents of the main resolution.

Representative Frankel, would you like to yield yourself up to 10 minutes?

Rep. Frankel: Yes, Sir.

Speaker Feeney: You're recognized to close on the Frankel amendment.

Rep. Frankel: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Here's what we know. We know that the federal law and the U.S. Constitution gave this state of Florida the authorization to have an election, which we did on November 7th, 2000. And we know that 6 million Floridians went to the polls. And we know that at that time George Bush was the apparent winner. And that under Florida law, that we wrote, that this Legislature wrote, Al Gore filed a protest and that under Florida law he was allowed to have a manual recount of the votes. And we also know that on November 26th there was a certification of the electors to George Bush and that's now sitting in the National Archives. And we also know that under Florida law—you can look in a book just like this—we authorize Al Gore, or any candidate in that situation, to file a protest. And we also know, and you can read it right here, folks, right in the law books, that we said, the arbiter of that contest would be in the courts, not the Legislature, it would be in the courts. I know we all know that.

So I can tell you first of all that it hurts my heart that we're here in this terribly, terribly partisan situation where, I tell you this is the first time in all my career that I have found that we had something on the table that we can find no compromise. Think about that, we can find no compromise. But it also hurts me to hear, in this very Chamber, criticizing our own laws. We criticize that someone asks for a recount, it's right here. We criticize that someone protested an election, it's right here. We criticize the talk about chads and dimples and so forth. Who set the standard, who set the standards that these canvassing boards and judges are trying to assess? Right here, folks. Try to discern the intent of the voter, right here in this law book, folks. It hurts me that we're criticizing ourselves. And it hurts me to hear people on the outside calling us, saying that we are strong-arming the voters, we're thieves because we're stealing their voting rights, that we're undemocratic, that we're acting as the political arm of a presidential candidate. What we're doing here today, no other Legislature in the history of this country, where there has been a lawful election has ever done. This is unprecedented. This is extraordinary. This is unfair, this is unnecessary. And, I'm sorry to say, I believe, that it is unlawful. We do not have a right to be doing this. I ask you, are we protecting our electors or are we protecting certain electors of a certain candidate? It appears, I believe, that we are running around, right around our voters.

Now, I will tell you this, many times in this past month I have wanted to put my head out the window, I remember—you all saw the movie Network, well I have wanted to put my head out the window and yell, "can't we just count the votes?" We've seen carpetbag protesters and every legal ploy possible to stop the counting of votes. And you know what? Maybe we're not going to get these votes counted until after the election. And I will tell you this, if the United States Supreme Court decides today we won't have a recount, I will be very disappointed, but I can accept it. I will live with it. But I cannot accept what we're doing here today, because I know what we are doing here today is dangerous and we invite every state Legislature, if they don't like the way an election went in their state, to do the same thing. And think about what this would do for the stability of our electoral process.

Folks, by the end of the day a George Bush may become President, maybe not, we don't know yet. But that should not be up to us, that should be up to the voters of this state. We all had our vote on November 7th, we get one vote. If the rule of law is going to mean anything, we cannot simply discard laws for inconvenience, just because we don't like them, just because maybe we're seeing they're going in a direction where we don't turn out to be the winner. I say this with a very heavy heart, because I don't believe anybody here would want to violate the very laws that we make.

And Mr. Speaker, I do say this really with the spirit of friendship. I know we've had some kidding around back here but I really believe this is a very good amendment, folks. All it says is that we are going to live by the laws that we wrote. We have an election process and no matter how impatient we get, or no matter how anxious we get that maybe the candidate of our choice will not win, we cannot put ourselves above the law. And with that, Mr. Speaker, I respectfully request that everybody here vote for this very good amendment. It says to us that we will take no action to interfere with a lawful ongoing election process. And with that, Mr. Speaker, I say, let's go home.

Speaker Feeney: We're going home but probably not just yet, Representative Frankel. Thank you for your moving close.

Representative Frankel, would you like to move the absence of a quorum so we can make sure that 120 Members checked in this morning? Make sure we give everybody a minute to get to their desk to vote on the Frankel amendment. Representative Frankel, having closed, Representative Frankel moves the absence of a quorum. All Members will push their green button. This is not a vote. [laughter] Greenstein, you can do whatever you want. The rest of you, if you are in your seat, please press your green button. The Clerk will unlock the machine and the Members will record their presence. Have all members voted? If all Members are present, you can go ahead and announce it formally. The Clerk will lock the machine and announce the presence of a quorum.

[A quorum was present.] [Session Vote Sequence: 3]

And so, Representative Frankel having closed on the Frankel amendment, the Clerk will unlock the machine and all Members in favor of the Frankel amendment will vote Aye; all Members opposed to the Frankel amendment will vote No. Have all Members voted? Have all Members voted? The Clerk will lock the machine and announce the vote.

Reading Clerk: 41 Yeas, 79 Nays, Mr. Speaker. [Session Vote Sequence: 4]

Speaker Feeney: The amendment is defeated.

[Amendment 2 failed of adoption and the question recurred on the adoption of HCR 1-A.]

Representative Byrd, I think at this point we are back on the main resolution, and, Representative Byrd, I have you down for 52 minutes and change remaining, and I'll yield 35 minutes to you—35 minutes to the proponents of the main resolution.

Rep. Byrd: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I would yield 4 minutes to Representative Murman, Mr. Speaker.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Murman, you are recognized.

Rep. Murman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Members, you know since 1887, we have not had a presidential race contested. This is a very emotional issue for all of us here today and for many of the constituents here in Florida. There have been disagreements on both sides. And I know, back at home when we brought this up, my constituents are tired. They're also very confused; it's been chaotic. They want finality to this. But I think turning, that is the challenge, and we need to turn that challenge into an opportunity. We can do our duty as a Legislature and uphold the Constitution of which we took an oath to do. And then our second is we can pull together, get back to work, and start doing the business for the people here in the state of Florida.

This has been a great classroom experience, not just for us—this is our classroom today—but also for our children, our future generations here in Florida. Almost every classroom is looking at what we're doing today. They're studying it. I think if you call back home, you'll find out. They are looking at a lot of facts here, a lot of astonishing things have happened. Florida's Supreme Court for instance, they've ignored the U.S. Supreme Court, they've overturned circuit courts, they've ignored the Legislature; three very historic things. Our state has been divided into two corners. And also our precious military, again looking at them, they're having to fight hard again to make sure that their votes are counting. But this, and that we're changing the rules, we're counting first and then changing the rules later. That lesson right there is something that we need to look at. We cannot teach our future generations that it's OK to do whatever you want, we'll change the laws, we'll change the rules later. We cannot let that happen, we need to let our future generations know that there are principles that we need to live by and it's right or it's wrong.

Speaker, you've done a great job, you've been a strong principled leader, and I really admire you for the work you've done. You've not been swayed by anyone and you've done your obligation to do what's right for all the Floridians here in Florida.

In summary, a justice for the Florida Supreme Court said, are we going to just reach out from some inspiration and put it down on paper? That inspiration I believe must be our duty as constitutional officers. It's not the Florida Supreme Court, they do not have the power to divine what is right and fashion the law to fit its will. We have that power, I want to be a part of Representative Byrd's group, the "do-something" caucus. We need to do something, that is our right and our obligation, and I thank you for the opportunity. [applause]

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Speaker Murman. Representative Byrd.

Rep. Byrd: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We would yield 4 minutes to Representative Littlefield.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Littlefield, you're recognized for 4 minutes for the proponents.

Rep. Littlefield: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm sure that all of us could point to events in our lives that has had such a profound effect on us that it has influenced the way that we have lived from that time on. I was reminded of one of those turning points in my life last week—and as I was looking out my window on the 11th floor of the Capitol, that looks out over the Old Capitol down the Apalachee Parkway—if I looked straight down I looked into the plaza and on this particular day it was full of people. And I could hear their amplified chants. I could see several large placards that had been printed with a message of simply, "Shame on You." And that message of "Shame on You" was directed to us as legislators for calling a special session. It was that word "shame" that took me back to an incident in my early life. I was a preteen playing Little League baseball. I loved the game and our team was having a winning season this particular year; we were down to the last two games. If we won both of those games we would be involved in a third game, it would be the championship. And for various reasons, with just two games remaining, we only had nine players. Parents moving, injuries, whatever the reasons, we were just barely able to field a team. And even with those conditions we won those two games and found ourselves in the big game. A special game to be played under the lights on the high school field, it was a big deal for somebody our age. And for reasons that I cannot remember now I was late for that game. Twenty minutes late. And when I got there the coach and the manager were putting equipment back in the bags. There were little groups of parents and players standing around shaking their heads and when I arrived seemingly they all bombarded me at the same time, "Where have you been? Why are you late? We lost the game because of you." They lost the game because of me? "We never even played a game, what do you mean?" "We lost by default because we only had eight players." It was the first time that I had ever heard that phrase "lose by default." I felt shame. I was ashamed. We had lost that game by default because of me. I did not show up on time. Lost by default; shame on me. And when I saw those placards and those chants of "Shame on You," I thought to myself that the only shame in all of this would be the shame of having to say to Florida's 15 million residents and Florida's 6 million voters, "lose by default." Not being a part of the electoral process; lose by showing up too late. Ladies and gentlemen, we have a responsibility to make sure that the state of Florida shows up and not lose by default. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. [applause]

Speaker Feeney: Thank you. Representative Byrd, you are recognized.

Rep. Byrd: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We yield 4 minutes to Representative Bense.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Bense, as a proponent. You're recognized.

Rep. Bense: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Members, I keep getting back to Article 2, Section 1, of the U.S. Constitution, which is where Speaker Feeney brought us last week—it's where we began. And I'll repeat it, "Each State shall appoint, in such Manner as the Legislature thereof may direct, a Number of Electors, equal to the whole Number of Senators and Representatives to which the State may be entitled in the Congress. . . ." Members, today we embark on a journey. It's a new journey. It's going to be an exciting journey. Two years ago when I was first elected to office I never dreamed I would be casting a vote of this significance, ever, but it's the right vote. It has to be done. We can't be part of what Representative Byrd called the do-nothing group. We have to do something. And two years ago, and in this past session, when I took the oath of office I promised to uphold and defend the Constitution of the state of Florida and the United States of America and I intend to do that this afternoon.

We've heard great speeches from both sides of the aisle, impassioned speeches from both sides of the aisle, but it's time to make a decision. It's getting close. The people of America are ready for a decision. I think it's incumbent upon us to help make that decision. In the early 1800s, speaking to a sharply divided Congress in the United States Senate, Senator Daniel Webster urged his colleagues to focus on the greater prize and I quote, he said, "Let our object be our country, our whole country, and nothing but our country." Members, remember this wise admonition before you cast your vote. Your country demands it of you. I'm in support of this fine resolution. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. [applause]

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative Bense. Representative Byrd, you're recognized.

Rep. Byrd: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We yield 4 minutes to Representative Miller.

Speaker Feeney: As a proponent of the resolution, Representative Miller, you have 4 minutes.

Rep. Miller: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Like my colleague, Representative Jennings, I rise as a fifth-generation Floridian. As we all campaigned for our offices, the one thing I am sure of today, none of us expected to be taking a vote like this. In fact, I've heard many of my colleagues saying that we should not be here at all.

Please understand that there are those in Florida, particularly constituents back home in my district—that when I walked into a coffee shop or I was gassing my pickup or went to the feed store—they wanted to know why I was at home and not in Tallahassee taking care of the things that we needed to do here, in regards to this election.

I echo the comments of my colleague, Representative Maygarden, in regards to the rally that was held in Pensacola a couple of weeks ago. Three thousand people stood on the courthouse steps because of one particular issue and that was the overseas absentee ballot issue. No one, probably, will ever know how every voter intended to vote in this election. But we do know that thousands of overseas absentee ballots were rejected for technical reasons. This includes ballots that were legally, legally rejected, or illegally rejected under clear requirements of federal law, as found by a U.S. District Court for the northern district of Florida in the Pensacola division, on last Friday.

Judge Collier and the court found that the Florida canvassing boards wrongfully rejected those federal write-in ballots from overseas and our military and civilians based on a lack of record that such voters had made timely application for state absentee ballots. The court also found that the oath taken by the voter, stating that the voter had timely applied for a state absentee ballot was the "best evidence" that this requirement had been met and that was the method of verification provided for by federal law.

Hundreds of ballots were rejected because they were not dated and because military post offices left off postmarks off of approximately one-third of these ballots.

It's apparent that thousands of ballots were thrown out, not because they did not record a vote, but because of technical issues and not because of voter errors. And we're not talking about dimples or pregnant chads here, but properly executed ballots that were never counted, not even one time.

Members, we have a charge to keep. I Corinthians, 4:2 says, "Now it is required that those who have been given a trust must prove faithful."

Like most of you, I have received thousands of e-mails, letters and phone calls on this issue. One e-mail in particular came from Mike Doyle, serving in the United States Navy. And he wrote, "Please do the right thing. Please make your decision wisely. I do not know if I am stepping out of line, but please pray before you make your decision. I was never much on praying, but in this case we need all of the help we can get. I am stationed on board the USS Bunker Hill and I have faith in our elected officials."

Members, the eyes of the world are watching what we do here today, just as the eyes of the world watched the framers of our U.S. Constitution as they prepared the document that is the base of all our laws. They tried to address every possible occurrence. They even addressed events such as our most recent presidential election. Clearly, we should be here today. Each of us has sworn an oath to uphold the Constitution of the United States of America and of the State of Florida. We have a duty to perform and we will perform it well. We have a responsibility to do and we will uphold it. Members, we have a charge to keep. [applause]

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative Miller. Representative Byrd, you are recognized.

Rep. Byrd: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We yield 4 minutes to Representative Harrington.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Harrington, you're recognized.

Rep. Harrington: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. One of the many hypothetical situations floating around involves the possibility of having two slates of electors presented to Congress on behalf of the State of Florida.

That is actually more than a hypothetical, or a remote possibility. It's a strong probability, in fact, it's the only proper result that can come from this special session. A critical point is that we have at least one slate of electors, regardless of to whom they are pledged, that can withstand the scrutiny of the United States Congress.

Currently, there is a certified slate of electors in the National Archives. However, that slate is vulnerable to a congressional challenge and they may be declared invalid.

When Congress decides whether or not to accept a slate of electors, there is a two-pronged test, which if passed, demands that the electors be accepted. The first prong is whether or not the election was conclusive and that all contests and challenges have been resolved. The second prong is whether or not the electors were selected under the laws in effect at the time prior to the election.

Florida's slate of electors, as it is now certified, fails this test because the lawsuit landslide continues and the Florida Supreme Court revised the law by exceeding the deadline.

Therefore, if the current slate of Bush electors is upheld and presented to Congress, or even if a court decides that the Bush electors should be replaced by Gore electors, there is a very real danger that either slate will be rejected and Florida will not be represented in the electoral college.

That is why the Florida Legislature must act now to appoint a set of electors which will pass that congressional test. We must ratify the set of electors that would have been chosen under the laws that were in effect on election day. By following the Florida law, we see that George W. Bush won Florida's popular vote as it would have been certified by the November 14th deadline.

In order to insulate the Florida electors from a potential challenge, we must support this resolution and we must appoint 25 electors so that Florida will have a valid, untainted set of electors available to Congress on December the 18th, and that 15 million Floridians will have their voices heard in selection of the 43rd President of the United States.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. God bless Florida and these United States. [applause]

Speaker Feeney: Thank you. Representative Harrington yields back the balance of his time to Representative Byrd.

Rep. Byrd: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We yield 4 minutes to Representative Lynn.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Lynn, you are recognized for 4 minutes as a proponent.

Rep. Lynn: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. As you all probably know this is an especially difficult moment in time for me because I come from a district which has certainly indicated that it is more Democratic than Republican. And so my being here as a Republican means that they have faith in me as a human being. It goes far beyond any partisanship.

I've listened to lawyers and it's amazing to me that Democratic lawyers seem to always interpret things one way while Republican lawyers seem to interpret things another way. And I wonder sometimes if I shouldn't go back to law school and decide for myself what it is I really interpret or how I interpret. I've listened to the judges and now I find that even these wonderful, honorable judges do not all agree. And then I listen to my colleagues and I find that even with our wonderful freshmen we have very persuasive people. And then I've had many partisan attacks and I have to say, Representative Frankel, there are other times when we have found that we could not compromise. However, I would say that this is probably one of the most important times. You are right on that.

I do not like partisan attacks. I have never run and never operated in a way that was partisan. I sometimes probably disappoint my party. I sometimes probably shock my Democratic friends. But right now, I have heard from people all over this state, all over this nation, far beyond just my own district. And we have all been elected here as State Representatives, State Representatives; that means we represent the entire state. Now, I'm in a position when I have to finally say it's kind of lonely right here and now. And I think every one of us is feeling that because while we have our colleagues and our friends and so forth, we have to answer to God and ourselves at this time.

I've listened to people talk about certified electors—that they're certified, so why do you do it again? And I frankly do not understand if we do it this time, what's going to happen that's so bad if they're already there? And so I really wonder about that. Why is it so horribly bad? Why do you see it that way? And then I hear about safe harbor and I've heard such double talk this morning about safe harbor that I wonder if people truly understand, at least some people, what that means. And then I've looked at the Florida Supreme Court and seen the United States Supreme Court stay their action. And that concerns me. And then I've heard that—oh, you've got to count all the votes and minorities and women aren't getting counted and so forth. Well I must tell you if you are aware of what has been happening throughout this nation not every single vote is counted because there are flawed ballots and that's what is the truth. And for the first time we are finding that out and it is very disturbing and we're going to fix that. But I will tell you that the bottom line is either we allow Florida—

Speaker Feeney: Representative Lynn, if you will. Representative Byrd, would you yield an additional minute? You're recognized.

Rep. Lynn: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The bottom line is that we either vote to include Florida in the electoral process in the selection of a President. We are there not to vote for "Gore" or for "Bush." We are there to make sure that Florida gets its electoral votes in, whichever happens to be certified. I want the people of Florida to be included in that process and the vote today is whether you want Florida to be included in that process or you want Florida's vote not to count at all. That's what this vote is all about, the only thing it's about. You must live with your conscience. I am voting for this resolution. I will hope you'll join me. [applause]

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative Lynn. Representative Byrd, you're recognized.

Rep. Byrd: We yield 2 minutes to Representative Kendrick.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Kendrick, as a proponent you are recognized for 2 minutes.

Rep. Kendrick: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Thank you, minority and majority party for allowing me to speak this afternoon. Representative Lynn, I too find myself in that same situation. I come from a district that is 74 percent Democrat, but yet, voted for Bush. So I can realize and recognize and appreciate your position as well.

Within a few hours or a few minutes now, most of us will cast a vote in which we will long remember. Matter of fact, this entire House will never forget this challenge.

We have heard both sides, we all have our opinions, we all have constituents that have supported us and opposed us. The evidence of this wound that this election will leave will not heal quickly.

We all take this very serious and understand this very important issue. We all know the importance of having our votes represented in Washington. I ask that we put aside our partisan politics, that we put aside our personal feelings, and that we call on that faith that we have. Now we must call on our own faith that we do the right thing at this time for the people that we represent.

Let's start that healing process today and let's start by sending this resolution, of the next ballot of electors, to the Senate side. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. [applause]

Speaker Feeney: Thank you. Representative Kendrick yields back the balance of his time. Representative Byrd, you're recognized.

Rep. Byrd: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Our remaining time is?

Speaker Feeney: You have a total of 28 minutes. We're going to reserve the last 10 minutes to the proponents. We're going to reserve 10 minutes before that to the opponents of the resolution. So you have 18 minutes to play with, Representative Byrd, if you need them all.

Rep. Byrd: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I yield 10 minutes to Representative Cantens.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Cantens, you're recognized for 10 minutes.

Rep. Cantens: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Mr. Speaker and Members, what an awesome responsibility that we have been entrusted with by the founding fathers of this great nation. I want to thank you, Mr. Speaker, for the opportunity to have served on this committee over the past few weeks and congratulate all of our colleagues that served on that committee. There have been many long days and many short nights in preparation for this resolution.

We've heard about the United States Constitution and how it delegates the power to choose the manner of choosing electors directly to us, the Legislatures of each and every state. We've heard that the United States Supreme Court, back in 1892, the McPherson v. Blacker case stated that that power is absolutely and wholly with the Legislature of the several states. And it further states that there is no doubt of the right of the Legislature to resume the power at any time for it can neither be taken away nor abdicated. We heard these same words just a week ago when the United States Supreme Court cited to this very same case. We also have Federal Statutes that provide us further guidance as we travel through these unchartered waters. For we've heard about Title 3 of the United States Code, Section 2. And it states, and I'll quote, "Whenever any State has held an election for the purpose of choosing electors. . ." and obviously we have here in the state of Florida. And the next phrase is the most important part and the crucial part of this section, "and has failed to make a choice on the day prescribed by law, the electors may be appointed on a subsequent day in such a manner as the Legislature of such State may direct." Members, House Concurrent Resolution 1-A establishes a legislative finding that the election on November 7th failed to make a choice.

There's a reason for that language in that section, I think it's been alluded to earlier, we certainly do not want Legislatures across this country to overrule the will of the people. If this Legislature and this concurrent resolution was being proposed today because we did not agree with the certified slate because we are of an opposing view or an opposing party, that's exactly what that language is intended for—to prevent those kinds of situations. We have the contrary here. We have a certified slate of electors that are pledged to George W. Bush.

So how do we define that phrase, "failed to make a choice?" Well, we must look at the criteria that Congress itself will use when it comes time for them to make a determination as to whether or not our choice and our slate is conclusive. And that's found in Section 5, of Title 3, of the United States Code. We really have two requirements that Congress will look to: has it been made pursuant to laws that were enacted prior to the day fixed by law, prior to November the 7th, in a manner prescribed by the Legislature? We've heard about the laws in the election code in existence on election day. And the second requirement is that the final determination of any controversy or contest be made six days prior to the time of the meeting, that is today. Under both of these requirements, Congress can reasonably find that our electors should not be counted, thus our election has failed. We've heard about changes in the law, about certification dates. We've heard about changes in standards and criteria to be used for manual recounts, heard about changes in canvassing board decisions as to when manual recounts should be done. And you add to this the numerous allegations of uncounted ballots, overvotes, undervotes, dimpled chads, pregnant chads, possibly thousands of felons having voted illegally in this past election, military, overseas ballots, nursing home irregularities. In light of all this can anyone truly say that the November 7th election made a choice that was pursuant to our laws, a choice that is clear and definitive, but most importantly a choice that will not raise objections in Congress? A choice that Congress must accept? Clearly the answer is no. Ask yourself this question, if you were about to buy a home and the owner of that home wants to transfer title to you and give you a warranty deed but tells you I will give you this warranty deed and you give me the money but just so you know, there are a bunch of lawsuits out there trying to figure out who really owns the property, are you willing to pay the money for that home? Because that's exactly where we are at today. We have a certified slate that has a cloud over it. Ask yourself—the bottom line, worst case scenario that we could possibly find ourselves in—if Congress rejects the certified slate, any certified slate, what would you rather have, what would you prefer, what would you want to go back and tell your constituents happened: that Florida didn't count and Florida's 25 electoral votes were not counted when the electoral college met? Or, that we, the Florida Legislature, chose those 25 electors by adopting this resolution? Members, I urge you to support House Concurrent Resolution 1-A to ensure that we are counted. Thank you. [applause]

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative Cantens.

Representative Byrd, you have 21 minutes left. The opponents have 55 minutes left. Do you think that you will need all 21 of your minutes?

Rep. Byrd: We will reserve that, all we need is the 10 minutes to close.

Speaker Feeney: Wonderful. Representative Frankel, you're recognized. We are now on the main resolution. Do you think that you'll need all of your 55 minutes?

Rep. Frankel: Yes, Sir. Mr. Speaker, we are ready to go.

Speaker Feeney: You're recognized.

Rep. Frankel: Thank you. At this time, Mr. Speaker. I would yield to Representative Gottlieb for 5 minutes.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Gottlieb, again thank you for serving on the Joint Select Committee and the Select Committee, you're recognized for 5 minutes.

Rep. Gottlieb: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, I was honored to serve. And if the Secretary of State felt that there was a cloud on the title or the certification she should not have signed it and the Governor shouldn't have signed it because that's when it was important, but now we do have a certification.

I'm convinced the people don't want conclusivity, or safe harbor, because basically I think only professors really know what those things are. The only thing I've heard from people is they want this done and they want it done now. The only problem is they don't want it over like this. They don't want politicians in the state Legislature deciding who's going to be their next President. It just doesn't make common sense, adding more lawyers and politicians, even adding the media to the mix, that doesn't bring a closure fast. In fact, all the words I've heard, that only makes things last longer.

This action is illegal. This action sets a dangerous precedent. And this action violates the basic tenets of our American democracy where our power comes from the people. I've heard my Republican colleagues say that we need to protect Florida's place in the electoral college, that we need to have a bulletproof slate of electors. According to the testimony I heard from respected constitutional scholars, we don't have a bulletproof slate of electors today. We aren't going to have a bulletproof slate of electors tomorrow. We are not going to have a bulletproof slate of electors if we do what we're going to do today. In fact, what we're doing in this Chamber, based on the testimony of scholars who really understand this, we're just going to make matters worse.

Prior to the election, this Legislature established the manner in which our state would choose its electors. We call it an election. The Congress chose the date we pick the electors and this year that was November 7th. In essence, what the majority is asking us to do is have a new election day where only the choice of a hundred and sixty politicians matter. Any attempt to pick new electors by the Legislature would be in violation of the federal law that says that electors must be chosen on the same day across the country. Fellow Members, simply put election day has passed; it is over. All that's left is to count the votes and determine the true winner and award the candidate our electoral votes. My colleagues on the other side say that this Legislature can do whatever it wants when it comes to choosing a presidential elector, because we have plenary power. Anything we want. What does that mean? Well, that means if we felt like it, we could always void the choice of the voters and have the Legislature elect the President. Don't worry, I'm from the government. I am here to help. Big Brother will take care of everything.

A Republican Legislature equals a Republican President. And a Democratic Legislature equals a Democratic President. The people would end up voting for their legislator who chooses their electors who chooses their President. You've heard about six degrees of separation; well this is six degrees of picking a President. Why don't we do that? Because it's undemocratic, it's un-American, and it's just plain wrong. There can be nothing more flawed than the process that this Legislature is considering. This action smacks of old-style party boss politics. The only thing missing is a smoke-filled room. Every time politicians go into a room and come out with the next President the people are outraged. It happened after Hayes-Tilden and it can also happen after Gore-Bush. Let's shoot straight.

The special session is about accomplishing one goal and one goal only, to ensure the election for George W. Bush as the next President of the United States. This isn't about protecting Florida's electors. This is brass knuckles partisan politics at its very worst. I know that we'll be able to work together later, but that is what this is about. It's about who gets the best seat at the inauguration, who gets the spoils in the cabinet position.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Gottlieb, your time has run out. Representative Frankel, do you wish to extend Representative Gottlieb a minute, 30 seconds?

Rep. Frankel: Yes.

Speaker Feeney: You have a minute, Representative Gottlieb.

Rep. Gottlieb: Thank you, Mr. Chair, Mrs. Chair, Speaker. And who gets control of our nuclear weapons, just to end that thought.

For me this issue is more important than Bush or Gore. This is about how we elect Presidents from now on. This is about respecting the will of the voters and defending our democracy. In my district there are teachers with families struggling to make ends meet. There are firefighters working overtime to protect our families and communities. There are retired couples who work hard over a lifetime and voted in every election since Truman and never dreamed that the Florida Legislature would take their vote away.

The beauty of America is that all our votes are equal on election day, not one of our votes in this Chamber is more important than the vote of that teacher, firefighter, or retired couple.

Mr. Speaker, Members, let's not take their vote away. Thank you. [applause]

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative Gottlieb. Representative Frankel, you are recognized.

Rep. Frankel: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I yield to Representative Henriquez 4 minutes.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Henriquez, you are recognized.

Rep. Henriquez: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Members, I rise to speak against this House resolution. I believe that it is a fundamentally flawed effort which creates a dangerous precedent that will have absolutely the opposite effect than that intended. But more importantly, I believe it violates the spirit of many of the principles that all of us have been sworn to uphold.

To me, this is a question of fundamental fairness and faith. Where I come from, the one with the most votes wins. Each of us knows if we examine our conscience that there are thousands of votes that have been left out of our certifications.

I wish I could believe that our purpose were as lofty as has been portrayed today. Unfortunately, I have this feeling that it is purely a political exercise. And we as a Legislature have given in to political expediency and our own individual bias for a certain desired result.

We have had our say. On November 7th, presumably each of us entered a voting booth and cast our vote for a presidential candidate. On that day, as in all days, we were the same as every other citizen. I'll never forget my first election day. As I stood outside the polling place holding a sign, I watched people, real people, stream in and out all day. And I realized that all the fundraising and walking of neighborhoods and debates and speeches, all that for 12 hours, the age-old assertion, "that all people are created equal" magically came to life in front of my own eyes. Whether they were old or young, male or female, black or white, rich or poor, each person had as much influence on the outcome as the strongest special interest or the deepest pocket lobbying firm. The election was truly in the hands of the voter.

How can we, as a body, cast another vote for President when so many people have had their vote go unrecognized? Members, examine your conscience. We must fight to validate every possible vote. To argue that we should not attempt to count all the possible votes simply because the time is up and—respectfully for my very good friend, Representative Littlefield, a good coach would have waited 10 minutes and won the game on the field—or that we, or simply because we have a flawed statute, is a disservice to our democracy.

Next, I'm disturbed greatly by the lack of faith, on each side, that has been exhibited during this process. Our system is built on faith, not simply religious faith, but faith in the ability of people to make that most fundamental of all decisions: to choose their representation. Faith that our elected officials, the canvassing board, citizen volunteers and others can carry out their duties in a fair and reasonable manner.

I'm mystified that we have suggested today and in the past few weeks that literacy tests, in exchange for voting rights, should again be part of our lexicon or that in some way our electorate is responsible for this mess. Today we have even sort of hinted around the fact that some of us in this room are unpatriotic. That's rhetoric unbecoming our position as legislators.

I ran for this office to better the lives of individual citizens of this state. And hopefully, if possible, to leave this institution better than it was when I arrived, but under no circumstances, to harm any of my constituents or this great body. And I'm afraid that we are in danger of doing both today with this effort.

Much has been made of the power we possess in this case. However, might does not make right and just because we have the power to act does not mean that we have to act. Sometimes the best course of action is no action. And discretion in this case is the better part of valor.

This resolution neither increases the likelihood of one or the other candidates winning or decreases the chance of a constitutional train wreck. In fact—

Speaker Feeney: Representative Frankel, would you yield an additional minute to Representative Henriquez? You are recognized.

Rep. Henriquez: In fact, I believe in quite the opposite. We are a nation ruled by laws, not men. Members of the highest court in this land are currently deciding this matter and we all know that's where it belongs. We should let this process play out, accept the results and get on with the issues our constituents sent us here to work on.

Members, the world is watching and our intentions will be evaluated for many years to come. Let your conscience be your guide. But in any event, when this is over, we should put this election saga behind it and all its negative aspects. Dare I say, perhaps we should put it in a lock box [laughter] and bury it in our distant memories. We owe, at least, that much to the citizens of the state of Florida. Thank you very much. [applause]

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative Henriquez. He yields back the balance of his time. Representative Frankel, you're recognized. Representative Frankel.

Rep. Frankel: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I yield 3 minutes to Representative Brutus.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Brutus, welcome and you're recognized.

Rep. Brutus: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise today, Mr. Speaker, to oppose the concurrent resolution. As the first Haitian-American to sit in this Legislature I know all too well the meaning of voter disenfranchisement. I've seen it. I've lived it. And I take great comfort to know that my Cuban-American colleagues also know the meaning of voter disenfranchisement. They too have seen it. They too have lived it. And until their country is liberated from communist dictatorship, they will continue to hear the cry of their brothers in Cuba wanting to be free.

A large group of my constituents have been scarred by election violence in their own country. Some 10 years ago many people were gunned down with ballots in their hands as they attempted to exercise their right to vote in Haiti. Mr. Speaker, that was voter disenfranchisement. Just a few weeks ago, before the presidential election in Haiti, seven bombs exploded in the capital city of Port-au-Prince and a seven-year-old boy was killed in the violence. That was an electoral crisis; we don't have an electoral crisis here, Mr. Speaker, we simply have a disagreement.

I believe we should let the process work, just like it is written in our laws. A large number of my constituents have put their lives at risk by crossing dangerous seas to escape political tyranny. All they wanted was to come to a country where they could be free, free to choose their leaders. Those who made it went through the rigorous process of becoming legal residents. They waited years to become U.S. citizens. Then they registered to vote as Americans. On election day these people stood proudly and gratefully in line, some for several hours, to cast their first ballots for the Presidency of the United States. Mr. Speaker, it would be impossible for me to go back to my district and tell my constituents that we, the Florida Legislature, took away their right to have their votes count. Many of my constituents thought that by coming to this great democracy, by working hard, playing by the rules, they would get their right to exercise the right to vote. Our action today can be seen as a coup d'etat against them.

Members, I beg of you to at least understand our position, to at least understand how hurt we would feel to realize that our votes have been cast away in the wind. I know most of you have already made up your mind, but remember history will judge us by what we do today. And history will not be kind to this Legislature should we proceed on this unfortunate course. As each of you cast your vote, I hope you will ponder this very important question of what this country and the right to vote means to people who had to flee dictatorship in search of a better life, like my family and those families of our esteemed Cuban-American legislators had to do in search of freedom and democracy. In closing. . .

Speaker Feeney: Representative Frankel, will you yield 30 seconds to the Representative? Thirty seconds.

Rep. Brutus: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In closing, I do hope you will not put partisan politics above the rule of law and our peoples' voice. The concurrent resolution will not bring us any closer to resolving this situation. Indeed, I think it'll push us closer to a real constitutional crisis. I urge you, I beg you to please think very hard, think about what you're about to do and let the U.S. Supreme Court decide this matter. Thank you very much. [applause]

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative Brutus. Representative Frankel, I have you for a little under 39 minutes left, including your 10 minutes to close before Representative Byrd is recognized. You're recognized, Representative Frankel.

Rep. Frankel: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I would now yield to Representative Wishner for 2 minutes.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Wishner, welcome to the House and you're recognized.

Rep. Wishner: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, I appreciate that. Mr. Speaker and Members of this distinguished body, I am proud and honored to serve with all of you. We've met each other in the last 30 to 45 days and we've had some good talks. And we've talked about the issues that are important to the people of Florida. And I look forward to working with each and every one of you in a bipartisan way to make sure the dreams and the things that are needed to benefit our people of Florida are taking place.

The voters in my district have asked for only one thing, and one thing only, allow the votes to be counted. I've always thought that when you count the votes you get things right. The process was in place and was proceeding until the lawsuits were filed that stopped the counting. By the Florida Legislature passing this resolution we would be taking over the election process. We have all been elected by our respective districts to represent all of the people of Florida.

The electoral list has been put in place and by now the members have been certified and if we pass this it's going to cause some disenfranchisement of those lists. I have not received any notification, if anyone has I'd love to see it, from the Federal Elections Commission saying that the certified slate is in jeopardy.

We must also be concerned when people in position of power feel that the judicial branch of government has no place in a country of laws. Our unanimous vote should be to direct the 45,000 votes to be counted, including our military votes from overseas. Floridians and Americans alike will judge our action if this resolution is passed to be a rush to judgment, and unnecessary, and wrong. I urge my fellow legislators to vote no on this resolution and let's just count the votes. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. [applause]

Speaker Feeney: Very well timed. Representative Frankel, you are recognized.

Rep. Frankel: Mr. Speaker, I waive 4 minutes to Representative Heyman.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Heyman, you're recognized for 4 minutes.

Rep. Heyman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise today to speak against this resolution. Our role as Florida legislators is to eliminate dangerous weaknesses that compromise the electoral process, not assert our position of power to achieve our partisan wants nor showcase the Legislature's lack of patience with the courts and lack of respect to the process. Lack of patience with and control of the judicial branch goes more to the call of this special session than a resolution proposed to ensure Florida's electors not merely reiterating 25 electors to George W. Bush. The concurrent resolution language rejects the voting process of our people while the special session rejects the judicial process for redress. Both are likely to prolong the legal challenges and further compromise public confidence. How ironic that the legislative cure to a counting crisis will create now what is a nonexistent constitutional crisis.

The outcome of this election, because of alleged injustices, is to be determined by law interpreted by our courts. Nowhere in Florida Statute or U.S. Constitution does language suggest nor support partisan performance of a legislative body to preempt the judiciary nor replace 6 million qualified casted Florida votes with a majority of Florida legislators and their vote. The guiding principles of Florida's election process has been language put forth by the Florida Legislature in Florida Statute. Interpreting the law is the responsibility of our court system as set forth in our Constitution and Florida Statute, including specific outcome language and addressing alleged injustices of statutory provisions.

The Florida Constitution and our oath of office do not support intervening to force results of an election through lack of patience ultimately ignoring or dismissing court findings. There's no language in our Constitution for the Florida Legislature to redesign the responsibilities and role of the Florida Supreme Court. Our responsibility in this body is to assure election integrity, not further instability to the process. As a legislative body we wrote the Florida Election Code and governing law that was in place on November 7. We should not short circuit the process. This legislative leadership and executive office has previously demonstrated their dissatisfaction with the judiciary, their desire to usurp their authority and reduce the power of our courts, ignore separation of powers and undermine the role of our courts to interpret law. This should not continue with the action in this resolution. Florida voters did not delegate their vote to the Florida Legislature and the judiciary did not abdicate their responsibility to the Legislature. Our situation is unprecedented. Colleagues, our actions today should not be unconstitutional. Vote against this resolution. Thank you. [applause]

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative Heyman. Representative Frankel, you are recognized.

Rep. Frankel: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I yield 2 minutes to Representative Peterman.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Peterman, welcome to the House and you're recognized.

Rep. Peterman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise today to speak against the resolution. First of all, I'd like to give honor to God on this day. Before the foundation of the world God preordained this day. He knew that men and women within these special Chambers would be given a choice today. I pray this day that our choice is within the will of God.

As a freshman legislator, I believe that the will of the people must always prevail. If people within our various legislative districts voted for a certain candidate, then the votes in those districts must become the ultimate voice of the people. For now, in my district, District 55 has yielded over 25,000 votes for Gore and over 7,000 for Bush. I'm proud of that victory. However, we should ensure that we listen to the demands of the under counted. Count every vote and let the process decide this election. To do otherwise would not be of the people and for the people, but rather let's forget the people.

As an African-American, it seems that we have been forgotten once again during this presidential process. But I won't forget the blood, sweat, and tears of those who have gone on before us. I cannot forget those people who died for the right to vote. Therefore, this special session is unacceptable to me and a recount is the only solution. So I say to my colleagues today, I won't give an inch. I will concede nothing. I will fight until the end for those who are living and those who are yet to come.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Frankel, can you yield 30 seconds for Representative Peterman?

Rep. Peterman: I'm done.

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative Peterman. [applause] Representative Frankel, you're recognized.

Rep. Frankel: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. At this time I would yield 2 minutes to Representative Ausley.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Ausley, you're recognized as an opponent to the main resolution.

Rep. Ausley: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I'm honored to be a newly elected Member of the Florida House of Representatives representing Tallahassee which is my home and our state capital. And I'm also proud that six generations of my family have called Tallahassee home, including my grandfather who served across the hall in the Florida Senate. As a native of Tallahassee, I have been privileged to grow up in and around these institutions that support our democracy, instilling in me a great respect for public service and our system of representative government. This system of democracy has served our country well for more than 200 years. And the very foundation of our democracy rests upon the separation of powers, three branches of government that operate independently of one another. Although, it is not unexpected that these branches might disagree, it is dangerous when one branch of government does not respect another.

It is our independent judiciary that sets us apart from the rest of the world. And when we start to cast doubts upon this branch we threaten our entire system of democracy. As we embark into uncharted territory today, I urge my colleagues to tread cautiously and to think carefully about the actions we propose. We must not be perceived as overriding the will of the people or undermining the independence of the judiciary.

We're standing here today because we were elected to represent the will of the people, not to substitute our will for theirs. For that reason, I stand to speak against the resolution and I urge all of my colleagues. Thank you. [applause]

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative. Representative Frankel, you are recognized.

Rep. Frankel: Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to Representative Wiles.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Wiles, you are recognized for 4 minutes as an opponent.

Rep. Wiles: Thank you, Mr. Speaker and Members. The issue of appointing electors by the Legislature appears simple on the surface. But the course of action this body contemplates goes to the very core of our Constitution and the election laws which have set our great country apart from all others.

None of the issues that we face today fit neatly in the kind of short sound bites that you and I and many other Americans have frequently heard in newscasts or read in the newspapers. The arguments are complex and the outcomes are unclear. The steps we are about to take will not bring this matter to a prompt conclusion or bring any form of certainty to the outcome of the presidential election. Rather, this House resolution is surely to cause additional confusion and litigation and most certainly establish new precedents that our country will use in future presidential elections.

By declaring that the November 7th election failed to identify a popular vote choice for President, the resolution casts constitutional and legal doubt on the Governor's earlier and Florida's only certification of electors and would likely give rise to unpredictable congressional action. Many constitutional scholars warn that creating an additional set of electors, by this Legislature, could disenfranchise all 6 million Florida voters who took time to exercise their right. Further, our action will serve only to further politicize this issue at a time when we need to begin bridging our growing partisan gaps rather than further dividing our state and our nation. We should focus on the election process, not on partisan politics. We must be diligent to avoid establishing a precedent that could dramatically alter our system of electing our President. With so much at stake, I believe our founding fathers and the great statesmen of the past would advise caution and great care as we journey across this uncharted portion of our U.S. Constitution. That prudence should govern our action here today.

But my opposition to this resolution is not limited to these specific reasons. John Locke, the political theorist and author of the Second Treatise on Government once said, the Legislature or supreme authority cannot assume to itself the power to rule by extemporary arbitrary decrees, but it is bound to dispense justice and decide the rights of the subject by promulgated standing laws and authorized judges. We are not here in an attempt to usurp one branch of government in favor of another. We're not here to give our opinion on the judiciary regardless of our personal thoughts on their actions, because, quite frankly, that is not our job. Our job is to represent our constituents and to be trustees of this great state. We are elected to create public policy, not to interpret it or to judge it. Ladies and gentlemen, sometimes political expediency runs contrary to defending the cause of democracy. None of us here ever thought or dreamed that this Legislature that we are in would be the corner on which our democracy would turn. Today we have a responsibility that is just greater than representing our constituents. Our actions will have a lasting effect on our government and the generations of Americans and Floridians who follow us. Unfortunately, none of us knows what that effect will be. Mr. Speaker and fellow Members, today is our test. Prudence must be our guide and, ultimately, history will be our judge. Thank you. [applause]

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative Wiles. Representative Frankel, you are recognized.

Rep. Frankel: Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to Representative Lee.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Lee, you're recognized for 3 minutes.

Rep. Lee: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. And to my colleagues, I rise, but before I move into my comments, I must say, I reluctantly rise. Initially, I did not want to speak when I was told everyone would have an opportunity, because, like so many of the voters, you really feel, does my vote really count, seventy-seven, forty-three? But if you preach something, you should do it. So here I am.

I rise to cast a vote against Concurrent Resolution 1-A that has been presented by the majority party. Certainly, there has been a very frustrating period for me—certainly as a legislator, voter, and more particularly a lay person—like the other 6 million or more people that cast their votes on November the 7th. And I believe that that same frustration holds true for my colleagues on the other side of the aisle.

My dissatisfaction is definitely the result of the unresolved problems of this election that exist and continue to exist. And what are these problems? Number one, the resolution that is before us today, as I see it, it is not needed; because, a certificate of ascertainment of the electors, that was certified by the Elections Canvassing Commission, was communicated by the Governor of Florida to the Archivist of the United States, pursuant Title 3, United States Code, Section 6. I believe to say that there was no finality brought about as it relates to our electoral process is an erroneous statement for any of us to make, whether you are a Democrat or a Republican.

If this slate is now submitted, does the Governor send this document, once again to the National Archives or does it go through an amendatory process? Meaning, will the Canvassing Commission reconvene itself and vote, or can the Governor solely amend it himself by the stroke of a pen? This question has not been answered.

Is this an amendment of the statute? And if so, isn't it true, in order to amend the statute we have to pass the statute? Is this resolution, is this a resolution amending the statute? So, it seems to me, since the National Archives has already received a certificate of our electors, it has a legal obligation to pass on the certified electors. And the only way that the already certified electors can be rejected is by the act of Congress. Therefore, I have no other alternative but to vote no.

Now, I cannot consciously cast another vote in the affirmative, when in fact, so many of my constituents'—in Duval County—votes have not been counted. Specifically in the predominant African-American precincts and very quickly, I would just like to show you a pattern.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Frankel, would you like to yield another minute to Representative Lee?

Rep. Lee: And I will close. There are several precincts in Duval County where a pattern was shown. For instance, 7G, 21 percent undervoted, 134 percent overvoted; 8G, 11 percent undervoted, 163 percent overvoted. That is just an example of some African-American precincts. And I could go on and on to show you exactly what has occurred.

I close by saying one thing, there are only two votes we should be casting today: voting to allow those whose votes were not counted to be counted—and certainly that's before the Supreme Court now—and, number two, voting for voter reform. Thank you. [applause]

Speaker Feeney: Thank you. Representative Frankel, you're recognized.

Rep. Frankel: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I yield to Representative Kosmas for 6 minutes.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Kosmas you're recognized for, was that 5 minutes, Representative Frankel? You're recognized for 5 minutes.

Rep. Kosmas: Six she said.

Speaker Feeney: Six minutes.

Rep. Kosmas: It's Kosmas, Mr. Speaker, Kosmas.

Speaker Feeney: I apologize.

Rep. Kosmas: Thank you, and I hope, Mr. Speaker, that you appreciate this exercise that we provided for you to get to know every one of our freshman speakers in one day.

Mr. Speaker, and Members, I would like to say, that the reasoned and passionate debate that we have heard today provides the backdrop for probably the most crucial decision any of us as legislators may be ever asked to make.

The most critical and dangerous issue at hand, in my view, is not who ultimately will occupy the White House for the next four years, but rather the effect of the Legislature's unnecessary and unlawful seizure of power not granted to it in the U.S. Constitution. One can reasonably argue, and I suspect you all would agree with me, that Florida's election equipment is, in many instances, outdated. Or, you can argue that the standards established in our law are vague, albeit they ultimately and finally do defer to the intent of the voter. But, while Florida's laws are our creation, the notion that we have the power to contravene federal law—that is to change the manner of selecting electors after an election has taken place by popular vote—is misleading to the point that it borders on arrogance and has the potential to lead to corruption, the very thing the U.S. Constitution and our statutes are designed to prevent. Not only is it unlawful to change the manner or law after an election has occurred; but we attempt to do so by a concurrent resolution, which, by our own Rules and by legal definition is not a mechanism which carries with it the weight to effect a change in Florida law. We take this action in direct violation of our own House Rules, establishing a new and dangerous precedent. These precedents, as you know, provide the basis for interpretation of future actions. Our misuse of these, in establishing this precedent, is a very dangerous thing. The concurrent resolution, as I said, is relegated for uses that do not have the effect of changing law, but in addition do not require the concurrence of the executive.

If we take the power, or assume that we have the power to change the law without the concurrence of the executive, then where lies the balance of power between our branches of government which has provided the stability on which we all rely, and have relied, and has stood us in good stead for 200 years? Do we feel the power relegated to us to be so absolute that we begin by violating our own Rules? Do we feel the power relegated to us is so absolute that we ignore the Florida law, in place prior to the election, thereby potentially ignoring the will and the votes of our constituents? Do we feel the power relegated to us is so absolute that we avoid the checks and balances of the executive branch? Do we feel the power relegated to us is so absolute that we preempt the judicial process taking place as we speak? Does this notion of power lead us to become the first state in the nation to arrogantly interpret plenary power by ignoring its constitutional reservations—namely in this instance, the federal requirement that state law be established prior to the election date and prescribing that the popular vote is the manner for selecting electors? Do we feel that the power relegated to us is so absolute that we are willing to act and thereby set the stage for a real constitutional crisis? What prevents, then, any state from enacting a similar resolution after the fact of a popular vote and to include the words that we have before us in this resolution on page 3, line 24, "That the Florida Legislature finds that the election for electors for President and Vice President of the United States of America held on November 7, 2000, ultimately failed to make a choice of such electors?" What would preclude any state then, from enacting a resolution, after the fact, and declaring for itself the power to determine who the electors for that state would be? Could any Legislature assume that power, find that an election has failed by merely politically divining, fashioning, or creating a failure or even in the instance of a legitimate contest, then, craft the power for itself to change the outcome of the popular vote within its state? If you look at this year's election for example, there are nine states which have Democrats elected in the Legislature; those nine states certified to the National Archives their electors on behalf of Governor Bush. Imagine that these legislative bodies determine their power to be so absolute as to grant themselves the authority to select or appoint the state's electors at any time it is convenient for them to do so. Our actions create a recipe for disaster and a real constitutional crisis.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Frankel, would you like to yield 30 seconds to Representative Kosmas?

Rep. Frankel: Yes, Yes, I'm sorry.

Speaker Feeney: You're recognized, Representative Kosmas.

Rep. Kosmas: Thank you. "Such a precedent, once set," in the words of Professor Ackerman, would "gravely undermine the legitimacy of the presidential office on a permanent basis and severely damage the entire constitutional structure." On those words, I urge you to consider this consequence and I speak in opposition to the amendment. Thank you.

Speaker Feeney: Thank you. Representative Frankel, you're recognized.

Rep. Frankel: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, I yield to Representative Bucher for 1 minute please.

Speaker Feeney: You're recognized, Representative.

Rep. Bucher: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise today to speak against this resolution and also to voice my opposition to the vehicle of a concurrent resolution being used, in an unprecedented manner, to change our statutes of law so as to facilitate a particular timetable. The language in this resolution serves not only to rob the 6 million Floridians who came to the polls to have their voices heard, but it also circumvents the voices of millions throughout the country who faithfully came to the polls on election day, as this unlawful resolution may decide who will be our next President rather than the votes and the voices of the people. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative. Representative Frankel, you are recognized and you have a total of 11 minutes and 20 seconds left.

Rep. Frankel: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm going to yield to Representative Weissman for 3 minutes.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Weissman, welcome to the House and you're recognized for 2 minutes.

Rep. Weissman: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Members, I rise in opposition to the concurrent resolution. History shows us that the action that the Florida Legislature is poised to take is misguided and unlawful. Nearly 140 years ago, the Florida Legislature convened in special session to decide the immediate fate of the then 65-year-old Union. At that time, history demanded that our legislative forebearers navigate between partisan politics and statesmanship. A vote for or against the Union required each Member to look deeply into his soul and to decide what was best, not only for the America of that day, but indeed for the America of an uncharted distant future. Today, what is at issue before this body is of no less historic import, for we have placed before us the question of how the President of the United States, the most powerful individual on the face of this planet, shall be chosen. In essence, to support this resolution, we become the most powerful voting bloc in American history. It is a sobering and daunting prospect and it is simply wrong. That is not the intent of what the law of our land says. Without question, we will remember this vote 'til the end of our days and we will be judged by the decision we make. I challenge each of us to see beyond today, tomorrow, or next year and to grasp the deep significance that our voices and votes may have for generations yet to come. Let us not be like corporate executives who consider only the next quarterly report, but rather leaders whose sole concern is the long-term health of the entire enterprise. In a democracy, the voters don't give an advisory opinion, they give the only opinion.

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative Weissman, do you desire additional time? Thank you, Representative Weissman. Representative Frankel, you're recognized.

Rep. Frankel: Mr. Speaker, I would yield 2 minutes to Representative Lerner.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Lerner, you're recognized for 2 minutes.

Rep. Lerner: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Members, I rise to speak against House Concurrent Resolution 1-A which seeks to subvert, disqualify, and nullify the 6 million votes cast by Florida's voters. That includes the 19,632 votes cast for Vice President Al Gore, and the 14,185 votes cast for George Bush in District 119. I stand against the systemic injustices suffered by thousands of voters—both absentee and in person—examples of which we heard for several hours during the Select Committee hearings, yet this body seems resolved to ignore. I stand against the impatience and intolerance for the rule of law exhibited by those who have called for this special session and against the arrogance of power asserted by those who believe we can, therefore we must override the popular vote. I stand against the hypocrisy of those who are traditional, strict constructionists when interpreting the U.S. Constitution, case law, and the U.S. Code, yet have for these purposes only given extremely liberal interpretations to the Constitution, the U.S. Code, and case law, just to achieve the desired results. I stand convinced by the testimony and the opinions of constitutional scholars, that Floridians who voted on November 7th made a choice which resulted in a successful election and that our power to impact that decision ended 50 feet outside the election booths on that day. I take no honor in having to cast my first vote in this special session, for I believe that our actions today only contribute to the chaos.

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative Lerner. Representative Frankel, you are recognized.

Rep. Frankel: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I would yield a minute and a half to Representative Holloway.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Holloway, welcome and you are recognized for a minute and a half.

Rep. Holloway: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, Members. I rise today to speak against the resolution. I am reminded of the words of the "Negro National Anthem" which states in the second verse that "we have come, over a way that with tears has been watered, we have come, treading our paths through the blood of the slaughtered." "Yet with a steady beat, have not our weary feet come to this place for which our fathers sighed?"

I rise today, more importantly, to give a voice to my constituents and their frustration with what is happening here. I represent a lot of people who aren't credited with great power or wealth. They work hard and struggle and yet they hold a deep belief in our democracy. Once every four years they make time to gather at schoolhouses and churches to cast their votes for the President of the United States—many churches that were bombed in the '50s and '60s and burned just in the '90s here in our state.

We have a principle in this nation that the polling booth harbors the seed of equality. Regardless of sex, status, religion, or race, their ballot carries equal significance to any other.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Holloway, would you request an additional 30 seconds? Representative Frankel, will you yield 30 seconds for Representative Holloway? You are recognized.

Rep. Holloway: Yet, either through intent or indifference the case cannot be made for this election. The evidence is clear in this regard from Milton to Marathon from Palatka to Pahokee. The percentage of minority community votes thrown out is disproportionate to a level that boggles the mind and tarnishes the legitimacy of this result. We cannot afford to turn a blind eye to the facts while simultaneously turning our backs to our founding principles. Every vote must count, lest we set a dangerous precedent.

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative Holloway. Representative Frankel, you've got 3 minutes and 55 seconds and you're recognized.

Rep. Frankel: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I would yield that 2 minutes to Representative Meadows.

Speaker Feeney: Representative Meadows. Senator, Representative, welcome to the House. You're recognized.

Rep. Meadows: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker and fellow Members. I rise today because I'm reminded of excitement in the eyes of the people who are registered to vote in my district, at the malls, the churches, club meetings, homeowners meetings, this year. Many of those individuals were Haitians, Hispanics, Jamaicans, and from other Caribbean nations. These people registered as Republicans, NPA's and Democrats. Some were excited because they had waited years to become citizens, individuals who would now be able to vote without fearing bodily harm.

I stand here today, Mr. Speaker and Members, because I hate to see these peoples' votes taken away from them. They want their votes to count and so do I. Not only were they excited about registering to vote, rather because: they came out to many of the elections, and the municipal elections this spring, primaries, the run-offs, and in November. These people use walkers, crutches, wheelchairs, and any means necessary to get to the polls and exercise their right to vote. Those who couldn't drive called and asked for rides to the polls. These people who even braved heavy rains to come out to exercise their rights to vote, they want their votes to be counted and so do I.

I'd like to close by using a statement from one of my constituents who at the rally recently, they said first affirmative action, now my vote, what will they take from me next? This will not stop me, it will only make me stronger. Maybe we need to amend the pledge of allegiance where it says "freedom and justice for all" two additional words "some day."

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. And I urge you to vote against this resolution.

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative. [applause]

Representative Frankel, you're recognized.

Rep. Frankel: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I yield the balance of the time to Mr. Seiler.

Speaker Feeney: You're recognized. You've got 1 minute and 33 seconds.

Rep. Seiler: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise today to speak against the resolution. And in the short time I have remaining I just want to touch on one last legal point that, I think has been overlooked here today. The determination of a controversy as to the appointment of electors we have been directed to look to the U.S. Code, Title 3, Section 5 which states that the state of Florida must provide by laws any determination of controversy or contest concerning the appointment of our electors. Article VI, Section 1 of our Constitution states that the "Registration and elections shall . . . be regulated by law. . . ." And I think that is one important fact that we have overlooked throughout this process since last Friday, and Monday, and today, and this that we are passing is not a law. After leaving here last Friday I went to Black's Law Dictionary and looked up what a resolution is, it is merely: "A formal expression of the opinion or will of an official body or a public assembly. . . ." And, in the case of Baker v. City of Milwaukee such is not a law but merely a form in which a legislative body expresses an opinion. So, before we vote on this resolution, I think we need to realize that we are not passing a law, we are merely expressing an opinion as a body, and, as such, I am going to vote against this resolution. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Speaker Feeney: Thank you, Representative. Representative Frankel, the opponents are pretty much out of time unless you can say a heck of a lot in 3 seconds. Actually, I've just used your 3 seconds. I wonder if Leader Frankel would be willing to take a short 5 minute recess, maybe she and I can confer about the timetable for the next 45 minutes or an hour. And maybe we can conclude our business for the day. Representative Frankel, if you have an opportunity we can discuss the timetable up here and the Members will stand in informal recess and I don't expect to be more than 5 or 10 minutes so at the call of the Chair. If you'll stay close and get a drink and refresh we'll be back in a few minutes.

[The House stood in informal recess at 3:03 p.m., and reconvened at 3:18 p.m.]

The House will come to order and the Members will take their seats.

Before I recognize Representative Frankel for a motion, Representative Byrd, would you advise the Chair as to how much of your remaining time you think that you'll be inclined to use?

Rep. Byrd: Mr. Speaker, it is our intention to use 10 minutes.

Speaker Feeney: Thank you. Representative Frankel, do you have a question of the Chair?

Rep. Frankel: Mr. Speaker, I would request 5 more minutes for our side here so that I can make a close.

Speaker Feeney: Let's put that in the form of a motion. Representative Frankel moves that the opponents of the resolution be given an additional 5 minutes.

Ladies and gentlemen, we have a Special Rule; it takes two-thirds to waive that rule. I would suggest that the debate has been remarkable in many respects and I'll comment on that after the vote. But Members can vote how they please, but I'm going to vote in favor of the motion, if it helps. [laughter] Representative Frankel having moved that the rules be waived and the opponents to the resolution be granted an additional 5 minutes. All those in favor say Aye, all those opposed, Nay. [voice vote] Well done. Representative Frankel we'll put 5 minutes back on the board and you're recognized.

Rep. Frankel: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Well, Members, I won't say it's been a great day in the state of Florida, but it certainly has been historic. You know we heard many moving stories today, about how people crossed treacherous seas, to escape tyranny, or to fight for democracy, how men and women have marched and fought and struggled to get that very precious right we call the vote. So it saddens me today to say that I believe that what we are about to do is unjust, it's unnecessary, it's illegal.

It's unjust because what happens, colleagues, if Al Gore gets his recount and he wins this vote, how would that be fair, for us to be sending up electors pledged to George Bush? It's unnecessary because if Al Gore does not get his recount, he does not win the election, then why do we need two slates of Bush electors? And it's illegal because this election has come and gone and we have no more lawful authority to call another election here for 160 state representatives.

And I want to also say that I believe this action is neither conclusive and it's dangerous. It's not conclusive, because I can assure you that this will bring on one more lawsuit in one more federal court challenging this action. And actually we're going to be extending what we say we are trying to stop. It's very interesting to me that in our very resolution we state that our election has ultimately failed, that on November 7th we ultimately failed to make a choice. Why would we do that and why would we void our own electors?

And as I have said before this is very dangerous, because what is to stop other legislators at other times to move forward in a similar fashion when they don't like the results of a popular vote and then they substitute their will for the will of their citizens. And this is the ultimate partisan act. Because it's a guarantee win for only one candidate.

Once again I remind you folks that as we sit here today there are nine justices in the highest court who are sitting in judgment of our election contest. And I say to you we need to respect their judgment and respect the rule of law and respect the right of all our citizens to have their votes counted.

And, Mr. Speaker, I thank you for your courtesy and I urge the Members here to vote against this resolution. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Speaker Feeney: Representative, thank you, and thank all the opponents for the way they conducted themselves today. Representative Byrd, you're recognized for 10 minutes to close on the resolution that's before the House.

Rep. Byrd: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We're now at a point where we have to stand up and be counted. This past week and the week before, actually, when I was on the Joint Select Committee, I carried a picture in my pocket. It was a picture of my 20-year-old daughter, who is in the United States Navy. And she has her camos on, her M-16 rifle, helmet, in front of a tank. I didn't know they were that big, but it's she's that small, maybe. But, she's ready, willing, and able to, when the day of decision comes, to do what she can do, to do her duty to support, defend, and protect the Constitution and government of the United States of America.

And the members of the Joint Select Committee—we had some testimony from young 19 and 20-year-olds that provided me a little bit of my daughter—they were very much of another political philosophy and very much ready to talk about how their rights had been trampled upon and how they were political activists and—one of them in particular, reminded me of my daughter. I was thinking the whole time she was testifying that my daughter would gladly do her duties to protect the right of this young girl to come here and seek redress with her government.

And we've heard a lot of stories about what would Alexander Hamilton do and what would Madison do and I can't help but tell you one more. Thomas Jefferson and John Adams were bitter, bitter political rivals; they fought like dogs and cats. Adams was a Federalist, believed in a strong federal government; Jefferson was a Jeffersonian Republican. But nonetheless they were close friends and they wrote each other until the day they died, back and forth. About forty years after the Revolution, Adams approached Jefferson about perhaps collaborating on a book or probably a series of books that would be the history of the American Revolution. And Jefferson wrote Adams back in 1815 and said this, he said, "Dear Sir: On the subject of the history of the American Revolution, you ask who shall write it? Who can write it? And who will ever be able to write it? Nobody." And I believe that Jefferson was right. And I am convinced that no one will ever write the final chapter of the American Revolution or the American experience.

And so those guys that sat around tables and wrote those documents with candlelight are just like you and me. They were just like all of us here today. And we have a chance today to write another chapter in the history of the American experience.

Some people would say that we have a constitutional crisis, most notably, the Chief Justice of our Supreme Court. Others would say that we are simply experiencing the healthy tension between the various branches of government. I think each of us has to decide in our own heart where we are in that spectrum.

And so it goes, I think that Jefferson and Adams were not the only heroes. I think that everyone in this room is a hero—not those that just served on the committee, not those just in the front—that includes everyone in the room; all 120 of us are heroes. And I think that when I look back forty years from now and Doug Wiles approaches me to write a book of history of the political history of Florida, I'll tell him that we can't write it, Doug, because we have a great country and we can't write the final chapter.

In our church, Jerry, we have a prayer for heroic service and where we pray that prayer—I always thought it was for military, for military heroism. But I'll tell you this, every time now when I read this prayer, I'll think about each one of you in this room; what good friends you are, what patriots you are, what heroes you are.

And I'll just leave you with this, "A Prayer for Heroic Service."

O God, O Judge of nations, we remember before You with grateful hearts the men and women of our country who on the day of decision ventured much for the liberties we now enjoy.

Mr. Speaker, it's an honor to serve you and it is an honor to protect and defend the Constitution of the United States of America. [applause]

Speaker Feeney: Representative Byrd having closed, I believe Representative Frankel would move the absence of a quorum. Every Member will please record their presence. The Clerk will unlock the machine and the Members will record their presence.

The Clerk will lock the machine and announce the presence of a quorum.

[A quorum was present.] [Session Vote Sequence: 5]

A quorum being present, Representative Byrd having closed on the resolution, the Clerk will unlock the machine and all Members will vote Yea if you favor the resolution, Nay in opposition to the resolution.

Have all Members voted? Have all Members voted? The Clerk will lock the machine and announce the results.

The Clerk: 79 Yeas, 41 Nays, Mr. Speaker. [Session Vote Sequence: 6]

Speaker Feeney: And so by your vote the resolution passes. [applause]

[HCR 1-A was adopted, as amended, and under the rule immediately certified to the Senate.]

Ladies and gentlemen, it's been a long day and we've got just one or two more short items of business to conduct and I wanted to give the House a little bit of advice about what may be next. I should suggest to you we've never done this before so like most people all I can do is give you my best guesstimate. I would suggest to you that I would hope that the United States Supreme Court may render moot what we did today. I think a lot of people hope for that. I hope the Florida Senate does not render moot what we did today, but I hope the United States Supreme Court does.

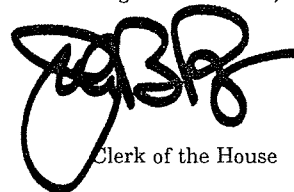

And secondly, I'd like to tell you briefly just how proud I am of every Member of the House. Lincoln said in his famous Gettysburg Address, as I recollect, that the world would little note nor long remember what we said here today but they would forever remember what we did here today. In fact it is pretty much the opposite; most people don't remember they were there to dedicate a cemetery. And every great American patriot remembers what Lincoln said at the Gettysburg Address. I'm not sure that much of America will remember what we said here today, but I think they will remember that 120 of us, in a very respectful way, tried to discern what our duty was, and 120 proud and patriotic Members of the Florida House did their duty. And I am proud of all of you, whether you were for the resolution or against the resolution. I think that each of us did our duty as we understood it. And I want to tell you that I think if the founders were here, and I am known as being a big admirer of our founders, I think they would have been very proud of the way that government was conducted in the sunshine and the peoples' business was conducted in the Florida Legislature today. This might be the most important issue that any of us ever vote on in our lives. The philosophical divisions in the Chamber were deep and they were serious. And the beliefs held were both profound and strong on both sides. But the Members did not allow the seriousness of the matter to ever lead to personal animosity. These issues were addressed with eloquence on all sides. Many of these, in some cases, were maiden speeches from our new Members. But all of the speeches, in my view, were conducted with remarkable civility, lack of redundancy, and great intellect and I am proud of each and every one of you whether you took to the floor or not to express your views.

I think all of us should be proud of the way the proceedings were conducted today. Representative Frankel, Representative Byrd, first time we've conducted a Special Rule like this. I think it went tremendously well and I'm very grateful for the way each of you, and every member of the teams for both the proponents and the opponents, conducted themselves. Obviously, we made some history here today. I think we did so by having a great debate about the Constitution, about the law of the United States, about the law of the state of Florida, about the rule of law, and about our duty. And I am grateful to each of you that participated. And I would leave you with one last thought: if we can accomplish the next two years, on issues for the most part far less consequential than this, what we accomplished here today—we're going to have a great two years. Thank you very much. [applause]

The Journal OF THE House of Representatives

Tuesday, March 6, 2001

Journal of the House of Representatives for the 103rd Regular Session since Statehood in 1845, convened under the Constitution of 1968, begun and held at the Capitol in the City of Tallahassee in the State of Florida on Tuesday, March 6, 2001, being the day fixed by the Constitution for the purpose.

This being the day fixed by the Constitution for the convening of the Legislature, the Members of the House of Representatives met in the Chamber at 9:50 a.m. for the beginning of the 103rd Regular Session and were called to order by the Honorable Tom Feeney, Speaker.

Prayer

The following prayer was offered by the Reverend James Jennings of First United Methodist Church of Sarasota, upon invitation of Rep. Clarke:

God of our beginnings and our endings, God of the Passover, Easter, God of the pilgrims to Mecca, Alpha and Omega of the whole universe, bless this assembly with Your mercy and Your grace. We give You thanks for this day of new beginnings. But, O God, as we begin this day, our hearts are heavy for the shooting at Santana High School in California. And we ask that You would comfort those grieving families as well as show mercy upon the perpetrator, for You are the God of all newness. You are the one who makes all things new, even a new heaven and a new earth.

Bless, O God, both new and returning Representatives who are gathered here this morning. Crown their heads with abundant wisdom and knowledge and understanding. We pray that You will set newness in their hearts, new hopes, new visions of their opportunities. Grant insight to this assembly to the many, many possibilities that lie in their corporate power and influence to order the quality of life of the people of this state.

O God, we pray for the kind of state where children's welfare will be valued above industrialists'; where teachers of the young are treasured above financiers; where parks and playgrounds and care for the elderly are given the same priorities as roads and transportation.

Free us, O God, from lethargy, from paradigm paralysis that binds us like ropes and stir us to action. Inspire all of us to love mercy, to act justly, and to live in humility with one another. Help us, O God, to find ways to become unified, despite our diversity, that the slogan on our currency e pluribus unum may become a reality.

And we ask it in the name of Jesus the Christ, and every heart present say, Amen.

The following Members were recorded present:

No. SC01-331

In Re: CERTIFICATION OF NEED FOR ADDITIONAL JUDGES

[February 23, 2001]

WELLS, C.J.

Article V, section 9 of the Florida Constitution vests the Supreme Court of Florida with the responsibility for determining the need for increasing or decreasing the number of judges in the state courts. Pursuant to this authority, we have considered judgeship requests submitted by the lower courts, examined data concerning case filings and dispositions, and analyzed various judicial workload indicators. Based on our review, we conclude that there is a need for forty-four new judges in the trial courts and that there is no necessity for a change in the number of judges in the district courts of appeal.

The basic functions of the court—peacefully resolving disputes, upholding and interpreting the law, and protecting rights and liberties—are constitutional duties owed to the people of Florida under article V of the Florida Constitution. Adequate judges and additional court resources are essential in order for the courts to fulfill their essential functions. If there are not sufficient judges, supplemental resources, and court services to keep pace with the workload, it is the people seeking redress through the courts who are harmed because they are deprived of an opportunity to have their cases carefully decided in a timely manner.

The certification process is the mechanism that our constitution establishes for the systematic, uniform assessment of the judgeship needs of Florida's courts. Section 9 of article V requires the Supreme Court to submit findings and recommendations to the Legislature regarding the need for increasing or decreasing the number of judges and for redefining the jurisdictional boundaries of the appellate and circuit courts. The Legislature may accept or reject the certification recommendations in whole or in part. Certification is not a statement of what the Supreme Court wants; it is an analytical report of what the county, circuit, and district courts need in order to efficiently and effectively dispose of the cases brought before them. This determination of need is made absent fiscal concerns, which is within the purview of the Legislature.

District Courts of Appeal

Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.035(b)(2) sets forth the criteria for certifying the need for additional judges in the district courts of appeal. Based on these criteria, we do not certify the need for any additional district court judges or the necessity for a reduction in the current number of judicial positions. The number of judges in the district courts of appeal has remained constant since 1993, except for one additional judgeship that was added to the Fifth District Court of Appeal in 1999. The district courts did not request any additional judges this year.

Our data indicates that although our intermediate appellate courts are operating at close to capacity, they have continued to function effectively through the adoption of innovative case processing methods, strong staff support and law clerk assistance, and diligent case management. The creative use of technology has also significantly enhanced their efforts to operate efficiently. We support the conscientious commitment of our district judges to improve court operations, and we urge the Legislature to continue to provide funding for the district courts so that they can perform at an optimum level.

Trial Courts

The quantitatively based criteria for certifying the need for judicial positions in the trial courts, which provided the foundation for the certification process until last year, are articulated in Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.035(1). These criteria were modified in response to a request from the Florida Legislature in proviso language of the 1998 General Appropriations Act that we employ a certification methodology which relies on case weights and calculations of available judge time to determine the need for additional trial judges. Pursuant to this request, we conducted an extensive development project to design and implement a weighted caseload system with the assistance of the National Center for State Courts and the active participation and advice of the Office of Program Policy Analysis and Government Accountability. The report of the Delphi Policy Committee was issued on February 1, 1999, and on February 29, 2000, we certified the need for forty-three additional trial judges based on calculations using the new Delphi method. See In re Certification of the Need for Additional Judges, 755 So. 2d 79 (Fla. 2000). That certification was not funded.

This year, the Court again relies on the results of the Delphi-based caseload weighting system and hereby certifies the need for forty-four additional trial court judgeships. Thirty of these are circuit court judgeships from fourteen judicial circuits, and fourteen are county court judgeships from eleven counties. The judgeships are allocated in the chart below.

The forty-four judgeships were calculated based upon the guidance enumerated in last year's opinion. We have applied the Delphi "reasonable caseload" standard developed by the Delphi Policy Committee in all case types except for dissolution, drug, eviction, and civil traffic infraction cases. In our view, these four case types still warrant additional study to merit the increase in case weights recommended by the Delphi Policy Committee. We also adjusted for differing jury trial rates in each circuit and county court. This adjustment was based upon readily available data and more accurately reflects the actual time spent in trial on average by Florida's trial court judges. As in the past, we considered the use and availability of county judges who routinely assist in handling important and time-sensitive circuit court matters. Finally, we have not certified more judgeships than were requested by each circuit court.

We continue to have confidence in the Delphi methodology<sup>1</sup> suggested by the Florida Legislature as a means of improving the certification process. As we explained in last year's certification opinion, the Delphi system assigns weights in minutes to different case types based on an assessment of the average amount of judicial time required for each type of case. This case weighting system differs from the certification method used prior to the 2000 legislative session, which did not distinguish between case types even though the amount of judicial time and resources required to dispose of different kinds of cases varies significantly. The primary benefit of case weighting is that it measures the differential requirements of judicial workload in different types of cases. As a result, we find that the current certification methodology using the case weighting system offers a more accurate and fair means of determining the courts' judicial requirements.

It is important to note that these case weights include the existing mix of supplemental resources in the trial courts, including senior judges, general masters and hearing officers, trial court staff attorneys, alternative dispute resolution, and case management support. These resources are vital to the continued operating effectiveness of Florida's trial courts. Failure to maintain supplemental resources at existing levels or to transfer appropriate resources to state funding from the counties under article V, section 14, as revised in 1998 (revision 7), mandates will result in an increased need for additional judges.

The Court has always been cautious in its approach to certifying the need for additional judges. This year is no exception. The aforementioned adjustments, which we adopted last year with the institution of Delphi methodology, are conservative and result in far fewer additional judgeships certified than a strict statistical application of the Delphi results might warrant. We have been conservative in our certification this year because of several factors. First, this is only the second year of applying Delphi methodology, and it is the first year it has been applied from the beginning of the annual certification process. As a result, we do not yet have an historical perspective from which to monitor the accuracy of our forecasts. In short, we believe that a new methodology warrants conservative application. Also, significant short-term increases and decreases were noted in select case types with higher weights such as capital cases and serious violent crimes. Presumably these can have a disparate impact on judicial need over the short term that will not be reflected in a long-term trend. For these reasons, significant short-term increases in judicial workloads were discounted at this time. Finally, almost half of these significant changes from last year were noted in juvenile dependency cases, a division being studied by the Children's Court Improvement Committee, where significant resources are being allocated, and where pilot projects have been initiated to address workload needs. These issues are being studied further, but until results are available, we choose to err on the side of caution and certify fewer judgeships than the raw numbers warrant.

Although forty-four trial court judgeships are a substantially higher number than in many previous years, it is a one-time adjustment that is the result of the transition from a caseload-based system to a workload-based system using Delphi methodology. Over the past twenty years, since the inception of the original caseload-based system, anecdotal evidence and experience have suggested that judicial workload continues to increase. This assumption was validated by the Delphi-based case weighting analysis. Judicial time that must be spent on each case differs depending on case type and frequently increases as the law becomes substantively and procedurally more complex. Consequently, an accurate measure of judicial workload must include an assessment of judge time required in individual cases and must differentiate between types of cases.

The caseload-based system used prior to last year did not address these factors; however, the case-weighting system that is the basis of our 2000-01 certification opinion does. The forty-four judgeships certified in this opinion mirror last year's certification of forty-three judgeships. If the 2000-01 certification had been funded, it is likely that the trial courts would not have required the judges we certify this year.

As suggested above, changes in the law continue to have workload implications for the courts. New legal requirements that are the result of statutory changes impact judicial caseloads by increasing not only the number of cases before the courts but the amount of time judges must spend on individual cases. This occurrence is illustrated by recent trends experienced in our dependency divisions. The revision of chapter 39 in 1997 and 1998 and the passage of the Kayla McKean Act in 1998 have resulted in a dramatic increase in the workload of our dependency system in the past three years. Our SRS data reveals that dependency case filings in response to these statutory changes increased approximately eighty-four percent between July 1997 and December 1999. Although all of the calendar year 2000 data is not yet available, the high volume of dependency case filings appears to have continued for most of that year.

Furthermore, the revisions to chapter 39 have dramatically impacted judicial workload in our dependency court divisions, both in the numbers of judicial hearings required and the length of time needed to properly conduct those proceedings. Specifically, the new statute expands statutory requirements for findings of fact at early stages of the proceedings and mandates more interim judicial reviews prior to the disposition of a case and subsequent to placement decisions. In addition, mandatory judicial reviews are no longer limited to children in foster care placement; they are also required for children placed in the home of their parents or with relatives under protective supervision of the Department of Children and Families. Additional participants such as foster parents have a right to be heard, thus lengthening the amount of time required for each hearing. The increased availability of treatment programs and the courts' ordering of additional child protection interventions have increased the number of individuals providing testimony at judicial reviews. Finally, the "one year to permanency" mandate of the federal Adoptions and Safe Families Act requires more rigorous judicial review and more frequent judicial hearings. The result of these additional requirements is a substantial increase in the amount of judicial time and court resources necessary to handle the dependency caseload.

The significant increase in workload for juvenile dependency cases experienced over the last two years is forecast to continue. We reiterate our concern that our dependency divisions have the judicial and support resources necessary to adequately address the needs of dependent children. It is essential that our chief judges ensure sufficient allocation of judicial resources to our juvenile divisions when making division assignments. In addition, both the courts and the Legislature should review the results of the Dependency Pilot Projects currently operating in the Fifth, Tenth, and Seventeenth circuits and the ongoing work of the Dependency Court Improvement Program in order to examine the feasibility of further supplementing judicial resources with hearing officers, case managers, technology, and other court resources so that dependency matters can receive effective and timely judicial oversight and resolution.

The courts will continue to energetically examine court functions, processes, and performance in order to implement strategies to ensure that the judicial system is functioning with optimum efficiency and effectiveness and to reduce the need for additional judicial personnel. At present, the number of these activities underway throughout the courts system is unprecedented. Numerous court committees have been created to look at particular court operations, including the Children's Court Improvement Committee, the Family Courts Steering Committee, the Jury Innovations Commission, the Judicial Management Council, and the Trial Court Budget Commission. The Children's Court Improvement Committee is responsible for conducting both the Dependency Court Improvement Project and the Delinquency Court Improvement Project, and a delinquency court assessment is currently underway. The Family Courts Steering Committee has just completed an assessment of the family court process, is now conducting the Child Support Process Improvement Initiative, and has issued its report and recommendations for implementation of the Model Family Court, which is now the subject of pilot testing in several circuits. The Jury Innovations Commission is finalizing its report, and the Judicial Management Council is overseeing the work of both the Committee on Trial Court Performance and Accountability and the Committee on District Court of Appeal Performance and Accountability in determining how best to account for performance in the court setting. Finally, the Trial Court Budget Commission is working diligently to develop funding and budget guidance that will enable the trial courts to efficiently complete the transition to state funding as mandated by the recent revision to article V.

The courts have made great efforts to identify additional uses of technology in order to maximize efficient court operations. New initiatives include a focus on standardization of court data, implementation of case management systems, and the creation of a statewide court network. This latter innovation will enable judges and other court employees to communicate more effectively, provide access to legal research and other electronic resources, and allow for video teleconferencing capability. Further advances in technology are likewise being adopted by various jurisdictions to decrease cost and increase case processing efficiency.

Although the judicial branch already relies on supplemental resources to assist the trial court judiciary in performing their constitutional duties, we will continue to study the use of additional support to enhance court functions. The current level of supplemental support is factored into the case weights used in this year's forecasts. For example, nineteen of twenty judicial circuits use general masters or hearing officers in more than one division of court. Mediation is utilized in more than 100,000 cases per year. Trial court staff attorneys in every circuit enhance the effective processing of cases. We will explore the further use of supplemental judicial resources such as hearing officers and masters, trial court staff attorneys, alternative dispute resolution, technology, and case management in order to maximize the efficient use of judges and enhance the quality of judicial decision-making. To that end, we will ask representatives of the Trial Court Budget Commission, the Court Statistics and Workload Committee, and the Committee on Trial Court Performance and Accountability, as well as our other committees, to recommend ways that the expanded use of these essential resources can further enhance the efficient use of judge time.

After reviewing the requests of the trial courts for forty additional circuit judges and twenty-three additional county judges in light of the foregoing considerations, we find it necessary to certify the need for thirty new circuit judges for the 2001-02 fiscal year as follows: five additional circuit judges for the Seventeenth Circuit; three additional circuit judges each for the Ninth and Eleventh circuits; two additional circuit judges each for the Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Tenth, Thirteenth, Fifteenth, Eighteenth, and Twentieth circuits; and one additional circuit judge each for the First, Second, and Seventh circuits.

We also find it necessary to certify the need for fourteen new county court judges for fiscal year 2001-02 as follows: two additional county court judges each for Duval, Hillsborough, and Broward Counties, and one additional county court judge for Okaloosa, Pasco, Pinellas, Orange, Polk, Sarasota, Brevard, and Lee Counties.

We also urge the Legislature to support the funding requests for the courts, particularly with regard to those budget issues that will directly impact the efficient and effective use of judge time and court resources. Specifically, we emphasize the importance of additional trial court law clerks, who can significantly increase the productivity of the judges in the trial courts. In addition, we have requested an increase in funding for additional senior judge days, which will supplement and expand our available judges.

As we have discussed in this opinion, this certification is the result of a conservative application of our data findings, which have been based on weighted caseload methodology developed at the urging of the Legislature. It would be beneficial to the certification process for the Legislature to communicate with the Court regarding its continued commitment to the Delphi methodology. We have concluded that case weighting, as we have implemented it, does provide an improved method for determining judicial need and an objective criterion for evaluation of the need for additional judges. We recognize that the Legislature is the ultimate user of this methodology by its decision in respect to the needs certified. In view of the absence of funding for the 2000-01 certification, it would be beneficial for us to know if there is a continued legislative commitment to this methodology or if we need to address any concerns about the implementation of the methodology.

Full funding of the requests certified in this opinion is absolutely essential if Florida's courts are to fulfill their constitutional mandate to resolve cases in a fair, impartial, and timely manner. Therefore, this Court encourages the Florida Legislature to authorize the judgeships certified herein, effective October 1, 2001.

It is so ordered.

SHAW, J., concurs in result only.

Original Proceeding - Certification Of Need For Additional Judges

<sup>1</sup>We do, though, continue with our same concerns, expressed in last year's opinion, as to the underweighting for juvenile divisions. In re Certification of Need, 755 So. 2d at 81. We are steadfast in our belief that the judicial branch, together with the executive and legislative branches, must give priority to children.

Introduction of House Concurrent Resolution

On motion by Rep. Byrd, the rules were waived for introduction and consideration of a concurrent resolution.

By Representative Byrd—

HCR 1-Orig.—A concurrent resolution providing that the House of Representatives and Senate convene in Joint Session for the purpose of receiving a message from the Governor.

WHEREAS, His Excellency, Governor Jeb Bush, has expressed a desire to address the Legislature in Joint Session, NOW, THEREFORE,

Be It Resolved by the House of Representatives of the State of Florida, the Senate Concurring:

That the House of Representatives and the Senate convene in Joint Session in the Chamber of the House of Representatives at 11:00 a.m. this day, March 6, 2001, for the purpose of receiving the message of the Governor.

—was read the first time by title. On motion by Rep. Byrd, the rules were waived and the concurrent resolution was read the second time by title and adopted. Under the rule, the concurrent resolution was immediately certified to the Senate.

Committee from the Senate

A committee from the Senate consisting of Senators Pruitt, Miller, Sanderson, Villalobos, and Wasserman Schultz advanced to the well and announced that the Senate was convened and ready to transact business.

Remarks of the Speaker

Speaker Feeney: Ladies and gentlemen, while we wait for the Joint Session, I thought I'd share with you a few thoughts on what we're about to get into. And I want to welcome everybody here to the 103rd Regular Session. I'm glad that you're here today.

It's springtime in Tallahassee. It's Opening Day and hope springs eternal. Everybody here has an idea or a bill or a proposal, and all of them are still alive. Of course, at this time of the year, the Chicago Cubs and Philadelphia Phillies are tied for first place, also. [laughter]

Last November, the voters elected 63 brand-new freshman legislators and we're excited to have all of you here today. I feel passionately that drawing on the energy and enthusiasm of our new Members, and the experience and wisdom of our senior Members, that we're going to have a dynamic House and a very successful two years, and especially this next 60 days.

The last time we got together in this Chamber, obviously, it was a moment of very historic and unprecedented importance. It was a huge challenge for all of us. I can't tell you how enormously proud I was of the way Members of the House stood up to the challenge. While pundits all across the country predicted all sorts of chaos and calamity in the Florida House of Representatives and in Florida, this House was a model of decorum and decency and restraint and respect. The arguments were intelligent on both sides of the issue and they made, I think, all current and former House Members proud. I'm proud of the way we performed for this institution and it was a model of democracy, in my view.

And I'll tell you that, in the next 60 days, we're going to work hard. We'll deal with contentious issues, although, hopefully, none quite as contentious or partisan as that one. We're going to have fun while we work. And if you are ever in need of some good humor and relaxation, come on up to the Speaker's Office—24 hours a day—we're going to be showing reruns of the "Fasano and Frankel Show" on the 4th floor. [laughter] I know we'll all get a kick out of it, Representative Frankel.

Now it's time that we bring the same sort of passion, and yet, deliberate and reserved respect for one another and the institution to the real business of the people of Florida in the next 60 days. The reality is that the year 2001 is going to be the most challenging budget year that we've seen in a long time. Representative Lacasa can tell you a little bit about what's in store. And as we read commentaries from observers of the legislative process and the budget and where we're going, it would be easy to get depressed. But I want to remind you of the great Winston Churchill's suggestion: Do not argue for the difficulties, the difficulties will argue for themselves.

So, let's follow Churchill's advice; let's pay attention to the opportunities along with the challenges, and look at the end result, not just the difficulties we're going to encounter along the way. We should recognize our fiscal limitations and use the challenge of this year to come up with constructive ideas on how to develop public policy which will benefit Floridians for years to come.

Our circumstances are, indeed, going to be challenging but they're far from bleak. In the first place, please recognize that spending in the State of Florida will be going up and not down. Our state will spend 2.3 billion dollars, approximately, more than it did last year. It's a growth rate of 4.5 percent, which is greater than the rate of inflation. Most of the spending will be in the areas of health care and education, which are the most important to most of our constituents.

And most of the cuts you've heard about are really cuts in the rate of growth, and not actual cuts. Which doesn't mean they won't be difficult or challenging, and doesn't mean there won't be pain. But it's something we ought to keep in perspective.

Our challenges in this House are not all about money. Simply spending more money alone rarely alleviates human misery or resolves social ills. As President Reagan reminded us, as he reflected on the Great Society of the 1960s, "We declared war on poverty, and poverty won."

As we prepare to spend 43 billion dollars on behalf of the taxpayers in the State of Florida, we should look at every new proposed program and every existing program, and remember the law of unintended consequences. All too often, well-intentioned legislative actions will have unanticipated, adverse consequences that overwhelm the positive intended impacts. It's enough to beat the arrogance of any elected official. And, if you stay here long enough, it's enough to curl your hair. [laughter]

Recognizing the law of unintended consequences is one of the core principles of a good conservative government. What more could a conservative expect from his government besides respect for the people's choices, the people's money, respect for the law of supply and demand, and respect for the law of unintended consequences? In fact, those are pretty good principles for any liberal government, as well. I'm convinced that if we can adhere to these simple principles, as we establish public policy, the House of Representatives can achieve great things for the people of Florida and we can do ourselves and our state proud.

I'd like to move us in the direction of a civil society, where a limited government promotes individual freedom, but also erects a safety net to protect Florida's most vulnerable and needy; a civil society that creates the conditions to assure growth and opportunity in the Sunshine State for decades to come.

We will work with President McKay to help families and communities care for children with learning disabilities, to care for the homeless, to care for Florida's senior citizens. We will fight to preserve basic health care for poor children and for prescription drug assistance for Florida's low-income seniors.

I'm proud to say that on education, this House, this Legislature, has stepped up to the plate in a serious way in the last few years. Florida already spends about 20 percent of the dollars for new school construction, which is twice the national average on what states spend. In 1997, we put an additional 3 billion dollars into school construction. One point two billion dollars of that money is still available today. And when we did that, we required school districts to spend that money in a reasonable way, to stop abuse, fraud, and in some places, the "Taj Mahal" model of school construction. In the last two years, we've also seen historic increases in funding for K-12 classroom, which includes over 1.6 billion dollars in new money in the last two years alone.

But, again, money alone does not educate children. Indeed, most studies show there's little, if any, correlation directly between spending more money and academic achievement. So we can't lull ourselves into a false comfort by just spending more money.

I'm proud that the A+ plan has changed the focus in education from just inputs—how much money we're spending—to outputs—what children are learning. And I'm proud that, while rich parents in Florida and nationally have always had choices about their education, the Florida House has led the way to provide some opportunities for middle-class and poor parents in under-performing schools, or perhaps, this year, in overcrowded schools. And, to prove that incentives work, last week saw a Harvard study showing that the main reason that Florida's "F" schools all improved last year was the "threat" of vouchers or opportunity scholarships. The message, I believe, is that accountability, choice, and competition will help promote a better educational environment.

We have a lot of tough issues on our plate this session. Nancy Argenziano and Carole Green are going to be fighting for elder care and nursing home reforms that will increase the quality of care for our most fragile seniors and reduce unnecessary litigation and insurance costs. Concurrently, serious abuse or neglect must be met with aggressive state enforcement and civil penalties against abusers of our seniors.

And there will always be important family issues. I'm delighted to tell you that Representative Cusack's bill will be one of the first to hit the floor this year—our bill on parental rights. [applause] Representative, we can all be proud of your leadership in helping build stronger families in the State of Florida.

I think another freshman that deserves early recognition for hard efforts and perseverance is Representative Joe Negron, whose work on parental empowerment in education is going to produce results this session, I believe.

Growth management presents an enormous challenge for all of us. We all agree that unfettered and unplanned growth can hurt the quality of life for every Floridian. But our school boards must be held accountable for planning school facilities, and local governments must prepare for measured, inevitable growth, as well. This has to be a balanced process and I'm confident that Representatives Dockery, Alexander, and Sorensen, among others, are going to do a great job in promoting balanced growth management alternatives for the future.

Energy deregulation is another area where accountability, choice, and competition can work. But only if we distinguish between punditry and reality. Deregulation does not mean closing down opportunities to add new energy sources, and it does not mean stopping new generation capacity. And it certainly doesn't mean hyper-overregulation of an essential industry to Florida's future. In other words, energy deregulation does not mean the California model, which is hurting today, badly, because they badly botched what they expected to be deregulation, and turned out to be the opposite. In essence, California violated every fundamental, basic rule of economics. If we do it right and proceed deliberately and carefully, with full respect for the laws of supply and demand, future generations of Florida families can have cheap and reliable energy sources to take care of, not only their families, but economic opportunities as well.

Another priority this year, I can guarantee you, will be election reform. Election reform must instill in every Floridian and every voter, the confidence that when the game is over, you can look up at the scoreboard and know the score. And know that the umpires were fair during the game. Representative Frankel and I are working together on legislation to lift the veil of secrecy behind those mysterious third-party organizations and their attack ads. These organizations will have to disclose who they are, who funded them, and how they spent their money. Representative Frankel, thank you for your effort on this and other issues. [applause]

And Governor Bush is leading the effort to establish ballots, machines, and procedures that are fair and accurate. The Florida House of Representatives, with help from Representatives Byrd, Goodlette, Smith, and Rubio, I assure you, will do its part to assure the integrity of the elections process.

But let's be honest and let's be candid. With the right to vote comes some voter responsibility. In an ideal world, voters would know something about—not only about the candidates and the offices and the issues, but also would understand something of economics, civics, and American history. Along with reforming the electoral process, we should find ways to help Floridians deepen their understanding of what it means to be a citizen of our great republic, for that's what it will take to bequeath to our descendants the same democratic republic that is our great inheritance from our founders.

Making government more efficient and rewarding great state employees is a goal towards which we should work, and work closely with the Governor. In a new millennium, government doesn't have to stick with all of the old habits, but should reinvent itself regularly to meet new challenges.

The tax rate in America is the highest it's been since World War II. Last year, federal, state and local government spending consumed the first 12 weeks of every Floridian's income, or about 25 percent of the average Florida family's working year. Florida families have to work until May 7th this year just to pay their taxes. Only the rest of the year will they get to work so that they can fund their own family priorities. Because it's the moral thing to do to advance freedom, because it will help small businesses and families in their pocketbooks, and because it can help spur economic growth and job opportunities, we should, whenever we can, cut taxes, starting with meeting our promises in the past to seniors and savers with phasing out the intangibles tax. [applause]

I've spoken to all of you, I think, over time, about my passion for individual choices and individual freedom. But meaningful choice and freedom is not just in choice of schools, and meaningful freedom does not just mean reducing taxes. It means equal access and equal opportunity to all Americans. Representative Wilson, as I told you last week, I'm prepared to join you at any public establishment in Florida, providing that you allow me to purchase the first round of refreshments. [applause] Thank you very much. We're colleagues here. We have our political differences, but we stick up for one another and for the rights and freedoms of all Floridians. And this is an important challenge that we will be dealing with on this and other issues. Thank you, Representative Wilson.

While we serve here in this great House, we not only have to serve with dignity and respect for one another, but also for the institution itself. This House, I want you to know, is the great heart and soul of democracy in our state.

When we passed a constitutional revision to protect the death penalty and 73 percent of Florida's voters agreed with us; when we voted to require 13-year-olds to advise their parents or guardian before they have an invasive operation; when we balanced the competing interests of 16 million Floridians and put together civil litigation reform; and when we passed legislation to reduce the average stay of convicted death row inmates from 15 years to 7, and the number of appeals from 12 to 3, maybe we were wrong. Maybe they weren't great policies. Maybe they were unwise, or even foolish. But if we violate the express provisions of either the U.S. Constitution, or the Florida Constitution, there's a remedy for that—the Supreme Court can rule our law unconstitutional. And, if our actions are unwise or foolish, the remedy is that every two years we stand for election and the voters can toss us out.

During the ratification debate of the United States Constitution, the great James Madison, who was probably the deepest and most thoughtful student of constitutional government in America, was charged by critics that the legislature, actually the Congress, would be too powerful, too strong, and that the mob may rule if the founders weren't careful. And he responded this way: "Gentlemen, suppose that the General Legislature will do everything mischievous they possibly can, and that they will omit to do everything good which they are authorized to do. If this were a reasonable supposition, their objections would be good. I consider it reasonable to conclude that they will be as readily to do their duty as to deviate from it. But I go on this great republican principle: that the people will have virtue and intelligence to select men of virtue and wisdom. Is there no virtue among us? If there be not, we are in a wretched situation. No theoretical checks, no form of government can render us secure. To suppose that any form of government will secure liberty or happiness, without any virtue in the people, is a chimerical idea.”

Forty years later, Thomas Jefferson, reflecting on what the founding fathers had given us, said this, “At the establishment of our Constitution, the judicial bodies were supposed to be the most helpless and harmless members of our government. Experience, however, soon showed in what way they were to become the most dangerous. . . sapping, by little and little, the foundations of the Constitution. . . .”

And roughly 40 years after that, in response to the Dred Scott Decision, Abraham Lincoln said, “If the policy of government upon vital questions affecting the whole people is to be irrevocably fixed by the Supreme Court. . . the people will have ceased to be their own rulers, having to that extent, practically resigned their government into the hands of that eminent tribunal.”

Nobody in this body believes that the Judiciary should not be independent from coercion, either by the Executive Branch or the Legislature, over their individual decisions. But if you truly believe in democracy, then I believe that you have to defend the proposition that the Legislature should legislate, and that policy should be erected here on behalf of the people through their democratically elected representatives. This House, in my view, should defend those democratic traditions. [applause]

Let me close, if I can, by reminding you as we begin this great session, that I know all 120 of us have a great two years of legislating in front of us. So I share with you, and especially the newer Members, the advice of several prior leaders, going way back to the United States Senate Chaplain in the 1800s, a man named Edward Hale. Reverend Hale was once asked, “Do you pray for the Senators, Reverend Hale?” To which he replied, “No, I look at the Senators and pray for the country.” Members, you’ll get used to dealing with our Florida Senators as we go through the process as well.

The great Speaker of the United States House, Sam Rayburn, every two years when he addressed freshmen, had the same advice to give. And here’s what it was: “Don’t try to go too fast. Learn your job. Don’t ever talk until you know what you’re talking about. . . if you want to get along, go along.”

And finally, a piece of advice given to me when I was a freshman by a great Floridian, Governor Lawton Chiles, who, in his lifetime of 40 years of public service, never lost an election, you can trust me on that fact, [laughter] gave this advice to my freshman class before we began our first session: “When you go home, always tell them how you voted, but never tell them why you voted how you voted. How you voted will never change as you look back in the future years. But why you voted how you voted just might.”

So with that, ladies and gentlemen, I’m proud to be your Leader. I’m proud to be here. I’m proud of each and every one of you. Thank you very much. [applause]

Committee to the Senate

On motion by Rep. Negrón, the Speaker appointed Reps. Negrón, Benson, Clarke, Ross, Diaz-Balart, Paul, Justice, Richardson, Bucher, and Meadows as a committee to notify the Senate that the House was convened and ready to transact business. The committee was excused to perform its assignment.

Reports of Councils and Standing Committees

Report of the Procedural & Redistricting Council

The Honorable Tom Feeney
Speaker, House of Representatives

March 5, 2001

Dear Mr. Speaker:

Your Procedural & Redistricting Council herewith submits the following Special Rule report:

- I. Special Rule 01-01 applies to the following:
CS/CS/HB 273—Election Code/Reporting Requirements (Structured) CS/HB 275—Public Records/Campaign Treasurer (Structured)
- II. Special Rule 01-02 applies to bills identified by the Procedural & Redistricting Council as the Open Government Sunset Review package. A closed rule will be in effect for the following bills:
HB 383—Bank Account Numbers/Records Exempt.
HB 385—Municipal Utilities/Records
HB 387—Sports-Related Industries/Records
HB 389—Public Records/Economic Development
HB 391—Public Records/Tax Refund Programs
HB 393—Public Records/Marketing Projects
HB 395—Public Records/Airport Security Plan
HB 397—Public Records/Toll Facility Charges
HB 399—Public Record/Emergency “911” Number
HB 401—Public Records/Health Care Community
HB 403—Public Record/Pawnbroker Transaction
HB 405—Public Records/Surplus Lines Ins.
HB 407—Public Records/Univ. Health Services
- III. Special Rule 01-03 applies to the following:
CS/HB 271—Corporate Income Tax
- IV. Special Rule 01-04 applies to the following:
HB 21—Intangible Personal Property Taxes

A quorum of the Council was present in person, and two-thirds of those present agreed to the above Report.

Respectfully submitted,
Chair

Special Rule 01-01

Bill(s): CS/HB 273 and CS/HB 275 by the Committee on Rules, Ethics, & Elections and Representatives Ross & Goodlette

Summary: The Special Rule covers CS/HB 273 and CS/HB 275, or any subsequent versions of these bills as reported by committee or council. The Special Rule covers consideration of the bills on both second and third readings.

Floor Leaders:

- Rep. Byrd for the Majority Party
- Rep. Frankel for the Minority Party

Questions and Debate:

2nd Reading

During second reading, up to a total of sixty minutes shall be allocated for the sponsor(s) to explain the bills and answer questions. From this time, the sponsor(s) shall be allowed ten minutes to explain the bills. Rep. Byrd and Rep. Frankel will each be allocated twenty five minutes for the purpose of questions, and may yield their time to other Members. All questions and answers will count against the time of the floor leader who yields to the questioner.

3rd Reading

During third readings, up to a total of sixty minutes shall be allocated for debate. From this allotted time, the sponsor(s) will have five minutes to open and five minutes to close. Rep. Byrd and Rep. Frankel will each be allocated twenty five minutes for the purpose of debate, and may yield their time to other Members.

During each reading, CS/HB 273 will be considered first followed by CS/HB 275. The times allocated are for consideration of both bills, not each bill.

All recognitions must go through the Speaker.

No Member may be recognized for any purpose unless a floor leader yields time to that Member.

Amendments: _____ Open
                   _____ X _____ Structured _____ Closed

Technical amendments may be offered in the name of the Procedural & Redistricting Council.

Additional Conditions or Procedures:

A structured rule shall be in effect. Only amendments approved for consideration by the Procedural & Redistricting Council or technical amendments offered in the name of the Procedural & Redistricting Council shall be in order. For every amendment approved and offered, during second reading, ten minutes will be added to the time allocated to each of the floor managers.

Motion adopted that the deadline for amendments to be delivered to the Procedural & Redistricting Council is 1:30 p.m. on March 6, 2001. The deadline for delivering amendments to the amendment or substitute amendments is 2:30 p.m. on March 6, 2001.

Special Rule 01-02

Bill(s): The Special Rule will cover the package identified by the Procedural & Redistricting Council as the Open Government Sunset Review including any or all of the following: HB 383, HB 385, HB 387, HB 389, HB 391, HB 393, HB 395, HB 397, HB 399, HB 401, HB 403, HB 405, HB 407. Any subsequent versions of these bills as reported by committee or council will be considered covered by this Special Rule.

Summary: The Special Rule will cover consideration of the bills on second and third readings.

Consideration on the Floor

Floor Leaders:

Rep. Brummer (or his designee) will introduce the discussion of the bills. The bills will be presented individually by the following Members (or other designees as determined by Rep. Brummer) as indicated:

HB 383, HB 385, HB 387, HB 389 - Rep. Brown

HB 391, HB 393, HB 395 - Rep. Kendrick

HB 397, HB 399, HB 401 - Rep. Harper

HB 403, HB 405, HB 407 - Rep. Macheek

Questions and Debate:

2nd Reading

During second reading, Rep. Brummer (or his designees) will have up to ten minutes to introduce the package. Each Member presenting a bill will have up to five minutes to explain that bill and answer questions on the bill.

3rd Reading

During third reading, up to three minutes shall be available for consideration of each bill.

All recognitions must go through the Speaker.

Amendments: _____ Open
                   _____ Structured _____ X _____ Closed

A closed rule will be in effect.

Only technical amendments offered in the name of the Procedural & Redistricting Council shall be considered on the floor.

Special Rule 01-03

Bill(s): CS/HB 271 by the Council for Lifelong Learning and Representative Negron

Summary: The Special Rule covers CS/HB 271 or any subsequent versions of this bill as reported by committee or council. The Special Rule covers consideration of the bill on both second and third readings, and includes a structured condition for consideration of amendments.

Floor Leaders:

Rep. Melvin for the proponents
 Rep. Frankel for the opponents

Questions and Debate:

2nd Reading

During second reading, up to a total of 190 minutes shall be allocated for the sponsor(s) and the floor leaders to explain the bill and to ask and answer questions. From this time, the sponsor(s) shall be allowed up to ten minutes to explain the bill. The floor leaders will each be allocated 90 minutes of this time for the purpose of questions, and they may yield their time to other Members. All questions and answers will count against the time of the floor leader who yields to the questioner.

3rd Reading

During third readings, up to a total of 135 minutes shall be allocated for debate. From this allotted time, the sponsor(s) will have up to ten minutes to open and five minutes to close. The floor leaders will each be allocated 60 minutes of this time for the purpose of debate, and may yield their time to other Members.

During the time allotted to the floor leaders, no Member may be recognized for any purpose unless a floor leader yields time to that Member. It is the prerogative of the Speaker to alternatively recognize each floor leader for a set amount of time.

All recognitions must go through the Speaker.

On motion by Rep. Byrd, the above report was adopted.

Adjournment

On motion by Rep. Byrd, the House adjourned at 10:49 a.m., upon the receiving of Reports, for the purpose of attending the Joint Session, holding committee and council meetings, and conducting other House business, to reconvene at 12:30 p.m., Wednesday, March 7, 2001.

JOINT SESSION

Pursuant to HCR 1-Org., the Members of the Senate, escorted by the Sergeant at Arms of the Senate and the Sergeant at Arms of the House, were seated in the Chamber. The President and President pro tempore joined the Speaker and Speaker pro tempore at the rostrum. The Secretary joined the Clerk at the front desk.

Arrival of Lieutenant Governor and Cabinet

The Honorable Frank Brogan, Lieutenant Governor; the Honorable Katherine Harris, Secretary of State; the Honorable Robert A. Butterworth, Attorney General; the Honorable Robert F. Milligan, Comptroller; the Honorable Tom Gallagher, Treasurer and Commissioner of Insurance; the Honorable Terry L. Rhodes, Commissioner of Agriculture; and the Honorable Charlie Crist, Commissioner of Education, constituting the Cabinet, were escorted into the Chamber by the Sergeant at Arms of the Senate and seated.

Arrival of Supreme Court

Chief Justice Charles T. Wells, Justice Leander J. Shaw, Jr., Justice Major B. Harding, Justice Harry Lee Anstead, Justice Barbara J. Pariente, Justice R. Fred Lewis, and Justice Peggy A. Quince, constituting the Supreme Court, were escorted into the Chamber by the Sergeant at Arms of the Senate and seated.

The Speaker presented the gavel to the Honorable John M. McKay, President of the Senate, asking him to preside over the Joint Session.

THE PRESIDENT OF THE SENATE PRESIDING

A quorum of the Joint Session was declared present.

Prayer

The following prayer was offered by the Reverend Frederick A. Buechner, Rector of All Saints Episcopal Church of Thomasville, Georgia.

Most gracious God, we humbly beseech Thee as for the people of the state of Florida in general. And so especially for their Senate and Legislature here assembled, that Thou wouldst be pleased to direct and prosper all their consultations to the advancement of Thy glory, the good of Thy church, and the safety, honor, and welfare of Thy people; that all things may be so ordered and settled by their endeavors upon the best and surest foundations; that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us for all generations.

Grant to the Governor, Senators, Representatives, and all others in authority, wisdom and strength to know when to do Thy will. Fill them with the love of truth and righteousness and make them ever mindful of their calling to serve this people in Thy fear.

These and all other necessities for them and for us, we humbly beg in Thy name, Amen.

Pledge

The Members of the Joint Session, led by President McKay, Senator Peaden, and Representative Lerner, pledged allegiance to the Flag.

Committee to the Governor

On motion by Rep. Byrd, the Speaker appointed Reps. Brummer, Green, Harrell, Bennett, Berfield, Ritter, Jennings and Bullard, and on behalf of the President, appointed Senators Clary, Campbell, Cowin, Crist, Geller, Latvala, and Lawson as a joint committee to notify the Governor that the Legislature had assembled to receive his message. The committee retired to execute its responsibility.

The Joint Session stood at ease, awaiting the arrival of the Governor.

Special Ceremony

At the direction of the President, Faye Blanton, Secretary of the Senate, read the following proclamation:

PROCLAMATION

Joint proclamation of the Florida Senate President and Speaker of the Florida House of Representatives, recognizing State Senator Ronald A. Silver as Dean of the Florida Legislature.

WHEREAS, Ronald A. Silver was born in Cambridge, Massachusetts in 1943, and moved to Florida as a young man of 15 years of age, and

WHEREAS, after graduating from the University of Miami in 1965, Ronald A. Silver earned a law degree from the School of Law at the University of Miami in 1968, and

WHEREAS, prior to his election to the Florida Legislature, Ronald A. Silver built a notable career as an attorney, during which time he served as the Prosecuting Attorney for North Miami Beach from 1968 until 1972, as the Assistant Attorney for the City of Miami from 1972 until 1975, and as a Municipal Judge of Lauderdale Lakes from 1975 until 1977, and

WHEREAS, Ronald A. Silver was elected to the Florida House of Representatives in 1978, where he served the citizens of Miami with distinction, and

WHEREAS, during his distinguished tenure in the Florida House of Representatives, Ronald A. Silver served on numerous committees, received many awards, and served in many leadership positions, including as Chairman of the Dade County Legislative Delegation from 1982 until 1983, as the Majority Whip from 1984 until 1986, as the Majority Leader from 1986 until 1988, and as the House Floor Leader for the Governor from 1990 until 1992, and

WHEREAS, after serving with distinction in the Florida House of Representatives, Ronald A. Silver was elected by the people of Miami to the Florida Senate in 1992, and

WHEREAS, as a State Senator, he has continued to work with his fellow legislators to improve the lives of the people of this state through his passionate work with health and human services issues and his tireless efforts to ensure that Florida is a safe place to live and work, and

WHEREAS, because of his leadership and dedication to the people of Florida, Ronald A. Silver was elected as Minority Leader of the Florida Senate during the 1994 Session and served as Chairman of the Dade County Legislative Delegation from 1995 until 1996, and

WHEREAS, throughout his tenure in the Florida Legislature, Ronald A. Silver has brought humor, levity, and collegiality to the legislative process, yet he always remains a statesman, and

WHEREAS, Ronald A. Silver has been a friend, mentor, confidant, and teacher to countless speakers, presidents, leaders, chairmen, legislators, and staff, and

WHEREAS, having served in the Florida Legislature for 23 years, the longest tenure of any state legislator currently serving, Senator Ronald A. Silver has earned the designation of "Dean of the Florida Legislature," NOW, THEREFORE,

We, Senator John M. McKay, President of the Florida Senate, and Representative Tom Feeney, Speaker of the Florida House of Representatives, on behalf of the members of the entire Florida Legislature, do congratulate Senator Ronald A. Silver, Dean of the Florida Legislature, for his dedicated and distinguished service in the Legislature for the people of Florida, bestow upon him the title of Dean of the Florida Legislature, and recognize him for his extraordinary career in public service.

ADOPTED at the Joint Session of the Florida Legislature on March 6, 2001.

Presentation of the Governor

Upon announcement by the Senate Sergeant at Arms, the committee escorted Governor Bush to the rostrum.

President McKay introduced Columba Bush, wife of Governor Bush; Michelle McKay, wife of President McKay; Ellen Feeney, wife of Speaker Feeney; Mel Martinez, U.S. Secretary of Housing & Urban Development; and Secretaries of many of the agencies in Florida Government.

Soloist

President McKay introduced violinist Lizbet Martinez, who performed in the Senate earlier today and who first performed for a joint session of the Legislature in March of 1995, just months after arriving in the United States from Cuba. Ms. Martinez and her family left their homeland by boat and were rescued by the United States Coast Guard. President McKay related that Ms. Martinez wanted to thank the Coast Guard and since she did not speak English she took up her violin and played the "Star-Spangled Banner." Ms. Martinez, now 18, is attending Florida International University and is studying music education. Ms. Martinez played a moving rendition of the "Star-Spangled Banner" for the members of the Legislature, visiting dignitaries and guests, who responded with applause.

President McKay presented the Honorable Jeb Bush, Governor, who addressed the Joint Session as follows:

Governor's Address

Thank you very much. Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, Members of the Legislature, honored guests, and my fellow Floridians, good morning, or maybe now good afternoon, I am not quite sure. Good morning, still, to you all.

And before I begin my remarks, I want to do two things: One, I want to pay my respects to Lizbet; you are still as beautiful as you were when I first saw you, when you came to our country. Now you are a productive citizen of Florida and we are so proud of you. It just was wonderful to hear the National Anthem played. I would ask for a moment of prayer and reflection for the public servants that have lost their lives in doing their duty in our state over the last year, and most particularly the three National Guardsmen who died in the airplane crash along with the National Guardsman from Virginia. If we could just pause and reflect and pray please.

Moment of Silence

Thank you, thank you very much.

I want to begin by saluting the new legislators who are here with us today. For many in this room, this is a day of long-awaited fulfillment. You and your families should be really proud of what you have accomplished. In some ways your journey ends today; in others, it is just a beginning.

Despite your justifiable pride, personal satisfaction shouldn't blind you to your greater purpose here. You should pause to consider the events that propelled you into public service.

Eight years ago, the people of Florida took to the polls and they changed our Constitution. Tired of the paralysis of government, sickened by the way special interests had inculcated themselves into the machinery of state, we said this: No politician should spend more than eight years in office. And in doing so, Floridians made room for the new legislators here today.

You should deeply consider and respect what Floridians were saying by making that choice. We were saying that new ideas are more important than experience. Experience is important but the advocacy of new ideas and new thinking in the 21st century, I believe, is more important, and the people of Florida understood that. We were saying that courage to act on them is more important than the perks of entrenched public service. And we were saying that you should never forget that it is the people, and not the process, whom you serve.

This class of freshman legislators is the first to carry forward that charge. This year, we'll have 62 new members of the Florida Legislature—well more than a third of the body. In two years, every single legislator will stand for re-election. Each of you here today, freshman and experienced legislator alike, is called upon to meet the challenges of a future that is rushing to meet us.

As I said, this is a day of fulfillment—and in that sense it's an ending—but it is also a day of new beginnings. For today, you have been given the power to change the face of Florida and, I believe, even the nation.

I believe in the next two years we can enact reforms that will serve Floridians for generations to come. We can achieve this if we set ambitious goals and pursue them with clear policies and a single-minded determination.

Many people will come to you, our freshman legislators, like they did to me when I got here two years ago, and they will tell you to slow down. You probably have already heard it; they will tell you to kill some time, and learn the system. But you should know this: If you take too long, time and the system will kill your ability to cause meaningful change.

People will tell you that two years is not enough time to gain experience and change things for the better. But I know, and many of the returning legislators in this Chamber know, what can be accomplished in just two years.

A little more than two years ago, I stood a few hundred feet from here under those beautiful oak trees in front of the old Capitol, I raised my hand and took the oath of office.

That day, I said that we needed to revolutionize the way we view public education, elevating children above bureaucracies. I said that we needed to be relentless in our drive to stop violent crime and to reduce drug abuse. I said we needed to cut taxes and give back to Floridians what was justifiably theirs. I said we needed to build a world-class business climate to bring to the state the high-wage jobs of tomorrow. I said we needed to protect the most vulnerable Floridians, the children, the frail elders, and the disabled. And I said we needed to bring opportunities to our cities, while protecting what is best about Florida's natural environment.

And what has happened as a result of setting these goals and working with a visionary Legislature? Because of the A+ plan, Florida leads the nation in innovation and improvement in education. Two years ago, there were 78 "F" schools in our state. Last year, there were only four. [applause] And this, too, is astonishing. Last year, more than 40 percent of Florida's schools were either "A" schools or improved at least one letter grade. These teachers and our students have earned our thanks and admiration.

Grades and test scores continue to climb, particularly among minorities, as students and teachers reap the benefits of a system that measures and rewards positive performance. Just a few weeks ago, a Harvard study concluded that Florida's system of accountable education is working, and working extraordinarily well.

While we should take heart in the statistics that show this systemic change that is taking place all across our state, we should not lose sight of the fact that the real change is occurring on a human scale, student by student. Is there any greater reward to give a child than the tools to prosper, in some cases, to salvage gifts that would otherwise be lost? There simply is not.

And let's look at how we've protected Floridians from violent crime. Many legislators in this room were instrumental in putting in place the 10-20-Life program, a law that imposed clear penalties for the use of a firearm in the commission of a crime. As a result, gun crimes dropped by an astonishing 20 percent in the first year following the law's enactment. In 1999, Florida experienced the largest drop in crime since 1971. [applause] With the help of men and women in law enforcement, we are reversing a trend that has ravaged Florida for decades. Let us give them thanks for their service, their dedicated service to our state. [applause] And, I might add, we should give thanks to the men and women that are in our drug treatment programs and our prevention programs, and the law enforcement officers that are fighting hard against the ravages of drug abuse as well, and we're seeing significant progress in that regard. And I would like to pay tribute to the First Lady of this state for her efforts in making sure people understand how important it is to see a 50 percent reduction in drug use over the next five years. Thank you, Columba. [applause]

And let us reward, not punish, Floridians for their thrift and success. In the past two years, the Legislature has made tax cuts now totaling more than 1.5 billion dollars, allowing a broad segment of our citizenry to keep more of what they earn and to spend it as they see fit. Six hundred and fifty thousand taxpayers enjoyed intangibles tax relief, and 3.7 million households, about 9 million people, saw property tax relief over the last two years. The burden of state taxes will be reduced to its lowest level in a decade because of your efforts over the last two years.

By showing fiscal restraint and advancing regulatory reform, we've also helped create a climate where businesses can prosper. Consider this extraordinary fact: For the year ending June 2000, one in nine new jobs and one in 12 new businesses in the nation were created here in Florida. That's an amazing statistic and is an example of why we are progressing as a state. Through the efforts and creativity of Floridians we are building a magnificent economic engine into this new century.

And you know what I'm particularly proud of? Working with the Florida Legislature over the last two years. With little fanfare, we have elevated to the top of the priority list the interests of the most vulnerable and needy in this state. By the end of this fiscal year, 84 percent of the children that are eligible, the 1.5 million children that are eligible in Florida, will have health insurance; two years ago, that number was 55 percent. [applause] Now some would call that a Medicaid deficit, I call that good public policy. And we should be proud of the fact that we have gone from the back of the pack as it relates to Kid-Care insurance, to be able to provide affordable insurance for children and their families if they're Medicaid eligible. This is nothing to be ashamed about. This is good public policy and you all should be proud of it. [applause]

In two years, we have increased our financial commitment to the child welfare system by 313 million dollars or a 77 percent increase. That's an amazing commitment and you all should be proud of that. And with our continued commitment next year, 28,000 Floridians with developmental disabilities will have received vital services after they languished on waiting lists for year after year after year. We are making a difference. [applause]

And we're also balancing industry with stewardship, with our obligations to protect Florida's fragile natural environment. With the recent enactment of the Florida Forever Program, we have continued a legacy of environmental stewardship that is the best in the nation. After decades of infighting and impasses, in the past two years we've been able to put in place a plan for restoring the Everglades, our greatest natural treasure. Indeed, restoration of the Everglades and other projects like it around the state will also help keep more fresh water in the ecosystem, which will make it easier for us to deal with the severe drought conditions and less likely for them to occur in the future. And again I think it's appropriate to commend the dedicated local firefighters, the Division of Forestry employees, and all of the people in a concerted, organized way that are fighting these atrocious fires all across our state. We are better organized today because the Florida Legislature in the last two years has made a huge commitment in terms of equipment and manpower to help Floridians in their time of need. And once again you deserve high praise for your priorities. [applause]

These are some of the accomplishments of the past two years. There are many others, too many to mention here today. But taken in a whole, and bearing in mind that the success of our state ultimately rises and falls with the will and work of the people, I am pleased to say that the state of our beloved state is good. Indeed, it is very good. [applause]

It is very good today, and we should be thankful for our blessings. But what about tomorrow? Look over the horizon, if you will. What will Florida look like? Will we have the schools where the command focus is on children learning? Will we have enough teachers to show our children the way? Will we have well-planned, vibrant communities with a sense of purpose and identity? Will we have enough electricity to meet our needs? Will we have prepared our economy for the next burst of prosperity? Will state government be an institution that harnesses technology, and more importantly, that is known for its passionate and efficient services?

These questions and dozens of more like them are basic questions, but questions that are too often ignored or relegated to one more task force, or one more study commission. But you know if we ignore them now, we do so at our peril, and I know we won't.

We can answer these questions, and we must. We must have the commitment and courage and the genuine desire to reach across the political divide and work for all the people we represent.

It is time—no, it is past time—to accept responsibility and share accomplishments as one, as a group committed to the higher principles of public service. The choice is simple for all of us: Would we rather be known for the enormity of the challenges we conquered or for the pettiness of partisan bickering? To my friends in the Democratic Party let me make it clear, I will extend my hand of friendship and collegiality to work on the issues of this state each and every day while you all are in session and afterwards as well. And I know working together we can make a big difference in the lives of Floridians. [applause]

And when we work together, I hope we can focus on what lasts, what endures beyond our brief time in this building. Although you will consider many laws this year, the one I hope you most consider is taken from the great law of the Iroquois nation: "In every deliberation, we must consider the impact of our decisions on the next seven generations."

And with this in mind, let us begin where the future is formed, let us begin with our public schools. This year, we need to continue to build on the successes of the A+ plan.

As you know, one key component of the plan is to test children so that we can be sure that they've learned a year's worth of knowledge in a year's time. This is an element of the plan that has been subject to much detailed and technical intellectual debate. But having listened to much of it, nothing has been as helpful to me as the thoughts of a teacher, a principal, and a student from Bent Tree Elementary School in Miami. Let's listen to Beryl Grant, Bart Christie, and Jesus Alvarez as they discuss the FCAT test.

Beryl Grant: The FCAT really is preparing them for life and life beyond school, which is work, and also college. We have to read, think, and explain. And that to me is what FCAT is all about.

Bart Christie: Through this initiative we were able to move our school from a D-school to a B-school. We missed an A-school by about three percentile points, which is about four or five students. We are going to be an A-school this year.

Jesus Alvarez:

The Extraordinary FCAT
FCAT O FCAT, we work for you every year
Sometimes you scare us, but it's only our fear
We learn to solve problems, and also to read
Our teachers make sure, that in life we'll succeed

Hurray for Bent Tree, 'cause we got a B
We thought you're a monster, but now we are brave
We'll make that A, so Bent Tree can rave! [applause]

When I shaked Governor Bush's hand, he said,
'Good job, you can take that poem on the road' and
Mr. Christy congratulated me. . . .

Well, what you missed by your appropriate applause was the fact that what Jesus says afterwards I told him that he ought to take that on the road to lessen people's fears about the FCAT. In fact, Jesus has taken it on the road, and he is here with us today in the gallery. Jesus Alvarez, could you please stand. [applause]

Thank you Jesus, and Ms. Grant, thank you for your dedication as a great classroom teacher. [applause]

When I visited Bent Tree Elementary School, Jesus reminded me, and I think he reminds all of us, that change and new ideas can seem pretty scary at first. But he also reminds us what can be achieved if we challenge ourselves, what can be achieved in just two years.

Jesus and others like him will be pleased to know that my proposed budget this year, we have asked that you provide 6 million dollars to provide computerized tutoring for the reading, writing, and math skills measured by the FCAT, so that studying can take place anytime, anywhere.

This is only a small part of the 531 million dollars I have requested in increased K-12 funding this year, and an even smaller part of the 2 billion dollars in increased funding we will then have appropriated in the last three years because of the efforts of the previous two.

I've also asked that we refocus our efforts in bringing more and better teachers to Florida's classrooms. Our growing student population has created an unprecedented demand for teachers in this state. Our teacher shortage threatens to undermine the academic improvements we have made. And we must begin now on a 10-year project, to think long-term, a 10-year project to recruit and retain 160,000 teachers to meet the projected demand in Florida.

Last year, almost nine percent of Florida's teaching force needed to be replaced, and the need for teachers only grows because of the growing student population. Let's hear from Claude Archer as he shares his perspective on this statewide problem.

Claude Archer: My name is Claude Archer. I was a teacher at Marjory Stoneman Douglas Elementary for the last ten years. Now I recruit and hire teachers for the county. We're trying to attract mid-career professionals looking for a change, looking for some more meaning to what they're doing. They're looking for something a little bit more meaningful. They want to make a difference in lives of children. We're looking for them. When I talk to people who are thinking about changing careers, I always tell them this is the most important job there is. You have a chance to touch the life of a child and what you do will impact them for the rest of their lives. But there is no greater feeling than one day having a student walk into your classroom and say, 'You don't remember me, do you? But you were my first grade teacher, or you were my English teacher, and some of the things you said to me have really touched me and made a difference, and I'm here today, where I am, because of you.' I think it's critical that we do everything we can to recruit and retain teachers. I really would like to thank Governor Bush for all his efforts and for making education his top priority. [applause]

After listening to Claude and many dedicated educators all across the state like him, we've developed a comprehensive plan for increasing the number of Florida's classroom teachers. The plan contains some 20 separate initiatives aimed at getting and keeping great teachers.

This year, I've asked for 169 million dollars in total funding of new and ongoing teacher recruitment and retention initiatives. Among other things, these funds will provide for a teacher signing bonus that would be matched by the local school districts to attract new teachers. We must also offer alternatives to the current teacher certification policies to enable qualified Floridians with diverse backgrounds to teach our children and we need to enhance the professional development opportunities for teachers to increase job satisfaction. These changes will help our young. But what about the Floridians who are elderly, and who have special needs? This session I ask that you bring an unparalleled focus to long-term care for Floridians.

Several months ago I had the opportunity to be in West Palm Beach where the diversion program has been implemented. And I met Jerry Price and his beautiful wife, Jeanne. They provide a compelling reminder of why you and I have been sent here to Tallahassee. Through a program that we have implemented, Jeanne was diverted from a nursing home and given the resources to live with her beloved husband and their pet bird, Shakespeare.

We saved the taxpayers money in doing this and we dramatically elevated Jeanne's quality of life. I'd like you to meet them and hear their experience.

Jerry Price: This is Jeanne, my beautiful wife Jeanne Price, and I'm Jerry Price. And we've been married going on 51 years. Jeanne has been diagnosed with Alzheimer's, with Parkinson's, she's a diabetic, she's had two open-heart surgeries. She relies upon being home for her happiness and she wouldn't have that in a nursing home. So I know that if we didn't have what we have now, and we didn't have the long-term care and the beacon helping us, it would not work out for us at all. It's provided her with counseling, and it's provided her with meals, and it's provided her with homecare, and there isn't anything that we need that we don't get from this program. All I can say is thank you from the bottom of our hearts because 'our' means that we're together and without you, we would not be together. She would be in a nursing home, I would be working six jobs to pay for it. The quality of life would have gone down the drain. And I thank you, thank you, thank you and that's all we can say. [applause]

Thank you, Jerry. I wish you could all meet Jerry. He is a really cool guy and committed to his wife, just as you saw it there. And because of our efforts, many people like that, those families can now stay together. I do have to say though, it's a little embarrassing that Shakespeare behaved a little better than my pet dog, Marvin. I don't know how they filmed that so well.

For Jeanne and folks like her, I propose that we continue to expand community-based care programs that allow them to function within their homes and neighborhoods in the least restrictive way.

With the more than 50-million-dollar increase I have suggested in my recommendations to you, we will have increased funds for community-based care programs all across this state by more than 60 percent in the last three years. These moneys will help seniors age with dignity in places they cherish with the people they love. We will also dedicate 30 million dollars in our budget to help low-income seniors buy the prescription drugs they need. And once again the Legislature deserves high praise for passing the bill last year to begin that process to provide help so people don't have to make choices between paying rent or buying the medicine that they may need when they are on limited income. For those seniors who need nursing homes, we have proposed 46 million dollars in new funding this year to improve the quality of nursing home care by decreasing staff turnover and increasing staff-to-resident ratios.

But more money alone will not solve the crisis in nursing home care. Nursing homes teeter on the verge of bankruptcy in Florida, and many will go under if we do not take decisive action to stabilize their insurance premiums by providing lawsuit relief. If nursing homes close their doors, seniors could be left without the services they vitally require at this vulnerable time in their lives. Even if nursing homes survive, but are financially weakened, the quality of care they provide could decline, and harm our elders. Nursing homes in Florida are three times more likely to be sued than in other states, putting the costs of liability insurance at eight times the national average. We should preserve the right to litigate, but wouldn't it be better for nursing homes to spend money on improving quality of care rather than paying for insurance premiums and litigation costs? I hope that you agree with that and I hope that we deal with this in a comprehensive way. [applause]

Your agenda this year should also include elevating the quality of life for all Floridians. There is perhaps no state program that has more potential for accomplishing this than the Growth Management Act, and none that has remained more distant from its goal. Despite decades of implementation, our roads remain clogged with traffic, important natural resources are threatened or destroyed, and community needs like public schools aren't fully met.

Last year, I formed a commission to address the gaps in the Growth Management Act. I carefully considered who should lead that task force, and I concluded there was one person who possessed the stature and courage to squarely confront the implications of development. I chose then Orange County Chairman Mel Martinez, who has strongly pushed to limit growth in the areas of his county until school overcrowding was dealt with. Although Mel has since been demoted to go to Washington, D.C., as the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, he's been kind enough to join us here today and to show his support for his commission's proposals. Mel, can you please stand. We thank you for your service. [applause]

Mel and other commission members have proposed that we not blindly permit development ahead of our ability to build schools. I agree, it's time to stop doing business as usual in this state as it relates to growth management. Today is the day we say, "We will not allow our residential communities to swell without new classrooms. We will no longer allow Florida to be sold on the cheap."

I also ask that you continue to make gains in tax relief for our citizens. This year, we propose the third in a series of four cuts aimed at ultimately eliminating the insidious intangibles tax, a tax that punishes seniors and savers. Let's hear from Judy Clark of Lake Mary about this problem.

Judy Clark: Hi, my name is Judy Clark and I live in Lake Mary, Florida. All of my working years and most of the time, two jobs, since I raised four children alone, and I paid tax on every dollar I earned. And then I saved some money and I inherited money and I had to pay taxes at that time, and now I'm still paying taxes on that same money. I would like to thank Governor Jeb Bush and our legislators for reducing this tax by percentages each year. And hopefully, in the very near future, it will be abolished completely. [applause]

Judy and a whole lot of other people across the state and a lot of your constituents seem pretty focused on getting rid of the intangibles tax, and I believe so should we. You can be sure that we will do everything in our power to let you keep your life savings. The people of Florida on fixed income that may have some assets have already paid, they've already given at the office and to ask them to give year after year after year makes little sense.

You know what? Among individuals, seniors over 60 pay almost three-quarters of this tax. I believe we must stop punishing them for their thrift. This year, we are proposing raising the individual exemption from 20,000 to 250,000 dollars and the joint exemption from 40,000 to 500,000 dollars, and the exemption on Florida's businesses from zero to 250,000 dollars. These will have the remarkable effect of removing more than 500,000 Floridians from the tax rolls.

I think we can all agree that taxing people on fixed incomes or taxing the capital that grows small businesses is bad public policy, that it harms people and businesses when they can least afford to be taxed by government.

You know when we sought and achieved similar tax cuts in the Legislature in the past two years, over 90 percent of the members of both parties voted in favor of those tax cuts. And I urge you to continue this bi-partisan approach with the goal of ultimately eliminating the tax altogether.

Improving public schools, providing quality long-term care, dealing with development, cutting taxes—these are all issues that should be at the forefront of the public agenda. Appropriately, they focus on the needs that directly confront those we are bound to serve. But there is one issue that is more internally focused. And yet, just as important, and unless we adequately address it, state government jeopardizes its ability to deliver in all other areas. Of course, I speak about civil service reform.

Before you hear my thoughts, I'd like for you to hear the thoughts of my friend, Governor Roy Barnes of Georgia.

Governor Roy Barnes (D-GA): Hello, I'm Roy Barnes, Governor of your neighbor to the north, the great state of Georgia. We all know we are living in a changing society. In the last few years, personnel policies in the private sector and not-for-profit world have evolved dramatically. Organizations are more competitive and efficient. State governments must do the same if we are to deliver the services our citizens demand with the same speed and service they've come to expect from the private sector. Five years ago, Georgia took a giant step when we instituted performance-based compensation instead of the inflexible constraints of the merit system. Over half of our state employees are now employed and compensated based on performance rather than status. And that number is growing every day. Government can never have the full confidence of its people if it does not keep in step with the rest of society. Performance-based employment is not only desired, it is essential if states are going to continue as economic generators of prosperity. Based on Georgia's experience, I encourage Florida in its efforts to modernize its state workforce.

And we will, Governor, we will do that.

Thank you, President. [applause]

My friends, over the last two years, in partnership with you, we have made significant reforms in the budget process. We are also beginning to transform state government by using technology in strategic ways.

Now it is time to reform our employment system, so that like the world-class service organizations that are driving our economy in our state, state government can provide effective and efficient service that its 16 million citizens deserve.

Last week, we announced a comprehensive reform proposal named Service First, and today I ask for your support of that initiative. I also asked, that despite the relative austerity that will characterize our budget this year, and I use the term relative, being an optimist, that we begin to move to a compensation system that is competitive and rewarding for our dedicated state workers. I urge you to maintain our recommendations to reward better our hard-working state employees.

And finally, we must make reliable and accurate the very machinery of democracy, the voting process. For 37 days last fall, Florida was thrust onto the world stage as we waited for the outcome of the presidential election. Some would say that many in this room solidified their place in history for their roles in that event.

But neither the history of the 2000 campaign nor your own history is fully written, and the action you take this session will provide a lens through which the election can be properly judged.

I say let us be known as a people who are humble enough to acknowledge our shortcomings, and principled enough to seek to correct them. I ask that we dedicate the resources that are needed to modernize our voting systems and move forward with confidence into the next election cycle. The people of this state want us to do this, I think we need to pause and get it done right, and move on to the other affairs of business that are important as well.

I really appreciate y'all allowing me to share my thoughts with you here and outline some changes that we might consider. More importantly, I hope that you've listened carefully to the thoughts of others that spoke via video here with us today. I look forward to listening to your ideas for change as we work together during this session.

Dr. Martin Luther King said, "The soft-minded man always fears change. He feels security in the status quo, and he has an almost morbid fear of the new. For him, the greatest pain, is the pain of a new idea." Looking around here today, I see no fear of the new. Every revolution necessarily begins with one person, relentlessly pursuing a deep and compelling internal vision. Why shouldn't that revolution begin with you?

Thank you all very much for allowing me to come speak to you. God bless you all and God bless the great state of Florida. [applause]

Following his address, Governor Bush was escorted from the Chamber by the committee. The members of the Supreme Court and the Lieutenant Governor and Cabinet were escorted from the Chamber by the Sergeants at Arms of the House and Senate.

On motion by Senator Lee, the Joint Session was dissolved at 12:17 p.m., and the Senators were escorted from the Chamber by the Senate Sergeant at Arms.

Messages from the Senate

RULES
of the
FLORIDA HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

RULE ONE

LEGISLATIVE ORGANIZATION

1.1—General Officers

(a) The general officers of the Florida House of Representatives are the following:

- (1) Speaker.
- (2) Speaker pro tempore.
- (3) Majority Leader.
- (4) Minority Leader.
- (5) Clerk.
- (6) Sergeant at Arms.

(b) The Speaker and the Speaker pro tempore shall each be elected by a majority of the duly elected and certified Members of the House. For each office, the vote shall be recorded and, if a majority vote is not received on the first ballot, the Members voting shall vote on the two names receiving the highest number of votes on the first ballot until a majority vote is received.

(c) The Majority Leader shall be selected by the Speaker, and the Minority Leader shall be selected by the Minority Conference.

(d) The Clerk shall be elected by the House to serve at its pleasure.

(e) The Sergeant at Arms shall be appointed by the Speaker, with the advice and consent of the Members.

1.2—Political Party Conferences

The political party with the largest number of Members who are registered voters of such party shall form the Majority Conference. The political party with the second largest number of Members who are registered voters of such party shall form the Minority Conference. The members of each political party conference may adopt rules to govern the affairs of their conference.

1.3—Councils and Standing Committees

Thirty-four standing committees of the House are hereby created. Each committee shall be placed in one of seven councils as follows:

(a) The Council for Competitive Commerce shall have oversight responsibility for the following substantive standing committees:

- (1) Agriculture & Consumer Affairs.
- (2) Banking.
- (3) Economic Development & International Trade.
- (4) Insurance.
- (5) Tourism.

(b) The Council for Healthy Communities shall have oversight responsibility for the following substantive standing committees:

- (1) Child & Family Security.
- (2) Crime Prevention, Corrections & Safety.
- (3) Elder & Long-Term Care.
- (4) Health Promotion.
- (5) Health Regulation.

(c) The Council for Lifelong Learning shall have oversight responsibility for the following substantive standing committees:

- (1) Colleges & Universities.
- (2) Education Innovation.
- (3) General Education.
- (4) Workforce & Technical Skills.

(d) The Council for Ready Infrastructure shall have oversight responsibility for the following substantive standing committees:

- (1) Information Technology.
- (2) Natural Resources & Environmental Protection.
- (3) Transportation.
- (4) Utilities & Telecommunications.

(e) The Council for Smarter Government shall have oversight responsibility for the following substantive standing committees:

- (1) Business Regulation.
- (2) Judicial Oversight.
- (3) Juvenile Justice.
- (4) Local Government & Veterans Affairs.
- (5) State Administration.

(f) The Fiscal Responsibility Council shall have oversight responsibility for the following fiscal standing committees:

- (1) Criminal Justice Appropriations.
- (2) Education Appropriations.
- (3) Fiscal Policy & Resources.
- (4) General Government Appropriations.
- (5) Health & Human Services Appropriations.
- (6) Transportation & Economic Development Appropriations.

(g) The Procedural & Redistricting Council shall have oversight responsibility for the statutory joint committees and the following standing committees:

- (1) Claims.
- (2) Congressional Redistricting.
- (3) House Redistricting.
- (4) Rules, Ethics & Elections.
- (5) Senate Redistricting.

1.4—Qualifications and Elections of Members

(a) As specified in Section 2 of Article III of the Florida Constitution, the House is the sole judge of the qualifications, elections, and returns of its Members.

(b) In cases of contest for a seat in the House, notice setting forth the specific grounds of such contest and the supporting evidence must be received by the Clerk not less than 5 days before the Organization Session of the Legislature. No motion to disqualify a Member shall be in order at the Organization Session until a Speaker has been elected in accordance with the Florida Constitution. In the case of a special election, notice must be received by the Clerk not less than 5 days before the next regular or special session convenes. If the election is during a session or less than 5 days before the next session, the notice must be on the next legislative day following the receipt of certified election results. Any contest setting forth facts sufficient to warrant review shall be referred by the Speaker to an appropriate committee. The committee shall hold a hearing and report its findings and recommendations as soon as reasonably possible. Upon receipt of the committee report, the House shall with all dispatch, upon motion, determine the contest by a majority vote.

RULE TWO

DUTIES AND RIGHTS OF THE SPEAKER

2.1—Speaker to Enforce Rules; Questions of Order

(a) The Speaker shall enforce, apply, and interpret the Rules of the House in all deliberations.

(b) All questions of order shall be presented to the Speaker for determination; however, any decision of the Speaker on a point of order is subject to an appeal to the House made by any five Members. The Speaker may require the Member raising a point of order to cite the Rule or other authority in support of the question. The Speaker may decide the question of order, put such question to the House, or refer such question to the Committee on Rules, Ethics & Elections for a recommendation to the House. When a decision of the Speaker on a question of order is appealed, the Speaker shall put the appeal to the House or refer the appeal to the Committee on Rules, Ethics & Elections for a recommendation to the House. No Member may speak more than once on an appeal unless given leave by the House by majority vote. Responses to parliamentary inquiries and decisions of recognition made by the Speaker may not be appealed.

2.2—Speaker to Bring Business Before the House

The Speaker shall lay all business before the House, reserve times for the committee and council meetings in compliance with these Rules, and receive motions made by Members and put them to the House.

2.3—Preservation of Order and Decorum; Control Over Chamber and Other Rooms Assigned to the House

(a) The Speaker shall preserve order and decorum in the Chamber of the House. The Speaker shall see that the Members conduct themselves in a civil manner in the Chamber of the House in accordance with accepted standards of parliamentary conduct and may, when necessary, order the Sergeant at Arms to clear the aisles and seat the Members so that business may be conducted in an orderly manner.

(b) In case of disturbance or disorderly conduct in the galleries or lobby of the Chamber, the Speaker may order the Sergeant at Arms to clear these areas.

(c) Presentations on the large video screen in the Chamber of the House shall be permitted only upon approval of the Speaker.

(d) Except as otherwise provided in Rule 14.4, the Speaker shall have general control of the Chamber of the House, its lobby, galleries, corridors, and passages, and other rooms in those parts of the Capitol assigned to the use of the House. The Chamber and meeting rooms of the House may not be used for any meeting other than a legislative meeting unless specifically authorized by the Speaker.

2.4—Appointment of Temporary Presiding Officer

The Speaker may appoint any Member to perform the duties of presiding officer for a temporary period of time not to extend beyond a single legislative day. If the Speaker is absent and has not made such an appointment, the Speaker pro tempore shall act as presiding officer during the Speaker's absence. However, if the Speaker pro tempore is also absent and has not made such an appointment, the Chair of the Committee on Rules, Ethics & Elections shall act as presiding officer during the absence of both the Speaker and Speaker pro tempore or may appoint another Member to perform such duties.

2.5—House Employees Serve at the Pleasure of the Speaker

The Speaker shall employ all employees of the House and shall determine their qualifications, hours of work, and compensation, including perquisites and other benefits. All employees serve at the pleasure of the Speaker. The Speaker has the right to dismiss any employee of the House, and the pay of such employee shall stop on the designated day of dismissal.

2.6—Speaker to Sign Papers and Authorize Counsel in Suits Affecting the House

(a) The Speaker shall sign all acts, joint resolutions, concurrent resolutions, resolutions, memorials, writs, subpoenas, vouchers for expenditures chargeable to the House, contracts binding on the House, or other papers issued by the House. The Speaker may delegate the authority to sign papers of an administrative nature.

(b) The Speaker may authorize counsel to initiate, defend, intervene in, or otherwise participate in any suit on behalf of the House, a committee or council of the House, a Member of the House (whether in the legal capacity of Member or taxpayer), a former Member of the House, or an officer or employee of the House when such suit is determined by the Speaker to be of significant interest to the House and the Speaker believes that the interest of the House would not be otherwise adequately represented. Expenses incurred for legal services in such proceedings may be paid upon approval of the Speaker.

RULE THREE

MEMBERS

3.1—Disclosures of Interest and Disqualification from Voting

(a) No Member may vote on any measure that the Member knows or believes would inure to the Member's special private gain. The Member must disclose the nature of the interest for which the Member is required to refrain from voting. Disclosure shall be done in a timely manner by filing a memorandum with the Clerk, which shall be printed in the Journal if the vote is taken on the floor. If the vote is taken in a committee or council, the memorandum shall be filed with the committee or council administrative assistant, who shall attach such memorandum to the committee or council report.

(b) A Member, when voting on any measure that the Member knows or believes would inure to the special private gain of a family member of the Member, or to the special private gain of any principal by whom the Member or a family member of the Member is retained or employed, must disclose the nature of the interest of such person in the outcome of the vote. Disclosure shall be done in a timely manner by filing a memorandum with the Clerk, which shall be printed in the Journal if the vote is taken on the floor. If the vote is taken in a committee or council, the memorandum shall be filed with the committee or council administrative assistant, who shall attach such memorandum to the committee or council report. For the purpose of this Rule, family members include the Member's spouse, parents, and children.

3.2—Attendance Upon Meetings Required

A Member shall attend all meetings of committees and councils to which appointed, unless excused by the Chair of the committee or council or by the Speaker. Excuse from House session shall constitute excuse from that day's committee and council meetings. Failure to attend two consecutive meetings, unless excused, shall constitute automatic removal from the committee or council and create a vacancy. Upon notification by the Chair of the committee or council, the Speaker shall make an appointment to fill such vacancy.

3.3—Attendance at Sessions

A Member may not be absent from the sessions of the House without approval from the Speaker.

3.4—Excused Absence

Upon written request of a Member submitted in a timely manner, the Speaker may, by written notice to the Clerk, excuse the Member from attendance on the House for any stated period. Such excused absence shall be noted in the Journal.

3.5—Leave of Absence

Any Member granted a leave of absence due to a meeting of a committee, conference committee, or council that has authority to meet while the House is in session shall be so noted in the Journal. It shall be the responsibility of the excused Member to advise the Clerk when leaving and returning to the Chamber.

3.6—Members Presumed Present Unless Excused or Necessarily Prevented; Failure to Answer Roll Call

(a) Any Member who has answered roll call (either orally or by electronic means) at the opening of any daily session, or who enters after the initial quorum call and informs the Clerk of the Member's presence, shall thereafter be presumed present unless necessarily prevented or leave of absence is obtained from the Speaker. The Speaker shall make each determination as to whether a Member was necessarily prevented.

(b) Any Member who is present and who fails or refuses to record on a roll call after being requested to do so by the Speaker shall be recorded as present by the Speaker and shall be counted for the purpose of making a quorum.

3.7—Possession of Bills

No Member or other person may take possession of an original bill, after filing, with the intention of depriving the Legislature of its availability for consideration.

3.8—Open Meetings

(a) Subject to order and decorum, each Member shall provide reasonable access to members of the public to any meeting between such Member and more than one other Member of the Legislature, if such members of the public have requested admission and such meeting has been prearranged for the purpose of agreeing to take formal legislative action on pending legislation or amendments at such meeting or at a subsequent time. No such meeting shall be conducted in the Members' Lounge, at any location that is closed to the public, or at any location that the Member knows prohibits admission on the basis of race, religion, gender, national origin, physical handicap, or similar classification.

(b) Meetings conducted in the Chamber of either the House or the Senate while such body is in session shall be considered to be held at a location providing reasonable access to, and to be reasonably open to, the public. When the number of persons must be limited because of space considerations or otherwise for the maintenance of order or decorum, at least one representative each of the print, radio, and television media shall be included among the members of the public admitted, if such persons have requested admission.

(c) For the purpose of this Rule, and as used in Section 4 of Article III of the Florida Constitution, legislation shall be considered pending if filed with the Clerk. An amendment shall be considered pending if it has been delivered to the administrative assistant of a committee or council in which the legislation is pending or to the Clerk, if the amendment is to a bill that has been reported favorably by each committee or council of reference, and the term "formal legislative action" shall include any vote of the House or Senate, or of a committee or council of either house, on final passage or on a motion other than a motion to adjourn or recess.

RULE FOUR*DUTIES OF THE CLERK, SERGEANT AT ARMS, AND EMPLOYEES*4.1—Clerk

(a) The Clerk shall:

(1) Be the custodian of all bills, resolutions, and memorials. The responsibility for the safekeeping of original filed bills, resolutions, and memorials shall vest in the Clerk, except when such legislation has been committed to a committee or council.

(2) Provide for the keeping of a complete record of introduction and action on all bills, resolutions, and memorials, including the number, the author, a brief description of the subject matter, and each committee or council reference.

(3) Provide to the committee or council Chair each measure referred to a committee or council along with all official attachments thereto.

(4) Keep a correct journal of proceedings of the House. The Journal shall be numbered serially and published from the first day of each session of the Legislature.

(5) Keep open the Office of the Clerk during and between sessions of the Legislature.

(6) Superintend the engrossing, enrolling, and transmitting of bills, resolutions, and memorials.

(7) Not permit any records or papers belonging to the House to be taken out of the Clerk's custody other than in the regular course of business and only then upon receipt. All such records in the custody of the Clerk shall be available for public inspection.

(8) Report any missing papers to the Speaker.

(9) Prepare Daily and Interim Calendars necessary to provide public notice of consideration of bills, resolutions, and memorials by the House and its committees and councils.

(10) Prepare the copy for all printed forms used by the House in the process of considering legislation. The Clerk shall have the responsibility for distribution of documents required by these Rules to be originated in the Office of the Clerk.

(11) Examine bills, resolutions, and memorials upon their tender for introduction to determine whether facially they meet the requirements of the Florida Constitution for the presence of the enacting or resolving clause or the provision in local bills, including local claim bills, for advertising or for referendum; however, beyond calling an apparent defect to the attention of the sponsor, the obligation of the Clerk shall end.

(12) Sign and receive necessary papers in the name of the House between a general election and election of the Speaker.

(b) It shall be a ministerial duty of the Clerk to attest to all writs, issued by order of the House, and to the passage of all bills, resolutions, and memorials.

4.2—Sergeant at Arms

The Sergeant at Arms shall:

(a) Attend the House during its sittings and maintain order under the direction of the Speaker or Member performing the duties of the presiding officer.

(b) Ensure that no person is admitted to the House Chamber except in accordance with these Rules.

(c) Be under the direct supervision and execute all commands of the Speaker.

(d) Be the custodian of furniture, books, and property of the House and shall annually take an inventory of all property under the Sergeant at Arms' charge.

(e) Perform all other duties pertaining to the Sergeant at Arms' Office as prescribed by law or these Rules.

4.3—Employees Forbidden to Lobby; Restriction on Employee Campaign Activities

(a) An employee of the House may not, directly or indirectly, be interested in or concerned with the passage or consideration of any bill without direction from a Member with authority over the designated staff member. If any employee exhibits an improper interest in or concern with any bill, it shall be grounds for dismissal.

(b) An employee of the House may not engage in campaign activities during regular work hours, except when on approved leave, and may neither hold, nor be a candidate for, public office (other than a political party executive committee office) while in the employ of the House.

RULE FIVE*FORM AND INTRODUCTION OF BILLS*5.1—"Bill" Stands for All Legislation

Except when the context otherwise indicates, "bill," as used in these Rules, means a bill, joint resolution, concurrent resolution, resolution, memorial, or other measure upon which a committee or council may be required to report.

5.2—Filing Deadlines

(a) No local bill originating in the House shall be given first reading unless filed with the Clerk by 12:00 noon of the first day of the regular session.

(b) No general bill, joint resolution, concurrent resolution (except one relating to extension of a session or legislative organization or procedures), or memorial originating in the House shall be given first reading unless filed with the Clerk by 12:00 noon of the fourteenth day of the regular session.

(c) Bills, resolutions, and memorials introduced by committees or councils are exempt from the requirements of this Rule.

5.3—Limitation on Member Bills Filed

(a) A Member may not file more than six bills for a regular session. For purposes of this Rule, the Member considered to have filed a bill is the first-named sponsor of the bill or the first-named Member sponsor of a committee or council substitute for the bill, and bills that have been withdrawn from further consideration prior to the filing deadline shall not be considered filed.

(b) Bills not counted toward these limits include:

(1) Local bills, other than local claim bills.

(2) House resolutions.

(3) Concurrent resolutions relating to extension of a session or legislative organization or procedures.

(4) Trust fund bills adhering to another bill.

(5) Public records or public meetings exemption bills adhering to another bill.

(6) Bills introduced by a committee under Rule 7.30.

(7) Bills that only repeal or delete, without substantive replacement, provisions of the Florida Statutes or Laws of Florida.

5.4—Forms of Measures

(a) To be acceptable for introduction, all bills shall be produced in accordance with standards approved by the Speaker. The original bill shall be backed with a folder-jacket, and three copies of the original bill shall also be backed with jackets. On these jackets shall be inscribed the name of the sponsor and enough of the title for identification, and on the original folder-jacket shall be inscribed the signature and district number of the first-named sponsor and each other sponsor agreed to by the first-named sponsor. All signatures and respective district numbers must be on a numbered line as provided on the bill jacket. After bill filing, those Members desiring to be cosponsors must fill out a cosponsor form to be agreed to by the first-named sponsor.

(b) No Member may be added or deleted as a sponsor or cosponsor of a bill without the Member's written consent on forms provided by the Clerk.

(c) Bills that propose to amend existing provisions of law shall contain the full text of the section, subsection, or paragraph to be amended. Joint resolutions that propose to amend the Florida Constitution shall contain the full text of the section to be amended. As to those portions of general bills and joint resolutions that propose to amend existing provisions of the Florida Statutes or the Florida Constitution, new words shall be inserted in the text underlined and words to be deleted shall be lined through with hyphens. If the change in language is so general that the use of these procedures would hinder, rather than assist, the understanding of the amendment, it is not necessary to use the coded indicators of words added or deleted, but, in lieu thereof, a notation similar to the following shall be inserted immediately preceding the affected section of the bill: "Substantial rewording of section. See s. . . ., F.S., for present text." When such a notation is used, the notation, as well as the substantially reworded text, shall be underlined. The words to be deleted and the above-described indicators of such words and of new material are for information and guidance and do not constitute a part of the bill under consideration. Numerals in the margins of the line-numbered paper do not constitute a part of the bill and are shown on the page only for convenience in identifying lines. Section catchlines of existing text shall not be underlined, nor shall any other portion of a bill covered by this Rule other than new material.

5.5—Bills and Joint Resolutions

(a) All bills shall contain a proper title, as defined in Section 6 of Article III of the Florida Constitution, and the enacting clause "Be It Enacted by the Legislature of the State of Florida:".

(b) All joint resolutions shall contain a title and the resolving clause "Be It Resolved by the Legislature of the State of Florida:".

5.6—Local Bills

(a) If a committee or council determines that the substance of a local bill may be enacted into law by ordinance of a local governing body, the committee or council shall not report the bill to the Clerk. However, if a local governing body would be required to call a referendum to enact the substance of a local bill into law, the committee or council may report the local bill.

(b) A local bill that provides an exemption from general law may not be placed on the Special Order Calendar in any section reserved for the expedited consideration of local bills.

(c) All local bills, including local claim bills, must either, as required by Section 10 of Article III of the Florida Constitution, embody provisions for a ratifying referendum (stated in the title as well as in the text of the bill) or be accompanied by an affidavit of proper advertisement, securely attached to the original bill ahead of its first page.

5.7—Claim Bills

(a) Claim bills may be referred by the Speaker to any committee or council for review. If the Speaker determines that a de novo hearing is necessary to determine any issue, including liability, proximate cause, or damages, the Speaker may appoint a Special Master to conduct such hearing pursuant to reasonable notice. The Special Master may administer an oath to all witnesses, accept relevant documentary and tangible evidence offered, tape record the proceedings, and prepare a final report containing findings of fact, conclusions of law, and recommendations. The report shall be signed by the Special Master, who shall be available, in person, to explain his or her report to any committee or council of reference.

(b) Stipulations entered by the parties are not binding on the Special Master or the House or its committees or councils.

(c) The hearing and consideration of a claim, any element of which is pending in litigation, shall be held in abeyance until all judicial activity thereon, including any appellate proceedings, shall have come to rest.

5.8—Reviser's Bills

(a) Reviser's bills are nonsubstantive bills initiated by the Office of Legislative Services pursuant to section 11.242, Florida Statutes, for any of the following purposes:

- (1) To reduce the number and bulk of the statutes.
- (2) To remove inconsistencies and redundancies in the statutes.
- (3) To improve the clarity and facilitate the correct and proper interpretation of the statutes.

(b) Reviser's bills shall be introduced by the Committee on Rules, Ethics & Elections, which may request prior review by another substantive committee. They shall be filed as soon as possible prior to or during each legislative session. Except by report of the Committee on Rules, Ethics & Elections, reviser's bills may be amended only by making deletions.

5.9—Memorials

A memorial expresses the opinion of the Legislature to the Federal Government. All memorials shall contain the resolving clause "Be It Resolved by the Legislature of the State of Florida:".

5.10—House Resolutions and Concurrent Resolutions

(a) All House resolutions and all concurrent resolutions originating in the House shall contain a title and a resolving clause. In the case of House resolutions, the resolving clause shall be "Be It Resolved by the House of Representatives of the State of Florida:". In the case of concurrent resolutions originating in the House, the resolving clause shall be "Be It Resolved by the House of Representatives of the State of Florida, the Senate Concurring:". Concurrent resolutions originating in the House shall present only questions pertaining to extension of a session, enactment of joint rules, ratification of federal constitutional amendments, communications with the judiciary, or other procedural legislative matters.

(b) Copies of House resolutions directed in the resolution to be furnished to any person after adoption shall be prepared only by the Clerk. The Secretary of State shall be requested to prepare certified copies of concurrent resolutions after their adoption.

5.11—Prefiled Bills

During the period between the Organization Session and the convening of the first regular session of the legislative biennium and during the period between the first and second regular sessions of the legislative biennium, Members may file with the Clerk for introduction bills that have been prepared or reviewed by the House Bill Drafting Service.

5.12—Requirements for Introduction

(a) All bills (other than a General Appropriations Bill, concurrent resolutions relating to organization of the Legislature, resolutions relating to organization of the House, reviser's bills, reapportionment bills or resolutions, and recall of acts from the Governor) shall either be prepared or, in the case of local bills, reviewed by the House Bill Drafting Service. After completion and delivery by the House Bill Drafting Service, no change may be made in the text or title of the bill without returning the bill to the House Bill Drafting Service prior to filing with the Clerk.

(b) The Director of the House Bill Drafting Service shall notify any Member proposing a bill if an identical or similar bill has been filed and, if so, the name of the sponsor of such bill.

5.13—Printing

Upon introduction, all bills (including committee bills and committee or council substitutes) shall be printed for the information of the House and the public, except that reviser's bills and House resolutions shall be printed only upon the order of the Committee on Rules, Ethics & Elections. The Clerk shall have sufficient copies printed for the needs of the House and the public and shall furnish the copy for all such printing. Except as provided in Section 19(d) of Article III of the Florida Constitution, the absence of a printed copy shall not delay the progress of any bill at any stage of its consideration.

5.14—Identification

All bills shall be introduced in the order they are received by the Clerk and shall be serially numbered, in an odd-number sequence, as filed; however, House resolutions shall be serially numbered separately, in an odd-number sequence. The Clerk shall validate the original copy of each bill, and each page thereof, to ensure its identification as the item introduced in order to prevent unauthorized or improper substitutions therefor. Any device used for such validation shall be used by and at all times shall be in the secure custody of the Clerk, and its use by any person not authorized by this Rule shall be prohibited.

5.15—Companion Measures

A companion Senate bill must be substantially similar in wording, and identical as to specific intent and purpose, to the House bill for which it is being substituted. Whenever a House bill is reached on the floor for consideration, either on second or third reading, and there is also pending on the Calendar of the House a companion bill already passed by the Senate, it shall be in order to move that the Senate companion bill be substituted and considered in lieu of the House bill. Such motion may be adopted by a majority vote, provided the Senate bill is on the same reading, otherwise the motion shall be to waive the Rules by two-thirds vote of the Members present and voting and substitute such Senate bill. At the moment the House substitutes the Senate companion bill or takes up a Senate bill in lieu of a House bill, the House bill so replaced shall be automatically tabled. Recommitment of a House bill shall automatically carry with it any Senate companion bill then on the Calendar of the House.

RULE SIX*REFERENCE*6.1—Speaker to Refer Legislation

The authority to make bill referrals rests with the Speaker, except as otherwise provided in these Rules.

6.2—Reference: Generally

(a) Bills, upon first reading, whether House or Senate, shall be referred by the Speaker either to committee or to the Calendar of the House. The order of reference shall be first to substantive committees and then to appropriate fiscal committees. If a bill is referred to more than one fiscal committee, the Speaker shall specify which shall first consider the bill.

(b) A bill or committee substitute therefor, upon receiving a favorable report from each committee of reference, shall automatically be referred to the council of the committee of first reference for the original bill, unless otherwise determined by the Speaker at the time of the original reference. For the purpose of this Rule, the first committee of reference for a committee bill is the committee introducing the bill.

(c) References of bills and the nature of any documents referred shall be recorded in the Journal.

6.3—Reference: Exception; Additional or New References

(a) All bills, whether House or Senate, may be referred by the Speaker to the appropriate committees. A Senate bill with a House companion may be paired with the companion House bill at whatever its stage of consideration, provided both bills are on the same reading.

(b) If a bill is reported with an amendment that contains, or is reported as a committee or council substitute that contains, an issue that was not in the original bill and that issue is within the jurisdiction of another committee, the Speaker may refer the bill or committee or council substitute to the other committee having jurisdiction over the additional subject and, if given an additional reference, such bill or committee or council substitute shall be considered by such committee prior to its consideration by any fiscal committee or council.

(c) Although a committee substitute for a single bill retains all other references of the original bill, a committee substitute for two or more bills shall have all other references of the original bills rescinded, and the Speaker shall make any subsequent references of the committee substitute, if needed.

(d) A council may, during any legislative session or during the interim, refer bills in its possession to a standing committee within its jurisdiction with a request for further consideration, including, but not limited to, combining two or more bills into a committee substitute.

6.4—Reference of Resolutions, Concurrent Resolutions: Exception

All resolutions shall be referred by the Speaker to the Committee on Rules, Ethics & Elections, except that resolutions on House organization and concurrent resolutions pertaining to extension of the session may be taken up upon motion and adopted at the time of introduction without reference. Concurrent resolutions of a substantive nature, as authorized under Rule 5.10, shall first be referred to an appropriate substantive committee.

6.5—Reference of Appropriations or Tax Measures; General Appropriations and Implementing Bills

(a) All bills carrying or affecting appropriations or mandating the expenditure of funds by county or city government, all claim bills, and all bills affecting tax matters, whether state or local, may be referred to the appropriate fiscal committee, in addition to substantive committee referrals. If the original bill did not affect an appropriation or a tax matter, and an amendment is adopted that calls for or affects an appropriation or a tax matter, then the bill with the amendment may, upon the recommendation of the Chair of the Fiscal Responsibility Council and at the Speaker's discretion, be referred to the appropriate fiscal committee. The bill, if then reported favorably without further amendment, shall be returned to the same reading as when referred. If further amendments are recommended by committee, the bill shall be returned to second reading.

(b) The Fiscal Responsibility Council shall consider the General Appropriations Bills and implementing bills proposed by the appropriations committees within its jurisdiction and, after consideration and amendment, may combine such proposed committee bills into a single General Appropriations Bill and a single implementing bill, which shall be reported to the Clerk.

6.6—Reference of Prefiled Bills

Prefiled bills shall be numbered by the Clerk and presented to the Speaker for reference as otherwise provided under these Rules. After the Speaker has referred a prefiled bill to a committee or council, the Clerk shall notify each committee or council receiving the reference.

6.7—Reference of Veto Messages

The Speaker shall refer veto messages to the appropriate committee or council for recommendations.

RULE SEVEN*COMMITTEES AND COUNCILS—ORGANIZATION, MEETINGS, AND OVERSIGHT*Part One—Organization*7.1—Standing Committee and Council Appointments

(a) The Speaker shall appoint the Chair, the Vice Chair, and any Co-Chairs deemed necessary for each standing House committee and shall also appoint the remaining membership of each such committee. The Speaker shall also appoint the Chair and Vice Chair of each council and may appoint other council members as needed. The Speaker shall give notice of each such appointment in writing to the Clerk for publication in an Interim Calendar and the Session Journal.

(b) If the need arises, the Speaker may appoint a temporary Chair for any standing committee or council.

(c) All standing committee or council Chairs, Vice Chairs, and members serve at the pleasure of the Speaker.

(d) All standing committee and council appointments shall be made by the Speaker prior to the convening of each regular session and shall expire on August 1 of odd-numbered years or, if the Legislature is convened in special or extended session on that date, upon adjournment sine die of such session.

7.2—Appointment of Select and Conference Committees

(a) The Speaker may at any time create a select committee and shall appoint the membership and name the Chair and Vice Chair thereof. A select committee has the jurisdiction, authority, and duties and exists for the period of time specified by the Speaker. A select committee has the powers granted by these Rules to a standing committee except as limited by the Speaker. The Speaker shall give notice of the creation of a select committee in writing to the Clerk for publication in an Interim Calendar and the Session Journal.

(b) The Speaker shall appoint the House managers of all conference committees. The Speaker shall determine the number as need appears and shall appoint no less than a majority who generally supported the House position as determined by the Speaker. In addition, the Speaker shall name the House Chair of each conference committee and may also name the House Vice Chair thereof.

7.3—Vacancies on Standing Committees and Councils

If a vacancy occurs on a standing committee or council after its organization, the Speaker shall appoint an eligible Member to fill the vacancy. The Speaker shall give notice of the appointment in writing to the Clerk for publication in an Interim Calendar and the Session Journal.

7.4—Ex Officio Members

The Speaker may designate the Speaker pro tempore or the Majority Leader as an ex officio, voting member of any standing committee or council. Alternatively, the Speaker may designate the council Chair as an ex officio, voting member of any committee within that council. No standing committee or council may have more than one ex officio member voting at any one time. For the purpose of a quorum, an ex officio member shall not be included in the membership of a committee or council. The Speaker shall give notice of the designation of any such ex officio member in writing to the Member so designated and to the committee or council Chair.

Part Two—Meetings; Powers, Duties, and Procedure*7.5—Powers of the Chair

(a) The committee or council Chair shall sign all notices, vouchers, subpoenas as provided under Rule 16.1, or reports required or permitted by these Rules. Except as otherwise provided in these Rules, the Chair has all authority necessary to ensure an efficient operation of the committee or council, including, but not limited to, presiding over the committee or council, establishing the agenda for the committee or council, deciding all questions of order in committee or council, and determining the order in which matters are considered in committee or council.

(b) Questions of order are subject to an appeal by any committee or council member, and the appeal shall be certified by the Chair to the House for a decision by the Speaker during the daily session of the House next following such certification. The ruling shall be entered in the Journal and shall be subject to appeal as any other question. The Chair may, or on majority vote of the committee or council shall, certify a question of parliamentary procedure to the Speaker as contemplated by the Rule without a formal appeal. Such a certified question shall be disposed of by the Speaker as if it had been on appeal. The certification of an appeal or of a question of parliamentary procedure pursuant to this Rule does not constitute an automatic stay to further legislative action on the measure under consideration.

(c) The responsibility for the safekeeping of original filed bills committed to a committee or council shall vest in the committee or council Chair. The committee or council Chair may authorize a staff member to sign for receipt of bills referred to the committee or council.

7.6—Absence of the Chair

For the purpose of convening or presiding over a meeting in the absence of the Chair, the Vice Chair shall assume all duties of the Chair until the Chair's return or replacement, unless a temporary Chair has been appointed by the Speaker to assume those duties instead.

7.7—Meetings of Committees and Councils

Committees and councils shall meet at the call of the Chair, within the dates and times reserved by the Speaker.

7.8—Notice of Room Assignment to the Public

Each committee or council shall regularly meet in the room assigned for its use by the Sergeant at Arms, and notice of such assignment shall be posted.

7.9—Time for Meetings

A committee or council Chair may arrange with the Sergeant at Arms for an evening or other special meeting; however, no committee or council meeting shall begin before 8:00 a.m. or last beyond 8:00 p.m. unless granted special leave by the Speaker to do so.

7.10—Committees and Councils Meeting During House Session

No committee or council shall meet while the House is in session without the consent of the House, except the Procedural & Redistricting Council and the Committee on Rules, Ethics & Elections, when meeting to consider matters other than legislation, and conference committees.

7.11—Consideration of Bills, Including Proposed Committee Bills and Proposed Committee or Council Substitutes

(a) The Chair of any committee or council shall give prior notice in writing of the intention to take up any bill or proposed bill or substitute.

(b) Proposed committee bills (PCBs) shall be treated as other bills in meeting the requirements for notice under Rules 7.12-7.14. The committee administrative assistant shall provide a copy of any PCB to each committee member no later than the time of posting of notice and make copies of PCBs available, upon request, to other Members of the Legislature and to the general public. Delivery to committee members shall be by mail or other, appropriate, electronic means during the interim and shall be to House offices when the House is in session. A PCB taken up without the committee conforming to this Rule shall be regarded as being considered in workshop session only, with final action carried over to a future meeting of the committee at which the requirements of this Rule have been met.

(c) Proposed committee or council substitutes (PCSs) shall meet the notice requirements that apply to PCBs.

(d) Before a standing committee may consider a proposed committee bill, the Speaker must approve the consideration by the committee of the proposed bill. A proposed committee bill that does not receive Speaker approval of its consideration may not be noticed for consideration. However, this subsection does not apply to proposed committee bills that re-create trust funds, reviser's bills, resolutions that pertain to rules, procedures, or sessions, or other bills of an entirely technical nature as determined by the Procedural & Redistricting Council.

7.12—Meetings of Committees and Councils: Time Required for Advance Notice

(a) During the first 45 calendar days of a regular session, prior notice shall be given 2 days (excluding Saturday and Sunday) in advance of a committee or council meeting for the purpose of considering legislation. If the notice is given by 4:30 p.m. to the Sergeant at Arms and the Clerk, a bill or proposed bill or substitute may be heard at any time on the second succeeding day. After the 45th calendar day and during any extended or special session, the notice shall be given at least 1 day in advance of the committee or council meeting.

(b) If a committee or council is approved and scheduled for a meeting by the Speaker, but does not plan to meet, a notice stating that no meeting is to be held shall be filed with the Clerk and posted on the committee or council door.

(c) Except when sitting to consider the substance of legislation, the Committee on Rules, Ethics & Elections and the Procedural & Redistricting Council shall be exempt from the requirements of this Rule.

7.13—Nature and Distribution of Notice

(a) A notice shall include a listing and sufficient title for identification of any and all bills or proposed bills to be considered by the committee or council holding the meeting, including, time permitting, those pending on reconsideration. However, failure to include a bill pending on reconsideration in the notice does not preclude the motion to reconsider from being made as provided under Rule 7.17(b).

(b) A notice shall state the date, time, and place of a meeting and be provided to the Clerk, the Sergeant at Arms, the sponsor, and the members of the committee or council. The notice shall also be provided to any Member who has given the Chair, on a form provided by the committee or council and signed by the Chair, timely written notice of the Member's desire to be notified on a specific bill. The Sergeant at Arms, in receiving such notices, shall show on a receipt the day and hour received.

(c) Whenever timely, the Clerk shall enter such notices in the Calendar of the House.

7.14—Notices of Meetings Between Sessions

During the period when the Legislature is not in session, before any committee or council holds a meeting for the purpose of considering a prefiled bill, a proposed committee bill (PCB), or a proposed committee or council substitute (PCS), a notice of such meeting shall be filed with the Clerk and the Sergeant at Arms no later than 7 calendar days before the Friday preceding the week of the meeting. If a committee or council is approved and scheduled for a meeting by the Speaker, but does not plan to meet, a notice stating that no meeting is to be held shall be filed. The committee or council administrative assistant shall send copies of the notice to the members of the committee or council, to the first-named sponsor of the bill, and to such sponsors and others who have requested notice. This notice shall state the date, time, and place of the meeting, the bill number, and a portion of the title sufficient for identification. Whenever timely, the Clerk shall enter such notices in an Interim Calendar. When two meetings have been scheduled by a committee or council during a 30-day period when the Legislature is not in session, the Chair may provide in the notice for the first meeting that bills placed on the agenda for the first meeting and not reported out shall be available for consideration at the second meeting without further notice.

7.15—Notices Furnished to Majority and Minority Offices

In addition to any other provisions of these Rules, notices required to be filed with the Clerk shall be furnished to the Majority Office and the Minority Office.

7.16—Continuation of Meetings on Same Day

A committee or council may continue the consideration of properly noticed legislation after the expiration of the time set for the meeting if a majority agree to continue or to temporarily recess to continue the meeting at a time and place certain on the same day, provided there is no conflict with another scheduled committee or council meeting.

7.17—Reconsideration in Committee or Council

The Rules of the House shall govern proceedings in committee or council insofar as they are applicable, except that a motion for reconsideration shall be treated in the following manner:

(a) When a main question has been decided by a committee or council, any Member voting with the prevailing side, or any Member when the vote was a tie or by voice, may move for reconsideration instanter or leave the motion pending. By a two-thirds vote of the Members present and voting, the committee or council may take up for immediate disposition any such motion to reconsider left pending. The motion to reconsider may be made at any time during the same meeting prior to the adoption of a motion to rise or to the committee's or council's rising without motion upon the time of adjournment having arrived.

(b) A motion to reconsider that has been made and left pending shall be a special and continuing order of business for the next succeeding committee or council meeting, which, unless considered at that meeting on the request of any member of the committee or council, shall be deemed abandoned, and the committee or council administrative assistant shall forthwith report the bill to the Clerk.

(c) A motion to reconsider a collateral matter must be disposed of during the course of consideration of the main subject to which it is related.

(d) If the committee or council refuses to reconsider or, upon reconsideration, confirms its prior decision, no further motion to reconsider shall be in order except upon unanimous consent of the committee or council members present.

(e) After the 45th day of a regular session or at any time during an extended or special session, the motion to reconsider must be disposed of when made.

(f) If a motion to reconsider is not made at the meeting at which a bill has been considered and decided, the committee or council administrative assistant shall forthwith report the bill to the Clerk.

7.18—Open Meetings; Decorum

(a) All meetings of all committees and councils shall be open to the public at all times, subject always to the authority of the Chair to maintain order and decorum. However, when necessary for the protection of a witness and with the concurrence of the Speaker, a Chair may close a committee or council meeting, or portion thereof, and the record of such meeting may not disclose the identity of the witness appearing before the committee or council.

(b) The authority of the Chair to maintain order and decorum includes the authority to require all persons attending a committee or council meeting to silence all telephones, audible beepers, and other audible electronic equipment.

7.19—Unfavorable Reports

A bill reported unfavorably to the Clerk shall be laid on the table. A bill so reported may be taken from the table upon the motion of any Member on the floor, adopted by a two-thirds vote of the Members present and voting, after debate not to exceed 6 minutes evenly divided between proponents and opponents of the motion.

7.20—Voting in Committee or Council

A majority of the members of a committee or council present, a quorum having been established, shall agree by their recorded votes upon the disposition of any bill or other main question considered by the committee or council. (Florida Constitution, Article III, Section 4(c): "In any legislative committee or subcommittee, the vote of each member voting on the final passage of any legislation pending before the committee, and upon the request of any two members of the committee or subcommittee, the vote of each member on any other question, shall be recorded.")

7.21—Proxy Voting Prohibited; Votes Recorded After Roll Call

A member of a committee or council may not, under any circumstance, vote by proxy. Absent members may have recorded an indication of how they would have voted if present, but this shall not be counted on a roll call.

7.22—Quorum Required; Reports by Poll Prohibited

A committee or council may not file a report unless the committee or council has met at an authorized time and place, with a quorum present. A majority of the membership of the committee or council shall constitute a quorum. If any matter is reported on the basis of a poll, such matter shall be recommitted by the Speaker or Chair to the committee or council upon a point of order.

7.23—Nature and Contents of Committee and Council Reports

(a) It shall be the duty of committees and councils to report bills either favorably, favorably with (number of) committee or council amendment(s), favorably with committee or council substitute, or unfavorably, but never "without recommendation." A motion to lay a bill "on the table" shall be construed as a motion to report the pending bill unfavorably.

(b) Each report of a committee or council must contain the action of the committee or council on the bill being transmitted, together with a Committee or Council Information Record stating:

- (1) The time and place of the meeting at which the action was taken;
  - (2) The name and address of each person addressing the committee or council relative to the measure and, if any agent, the interest represented; and
  - (3) The vote of each member of the committee or council on the motion to report each bill.
- (c) Each report by a committee or council shall set forth the identifying number of the bill, and, if amendments are proposed by the committee or council, the words "with (number of) amendment(s)" shall follow the identifying number. For the purpose of documentation, committees and councils shall retain copies of their reports and amendments adopted, rejected, or withdrawn, with the committee or council action noted thereon.

(d) After the committee or council report has been filed with the Clerk as provided in these Rules, the Clerk shall preserve the Committee or Council Information Record for the convenient inspection by the public during the legislative session.

(e) Committees and councils shall, after consideration of prefiled bills, report their actions promptly, in the manner prescribed by these Rules. Once received by the Clerk, a committee or council report on a prefiled bill shall not be subject to recall by the committee or council.

7.24—Minority Reports

Minority reports on any matter may be admitted only by majority vote of the House.

7.25—Fiscal Analysis

All general bills affecting revenues, expenditures, or fiscal liability shall be accompanied by a fiscal analysis upon being reported favorably by a fiscal standing committee. Fiscal analyses shall state in dollars the estimated increase or decrease in revenues or expenditures and the present and future fiscal implication of the bill. A fiscal analysis shall be regarded as a memorandum of factual information and may be included within the body of the bill analysis that accompanies the bill, which statement shall be made available to Members. The fiscal analysis portion of the bill analysis shall not express comment or opinion relative to the merits of the legislation proposed, but should point out technical or mechanical defects. If any bill of this nature is reported favorably by any fiscal standing committee without a fiscal analysis having been prepared or a statement that the bill has no effect on revenues, expenditures, or fiscal liability, it shall be the right of any Member to raise a point of order on second reading and the Speaker may, in the Speaker's discretion, order return of the bill to the appropriate fiscal committee. The accuracy of a fiscal analysis shall not be a basis for a point of order under these Rules. A fiscal analysis prepared for a House bill may be presumed as prepared also for its Senate companion.

7.26—Where Reports Are Delivered

Committee or council reports, whether favorable or unfavorable, shall be delivered to the Clerk at a designated place in the office of the Clerk no later than 12:00 noon of a legislative day. Reports delivered after 12:00 noon shall be considered delivered on the next legislative day. The original bill or bills shall accompany the report.

7.27—Journal Entry

As bills are reported, the identifying number of a bill, together with the action of the committee or council, whether favorable, unfavorable, favorable with (number of) amendment(s), or favorable with substitute, shall be entered in the Journal.

7.28—Committee and Council Amendments

(a) Amendments recommended by committees or councils must be produced on the legislative computer on the prescribed forms in accordance with the requirements of the Clerk and securely affixed to the bill.

(b) Committees and councils may only consider amendments presented in final written form prior to adoption.

(c) Every Member may offer amendments to bills being considered by any committee or council of the House. If not appointed to the committee or council, a Member who offers an amendment must comply with the amendment filing deadline and must be present at the meeting. If such Member is not present, the amendment may still be considered, but only if taken up and offered by a Member who is appointed to the committee or council.

(d) During the first 45 calendar days of a regular session, the filing deadline for amendments to be offered in a committee or council by nonappointed Members shall be 5:00 p.m., 1 day (excluding Saturday and Sunday) in advance of the committee or council meeting. After the 45th day and during any extended or special session, such amendments shall be filed 2 hours before the committee or council meeting. Amendments introduced by committee or council members, including ex officio members, shall not be subject to these filing deadlines and may be offered at any time during consideration of a bill.

(e) Amendments adopted by all committees and councils of reference (except those incorporated in a committee or council substitute) shall accompany a bill when filed with the Clerk. No committee or council shall physically remove from the jacket an amendment adopted by a prior committee or council, and no amendment of a committee or council may be subject to a negative roll call of another committee or council. Instead, there may be adopted nullifying or amendatory language by a subsequent committee or council of reference by way of an amendment to the amendment or a substitute amendment.

7.29—Committee or Council Substitutes

(a) A committee or council, in reporting a bill, may draft a new, substitute bill embracing the same general subject matter, to be returned to the Clerk in the same manner as the favorable reporting of any other bill. A committee or council may also combine two or more bills into such a substitute bill. The substitute bill, signed by the Chair, shall carry the identifying number of each original bill and shall be returned to the Clerk in the same form as required for introduction of a bill. Upon the filing of such report, the original bill or bills shall be laid on the table of the House. Any other committee or council of reference shall direct its attention to the substitute bill.

(b) The sponsor of a committee substitute is the committee, and the sponsor of a council substitute is the council. Each sponsor of the original bill or bills shall be shown by the committee or council administrative assistant as a cosponsor of the substitute unless such sponsor notifies the committee or council administrative assistant in writing that he or she wishes to withdraw as a cosponsor. If every sponsor of the original bill or bills requests to withdraw as a cosponsor, the committee or council substitute shall not be delivered to or accepted by the Clerk for introduction, unless another Member consents to designation as a cosponsor, and the original bill or bills shall be reported "unfavorably" in accordance with Rule 7.23.

7.30—Committee Bills; Designation of Cosponsors

A bill introduced by a committee shall be accompanied by a Committee Information Record. A committee, in introducing a committee bill, shall designate a member of the committee as cosponsor, with the approval of such member, and may designate other members of the committee as cosponsors, with their approval. The bill shall be shown by the Clerk as having been introduced by the committee and the Member or Members so designated. If no Member consents to designation as a cosponsor, the bill may not be delivered to or accepted by the Clerk for introduction.

Part Three—Conference Committees*7.31—Conference Committee Meetings; Procedures

(a) Meetings of conference committees shall be open to the public at all times, subject always to the authority of the Chair to maintain order and decorum.

(b) All actions taken in conference committees shall be by motion.

(c) The Chair of any conference committee shall give prior notice of intention to meet. The notice shall state the date, time, and place of meeting and be posted on the door of the committee or council managing the conference for the House at least 2 hours prior to the time of the meeting.

7.32—Composition of Conference Committee

A conference committee shall consist of managers from each house. The conference committee shall select one of its members to preside. A conference committee report shall require the affirmative votes of a majority of the managers from each house. The report shall be accompanied by the original bill.

7.33—Presentation of Conference Committee Report

(a) The receiving of conference committee reports shall always be in order, except when the House is voting on any proposition. When a conference committee report is presented to the House, the sequence shall be:

(1) The vote first shall be on whether the report shall be considered at that moment.

(2) The next vote shall be on acceptance or rejection of the report as an entirety. The report must be acted upon as a whole, being agreed to or disagreed to as an entirety.

(3) The final vote shall be a roll call on the passage of the bill as amended by the report.

(b) If either paragraph (a)(2) or paragraph (a)(3) fails, the report shall be automatically recommitted to the conference committee. If a motion to reconsider is made, the vote first would be on paragraph (a)(2) and then on paragraph (a)(3).

7.34—Form of Conference Committee Report

(a) When a conference committee has redrafted a bill, the committee shall report an amendment striking everything after the enacting clause, together with an appropriate title amendment if needed.

(b) Each conference committee report must be accompanied by a statement, written or oral, sufficiently explicit to inform the House of the changes in the bill sent to conference.

7.35—Time Restraints on Conference Committees

(a) During the first 54 calendar days of a regular session, it shall be a motion of highest privilege either to discharge the House managers and appoint new House managers or to instruct the House managers after House and Senate managers have been appointed for 7 calendar days and have failed to report.

(b) During the last 6 calendar days of a regular session, it shall be a motion of highest privilege either to discharge the House managers and appoint new House managers or to instruct the House managers after House and Senate managers have been appointed for 36 hours and have failed to report.

7.36—When Managers Are Unable to Agree

When a conference committee is appointed in reference to any bill and the House managers report inability to agree, no action of the House taken prior to such appointment shall preclude further action by the House as the House may determine.

Part Four—Oversight Responsibilities and Powers*7.37—Oversight Role

(a) Standing and select committees and councils shall have oversight responsibilities in order to assist the House in:

(1) Its analysis, appraisal, and evaluation of:

a. The application, administration, execution, and effectiveness of the laws enacted by the Legislature; or

b. Conditions and circumstances that may indicate the necessity or desirability of enacting new or additional legislation; and

(2) Its formulation, consideration, and enactment of such modifications or changes in those laws, and of such additional legislation, as may be necessary or appropriate.

(b) Substantive standing committees shall review the budgets and performance of state agencies within their jurisdictions.

7.38—Oversight Powers

(a) Each standing or select committee or council is authorized to invite public officials and employees and private individuals to appear before the committee or council for the purpose of submitting information to it.

(b) Each standing or select committee or council is authorized to maintain a continuous review of the work of the state agencies concerned with its subject area and the performance of the functions of government within each such subject area, and for this purpose to request reports from time to time, in such form as such committee or council shall designate, concerning the operation of any state agency and presenting any proposal or recommendation such agency may have with regard to existing laws or proposed legislation in its subject area.

(c) In order to carry out its duties, each standing or select committee or council is empowered with the right and authority to inspect and investigate the books, records, papers, documents, data, operation, and physical plant of any state agency.

7.39—Conduct of Meetings of Investigative Committees and Councils

Each standing or select committee or council shall comply with the following procedures with respect to compelling attendance of witnesses, production of documents or evidence, and the conduct of meetings before such committee or council:

(a) If any standing or select committee or council fails in any material respect to comply with the requirements of this Rule, any person subject to subpoena or subpoena duces tecum who is injured by such failure shall be relieved of any requirement to attend the meeting for which the subpoena was issued or, if present, to testify or produce evidence therein, and such failure shall be a complete defense in any proceeding against such person for contempt or other punishment.

(b) In addition, the following rules of procedure will be followed at all meetings of standing or select committees or councils:

(1) A standing or select committee or council may exercise its powers during sessions of the Legislature and in the interim.

(2) A standing or select committee or council that conducts meetings for the purpose of taking sworn testimony from witnesses shall consist of not fewer than five members.

(3) A quorum of a standing or select committee or council that conducts meetings for the purpose of taking sworn testimony from witnesses shall consist of a majority of the total authorized membership.

(4) No action shall be taken by a standing or select committee or council at any meeting unless a quorum is present. Such committee or council may act by a majority vote of the members present at a meeting at which there is a quorum, unless the Rules or any law requires a greater number or proportion.

(5) Any standing or select committee or council, when conducting a meeting for the purpose of taking sworn testimony, shall give each member of the committee or council not less than 3 calendar days' written notice of any meeting to be held when the Legislature is in session and at least 7 calendar days' written notice of any meeting to be held when the Legislature is not in session. Such notices shall include a statement of the subject matter of the meeting.

(6) The presiding member at a meeting may direct a witness to answer any relevant question or furnish any relevant book, paper, or other document, the production of which has been required by subpoena duces tecum. Unless the direction is overruled by a majority vote, disobedience shall constitute contempt as defined in these Rules.

(7) Before or during a meeting, a witness or the witness's counsel may file with the standing or select committee or council, for incorporation into the record of the meeting, sworn written statements relevant to the purpose, subject matter, and scope of the committee's or council's investigation or inquiry. Any such witness, however, shall, prior to filing such statement, consent to answer questions from such committee or council regarding the contents of the statement.

(8) When the Chair of any standing or select committee or council determines that such procedure would expedite the inquiry or save expenses, the Chair, with the concurrence of the Speaker, may authorize the conduct of proceedings by depositions, interrogatories, or compulsory production of documents as provided in this Rule. These proceedings shall be in the nature of statements under oath taken by a state attorney. Counsel for a person under investigation may be allowed to attend such depositions at the discretion of the Chair. Participation by such counsel at the depositions may also be allowed at the discretion of the Chair. Any requests for attendance or participation should be addressed to the Chair. If the requests are denied, a person may appeal the Chair's ruling to the Speaker, but there shall be no stay of proceedings pending such appeal.

(c) When counsel for a person subject to deposition is allowed to participate in the proceedings under the guidelines of the standing or select committee or council, testimony or other evidence taken may be introduced before the standing or select committee or council regardless of whether the person or the person's counsel takes advantage of the opportunity.

(1) The Chair, with the concurrence of the Speaker, may authorize a lawyer for the standing or select committee or council to take depositions of witnesses before a court reporter or notary public of this state. The deposition notice and any subpoena used therewith may identify persons either by name or by job description, and such persons may be required to attend and give testimony pursuant to the guidelines of the standing or select committee or council.

(2) The Chair, with the concurrence of the Speaker, may authorize the issuance of interrogatories to be answered under oath, and these shall require the person to whom they are directed to appear before a notary public or court reporter and answer the questions under oath. These may be served by mail or by personal service and shall be answered under oath no later than 7 days from the date of mailing or 3 days from the date of personal service. Any interrogatory may require that a person to whom it is directed (identified by name or job description) return the interrogatory in the mail or have it available for delivery to the lawyer for the standing or select committee or council on a date certain.

(3) If any substantive or procedural question arises during any proceedings authorized by these Rules, the question shall be referred to the Chair of the standing or select committee or council or to any committee or council member designated by the Chair to pass on such questions. Communication shall be made with the Chair or any designated committee or council member by the most rapid available means, including telephone, and the resolution of such questions, including without limitation questions on the scope of the discovery, may be communicated by telephone. If any person is dissatisfied with such a decision, appeal may be made to the Speaker, but there shall be no stay of proceedings pending such appeal.

RULE EIGHT

CHAMBER PROTOCOL

Part One—Privilege of the Floor

8.1—Privilege of the Floor

(a) Other than present Members of the House and of the Senate, the persons hereinafter named, and none other, shall be admitted during regular daily sessions to the Chamber of the House: the Governor, the Lieutenant Governor, Cabinet Members, Justices of the Supreme Court, Members of Congress, contestants in election cases during the pendency of their cases in the House, such persons as have, by name, received the thanks of the Legislature, former Governors, former Members of the Cabinet, former Members of the House and Senate who are not interested in any claim or directly in any bill pending before the Legislature, and such employees of the House as may be needed on public business, including such committee or council staff as shall be designated by committee or council Chairs and approved by the Speaker. Visiting dignitaries or official guests may be granted the privilege of the floor upon motion adopted by a majority of the House. Persons granted the privilege of the floor may not lobby the Members while the House is in session, unless by motion granted leave to address the House.

(b) When the House is in session, all persons in the House Chamber shall be dressed in proper business attire.

Part Two—Speaking

8.2—Addressing the House; Requirements to Spread Remarks Upon the Journal

(a) When a Member desires to speak or deliver any matter to the House, the Member shall rise and respectfully address the Speaker as "Mr. (or Madam) Speaker" and shall confine all remarks to the question under debate, avoiding personalities. Once recognized, a Member may speak from the Member's desk or may, with the Speaker's permission, speak from the well.

(b) Any motion to spread remarks upon the Journal, except those of the Governor or the Speaker, shall be referred to the Committee on Rules, Ethics & Elections for recommendation before being put to the House.

8.3—When Two Members Rise at Once

When two or more Members rise at once, the Speaker shall name the one who is to speak first. This decision shall be final and not open to debate or appeal.

8.4—Recognition of Members

There shall be no appeal from the Speaker's recognition, but the Speaker shall be governed by the Rules and usage in priority of entertaining motions from the floor. When a Member seeks recognition, the Speaker may ask, "For what purpose does the Member rise?" or "For what purpose does the Member seek recognition?"

8.5—Recognition of Gallery Visitors and Physician of the Day

On written request by a Member, on a form prescribed by the Committee on Rules, Ethics & Elections, the Speaker may recognize or permit the Member to recognize any person or persons in the gallery. After granting a request for recognition, the Speaker shall afford that recognition at a convenient place in the order of business, considering the need for order and decorum and the need for continuity of debate. At an appropriate time during proceedings on the floor, the Speaker may recognize a Physician of the Day.

Part Three—Debate*8.6—Decorum

The Members shall attend to the debates unless necessarily prevented, and no Member shall stand between the Speaker and a Member recognized to speak.

8.7—Speaking and Debate

(a) A Member may not speak more than once or occupy more than 15 minutes in debate on any question. A Member who has the floor may not be interrupted by another Member for any purpose, save the privilege of the House, unless he or she consents to yield to the other Member. A Member desiring to interrupt another in debate should first address the Speaker for the permission of the Member speaking. The Speaker shall then ask the Member who has the floor if he or she wishes to yield, and then announce the decision of that Member. Whether to yield shall be entirely within the speaking Member's discretion. However, this subsection shall not deprive the sponsor or mover of the right to close when the effect of an amendment or motion would be to kill the bill, amendment, or motion.

(b) Debate may not be disguised in the form of a question.

8.8—Right to Open and Close Debate

The mover of any proposition, or the Member reporting any measure from a committee or council, or, in the absence of either of them, any other Member designated by such absentee, shall have the right to open and close the debate, and for this purpose may speak each time not more than 10 minutes, unless otherwise limited by majority vote of the House, notwithstanding the limitation in Rule 8.7(a).

Part Four—Materials and Meals in Chamber*8.9—Distribution of Materials in Chamber; Newspapers; Meals in Chamber

(a) The following constitutes policy regarding material distributed to the general membership through the Sergeant at Arms' Office and pages:

(1) All material prior to such distribution must be approved by the Committee on Rules, Ethics & Elections, acting through its Chair.

(2) The following official materials have heretofore been approved and will continue to be approved: House and Senate bills, resolutions, memorials, and amendments thereto, and official calendars and journals; committee and council meeting notices; communications from the Speaker and Clerk and official communications from the Senate; and official staff reports of standing or select committees or councils or of the majority or minority parties.

(b) No newspapers may be distributed or otherwise permitted in the House Chamber while the House is in session without waiver of policy by two-thirds vote of the Members present and voting. This subsection does not apply to personal use by an individual Member of a newspaper as resource or reference material for purposes of debate or to the transmittal of material from one Member to another on the floor of the House.

(c) No meals will be allowed on the floor without waiver of policy by two-thirds vote of the Members present and voting. This shall not be construed to prevent the serving of drinks such as juices, coffee, tea, soft drinks, milk, and the like.

Part Five—Miscellaneous Papers*8.10—Miscellaneous Papers

Papers of a miscellaneous nature addressed to the House may, at the discretion of the Speaker, be read, noted in the Journal, or filed with the appropriate committee or council. When the reading of a paper other than one upon which the House is called to give a final vote is demanded, and such reading is objected to by any Member, it shall be determined without debate by the House by majority vote.

RULE NINE*VOTING*9.1—Members Shall Vote

Every Member shall be within the House Chamber during its sittings, unless excused or necessarily prevented, and shall vote on each question put.

9.2—Taking the Yeas and Nays

The Speaker shall declare all votes, but if any Member rises to doubt a vote, upon a showing of hands by five Members, the Speaker shall take the sense of the House by oral roll call or electronic roll call. When taking the yeas and nays on any question, the electronic roll-call system may be used, and when so used shall have the force and effect of a roll call taken as provided in these Rules. This system likewise may be used to determine the presence of a quorum. When the House is ready to vote upon a question requiring roll call, and the vote is by electronic roll call, the Speaker shall say, "The question now recurs on (designating the matter to be voted upon). The Clerk will unlock the machine and the House will proceed to vote." When sufficient time has elapsed for each Member to vote, the Speaker shall ask, "Have all Members voted?" And after a short pause the Speaker shall say, "The Clerk will lock the machine and record the vote." When the vote is completely recorded, the Speaker shall announce the result to the House, and the Clerk shall record the action upon the Journal.

9.3—Vote of the Speaker or Temporary Presiding Officer

The Speaker or temporary presiding officer is not required to vote in legislative proceedings other than on final passage of a bill, except when the Speaker's or temporary presiding officer's vote would be decisive. In all yea and nay votes, the Speaker's or temporary presiding officer's name shall be called last. With respect to voting, the Speaker or temporary presiding officer is subject to the same disqualification and disclosure requirements as any other Member.

9.4—Votes After Roll Call

After the result of a roll call has been announced, a Member may advise the Clerk of how the Member would have voted or of the Member's wish to change the Member's vote. The Clerk shall provide forms for the recording of these actions. When timely made, these requests shall be shown beneath the roll call in the Journal. Otherwise, the request shall be shown separately in the Journal. In no instance, other than by reason of an electronic or mechanical malfunction, shall the result of a voting machine roll call on any bill be changed.

9.5—No Member to Vote for Another Except by Request

No Member may vote for another Member except at the other Member's request when absent from his or her seat but present elsewhere in the Chamber, nor may any person who is not a Member cast a vote for a Member. In no case shall a Member vote for another on a quorum call. Any Member who votes or attempts to vote for another Member in violation of this Rule may be punished in such a manner as the House may deem proper. Any person who is not a Member and who votes wrongfully in the place of a Member shall be excluded from the Chamber for the remainder of the session, in addition to such punishment as the House may deem proper.

9.6—Pairing

Pairing shall be permitted only upon the absence of both Members for good cause and shall be in writing and specifically state the bill or bills or questions upon which pairs are arranged. Before the vote, paired votes shall be filed in writing with the Clerk and be recorded in the Journal as an indication of how both Members would have voted. Paired votes are not counted and shall not be shown on roll calls.

9.7—Explanation of Vote

A Member may not explain his or her vote during a roll call, but may reduce his or her explanation to writing, in not more than 200 words, and upon filing with the Clerk, this explanation shall be spread upon the Journal.

RULE TEN

ORDER OF BUSINESS AND CALENDARS

Part One—Order of Business

10.1—Daily Sessions

The House shall meet each legislative day at 9:30 a.m. or as stated in the motion adjourning the House on the prior legislative day on which the House met.

10.2—Daily Order of Business

(a) When the House convenes on a new legislative day, the daily order of business shall be as follows:

1. Call to Order.
2. Prayer.
3. Roll Call.
4. Pledge of Allegiance.
5. Correction of the Journal.
6. Communications.
7. Messages from the Senate.
8. Reports of Councils and Standing Committees.
9. Reports of Select Committees.
10. Motions Relating to Committee or Council References.
11. Matters on Reconsideration.
12. Bills and Joint Resolutions on Third Reading.
13. Special Orders.
14. Unfinished Business.
15. Introduction and Reference.

(b) During special sessions, the order of business of Introduction and Reference shall be conducted immediately following the order of business of Correction of the Journal.

10.3—Chaplain to Offer Prayer

A chaplain shall attend at the beginning of each day's sitting of the House and open the same with prayer. In the absence of a chaplain, the Speaker may designate someone else to offer prayer.

10.4—Quorum

A majority of the membership of the House shall constitute a quorum to do business.

10.5—Consideration of Senate Messages; Generally

Senate messages shall be considered by the House upon review and approval by the Speaker.

Part Two—Readings

10.6—"Reading" Defined

"Reading" means the stage of consideration of a bill, resolution, or memorial after reading of a portion of the title sufficient for identification, as determined by the Speaker.

10.7—Reading of Bills

Each bill shall receive three readings on three separate days previous to a vote upon final passage unless two-thirds of the Members decide otherwise. (Florida Constitution, Article III, Section 7, in part: "Any bill may originate in either house and after passage in one may be amended in the other. It shall be read in each house on three separate days, unless this rule is waived by two-thirds vote; provided the publication of its title in the journal of a house shall satisfy the requirement for the first reading in that house. On each reading, it shall be read by title only, unless one-third of the members present desire it read in full.")

10.8—Reading of Joint Resolutions

Each joint resolution shall receive three readings on three separate days previous to a vote upon final passage unless two-thirds of the Members decide otherwise.

10.9—First Reading of Prefiled Bills

Prefiled bills shall be given first reading either on the first day of a regular session or as soon thereafter as possible. The Clerk shall record in the Journal the Speaker's reference of bills.

10.10—First Reading of Committee or Council Substitutes

Publication in the Journal of a committee or council substitute title with sponsors shall constitute first reading in the same manner as Introduction and Reference.

10.11—Reading of Concurrent Resolutions and Memorials

Concurrent resolutions and memorials shall receive two readings on two separate days previous to a voice vote upon adoption, except that concurrent resolutions extending a legislative session or involving other procedural legislative matters authorized under Rule 5.10 may be read twice without motion on the same legislative day.

10.12—Reading of House Resolutions

Each House resolution shall receive two readings by title only previous to a voice vote upon adoption, except that resolutions of condolence, commendation, or commemoration may be shown as read and adopted by publication in full in the Journal in accordance with Rule 10.20.

10.13—Measures on Third Reading

(a) Bills on third reading shall be taken up in the order in which the House concluded action on them on second reading.

(b) Before any bill shall be read the third time, whether amended or not, it shall be referred without motion to the Engrossing Clerk for examination and, if amended, the engrossing of amendments. In the case of any Senate bill amended in the House, the amendment adopted shall be reproduced and attached to the bill amended in such manner that it will not be lost therefrom.

(c) A bill shall be deemed on its third reading when it has been read a second time on a previous day and has no motion left pending.

Part Three—Bills Subject to Special Rule

10.14—Bills Subject to Special Rule

(a) The Committee on Rules, Ethics & Elections may recommend that a bill be subject to a Special Rule created by the committee in accordance with the requirements of this Rule. Upon adoption of a recommendation, the Committee on Rules, Ethics & Elections shall submit the recommendation to the Procedural & Redistricting Council for adoption of the Special Rule, which, if adopted by a two-thirds vote of the council members present and voting, shall be submitted to the House for its approval.

(b) A Special Rule shall prescribe the time and conditions of debate and amendment of the bill, may govern floor action on both second and third readings, and may include one of the following three types of conditions or such other conditions as are deemed appropriate:

(1) Open, which allows the offering of any amendment, subject to approval of the designated floor manager and the overall time limits established under the Rule.

(2) Structured, which allows the offering of only amendments that have been approved for consideration by the Procedural & Redistricting Council.

(3) Closed, which prohibits the offering of any amendment, except technical amendments offered in the name of the Procedural & Redistricting Council.

(c) The Special Rule may designate two floor managers, one to allocate the time for debate and amendments for the proponents and one to allocate the time for debate and amendments for the opponents. The floor managers shall be subject to approval by both the Majority Leader and the Minority Leader.

(d) A specific provision in a Special Rule is controlling over a conflicting provision of these Rules.

(e) Neither a Senate bill nor a House bill returning from the Senate with further action required may be subject to Special Rule.

Part Four—Calendars

10.15—Special Order Calendar

(a) REGULAR SESSION.

(1) The Procedural & Redistricting Council shall periodically submit, as needed, a Special Order Calendar determining the priority for consideration of legislation. The Procedural & Redistricting Council may include on a Special Order Calendar specific sections for local bills, trust fund bills, bills to be taken up at a time certain, and bills subject to Special Rule. Any amendment of a report proposing a Special Order Calendar requires a two-thirds vote of the Members present and voting. Upon adoption of a Special Order Calendar, no other bills shall be considered for the time period set forth for that Special Order Calendar, except that any bill appearing on that Special Order Calendar may be stricken from it by a two-thirds vote of the Members present and voting or any bill may be added to it pursuant to Rule 10.16. A previously adopted Special Order Calendar shall expire upon adoption by the House of a new Special Order Calendar.

(2) Any committee, council, or Member may apply to the Procedural & Redistricting Council to place a bill on the Special Order Calendar. The Procedural & Redistricting Council may grant such requests by a majority vote.

(3) During the first 45 calendar days of a regular session, the Procedural & Redistricting Council shall publish the Special Order Calendar in two Calendars of the House, and it may be taken up on the day of the second published calendar. For calendar days 46 through 51 of a regular session, the Procedural & Redistricting Council shall provide the Special Order Calendar by 9:00 p.m. of the day prior to its consideration. After the 51st calendar day of a regular session, the Procedural & Redistricting Council shall provide the Special Order Calendar at least 2 hours prior to its consideration.

(b) EXTENDED OR SPECIAL SESSION.

(1) If the Legislature extends a legislative session, all bills on the Calendar at the time of expiration of the regular session shall be placed in the Procedural & Redistricting Council.

(2) During any extended or special session, all bills upon being reported favorably by the last committee of reference shall be placed in the Procedural & Redistricting Council.

(3) During any extended or special session, the Procedural & Redistricting Council shall establish a Special Order Calendar and only those bills on such Special Order Calendar shall be placed on the Calendar of the House.

10.16—Consideration of Bills Not on Special Order

A bill not included on the Special Order Calendar may be considered by the House upon two-thirds vote of the Members present and voting.

10.17—Consent Calendar

The Procedural & Redistricting Council may submit a Consent Calendar designed to expedite the consideration of noncontroversial legislation, according to procedures recommended by the Procedural & Redistricting Council and approved by the House.

10.18—Requirements for Placement on a Calendar

No measure may be placed on a calendar until it has been reported favorably by each committee or council of reference.

10.19—Informal Deferral of Bills

Whenever the Member who introduced a bill, or the Chair of the committee or council that reported it, is absent from the Chamber when the bill has been reached in the regular order on second or third reading, consideration shall be informally deferred until the Member's or committee or council Chair's return, unless another Member consents to offer the bill on behalf of the original Member or committee or council Chair. The bill shall retain its position on the Calendar during the same legislative day. The Member or committee or council Chair shall have the responsibility of making the motion for its subsequent consideration.

Part Five—Resolutions of Condolence, Commendation, or Commemoration

10.20—Resolutions of Condolence, Commendation, or Commemoration Published in Journal

Upon favorable report by the Committee on Rules, Ethics & Elections, a resolution of condolence, commendation, or commemoration may be shown as read and adopted by publication in full in the Journal. The Procedural & Redistricting Council shall periodically distribute a list of such resolutions 1 day (excluding Saturday and Sunday) prior to the day of their publication, during which time any Member may file an objection with the council to any resolution listed. Each resolution for which an objection has been filed shall be removed from the list and placed on the Calendar of the House. All resolutions without objections shall be printed on the next legislative day in the Journal and considered adopted by the House.

Part Six—Consideration Limits

10.21—Consideration Limits to Bills After Day 55

After the 55th calendar day of a regular session, no House bills on second reading may be taken up and considered by the House.

10.22—Consideration Limits to Bills After Day 58

After the 58th calendar day of a regular session, the House may consider only:

- (a) Senate Messages.
- (b) Conference Reports.
- (c) Concurrent Resolutions.

RULE ELEVEN

MOTIONS

11.1—Motions; How Made

Every motion shall be made orally, except when requested by the Speaker to be reduced to writing.

11.2—Precedence of Motions During Debate

(a) When a question is under debate, the Speaker shall receive no motion except:

- (1) To adjourn at a time certain.
- (2) To adjourn.
- (3) To recess to a time certain.
- (4) To lay on the table.
- (5) To reconsider.
- (6) For the previous question.
- (7) To limit debate.
- (8) To temporarily postpone.
- (9) To postpone to a time or day certain.
- (10) To refer to or to recommit to committee or council.
- (11) To amend.
- (12) To postpone indefinitely.
- (13) To amend by striking out the enacting or resolving clause.

(b) Such motions shall have precedence in the descending order given.

11.3—Questions of Order Decided Without Debate

All procedural questions of order, arising after a motion is made for any of the motions named in Rule 11.2 and pending that motion, shall be decided by the Speaker without debate, whether on appeal or otherwise; however, the Speaker may ask the House for comment.

11.4—Division of Question

Any Member may call for a division of a question when the sense will admit of it. A motion to strike out and insert shall be deemed indivisible. A motion to strike out, being lost, shall preclude neither amendment nor a motion to strike out and insert.

11.5—Motion to Recess to a Time Certain

A motion to recess to a time certain shall be treated the same as a motion to adjourn, except that the motion is debatable when no business is before the House and can be amended as to the time to recess and duration of the recess. It yields only to a motion to adjourn.

11.6—Motion to Lay on the Table

A motion to lay on the table is not debatable and cannot be amended; however, before the motion is put, the sponsor of a bill or debatable motion shall be allowed 5 minutes within which to discuss the same and may divide the time with, or waive this right in favor of, some other Member. A motion to table a main question requires a majority vote. A motion to lay an amendment on the table, if adopted, does not carry with it the measure to which it adheres. A motion to lay an amendment on the table may be adopted by a majority vote.

11.7—Motion to Reconsider

(a) When a motion or main question has been made and carried or lost, it shall be in order at any time as a matter of right on the same or succeeding legislative day for a Member voting with the prevailing side, or for any Member in the case of a voice or tie vote, to move for reconsideration thereof. When a majority of Members vote in the affirmative but the proposition is lost because it is one in which the concurrence of a greater number than a majority is necessary for adoption or passage, any Member may move for a reconsideration. No bill referred or recommitted to a committee or council by a vote of the House shall be brought back into the House on a motion to reconsider. The motion to reconsider shall require a majority vote for its adoption, and such motion shall not be renewed on any proposition, after once being considered by vote of the House, except by unanimous consent. Debate shall be allowed on a motion to reconsider only when the question that it is proposing to reconsider is debatable. When debate upon a motion to reconsider is in order, no Member shall speak thereon more than once or for more than 5 minutes. The adoption of a motion to reconsider a vote upon any secondary matter shall not remove the main subject under consideration from consideration of the House. A motion to reconsider a collateral matter must be disposed of at once during the course of the consideration of the main subject to which it is related, and such motion shall be out of order after the House has passed to other business.

(b) The Clerk shall retain possession of all bills and joint resolutions for the period after passage during which reconsideration may be moved; however, during the last 14 calendar days allowed under the Florida Constitution for a regular session and during any extensions thereof, or during any special session, these shall be transmitted to the Senate forthwith.

(c) The adoption of a motion to waive the Rules and immediately certify any bill to the Senate shall be construed as releasing the measure from the Clerk's possession for the period of reconsideration. Local bills, concurrent resolutions, and memorials shall be transmitted to the Senate without delay. Messages relating to procedural motions, to House action on Senate amendments, or to conference committee reports shall be transmitted forthwith.

11.8—Motion for the Previous Question

(a) The previous question may be asked and ordered upon any debatable single motion, series of motions, or amendment pending, and the effect thereof shall be to conclude all action on the same day. If third reading is reached on another day, the order for the previous question must be renewed on that day.

(b) The motion for the previous question shall be decided without debate. If the motion prevails, the sponsor of a bill or debatable motion and an opponent shall be allowed 3 minutes each within which to discuss the same, and each may divide the time with, or waive this right in favor of, some other Member. The motion for the previous question shall be put in the following form: "Shall the main question be now put?"

(c) When the motion for the previous question is adopted on a main question, the sense of the House shall be taken forthwith on pending amendments and such question in the regular order. If amendments have been adopted, the regular order shall include the adoption of necessary title amendments.

(d) The motion for the previous question may not be made by the sponsor or mover.

11.9—Motion to Limit Debate

When there is debate by the House, it shall be in order for a Member to move to limit debate and such motion shall be decided without debate, except that the sponsor or mover of the question under debate shall have

5 minutes within which to discuss the motion and may divide the allotted time with, or waive it in favor of, some other Member. If, by majority vote, the question is decided in the affirmative, debate shall be limited to 20 minutes for each side, unless a greater time is stated in the motion, such time to be apportioned by the Speaker; however, the sponsor or mover shall have an additional 5 minutes within which to close the debate and may divide the allotted time with, or waive it in favor of, some other Member.

11.10—Motion to Temporarily Postpone

The motion to temporarily postpone shall be decided without debate and shall cause a measure to be set aside but retained on the desk. If a main question has been temporarily postponed after having been debated or after motions have been applied and is not brought back before the House on the same legislative day, it shall be placed under the order of unfinished business on the Calendar of the House. If a main question is temporarily postponed before debate has commenced or motions have been applied, its reading shall be considered a nullity and the bill shall retain its original position on the order of business. The motion to return to consideration of a temporarily postponed main question shall be made under the proper order of business when no other matter is pending. If applied to a collateral matter, the motion to temporarily postpone shall not cause the main question to be carried with it. After having been temporarily postponed, if a collateral matter is not brought back before the House in the course of consideration of the adhering or main question, it shall be deemed abandoned.

11.11—Motions to Withdraw or Refer Bills

(a) Any Member may, no later than under the order of business of Motions Relating to Committee or Council References on the legislative day following reference of a bill, move for reference from one committee or council to a different committee or council, which shall be decided by a majority vote.

(b) A motion to withdraw a bill from committee or council, or to refer a bill from one committee or council to another committee or council other than as provided in subsection (a), may be made during the regular order of business and shall require an affirmative vote of two-thirds of the Members present and voting.

(c) A motion to refer a bill to an additional committee or council may be made during the regular order of business and shall require an affirmative vote of two-thirds of the Members present and voting.

(d) A motion to refer shall be debated only as to the propriety of the reference.

(e) A motion to withdraw a bill from further consideration of the House shall require an affirmative vote of two-thirds of the Members present and voting.

(1) For the purpose of withdrawing bills from further consideration, the first-named Member sponsor shall be regarded as the only Member empowered to move for the withdrawal of a bill. The first-named Member sponsor of a bill may, prior to its introduction, withdraw the bill by letter to the Clerk.

(2) The introducer of an original bill laid on the table upon introduction of a committee or council substitute therefor has no right to move for the withdrawal of the substitute from further consideration.

(3) In moving for the withdrawal of a bill from further consideration by floor motion, the introducer shall be required to identify the nature of the bill.

11.12—Motion to Recommit

(a) After a committee or council report on a bill has been received by the Clerk, the bill may not be recommitted by the House to any committee or council except by a majority vote.

(b) A motion to recommit to committee or council a bill that is before the House may be made during the regular order of business. The motion shall be debatable only as to the propriety of that reference and shall require an affirmative majority vote.

(c) Upon the third reading of any bill, it may not be committed to any committee or council, except to the appropriate fiscal committee as provided elsewhere in these Rules.

11.13—Motion to Postpone Indefinitely

Motions to postpone indefinitely are debatable and shall be applicable only to a main question. The adoption of a motion to postpone a bill indefinitely shall dispose of such bill for the duration of the legislative session and all extensions thereof. Any motion to postpone consideration to a time beyond the last day allowed under the Florida Constitution for the current legislative session shall be construed as a motion to postpone indefinitely.

11.14—Dilatory Motions

No dilatory or delaying motions shall be entertained by the Speaker.

11.15—Withdrawal of Motions

The mover of a motion may withdraw the motion at any time before it has been amended or a vote on it has commenced, except that a motion to reconsider may be withdrawn only on the day made.

RULE TWELVE

AMENDMENTS

12.1—Form

(a) Amendments shall be stored on the legislative computer in a format approved by the Clerk.

(b) The sponsor of an amendment shall file with the Clerk a printed original of the amendment, which shall be free of interlineations and which shall include as a part of its original printed text the name of the sponsor, the bill number, and the page and line to be amended. Amendment cosponsors may be added on forms provided by the Clerk.

12.2—Filing

(a) REGULAR SESSION.

(1) During the first 45 calendar days of a regular session, no Member floor amendment shall be considered unless a printed original of the amendment has been delivered to the Clerk in the required form prior to 3:00 p.m. of the day (excluding Saturday and Sunday) preceding the daily session at which the sponsor seeks to offer the amendment, and no amendment to the amendment or substitute amendment shall be offered unless a printed original of the amendment to the amendment or substitute amendment has been delivered to the Clerk not later than 5:00 p.m. of the day (excluding Saturday and Sunday) preceding the daily session at which the sponsor seeks to offer the main amendment.

(2) For calendar days 46 through 51 of a regular session, no Member floor amendment shall be considered unless a printed original of the amendment has been delivered to the Clerk in the required form at least 1 hour prior to the daily session at which the sponsor seeks to offer the amendment, and no amendment to the amendment or substitute amendment shall be offered unless a printed original of the amendment to the amendment or substitute amendment has been delivered to the Clerk not later than 30 minutes prior to the daily session at which the sponsor seeks to offer the main amendment.

(3) After the 51st day of a regular session, no Member floor amendment shall be considered unless a printed original of the amendment has been delivered to the Clerk in the required form not later than 30 minutes after the convening of the daily session at which the sponsor seeks to offer the amendment or 2½ hours after the Special Order Calendar has been provided, whichever is later, and no amendment to the amendment or substitute amendment shall be offered unless a printed original of the amendment to the amendment or substitute amendment has been delivered to the Clerk not later than 1 hour after the convening of the daily session at which the sponsor seeks to offer the main amendment or 3 hours after the Special Order Calendar has been provided, whichever is later.

(b) EXTENDED OR SPECIAL SESSION. During any extended or special session, no Member floor amendment shall be considered unless a printed original of the amendment has been delivered to the Clerk in the required form at least 1 hour prior to the daily session at which the sponsor seeks to offer the amendment, and no amendment to the amendment or substitute amendment shall be offered unless a printed original of the amendment to the amendment or substitute amendment has been delivered to the Clerk not later than 30 minutes prior to the daily session at which the sponsor seeks to offer the main amendment.

(c) WAIVER OF DEADLINE. By a majority vote, the time limitation for filing any amendment may be waived.

12.3—Presentation and Consideration

(a) Amendments shall be taken up only as sponsors gain recognition from the Speaker to move their adoption, except that the Chair of the committee or council (or any member thereof designated by the Chair) reporting the measure under consideration shall have preference for the presentation of committee or council amendments.

(b) Upon motion, committee or council amendments may be adopted en bloc.

(c) The adoption of an amendment to a section shall not preclude further amendment of that section. If a bill is being considered section by section or item by item, only amendments to the section or item under consideration shall be in order.

(d) For the purpose of this Rule, an amendment shall be deemed pending only after its proposer has been recognized by the Speaker and has moved its adoption.

12.4—Second and Third Reading; Vote Required on Third Reading

(a) A motion to amend is in order during the second or third reading of any bill.

(b) Amendments proposed on third reading shall require a two-thirds vote of the Members present and voting for adoption, except that technical amendments introduced in the name of the Procedural & Redistricting Council shall require a majority vote for adoption.

(c) A motion for reconsideration of an amendment on third reading requires a two-thirds vote of the Members present and voting for adoption.

12.5—Amendment of General Appropriations Bill

(a) Whenever an amendment is offered to a General Appropriations Bill that would increase any line item of such bill, such amendment shall show the amount by line item of the increase and shall, from within the jurisdiction of the same fiscal standing committee, decrease a line item or items in an amount or amounts equivalent to or greater than the increase required by the amendment.

(b) A floor amendment to the General Appropriations Bill that proposes to move spending authority between sections of the bill shall require a two-thirds vote of the Members present and voting.

12.6—Consideration of Senate Amendments

(a) After the reading of a Senate amendment to a House bill, the following motions shall be in order and shall be privileged in the order named:

(1) Amend the Senate amendment by a concurrence of the majority required for the final passage of the bill.

(2) Concur in the Senate amendment by a concurrence of the same majority required for the final passage of the bill.

(3) Refuse by the majority of the required quorum to concur and ask the Senate to recede.

(4) Request the Senate to recede and, failing to do so, to appoint a conference committee to meet with a like committee appointed by the Speaker.

(b) If the Senate refuses to concur in a House amendment to a Senate bill, the following motions shall be in order and shall be privileged in the order named:

- (1) That the House recede.
- (2) That the House insist and ask for a conference committee.
- (3) That the House insist.

(c) The Speaker may, upon determining that a Senate amendment substantially changes the bill as passed by the House, refer the Senate message, with the bill and Senate amendment or amendments, to the appropriate House committee or council for review and report to the House. The Speaker, upon such reference, shall announce the date and time for the committee or council to meet. The committee or council shall report to the House the recommendation for disposition of the Senate amendment or amendments under one of the four options presented in subsection (a). The report shall be given to the House, in writing, by the Chair of the reporting committee or council.

12.7—Motion to Amend by Striking Out Enacting or Resolving Clause

An amendment to strike out the enacting clause of a bill or the resolving clause of a resolution or memorial shall, if carried, be considered as equivalent to rejection of the bill, resolution, or memorial by the House.

12.8—Sequence of Amendments to Amendments

An amendment to a pending amendment may be received, but until it is disposed of no other motion to amend will be in order except a substitute amendment or an amendment to the substitute. Such amendments are to be disposed of in the following order:

- (a) Amendments to the amendment are voted on before the substitute is taken up. Only one amendment to the amendment is in order at a time.
- (b) Amendments to the substitute are next voted on.
- (c) The substitute then is voted on. The adoption of a substitute amendment in lieu of an original amendment shall be treated and considered as an amendment of the bill itself.

12.9—Germanity of House Amendments

- (a) GERMANITY.
  - (1) Neither the House nor any committee or council shall consider an amendment that relates to a different subject or is intended to accomplish a different purpose than that of the pending question or that, if adopted and passed, would require a title amendment for the proposal that is substantially different from the proposal's original title or that would unreasonably alter the nature of the proposal.

(2) The Speaker shall rule on the admissibility of any amendment when the question of germanity is timely raised.

(3) An amendment of the second degree or a substitute amendment must be germane to both the main amendment and the measure to which it adheres.

(b) AMENDMENTS THAT ARE NOT GERMANE. House amendments that are not germane include:

(1) A general proposition amending a specific proposition.

(2) An amendment amending a statute or session law when the purpose of the bill is limited to repealing such law, or an amendment repealing a statute or session law when the purpose of the bill is limited to amending such law.

(3) An amendment that substantially expands the scope of the bill.

(4) An amendment to a bill when legislative action on that bill is by law or these Rules limited to passage, concurrence, indefinite postponement, or nonconcurrence as introduced.

(c) AMENDMENTS THAT ARE GERMANE. Amendments that are germane include:

(1) A specific provision amending a general provision.

(2) An amendment that accomplishes the same purpose in a different manner.

(3) An amendment limiting the scope of the proposal.

(4) An amendment providing appropriations necessary to fulfill the original intent of a proposal.

(5) An amendment relating only to clarification of details.

(6) An amendment that changes the effective date of a repeal, reduces the scope of a repeal, or adds a short-term nonstatutory transitional provision to facilitate repeal.

12.10—Amendments Out of Order

An amendment is out of order if it is the principal substance of a bill that has received an unfavorable committee or council report.

12.11—Printing of Amendments in Journal

All amendments taken up, unless withdrawn, shall be printed in the Journal, except that an amendment to a General Appropriations Bill constituting an entirely new bill shall not be printed until the filing of the conference committee report.

RULE THIRTEEN

RULES

13.1—Initial Adoption of Rules of the House

The initial adoption of the Rules of the House shall require a majority vote. Once adopted, the Rules of the House shall remain in effect, unless waived or amended as provided in these Rules.

13.2—Waiver of Rules of the House

Any Rule of the House, except a Rule requiring unanimous consent, may be waived by a two-thirds vote of the Members present and voting; however, the waiver shall apply only to the matter under immediate consideration and shall not extend beyond adjournment of a session day.

13.3—Amending Rules of the House

No Rule of the House may be amended except by a report or resolution from the Committee on Rules, Ethics & Elections adopted by the House by majority vote. A report or resolution of the Committee on Rules, Ethics & Elections proposing amendments to these Rules is always in order; however, any amendment of such a report or resolution prior to its adoption requires a two-thirds vote of the Members present and voting.

13.4—Parliamentary Authorities

In all cases not provided for by the Florida Constitution, the Rules of the House, or the Joint Rules of the Senate and House, the guiding, but nonbinding, authority shall be first the Rulings of the Speaker and then the latest edition of Mason's Manual of Legislative Procedure.

13.5—Majority Action

Unless otherwise indicated by these Rules, all action by the House or its committees or councils shall be by majority vote of those Members present and voting. When the body is equally divided, the question is lost.

13.6—"Days" Defined

Wherever used in these Rules, a "legislative" day means a day when the House convenes and a quorum is present. All other references to "days" mean "calendar" days.

RULE FOURTEEN

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

Part One—Public Records

14.1—Legislative Records

There shall be available for public inspection, whether maintained in Tallahassee or in a district office, the papers and records developed and received in connection with official legislative business, except as provided in section 11.0431, Florida Statutes, or other provision of law.

14.2—Legislative Records; Maintenance, Control, Destruction, Disposal, and Disposition

(a) Records that are required to be created by these Rules or that are of vital, permanent, or archival value shall be maintained in a safe location that is easily accessible for convenient use. No such record need be maintained if the substance of the record is published or retained in another form or location. Whenever necessary, but no more often than annually or less often than biennially, records required to be maintained may be transferred to the Legislative Library Service of the Division of Library and Information Services of the Department of State for retention in accordance with law.

(b) Other records that are no longer needed for any purpose and that do not have sufficient administrative, legal, or fiscal significance to warrant their retention shall be disposed of systematically.

(c)(1) The committee administrative assistant for each existing committee shall ensure compliance with this Rule for all records created or received by the committee or for a former committee whose jurisdiction has been assigned to the committee.

(2) The council administrative assistant for each existing council shall ensure compliance with this Rule for all records created or received by the council or for a former council whose jurisdiction has been assigned to the council.

(3) The Speaker, the Speaker pro tempore, the Minority Leader, the Majority Leader, and the Sergeant at Arms shall ensure compliance with this Rule for all records created or received by their respective offices and their predecessors in office.

(4) Each Member shall ensure compliance with this Rule for all records created or received by the Member or the Member's district office.

(5) The director of an ancillary House office shall ensure compliance with this Rule for all records created or received by the director's office.

(6) The Clerk shall ensure compliance with this Rule for all other records created or received by the House of Representatives.

(d) If a committee, council, or office is not continued in existence, the records of such committee, council, or office shall be forwarded to the committee, council, or office assuming the jurisdiction or responsibility of the former committee, council, or office, if any. Otherwise, such records shall be forwarded to the Clerk.

(e) The Clerk, with the approval of the Speaker, shall establish a schedule of reasonable and appropriate fees for copies of legislative records and documents; however, there shall be no charge for a single copy of any individual, separately obtained bill (other than a General Appropriations Bill) or a bill analysis or other record required by these Rules to be created.

Part Two—Distribution of Documents; Display of Signs

14.3—Distribution of Documents

Documents required by these Rules to be printed or published may be produced and distributed on paper or in electronic form.

14.4—Display of Signs, Placards, and the Like

Signs, placards, or other objects of similar nature shall be permitted in the rooms, lobby, galleries, or Chamber of the House only upon approval of the Committee on Rules, Ethics & Elections.

Part Three—House Seal

14.5—House Seal

(a) REQUIREMENT. There shall be an official seal of the House of Representatives. The seal shall be used only by or on behalf of a Member or officer of the House or when specifically authorized in writing by the Committee on Rules, Ethics & Elections.

(b) CONFIGURATION. The seal shall be a circle, having, in the center thereof, a view of the sun's rays over a highland in the distance, a sabal palmetto palm tree, a steamboat on the water, and a Native American female scattering flowers in the foreground, encircled by the words "House of Representatives."

(c) USE. Unless a written exception is otherwise granted by the Speaker:

(1) Material carrying the official seal shall be used only by a Member, officer, or employee of the House or other persons employed or retained by the House.

(2) The use, printing, publication, or manufacture of the seal, or items or materials bearing the seal or a facsimile of the seal, shall be limited to official business of the House or official legislative business.

(d) CUSTODIAN. The Clerk shall be the custodian of the official seal.

RULE FIFTEEN

ETHICS AND CONDUCT OF MEMBERS

15.1—Legislative Ethics and Official Conduct

Legislative office is a trust to be performed with integrity in the public interest. A Member is respectful of the confidence placed in the Member by the other Members and by the people. By personal example and by admonition to colleagues whose behavior may threaten the honor of the lawmaking body, the Member shall watchfully guard the responsibility of office and the responsibilities and duties placed on the Member by the House. To this end, each Member shall be accountable to the House for violations of this Rule or any provision of the House Code of Conduct contained in Rules 15.1-15.8.

15.2—The Integrity of the House

A Member shall respect and comply with the law and shall perform at all times in a manner that promotes public confidence in the integrity and independence of the House and of the Legislature. Each Member shall perform at all times in a manner that promotes a professional environment in the House, which shall be free from unlawful employment discrimination.

15.3—Improper Influence; Solicitation of Campaign Contributions

(a) A Member may not accept anything that reasonably may be construed to improperly influence the Member's official act, decision, or vote.

(b) A Member may neither solicit nor accept any campaign contribution during the 60-day regular legislative session on the Member's own behalf, on behalf of a political party, or on behalf of a candidate for the House of Representatives; however, a Member may contribute to the Member's own campaign.

15.4—Ethics; Conflicting Employment

A Member shall:

(a) Scrupulously comply with the requirements of all laws related to the ethics of public officers.

(b) Not allow personal employment to impair the Member's independence of judgment in the exercise of official duties.

(c) Not directly or indirectly receive or agree to receive any compensation for any services rendered or to be rendered either by the Member or any other person when such activity is in substantial conflict with the duties of a Member of the House.

15.5—Use of Official Position

A Member may not corruptly use or attempt to use the Member's official position in a manner contrary to the trust or authority placed in the Member, either by the public or by other Members, for the purpose of securing a special privilege, benefit, or exemption for the Member or for others.

15.6—Use of Information Obtained by Reason of Official Position

A Member may engage in business and professional activity in competition with others, but may not use or provide to others, for the Member's personal gain or benefit or for the personal gain or benefit of any other person or business entity, any information that has been obtained by reason of the Member's official capacity as a Member and that is unavailable to members of the public as a matter of law.

15.7—Members to Advise Legislative Employees of House Requirements

Each Member is responsible for calling the regulations, policies, and procedures approved by the Speaker relating to legislative staff and the Rules of the House relating to legislative staff to the attention of any staff for whom the Member is directly responsible. A Member may not engage, or permit another to engage, in conduct that the Member knows or should have known to be harmful to a professional environment in the workplace, which shall be free from unlawful employment discrimination. A professional environment in the workplace, which shall be free from unlawful employment discrimination, is one in which there is compliance with state and federal law and the regulations, policies, and procedures relating to employment discrimination approved by the Speaker.

15.8—Representation of Another Before a State Agency

A Member may not personally represent another person or entity for compensation before any state agency other than a judicial tribunal. For the purposes of this Rule, "state agency" means any entity of the legislative or executive branch of state government over which the Legislature exercises plenary budgetary and statutory control.

15.9—Advisory Opinions

(a) A Member, when in doubt about the applicability and interpretation of these Rules with respect to legislative ethics and Member conduct, may convey the facts of the situation to the House general counsel for an advisory opinion. The general counsel shall issue the opinion within 10 days after receiving the request. The advisory opinion may be relied upon by the Member requesting the opinion. Upon request of any Member, the committee designated by the Speaker to have responsibility for the ethical conduct of Members may revise an advisory opinion rendered by the House general counsel through an advisory opinion issued to the Member who requested the opinion.

(b) An advisory opinion rendered by the House general counsel or the committee shall be numbered, dated, and published by the Clerk in an annual publication of the House. Advisory opinions from the House general counsel or the committee may not identify the Member seeking the opinion unless such Member so requests.

15.10—Felony Indictment or Information of a Member

(a) If an indictment or information for a felony of any jurisdiction is filed against a Member of the House, the Member indicted or informed against may request the Speaker to excuse the Member, without pay, from all privileges of membership of the House pending final adjudication.

(b) If the indictment or information is either nolle prossed or dismissed, or if the Member is found not guilty of the felonies charged, or lesser included felonies, then the Member shall be paid all back pay and other benefits retroactive to the date the Member was excused.

15.11—Felony Guilty Plea of a Member

A Member who enters a plea of guilty or nolo contendere (no contest) to a felony of any jurisdiction may, at the discretion of the Speaker, be suspended immediately, without a hearing and without pay, from all privileges of membership of the House through the remainder of that Member's term.

15.12—Felony Conviction of a Member

(a) A Member convicted of a felony of any jurisdiction may, at the discretion of the Speaker, be suspended immediately, without a hearing and without pay, from all privileges of membership of the House pending appellate action or the end of the Member's term, whichever occurs first.

(b) A Member suspended under the provisions of this Rule may, within 10 days after such suspension, file a written request for a hearing setting forth specific reasons contesting the Member's suspension. Upon receipt of a written request for a hearing, the Speaker shall appoint a select committee, which shall commence a hearing on the Member's suspension within 30 days and issue a report to the House within 10 days after the conclusion of the hearing. The report of the select committee shall be final unless the Member, within 10 days after the issuance of the report, requests in writing that the Speaker convene the full House to consider the report of the select committee. Upon receipt of a request for such consideration, the Speaker shall timely convene the House for such purpose.

(c) If the final appellate decision is to sustain the conviction, then the Member's suspension shall continue to the end of the Member's term. If the final appellate decision is to vacate the conviction and there is a rehearing, the Member shall be subject to Rule 15.10. If the final appellate decision is to vacate the conviction and no felony charges remain against the Member, the Member shall be entitled to restitution of back pay and other benefits retroactive to the date of suspension.

RULE SIXTEEN*PROCEDURES FOR LEGAL PROCEEDINGS*Part One—Committees and Councils Conducting Legal Proceedings*16.1—Procedures for Committees and Councils Conducting Legal Proceedings*(a) ISSUANCE OF SUBPOENA.

(1) In order to carry out its duties, each standing or select committee or council, whenever required, may issue subpoena with the approval of the Speaker and other necessary process to compel the attendance of witnesses before such committee or council or the taking of a deposition pursuant to these Rules. The Chair of the standing or select committee or council shall issue such process on behalf of the standing or select committee or council. The Chair or any other member of such committee or council may administer all oaths and affirmations in the manner prescribed by law to witnesses who shall appear before such committee or council for the purpose of testifying in any matter about which such committee or council may desire evidence.

(2) Each standing or select committee or council, whenever required, may also compel by subpoena duces tecum the production of any books, letters, or other documentary evidence it may desire to examine in reference to any matter before it. The Chair of the standing or select committee or council shall issue process on behalf of the standing or select committee or council.

(b) CONTEMPT PROCEEDINGS.

(1) Either house may punish, by fine or imprisonment, any person who is not a Member and who is guilty of disorderly or contemptuous conduct in its presence or of a refusal to obey its lawful summons.

(2) A person shall be deemed in contempt if the person:

a. Fails or refuses to appear in compliance with a subpoena or, having appeared, fails or refuses to testify under oath or affirmation;

b. Fails or refuses to answer any relevant question or fails or refuses to furnish any relevant book, paper, or other document subpoenaed by or on behalf of such committee or council; or

c. Commits any other act or offense against such committee or council that, if committed against the Legislature or either house thereof, would constitute contempt.

(3) A standing or select committee or council may, by majority vote of all of its members, apply to the House for contempt citation. The application shall be considered as though the alleged contempt had been committed in or against the House itself. If such committee or council is meeting during the interim, its application shall be made to the circuit court pursuant to subsection (f).

(4) A person guilty of contempt under this Rule shall be fined not more than $500 or imprisoned not more than 90 days or both, or shall be subject to such other punishment as the House may, in the exercise of its inherent powers, impose prior to and in lieu of the imposition of the aforementioned penalty.

(5) The sheriffs in the several counties shall make such service and execute all process or orders when required by standing or select committees or councils. Sheriffs shall be paid as provided for in section 30.231, Florida Statutes.

(c) FALSE SWEARING. Whoever willfully affirms or swears falsely in regard to any material matter or thing before any standing or select committee or council is guilty of perjury in an official proceeding, which is a felony of the third degree and shall be punished as provided in section 775.082, section 775.083, or section 775.084, Florida Statutes.

(d) RIGHTS OF WITNESSES.

(1) All witnesses summoned before any standing or select committee or council shall receive reimbursement for travel expenses and per diem at the rates provided in section 112.061, Florida Statutes. However, the fact that such reimbursement is not tendered at the time the subpoena is served shall not excuse the witness from appearing as directed therein.

(2) Service of a subpoena requiring the attendance of a person at a meeting of a standing or select committee or council shall be made in the manner provided by law for the service of subpoenas in civil action at least 7 calendar days prior to the date of the meeting unless a shorter period of time is authorized by majority vote of all the members of such committee or council. If a shorter period of time is authorized, the persons subpoenaed shall be given reasonable notice of the meeting, consistent with the particular circumstances involved.

(3) Any person who is served with a subpoena to attend a meeting of any standing or select committee or council also shall be served with a general statement informing the person of the subject matter of such committee's or council's investigation or inquiry and a notice that the person may be accompanied at the meeting by private counsel.

(4) Upon the request of any party and the approval of a majority of the standing or select committee or council, the Chair shall instruct all witnesses to leave the meeting room and retire to a designated place. The witness will be instructed by the Chair not to discuss the testimony of the witness or the testimony of any other person with anyone until the meeting has been adjourned and the witness has been discharged by the Chair. The witness shall be further instructed that if any person discusses or attempts to discuss the matter under investigation with the witness after receiving such instructions, the witness shall bring such matter to the attention of such committee or council. No member of such committee or council or representative thereof may discuss any matter or matters pertinent to the subject matter under investigation with any witness to be called before such committee or council from the time that these instructions are given until the meeting has been adjourned and the witness has been discharged by the Chair. Any person violating this Rule shall be in contempt of the Legislature.

(5) Any standing or select committee or council taking sworn testimony from witnesses as provided herein shall cause a record to be made of all proceedings in which testimony or other evidence is demanded or adduced, which record shall include rulings of the Chair, questions of such committee or council and its staff, the testimony or responses of witnesses, sworn written statements submitted to the committee or council, and such other matters as the committee or council or its Chair may direct.

(6) A witness at a meeting, upon advance request and at the witness's own expense, shall be furnished a certified transcript of the witness's testimony at the meeting.

(e) RIGHT OF OTHER PERSONS TO BE HEARD.

(1) Any person whose name is mentioned or who is otherwise identified during a meeting being conducted for the purpose of taking sworn testimony from witnesses of any standing or select committee or council and who, in the opinion of such committee or council, may be adversely affected thereby, may, upon the request of the person or upon the request of any member of such committee or council, appear personally before such committee or council and testify on the person's own behalf, or, with such committee's or council's consent, file a sworn written statement of facts or other documentary evidence for incorporation into the record of the meeting. Any such witness, however, shall, prior to filing such statement, consent to answer questions from such committee or council regarding the contents of the statement.

(2) Upon the consent of a majority of the members present, a quorum having been established, any standing or select committee or council may permit any other person to appear and testify at a meeting or submit a sworn written statement of facts or other documentary evidence for incorporation into the record. No request to appear, appearance, or submission shall limit in any way the committee's or council's power of subpoena. Any such witness, however, shall, prior to filing such statement, consent to answer questions from any standing or select committee or council regarding the contents of the statement.

(f) ENFORCEMENT OF SUBPOENA OUT OF SESSION. If any witness fails to respond to the lawful subpoena of any standing or select committee or council at a time when the Legislature is not in session or, having responded, fails to answer all lawful inquiries or to turn over evidence that has been subpoenaed, such committee or council may file a complaint before any circuit court of the state setting up such failure on the part of the witness. On the filing of such complaint, the court shall take jurisdiction of the witness and the subject matter of the complaint and shall direct the witness to respond to all lawful questions and to produce all documentary evidence in the possession of the witness that is lawfully demanded. The failure of any witness to comply with such order of the court shall constitute a direct and criminal contempt of court, and the court shall punish such witness accordingly.

Part Two—Complaints Against Members and Officers of the House

16.2—Complaints of Violations of the Standards of Conduct by Members and Officers of the House; Procedure

(a) FILING OF COMPLAINTS. The Chair of the Committee on Rules, Ethics & Elections shall receive and initially review allegations of improper conduct that may reflect upon the House, violations of law, violations of the House Code of Conduct, and violations of the Rules and regulations of the House relating to the conduct of individuals in the performance of their duties as Members or officers of the House. Complaints of improper conduct against the Chair of the Committee on Rules, Ethics & Elections shall be reviewed and managed by the Speaker or, if designated by the Speaker, the Speaker pro tempore.

(1) Review of Complaints. The Chair of the Committee on Rules, Ethics & Elections shall review each complaint submitted to the committee relating to the conduct of a Member or officer of the House.

(2) Complaints.

a. A complaint shall be in writing and under oath, setting forth in simple, concise statements the following:

1. The name and legal address of the party filing the complaint (complainant);

2. The name and position or title of the Member or officer of the House (respondent) alleged to be in violation of the House Code of Conduct or a law, rule, regulation, or other standard of conduct;

3. The nature of the alleged violation, based upon the personal knowledge of the complainant, including, if possible, the specific section of the House Code of Conduct or law, rule, regulation, or other standard of conduct alleged to have been violated; and

4. The facts alleged to have given rise to the violation.

b. All documents in the possession of the complainant that are relevant to, and in support of, the allegations shall be attached to the complaint.

(3) Processing Complaint and Preliminary Findings.

a. Upon the filing of a complaint, the Chair shall, within 5 working days, notify the Member or officer against whom the complaint has been filed and give such person a copy of the complaint. Within 20 days, the Chair shall take the necessary actions as provided in subparagraphs b.-g.

b. The Chair shall examine each complaint for jurisdiction and for compliance with paragraph (a)(2).

c. If the Chair determines that a complaint does not comply with such Rule, the complaint shall be returned to the complainant with a general statement that the complaint is not in compliance with such Rule and with a copy of the Rule. A complainant may resubmit a complaint, provided such complaint is resubmitted prior to the expiration of the time limitation set forth in subsection (o).

d. If the Chair determines that the verified complaint does not allege facts sufficient to constitute a violation of any of the provisions of the House Code of Conduct, or a law, rule, regulation, or other standard of conduct, the Chair shall dismiss the complaint and notify the complainant and the respondent of such action.

e. If the Chair determines that the complaint is outside the jurisdiction of the House, the Chair shall dismiss the complaint and notify the complainant and the respondent of such action.

f. If the Chair determines that a violation is inadvertent, technical, or otherwise of a de minimis nature, the Chair may attempt to correct or prevent such a violation by informal means.

g. If the Chair determines that such a complaint does allege facts sufficient to constitute a violation of any of the provisions of the House Code of Conduct, or a law, rule, regulation, or other standard of conduct, and that the complaint is not de minimis in nature, the Chair shall, within 20 days, transmit a copy of the complaint to the Speaker and, in writing, request the appointment of a Probable Cause Panel or Special Master regarding the complaint. A copy of the letter shall be provided to the complainant and the respondent.

(4) Withdrawal of Complaints. A complaint may be withdrawn at any time.

(b) PROBABLE CAUSE PANEL OR SPECIAL MASTER.

(1) Creation. Whenever the Speaker receives a copy of a complaint and request made pursuant to subsection (a), the Speaker shall, within 20 days, either appoint a Probable Cause Panel (the panel) consisting of an odd number of members or appoint a Special Master. If the Speaker appoints a Probable Cause Panel, the Speaker shall also appoint one member of the panel as its Chair. The Speaker may appoint up to two additional persons who are not Members of the House to serve as nonvoting, public members of a Probable Cause Panel.

(2) Powers and Duties. The members of the panel or the Special Master shall have the following powers and duties:

a. Investigate complaints and make appropriate findings of fact promptly regarding allegations of improper conduct sufficient to establish probable cause of violations of law, violations of the House Code of Conduct, and violations of Rules and regulations of the House relating to the conduct of individuals in the performance of their duties as Members or as officers of the House;

b. Based upon the investigation by the Special Master or the panel, make and report findings of probable cause to the Speaker and to the House as it relates to the complaint that occasioned the appointment of the Probable Cause Panel or the Special Master;

c. Recommend to the Committee on Rules, Ethics & Elections such additional Rules or regulations as the Probable Cause Panel or the Special Master shall determine are necessary or desirable to ensure proper standards of conduct by Members and officers of the House in the performance of their duties and the discharge of their responsibilities; and

d. Adopt rules of procedure as appropriate.

(3) Quorum. A quorum of a Probable Cause Panel, when appointed, shall consist of a majority of the members of the panel. All action by a Probable Cause Panel shall require the concurrence of a majority of the full panel.

(4) Term. A Probable Cause Panel or Special Master, as appropriate, shall serve until the complaint that occasioned the appointment of the panel or the Special Master has been dismissed or until a finding of probable cause has been transmitted to the Speaker.

(c) PRELIMINARY INVESTIGATION AND PROBABLE CAUSE FINDING.

(1) Preliminary Investigation.

a. The Probable Cause Panel or the Special Master shall provide the respondent an opportunity to present to the panel, the Special Master, or staff of the panel, orally or in writing, a statement addressing the allegations.

b. The panel, Special Master, or the staff of the panel may interview witnesses and examine documents and other evidentiary matters.

c. The panel or Special Master may order the testimony of witnesses to be taken under oath, in which event the oath may be administered by the Chair or any other member of the panel, by the Special Master, or by any person authorized by law to administer oaths.

d. The panel or Special Master may require, by subpoena issued pursuant to these Rules or otherwise, the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of such books, records, correspondence, memoranda, papers, documents, and other items as it deems necessary to the conduct of the inquiry.

(2) Probable Cause Finding.

a. Findings.

1. The panel, by a recorded vote of a majority of the full panel, or the Special Master, as appropriate, shall determine whether there is probable cause to conclude that a violation within the jurisdiction of the panel or the Special Master has occurred.

2. If the panel or Special Master, as appropriate, finds that probable cause does not exist, the panel or Special Master shall dismiss the complaint and notify the complainant and the respondent of its determination.

3. If the panel or Special Master, as appropriate, determines that probable cause exists to believe that a violation occurred but that the violation, if proven, is neither of a de minimis nature nor sufficiently serious to justify expulsion, censure, or reprimand, the panel or Special Master may recommend an appropriate, lesser penalty or may resolve the complaint informally. If the respondent agrees, a summary of the panel's or Special Master's conclusions, as appropriate, shall be published in the House Journal and the penalty agreed upon shall be imposed. If the panel or Special Master is unable to satisfactorily settle the complaint, the complaint shall be subject to a full evidentiary hearing before the Select Committee on Standards of Official Conduct pursuant to subsection (d).

4. If the panel or Special Master determines that probable cause exists to believe that a violation occurred and that, if proven, would be sufficiently serious to justify expulsion, censure, or reprimand, the panel or Special Master shall cause to be transmitted to the respondent a Statement of Alleged Violation. The statement shall be divided into counts, and each count shall be related to a separate violation and shall contain a plain and concise statement of the alleged facts of such violation, including a reference to the provision of the House Code of Conduct or law, rule, regulation, or other standard of conduct alleged to have been violated. A copy of the statement shall also be transmitted to the Speaker.

b. Collateral Proceedings. If the complaint against a Member or officer of the House has been the subject of action before any other body, the panel or Special Master may forward the complaint directly to a hearing pursuant to subsection (d).

(d) HEARING.

(1) Select Committee on Standards of Official Conduct. Upon receipt by the Speaker of a Statement of Alleged Violation, the Speaker shall appoint, within 20 days, a Select Committee on Standards of Official Conduct (the select committee) to hold hearings regarding the statement and make a recommendation for disciplinary action to the full House. Upon the receipt by the Speaker of a complaint and findings by the Commission on Ethics regarding a Member of the House, the Speaker shall appoint, within 20 days, a Select Committee on Standards of Official Conduct to hold hearings to determine whether a violation has occurred and, if so, to make a recommendation for disciplinary action to the full House.

(2) Hearing. A hearing regarding a violation charged in a Statement of Alleged Violation or in a complaint and findings by the Commission on Ethics shall be held promptly to receive evidence upon which to base findings of fact and recommendations, if any, to the House respecting such violation.

a. Chair. The Chair of the select committee or other member presiding at a hearing shall rule upon any question of admissibility of testimony or evidence presented to the select committee. Rulings shall be final unless reversed or modified by a majority vote of the members of the select committee. If the select committee appoints a referee pursuant to subsection (i), the referee shall make all evidentiary rulings.

b. Referee. The select committee shall serve as referee for all proceedings under these Rules, unless the select committee retains an independent referee pursuant to subsection (i).

c. Prosecutor. The select committee's staff shall serve as a legal advisor to the committee. The select committee may retain independent counsel pursuant to subsection (j) to serve as prosecutor in all proceedings conducted under these Rules.

d. Respondent's Rights. The respondent shall have the right to be represented by legal counsel, to call witnesses, to introduce exhibits, and to cross-examine opposing witnesses. The respondent or respondent's counsel shall be permitted to take the deposition of the complainant in accordance with sub-subparagraph (d)(3)a.3.

e. Complainant's Rights. The complainant is not a party to any part of the complaint process or these proceedings. The complainant has no standing to challenge these Rules or procedures and has no right to appeal. The complainant may submit a list of witnesses or questions for the select committee's consideration to assist in its preparation for the hearing.

(3) Procedures.

a. Procedure and Evidence.

1. Procedure. The select committee may adopt rules of procedure as appropriate to its needs.

2. Evidence. Irrelevant, immaterial, or unduly repetitious evidence shall be excluded, but all other evidence of a type commonly relied upon by reasonably prudent persons in the conduct of their affairs shall be admissible, whether or not such evidence would be admissible in a trial in the courts of Florida. However, hearsay evidence may not be used unless same would be admissible under the Florida Rules of Evidence and it shall not be sufficient in itself to support a factual finding unless it would be admissible over objection in civil actions.

3. Discovery. Discovery may be permitted upon motion, which shall state the reason therefor. Discovery shall be in accordance with the Florida Rules of Civil Procedure, but may be limited in time, scope, and method by the Chair or the referee.

4. Testimony. The select committee shall order the testimony of witnesses to be taken under oath, in which event the oath may be administered by the Chair or a member of the select committee, by any referee appointed pursuant to subsection (i), or by any person authorized by law to administer oaths.

5. Subpoenas. The select committee may require, by subpoena issued pursuant to these Rules or otherwise, the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of such books, records, correspondence, memoranda, papers, documents, and other items as it deems necessary to the conduct of the inquiry.

b. Order of Hearing. The order of the full hearing before the select committee or the referee shall be as follows:

1. The Chair or the referee shall open the hearing by stating the select committee's authority to conduct the hearing, the purpose of the hearing, and its scope.

2. Testimony from witnesses and other evidence pertinent to the subject of the hearing shall be received in the following order, whenever possible: witnesses and other evidence offered by the independent counsel, witnesses and other evidence offered by the respondent, and rebuttal witnesses. The select committee may call witnesses at any time during the proceedings.

3. Witnesses at the hearing shall be examined first by the independent counsel. The respondent or the respondent's counsel may then cross-examine the witnesses. The members of the select committee may then question the witnesses. Redirect and recross may be permitted in the Chair's or the referee's discretion. With respect to witnesses offered by the respondent, a witness shall be examined first by the respondent or the respondent's counsel, and then may be cross-examined by the independent counsel. Members of the select committee may then question the witness. Redirect and recross may be permitted in the Chair's or the referee's discretion. Participation by the select committee at the hearing stage is at the sole discretion of the select committee and is not mandatory.

(4) Burden of Proof. At the hearing, the burden of proof rests on the appointed independent counsel to establish the facts alleged by clear and convincing evidence with respect to each count.

(e) COMMITTEE RECOMMENDED ORDER.

(1) Committee Deliberations. As soon as practicable, the select committee shall consider each count contained in a Statement of Alleged Violation or in a complaint and findings, as the case may be. A count shall not be proven unless at least a majority of the select committee votes for a motion that the count has been proved. A count that is not proved shall be considered as dismissed by the select committee.

(2) Dismissal of Complaint. After the hearing, the select committee shall, in writing, state its findings of fact. If the select committee finds that the respondent has not violated any of the provisions of the House Code of Conduct, or a law, rule, regulation, or other standard of conduct, it shall order the action dismissed and shall notify the respondent and the complainant of such action.

(3) Recommended Order.

a. Recommended Order. If the select committee finds that the respondent has violated any of the provisions of the House Code of Conduct, or a law, rule, regulation, or other standard of conduct, it shall, in writing, state its findings of fact and submit a report to the House. A copy of the report shall be sent to the respondent and the complainant and shall be published in the House Journal.

b. Penalty. With respect to any violation with which a Member or officer of the House is charged in a count that the select committee has voted as proved, the select committee may recommend to the House that the Member or officer be fined, censured, reprimanded, placed on probation, or expelled, as appropriate, or may recommend such other lesser penalty as may be appropriate.

(f) PROPOSED RECOMMENDED ORDER.

(1) Referee. When a hearing is conducted by referee, as provided in subsection (i), the referee shall prepare a proposed recommended order and file it, together with the record of the hearing, with the select committee. Copies of the proposed recommended order shall be served on all parties.

(2) Proposed Recommended Order. The proposed recommended order will contain the time and place of the hearing, appearances entered at the hearing, issues, and proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law.

(3) Exceptions. The respondent and the independent counsel may file written exceptions with the select committee in response to a referee's recommended order. Exceptions shall be filed within 20 days after service of the recommended order unless such time is extended by the referee or the Chair of the select committee.

(4) Recommended Order. The select committee shall deliberate and render a recommended order pursuant to the provisions of subsection (e).

(g) CONSENT DECREE. At any stage of the proceedings, the respondent and the select committee may agree to a consent decree. The consent decree shall state findings of fact and shall be published in the House Journal. The consent decree shall contain such penalty as may be appropriate. If the House accepts the consent decree, the complaint pursuant to these proceedings shall be resolved. If the House does not accept the consent decree, the proceedings before the select committee shall resume.

(h) CONFIDENTIALITY. Any material provided to the House in response to a complaint filed under this Rule that is confidential under applicable law shall remain confidential and shall not be disclosed except as authorized by applicable law. Except as otherwise provided in this section, a complaint and the records relating to a complaint shall be available for public inspection upon the dismissal of a complaint by the Chair of the Committee on Rules, Ethics & Elections, a determination as to probable cause or informal resolution of a complaint by a Special Master or Probable Cause Panel, or the receipt by the Speaker of a request in writing from the respondent that the complaint and other records relating to the complaint be made public records.

(i) REFEREE. The Select Committee on Standards of Official Conduct may, in its discretion and with the approval of the Speaker, employ a referee to preside over the proceedings, to hear testimony, and to make findings of fact and recommendations to the select committee concerning the disposition of complaints.

(j) INDEPENDENT COUNSEL. The Select Committee on Standards of Official Conduct is authorized to retain and compensate counsel not regularly employed by the House, as authorized by the Speaker.

(k) ATTORNEY'S FEES. When a Probable Cause Panel or a Special Master finds that probable cause does not exist or the select committee finds that the respondent has not violated any of the provisions of the House Code of Conduct or a law, rule, regulation, or other standard of conduct, the panel or Special Master or the select committee may recommend to the Speaker that the reasonable attorney's fees and costs incurred by the respondent be paid by the House. Payment of such reasonable fees and costs shall be subject to the approval of the Speaker.

(l) ELIGIBILITY; SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE. If any allegation under this Rule involves the conduct or activities of the Speaker, the duties of the Speaker pursuant to this Rule shall be transferred to the Speaker pro tempore.

(m) COLLATERAL ACTIONS.

(1) Criminal Actions. Any criminal complaints relating to Members shall be governed by these Rules.

(2) Commissions or Quasi-Judicial Agencies with Concurrent Jurisdiction. If a complaint against a Member or an officer of the House is filed with a commission or quasi-judicial agency with concurrent jurisdiction, the Chair of the Committee on Rules, Ethics & Elections, a Probable Cause Panel or a Special Master, and the Select Committee on Standards of Official Conduct shall have the discretion to refrain from processing a similar complaint until such commission or quasi-judicial agency has completed its review of the matter. If such a complaint is filed initially with the Chair of the Committee on Rules, Ethics & Elections and subsequently filed with a commission or quasi-judicial agency with concurrent jurisdiction, the Chair of the Committee on Rules, Ethics & Elections, the panel or Special Master, and the select committee shall have the discretion to suspend their proceedings until all such commissions and agencies have completed their review of the matter.

(n) EX PARTE COMMUNICATIONS.

(1) A Special Master or a member of a Probable Cause Panel or of a Select Committee on Standards of Official Conduct shall not initiate or consider any ex parte communication relative to the merits of a pending complaint proceeding by:

a. Any person engaged in prosecution or advocacy in connection with the matter; or

b. A party to the proceeding or any person who, directly or indirectly, would have a substantial interest in the action of the panel, Special Master, or select committee, or authorized representatives or counsel thereof.

(2) Except when acting in official capacity as a Special Master or as a member of a panel or select committee, a Special Master or a member of a Probable Cause Panel or of a Select Committee on Standards of Official Conduct shall not comment upon or discuss with any other person the matters that occasioned the appointment of the Special Master, panel, or select committee during the pendency of proceedings held pursuant to this Rule before the Special Master, panel, or select committee. This section shall not apply to communications initiated or considered by the Special Master or the Chair of the panel or select committee relating to a settlement pursuant to sub-subparagraph (c)(2)a.3. or to a consent decree authorized pursuant to subsection (g).

(o) TIME LIMITATIONS.

(1) On or after the effective date of these Rules, all sworn complaints alleging violation of the House Code of Conduct, including any violation of law or of the Rules and regulations of the House, shall be filed with the Committee on Rules, Ethics & Elections within 2 years after the alleged violation.

(2) A violation of the House Code of Conduct is committed when every element of the Rule has occurred and time starts to run on the day after the violation occurred.

(3) The applicable period of limitation is tolled on the day a sworn complaint against the Member or officer is filed with the Committee on Rules, Ethics & Elections. If it can be concluded from the face of the complaint that the applicable period of limitation has run, the allegations shall not be considered a complaint for the purpose of requiring action by the Chair of the Committee on Rules, Ethics & Elections. The complaint and all material related thereto shall remain confidential.

16.3—Penalties for Violations

Separately from any prosecutions or penalties otherwise provided by law, any Member determined to have violated the foregoing requirements of these Rules shall be fined, censured, reprimanded, placed on probation, or expelled, or have such other lesser penalty imposed as may be appropriate. Such determination and disciplinary action shall be taken by a two-thirds vote of the House, except that expulsions shall require two-thirds vote of the membership, upon recommendation of the select committee so designated under Rule 16.2.

Part Three—Complaints Against Lobbyists

16.4—Lobbyists

(a) OBLIGATIONS OF A LOBBYIST.

(1) A lobbyist shall supply facts, information, and opinions of principals to legislators from the point of view that the lobbyist openly declares. A lobbyist shall not offer or propose anything that may reasonably be construed to improperly influence the official act, decision, or vote of a legislator, nor shall a lobbyist attempt to improperly influence the selection of officers or employees of the House. A lobbyist, by personal example and admonition to colleagues, shall maintain the honor of the legislative process by the integrity of the lobbyist's relationship with legislators as well as with the principals whom the lobbyist represents.

(2) A lobbyist shall not knowingly and willfully falsify, conceal, or cover up, by any trick, scheme, or device, a material fact or make any false, fictitious, or fraudulent statement or representation, or make or use any writing or document knowing the same to contain any false, fictitious, or fraudulent statements or entry.

(3) No registered lobbyist shall be permitted upon the floor of the House while it is in session.

(b) ADVISORY OPINIONS; COMPILATION THEREOF. A lobbyist, when in doubt about the applicability and interpretation of subsection (a) in a particular context, shall submit in writing the facts for an advisory opinion to the Speaker, who shall either refer the issue to the House general counsel for an advisory opinion or refer the issue to a committee designated by the Speaker to have responsibility for the ethical conduct of lobbyists and may appear in person before such committee. The House general counsel or this committee shall render advisory opinions to any lobbyist who seeks advice as to whether the facts in a particular case would constitute a violation of such Rule by a lobbyist. Such opinion, until amended or revoked, shall be binding in any subsequent complaint concerning the lobbyist who sought the opinion and acted on it in good faith, unless material facts were omitted or misstated in the request for advisory opinion. Upon request of the lobbyist or any Member, the committee designated by the Speaker to have responsibility for the ethical conduct of lobbyists may revise any advisory opinion issued by the House general counsel or may revise any advisory opinion issued by the general counsel of the Office of Legislative Services under Joint Rule 1.7. The House general counsel or committee shall make sufficient deletions to prevent disclosing the identity of persons in the decisions or opinions. All advisory opinions of the House general counsel or this committee shall be numbered, dated, and published in an annual publication of the House. The Clerk shall keep a compilation of all advisory opinions of the House general counsel or committee designated by the Speaker to have responsibility for the ethical conduct of lobbyists.

16.5—Complaints of Violations Relating to Lobbyists; Procedure

(a) FILING OF COMPLAINTS. The Chair of the Committee on Rules, Ethics & Elections shall receive and initially review allegations of violations of the Rules of the House, Joint Rule 1, or violations of a law, rule, or other standard of conduct by a lobbyist.

(1) Review of Complaints. The Chair of the Committee on Rules, Ethics & Elections shall review each complaint submitted to the Committee on Rules, Ethics & Elections relating to the conduct of a lobbyist.

(2) Complaints.

a. A complaint shall be in writing and under oath, setting forth in simple, concise statements the following:

1. The name and legal address of the party filing the complaint (complainant);

2. The name and address of the lobbyist (respondent) alleged to be in violation of the Rules of the House, Joint Rule 1, or a law, rule, or other standard of conduct;

3. The nature of the alleged violation based upon the personal knowledge of the complainant, including, if possible, the specific section of the Rules of the House, Joint Rule 1, or law, rule, or other standard of conduct alleged to have been violated; and

4. The facts alleged to give rise to the violation.

b. All documents in the possession of the complainant that are relevant to, and in support of, the allegations shall be attached to the complaint.

(3) Processing Complaint and Preliminary Findings.

a. Upon the filing of a complaint, the Chair shall, within 5 working days, notify the lobbyist against whom the complaint has been filed and give such person a copy of the complaint. Within 20 days, the Chair shall take the necessary actions as provided in subparagraphs b.-g.

b. The Chair shall examine each complaint for jurisdiction and for compliance with paragraph (a)(2).

c. If the Chair determines that a complaint does not comply with such Rule, the complaint shall be returned to the complainant with a general statement that the complaint is not in compliance with such Rule and with a copy of the Rule. A complainant may resubmit a complaint, provided such complaint is resubmitted prior to the expiration of the time limitation set forth in subsection (m).

d. If the Chair determines that the verified complaint does not allege facts sufficient to constitute a violation of any of the provisions of the Rules of the House, Joint Rule 1, or a law, rule, or other standard of conduct, the Chair shall dismiss the complaint and notify the complainant and the respondent of such action.

e. If the Chair determines that the complaint is outside the jurisdiction of the House, the Chair shall dismiss the complaint and notify the complainant and the respondent of such action.

f. If the Chair determines that a violation is inadvertent, technical, or otherwise of a de minimis nature, the Chair may attempt to correct or prevent such a violation by informal means.

g. If the Chair determines that such a complaint does allege facts sufficient to constitute a violation of any of the provisions of the Rules of the House, Joint Rule 1, or a law, rule, or other standard of conduct, and that the complaint is not de minimis in nature, the Chair shall transmit a copy of the complaint to the Speaker and, in writing, request the appointment of a Probable Cause Panel or Special Master regarding the complaint. A copy of the letter shall be provided to the complainant and the respondent.

(4) Withdrawal of Complaints. A complaint may be withdrawn at any time.

(b) PROBABLE CAUSE PANEL OR SPECIAL MASTER.

(1) Creation. Whenever the Speaker receives a copy of a complaint and request made pursuant to subsection (a), the Speaker shall, within 20 days, either appoint a Probable Cause Panel (the panel) consisting of an odd number of members or appoint a Special Master. If the Speaker appoints a Probable Cause Panel, the Speaker shall also appoint one member of the panel as its Chair. The Speaker may appoint up to two additional persons who are not Members of the House to serve as nonvoting, public members of a Probable Cause Panel.

(2) Powers and Duties. The members of the panel or the Special Master shall have the following powers and duties:

a. Investigate complaints and make appropriate findings of fact promptly regarding allegations of improper conduct sufficient to establish probable cause of violation of the Rules of the House, Joint Rule 1, or a law, rule, or other standard of conduct;

b. Based upon the investigation by the Special Master or the panel, make and report findings of probable cause to the Speaker and to the House as it relates to the complaint that occasioned the appointment of the Probable Cause Panel or the Special Master;

c. Recommend to the Committee on Rules, Ethics & Elections such additional Rules or regulations as the Probable Cause Panel or the Special Master shall determine are necessary or desirable to ensure proper standards of conduct by lobbyists; and

d. Adopt rules of procedure as appropriate to its needs.

(3) Quorum. A quorum of a Probable Cause Panel, when appointed, shall consist of a majority of the members of the panel. All action by a Probable Cause Panel shall require the concurrence of a majority of the full panel.

(4) Term. A Probable Cause Panel or Special Master, as appropriate, shall serve until the complaint that occasioned the appointment of the panel or the Special Master has been dismissed or until a finding of probable cause has been transmitted to the Speaker.

(c) PRELIMINARY INVESTIGATION AND PROBABLE CAUSE FINDING.

(1) Preliminary Investigation.

a. The Probable Cause Panel or the Special Master shall provide the respondent an opportunity to present to the panel, the Special Master, or staff of the panel, orally or in writing, a statement addressing the allegations.

b. The panel, Special Master, or the staff of the panel may interview witnesses and examine documents and other evidentiary matters.

c. The panel or Special Master may order the testimony of witnesses to be taken under oath, in which event the oath may be administered by the Chair or any other member of the panel, by the Special Master, or by any person authorized by law to administer oaths.

d. The panel or Special Master may require, by subpoena issued pursuant to these Rules or otherwise, the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of such books, records, correspondence, memoranda, papers, documents, and other items as it deems necessary to the conduct of the inquiry.

(2) Probable Cause Finding.

a. The panel, by a recorded vote of a majority of the full panel, or the Special Master, as appropriate, shall determine whether there is probable cause to conclude that a violation within the jurisdiction of the panel or the Special Master has occurred.

b. If the panel or Special Master, as appropriate, finds that probable cause does not exist, the panel or Special Master shall dismiss the complaint and notify the complainant and the respondent of its determination.

c. If the panel or Special Master, as appropriate, determines that probable cause exists to believe that a violation occurred but that the violation, if proven, is neither of a de minimis nature nor sufficiently serious to justify the imposition of a penalty pursuant to Rule 16.6, the panel or Special Master may recommend an appropriate, lesser penalty or may resolve the complaint informally. If the respondent agrees, a summary of the panel's or Special Master's conclusions, as appropriate, shall be published in the House Journal and the penalty agreed upon shall be imposed. If the panel or Special Master is unable to satisfactorily settle the complaint, the complaint shall be subject to a full evidentiary hearing before the Select Committee on Lobbyist Conduct pursuant to subsection (d).

d. If the panel or Special Master determines that probable cause exists to believe that a violation occurred and that, if proven, would be sufficiently serious to justify imposition of a penalty pursuant to Rule 16.6, the panel or Special Master shall cause to be transmitted to the respondent a Statement of Alleged Violation. The statement shall be divided into counts, and each count shall be related to a separate violation and shall contain a plain and concise statement of the alleged facts of such violation, including a reference to the provision of the Rules of the House, Joint Rule 1, or law, rule, or other standard of conduct alleged to have been violated. A copy of the statement shall also be transmitted to the Speaker.

(d) HEARING.

(1) Select Committee on Lobbyist Conduct. Upon receipt by the Speaker of a Statement of Alleged Violation, the Speaker shall appoint, within 20 days, a Select Committee on Lobbyist Conduct (the select committee) to hold hearings regarding the statement and make a recommendation for disciplinary action to the full House.

(2) Hearing. A hearing regarding a violation charged in a Statement of Alleged Violation shall be held promptly to receive evidence upon which to base findings of fact and recommendations, if any, to the House respecting such violation. The hearing before the select committee shall be subject to Rule 7.18.

a. Chair. The Chair of the select committee or other member presiding at a hearing shall rule upon any question of admissibility of testimony or evidence presented to the select committee. Rulings shall be final unless reversed or modified by a majority vote of the members of the select committee. If the select committee appoints a referee pursuant to subsection (i), the referee shall make all evidentiary rulings.

b. Referee. The select committee shall serve as referee for all proceedings under these Rules, unless the select committee retains an independent referee pursuant to subsection (i).

c. Prosecutor. The select committee's staff shall serve as prosecutor in all proceedings conducted under these Rules, unless the select committee retains independent counsel pursuant to subsection (j).

d. Respondent's Rights. The respondent shall have the right to be represented by legal counsel, to call witnesses, to introduce exhibits, and to cross-examine opposing witnesses. The respondent or respondent's counsel shall be permitted to take the deposition of the complainant in accordance with sub-subparagraph (d)(3)a.3.

e. Complainant's Rights. The complainant is not a party to any part of the complaint process or these proceedings. The complainant has no standing to challenge these Rules or procedures and has no right to appeal. The complainant may submit a list of witnesses or questions for the select committee's consideration to assist in its preparation for the hearing.

(3) Procedures.

a. Procedure and Evidence.

1. Procedure. The select committee may adopt rules of procedure as appropriate to its needs.

2. Evidence. Irrelevant, immaterial, or unduly repetitious evidence shall be excluded, but all other evidence of a type commonly relied upon by reasonably prudent persons in the conduct of their affairs shall be admissible, whether or not such evidence would be admissible in a trial in the courts of Florida. However, hearsay evidence may not be used unless same would be admissible under the Florida Rules of Evidence and it shall not be sufficient in itself to support a factual finding unless it would be admissible over objection in civil actions.

3. Discovery. Discovery may be permitted upon motion, which shall state the reason therefor. Discovery shall be in accordance with the Florida Rules of Civil Procedure, but may be limited in time, scope, and method by the Chair or the referee.

4. Testimony. The select committee shall order the testimony of witnesses to be taken under oath, in which event the oath may be administered by the Chair or a member of the select committee, by any referee appointed pursuant to subsection (i), or by any person authorized by law to administer oaths.

5. Subpoenas. The select committee may require, by subpoena issued pursuant to these Rules or otherwise, the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of such books, records, correspondence, memoranda, papers, documents, and other items as it deems necessary to the conduct of the inquiry.

b. Order of Hearing. The order of the full hearing before the select committee or the referee shall be as follows:

1. The Chair or the referee shall open the hearing by stating the select committee's authority to conduct the hearing, the purpose of the hearing, and its scope.

2. Testimony from witnesses and other evidence pertinent to the subject of the hearing shall be received in the following order, whenever possible: witnesses and other evidence offered by the select committee's staff or the independent counsel, witnesses and other evidence offered by the respondent, and rebuttal witnesses. The select committee may call witnesses at any time during the proceedings.

3. Witnesses at the hearing shall be examined first by the select committee's staff or the independent counsel. The respondent or the respondent's counsel may then cross-examine the witnesses. The members of the select committee may then question the witnesses. Redirect and recross may be permitted in the Chair's or the referee's discretion. With respect to witnesses offered by the respondent, a witness shall be examined first by the respondent or the respondent's counsel, and then may be cross-examined by the select committee's staff or the independent counsel. Members of the select committee may then question the witness. Redirect and recross may be permitted in the Chair's or the referee's discretion. Participation by the select committee at the hearing stage is at the sole discretion of the select committee and is not mandatory.

(4) Burden of Proof. At the hearing, the burden of proof rests on the select committee's staff or the appointed independent counsel to establish the facts alleged by clear and convincing evidence with respect to each count.

(e) COMMITTEE RECOMMENDED ORDER.

(1) Committee Deliberations. As soon as practicable, the select committee shall consider each count contained in a Statement of Alleged Violation. A count shall not be proven unless at least a majority of the select committee votes for a motion that the count has been proved. A count that is not proved shall be considered as dismissed by the select committee.

(2) Dismissal of Complaint. After the hearing, the select committee shall, in writing, state its findings of fact. If the select committee finds that the respondent has not violated any of the provisions of the Rules of the House, Joint Rule 1, or a law, rule, or other standard of conduct, it shall order the action dismissed and shall notify the respondent and the complainant of such action.

(3) Recommended Order.

a. Recommended Order. If the select committee finds that the respondent has violated any of the provisions of the Rules of the House, Joint Rule 1, or a law, rule, or other standard of conduct, it shall, in writing, state its findings of fact and submit a report to the House. A copy of the report shall be sent to the respondent and the complainant and shall be published in the House Journal.

b. Penalty. With respect to any violation with which a lobbyist is charged in a count that the select committee has voted as proved, the select committee may recommend to the House that the lobbyist be censured, reprimanded, or prohibited from lobbying for all or any part of the legislative biennium during which the violation occurred, or such other penalty as may be appropriate.

(f) PROPOSED RECOMMENDED ORDER.

(1) Referee. When a hearing is conducted by referee, as provided in subsection (i), the referee shall prepare a proposed recommended order and file it, together with the record of the hearing, with the select committee. Copies of the proposed recommended order shall be served on all parties.

(2) Proposed Recommended Order. The proposed recommended order shall contain the time and place of the hearing, appearances entered at the hearing, issues, and proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law.

(3) Exceptions. The respondent and the independent counsel may file written exceptions with the select committee in response to a referee's recommended order. Exceptions shall be filed within 20 days after service of the recommended order unless such time is extended by the referee or the Chair of the select committee.

(4) Recommended Order. The select committee shall deliberate and render a recommended order pursuant to the provisions of subsection (e).

(g) CONSENT DECREE. At any stage of the proceedings, the respondent and the select committee may agree to a consent decree. The consent decree shall state findings of fact and shall be published in the House Journal. The consent decree shall contain such penalty as may be appropriate. If the House accepts the consent decree, the complaint pursuant to these proceedings shall be resolved. If the House does not accept the consent decree, the proceedings before the select committee shall resume.

(h) CONFIDENTIALITY. Any material provided to the House in response to a complaint filed under this Rule that is confidential under applicable law shall remain confidential and shall not be disclosed except as authorized by applicable law. Except as otherwise provided in this section, a complaint and the records relating to a complaint shall be available for public inspection upon the dismissal of a complaint by the Chair of the Committee on Rules, Ethics & Elections, a determination as to probable cause or informal resolution of a complaint by a Special Master or Probable Cause Panel, or the receipt by the Speaker of a request in writing from the respondent that the complaint and other records relating to the complaint be made public records.

(i) REFEREE. The Select Committee on Lobbyist Conduct may, in its discretion and with the approval of the Speaker, employ a referee to preside over the proceedings, to hear testimony, and to make findings of fact and recommendations to the select committee concerning the disposition of complaints.

(j) INDEPENDENT COUNSEL. The Select Committee on Lobbyist Conduct is authorized to retain and compensate counsel not regularly employed by the House, as authorized by the Speaker.

(k) ELIGIBILITY; SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE. If any allegation under this Rule involves the conduct or activities of the Speaker, the duties of the Speaker pursuant to this Rule shall be transferred to the Speaker pro tempore.

(l) EX PARTE COMMUNICATIONS.

(1) A Special Master or a member of a Probable Cause Panel or of a Select Committee on Lobbyist Conduct shall not initiate or consider any ex parte communication relative to the merits of a pending complaint proceeding by:

a. Any person engaged in prosecution or advocacy in connection with the matter; or

b. A party to the proceeding or any person who, directly or indirectly, would have a substantial interest in the action of the panel, Special Master or select committee, or authorized representatives or counsel thereof.

(2) Except when acting in official capacity as a Special Master or as a member of a panel or select committee, a Special Master or a member of a Probable Cause Panel or of a Select Committee on Lobbyist Conduct shall not comment upon or discuss with any other person the matters that occasioned the appointment of the Special Master, panel, or select committee during the pendency of proceedings held pursuant to this Rule before the Special Master, panel, or select committee. This section shall not apply to communications initiated or considered by the Special Master or the Chair of the panel or select committee relating to a settlement pursuant to subparagraph (c)(2)c. or to a consent decree authorized pursuant to subsection (g).

(m) TIME LIMITATIONS.

(1) On or after the effective date of these Rules, all sworn complaints alleging violation of the Rules of the House, Joint Rule 1, or any law, rule, or other standard of conduct by a lobbyist shall be filed with the Committee on Rules, Ethics & Elections within 2 years after the alleged violation.

(2) A violation of the Rules of the House is committed when every element of the Rule has occurred, and time starts to run on the day after the violation occurred.

(3) The applicable period of limitation is tolled on the day a sworn complaint against the lobbyist is filed with the Committee on Rules, Ethics & Elections. If it can be concluded from the face of the complaint that the applicable period of limitation has run, the allegations shall not be considered a complaint for the purpose of requiring action by the Chair of the Committee on Rules, Ethics & Elections. The complaint and all material related thereto shall remain confidential.

16.6—Penalties for Violations

Separately from any prosecutions or penalties otherwise provided by law, any person determined to have violated the foregoing requirements of these Rules, any provision in Joint Rule 1 adopted by the House and the Senate, or any law, rule, or other standard of conduct by a lobbyist may be reprimanded, censured, prohibited from lobbying for all or any part of the legislative biennium during which the violation occurred, or have such other penalty imposed as may be appropriate. Such determination shall be made by a majority of the House, upon recommendation of the select committee so designated under Rule 16.5.

JOINT RULES*Joint Rule One*Lobbyist Registration and Reporting*1.1—Those Required to Register; Exemptions; Committee Appearance Records

(1) All lobbyists before the Florida Legislature must register with the Lobbyist Registration Office in the Division of Legislative Information Services of the Office of Legislative Services, referred to in Joint Rule One as the Lobbyist Registration Office. Registration is required for each principal represented.

(2) As used in this rule, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) “Designated lobbyist” means the lobbyist who is appointed, by a principal represented by two or more lobbyists, to file expenditure reports that include lobbying expenditures made directly by the principal.

(b) “Legislative action” means introduction, sponsorship, testimony, debate, voting, or any other official action on any measure, resolution, amendment, nomination, appointment, or report of, or any matter which may be the subject of action by, either house of the Legislature or any committee thereof.

(c) “Lobby” or “lobbying” means influencing or attempting to influence legislative action or nonaction through oral or written communication or an attempt to obtain the goodwill of a member or employee of the Legislature.

(d) “Lobbyist” means a person who is employed and receives payment, or who contracts for economic consideration, for the purpose of lobbying, or a person who is principally employed for governmental affairs by another person or governmental entity to lobby on behalf of that other person or governmental entity. An employee of the principal is not a “lobbyist” unless the employee is principally employed for governmental affairs. “Principally employed for governmental affairs” means that one of the principal or most significant responsibilities of the employee to the employer is overseeing the employer’s various relationships with government or representing the employer in its contacts with government. Any person employed by any executive, judicial, or quasi-judicial department of the state or any community college of the state who seeks to encourage the passage, defeat, or modification of any legislation by personal appearance or attendance before the House of Representatives or the Senate, or any member or committee thereof, is a lobbyist.

(e) “Payment” or “salary” means wages or any other consideration provided in exchange for services, but does not include reimbursement for expenses.

(f) “Principal” means the person, firm, corporation, or other entity that has employed or retained a lobbyist. When an association has employed or retained a lobbyist, the association is the principal; the individual members of the association are not principals merely because of their membership in the association.

(3) For purposes of this rule, the terms “lobby” and “lobbying” do not include any of the following:

(a) Response to an inquiry for information made by any member, committee, or staff of the Legislature.

(b) An appearance in response to a legislative subpoena.

(c) Advice or services that arise out of a contractual obligation with the Legislature, a member, a committee, any staff, or any legislative entity to render the advice or services where such obligation is fulfilled through the use of public funds.

(d) Representation of a client before the House of Representatives or the Senate, or any member or committee thereof, when the client is subject to disciplinary action by the House of Representatives or the Senate, or any member or committee thereof.

(4) For purposes of registration and reporting, the term “lobbyist” does not include any of the following:

(a) A member of the Legislature.

(b) A person who is employed by the Legislature.

(c) A judge who is acting in that judge’s official capacity.

(d) A person who is a state officer holding elective office or an officer of a political subdivision of the state holding elective office and who is acting in that officer’s official capacity.

(e) A person who appears as a witness or for the purpose of providing information at the written request of the chair of a committee, subcommittee, or legislative delegation.

(f) A person employed by any executive, judicial, or quasi-judicial department of the state or community college of the state who makes a personal appearance or attendance before the House of Representatives or the Senate, or any member or committee thereof, while that person is on approved leave or outside normal working hours, and who does not otherwise meet the definition of lobbyist.

(5) When a person, whether or not the person is registered as a lobbyist, appears before a committee of the Legislature, that person must submit a Committee Appearance Record on a form to be provided by the respective house.

1.2—Method of Registration

(1) Each person who is required to register under Joint Senate and House Rule 1.1 must register on forms furnished by the Lobbyist Registration Office, on which that person must state, under oath, that person’s full legal name, driver’s license number, business address, and phone number, the name and business address of each principal that person represents, the areas of that person’s legislative interest, and the extent of any direct business association or partnership that person has with any member of the Legislature. The Lobbyist Registration Office or its designee is authorized to acknowledge the oath of any person who registers in person. Any changes to the information provided in the registration form must be reported to the Lobbyist Registration Office in writing within 15 days on forms furnished by the Lobbyist Registration Office.

(2) Any person required to register must do so with respect to each principal prior to commencement of lobbying on behalf of that principal. At the time of registration, the registrant shall provide a statement signed by the principal or principal’s representative that the registrant is authorized to represent the principal. Any person required to register must renew the registration annually, in accordance with Joint Senate and House Rule 1.3.

(3) If a principal is represented by two or more lobbyists, the first lobbyist who registers to represent that principal shall be the designated lobbyist. The principal may change its designated lobbyist at any time in writing on forms furnished by the Lobbyist Registration Office. Upon termination of the designated lobbyist’s representation, the principal shall notify the Lobbyist Registration Office within 15 days, on forms furnished by the office, of the appointment of a new designated lobbyist.

(4) A lobbyist shall promptly send a notice to the Lobbyist Registration Office, on forms furnished by the Lobbyist Registration

Office, cancelling the registration for a principal upon termination of the lobbyist's representation of that principal. A notice of cancellation takes effect the day it is received by the Lobbyist Registration Office. Notwithstanding this requirement, the Lobbyist Registration Office may remove the name of a lobbyist from the list of registered lobbyists if the principal notifies the Lobbyist Registration Office that the lobbyist is no longer authorized to represent that principal. Each lobbyist shall file an expenditure report for each period during any portion of which he or she was registered, and each principal shall ensure that an expenditure report is filed for each period during any portion of which the principal was represented by a registered lobbyist.

(5) The Lobbyist Registration Office shall publish on the first Monday of each regular session and weekly thereafter through the end of that session a compilation of the names of persons who have registered and the information contained in their registrations.

(6) The Lobbyist Registration Office shall retain all original documents submitted under this section.

(7) A person who is required to register under this rule, or who chooses to register, shall be considered a lobbyist of the Legislature for the purposes of sections 112.3148 and 112.3149, Florida Statutes, relating to the reporting of and the prohibited receipt of gifts and honoraria.

1.3—Registration Costs; Exemptions

(1) To cover the costs incurred in administering this joint policy, each person who registers under Joint Senate and House Rule 1.1 must pay an annual registration fee to the Lobbyist Registration Office. The annual period runs from January 1 to December 31. These fees must be paid at the time of registration.

(2) The following persons are exempt from paying the fee, provided they are designated in writing by the agency head or person designated in this subsection:

- (a) Two employees of each department of the executive branch created under chapter 20, Florida Statutes.
- (b) Two employees of the Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission.
- (c) Two employees of the Executive Office of the Governor.
- (d) Two employees of the Commission on Ethics.
- (e) Two employees of the Florida Public Service Commission.
- (f) Two employees of the judicial branch designated in writing by the Chief Justice of the Florida Supreme Court.

(3) The annual fee is up to $50 per each house for a person to register to represent one principal and up to an additional $10 per house for each additional principal that the person registers to represent. The amount of each fee shall be established annually by the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives. The fees set shall be adequate to ensure operation of the lobbyist registration and reporting operations of the Lobbyist Registration Office. The fees collected by the Lobbyist Registration Office under this joint policy shall be deposited in the State Treasury and credited to the Legislative Lobbyist Registration Trust Fund specifically to cover the costs incurred in administering this joint policy.

1.4—Periodic Reports Required

(1) REPORTING DATES.—Each person who registers pursuant to Joint Senate and House Rule 1.2 must submit to the Lobbyist Registration Office, on forms provided by the Lobbyist Registration Office and for each reporting period required by this rule, a signed and certified statement listing all lobbying expenditures during the reporting period and the sources of funds for those expenditures as required in this rule. Reporting statements shall be filed no later than 45 days after the end of the reporting period. Only two reports are required each calendar year. The first report shall disclose expenditures made from January 1 through June 30. The second report shall disclose expenditures for July 1 through December 31. It is the intent of this rule that each reporting period be separate from the other reporting period and that each expenditure be reported just once. In addition, any reporting statement may be filed by electronic means, when feasible.

(2) TIMELINESS OF REPORTS.—Reports shall be filed not later than 5 p.m. of the report due date. However, any report that is postmarked by the United States Postal Service no later than midnight of the due date shall be deemed to have been filed in a timely manner. A certificate of mailing obtained from and dated by the United States Postal Service at the time of the mailing, or a receipt from an established courier company which bears a date on or before the due date, shall be proof of mailing in a timely manner.

(3) LOBBYIST'S EXPENDITURE REPORT.—

(a) The Lobbyist's Expenditure Report shall include the name of the lobbyist and the name of the principal on whom the report is prepared. Expenditures for the reporting period shall be reported by the following categories: Food and Beverages; Entertainment; Research; Communications; Media Advertising; Publications; Travel; Lodging; Special Events; and Other. For each expenditure category, the report must identify the amount paid directly by the lobbyist, directly by the principal, initiated or expended by the lobbyist and paid for by the principal, or initiated or expended by the principal and paid for by the lobbyist. Forms shall be provided by the Lobbyist Registration Office.

(b) A lobbyist shall file a Lobbyist's Expenditure Report for each principal represented.

(c) When a principal has two or more lobbyists, the designated lobbyist will be responsible for filing a report that discloses the expenditures made directly by the principal and the expenditures of the designated lobbyist on behalf of the principal. The designated lobbyist is responsible for making a good faith effort to obtain the figures reported as lobbying expenditures made by the principal.

(d) When there are multiple lobbyists, only the designated lobbyist is to report expenditures made directly by the principal. When there are multiple lobbyists, only unduplicated amounts should be reported for expenditures initiated or expended by the lobbyist and paid for by the principal.

(e) The principal is responsible for the accuracy of the figures submitted to the lobbyist for reporting, and the lobbyist is responsible for the accuracy of the figures reported as lobbying expenditures made by that lobbyist. The principal shall sign the expenditure report submitted by the principal's sole or designated lobbyist.

(4) EXPENDITURES.—

(a) Definitions.—

1. "Expenditure" means a payment, distribution, loan, advance, reimbursement, deposit, or anything of value made or controlled, directly or indirectly, by a lobbyist or principal for the purpose of lobbying. Expenditures shall be accounted for and reported on an accrual accounting basis.

2. "Accrual accounting basis" means the method of accounting that recognizes expenses during the period in which they are incurred regardless of when they are actually paid.

(b) Goodwill expenditures.—An expenditure shall be considered to have been intended to be for the purpose of engendering goodwill if it is a gift, an entertainment, any food or beverage, or any other item or service of similar personal benefit to a member or an employee of the Legislature, unless the member or employee is a relative of the lobbyist. A relative is an individual who is related to the member or employee as father, mother, son, daughter, brother, sister, uncle, aunt, first cousin, nephew, niece, husband, wife, father-in-law, mother-in-law, son-in-law, daughter-in-law, brother-in-law, sister-in-law, stepfather, stepmother, stepson, stepdaughter, stepbrother, stepsister, half brother, half sister, grandparent, great grandparent, grandchild, great grandchild, step grandparent, step great grandparent, step grandchild, or step great grandchild; any person who is engaged to be married to the member or employee or who otherwise holds himself or herself out as or is generally known as the person whom the member or employee intends to marry or with whom the member or employee intends to form a household; or any other natural person having the same legal residence as the member or employee.

(c) Expenditure categories.—Each reporting individual shall make a good faith effort to report an expenditure and to report it in the appropriate category. If an expenditure fits in two or more categories, it shall be reported in the category to which the expense primarily relates. When an expenditure is not within any defined category, it should be reported in the “Other” category. The categories of expenditures used in this rule are as follows:

1.a. “Communications” means dissemination of information, including, but not limited to, by means of the following:

- I. Audio-visual materials; and
- II. Signs, placards, banners, buttons, promotional materials, and other display materials; together with any associated production services.

b. This category does not include media advertising, publications, or research.

2. “Entertainment” means amusement or recreation, including, but not limited to, sporting, hunting, fishing, theatrical, artistic, cultural, and musical activities or events.

3. “Food and Beverages” means meals, snacks or other edible substances, or liquids for drinking, including services associated therewith.

4. “Lodging” means sleeping or living accommodations for an individual for one or more nights.

5. “Media Advertising” means newspaper and magazine advertising, radio and television advertising, and outdoor advertising, including production services and copywriting services.

6. “Other” means any item or service that is not included within one of the specified categories, but does not include any item or service that is not required by law to be reported.

7. “Publications” means mass-produced, printed materials, including, but not limited to, magazines, newsletters, brochures, or pamphlets, which expressly encourage persons to communicate with members or employees of the Legislature to influence the official actions of members or employees of the Legislature or which are designed to communicate with members or employees of the Legislature.

8. “Research” means procurement of information relating to a specific issue, regardless of the form or medium in which that information is provided, including, but not limited to, surveys, bill-tracking services, information services, periodicals, and consultants or consultant services to gather data or statistics.

9. “Special Events” means large-scale occurrences, including, but not limited to, receptions, banquets, dinners, or legislative days, to which more than 250 persons are invited and for which the expenditures associated with hosting the occurrence are negotiated with a catering service or facility at a single, set price or which include multiple expenditure categories.

10. “Travel” means transporting an individual from one place to another, regardless of the means used.

(d) Items that are not expenditures.—The term “expenditure” does not include:

1. Contributions or expenditures reported pursuant to chapter 106, Florida Statutes; campaign-related personal services provided without compensation by individuals volunteering their time; or any other contribution or expenditure by a political party.

2. A lobbyist’s or principal’s salary, office expenses, and personal expenses for lodging, meals, and travel. If the principal is a firm, corporation, association, or person, other than a natural person, the office expenses of the entity and the salaries of the officers of the entity, as well as expenses for their lodging, meals, and travel, are not lobbying expenditures. Office expenses include, but are not limited to, payment or obligation for rent or mortgage, utilities, postage, telephone service, employees’ salaries, furniture, copies, computers, software, paper supplies, and custodial or maintenance services. Communications, publications, and research are office expenses if performed or produced by the lobbyist or principal or their employees. If those functions are performed by independent contractors, other than the lobbyist or principal or an affiliate controlled by the principal, they are expenditures reportable under the appropriate expenditure category.

3. If an expense is incurred for a nonlobbying business purpose and the product of that expense is later used for a lobbying purpose, a reportable expenditure is not created.

(e) Valuation of expenditures.—

1. In calculating the amount of aggregate expenditures, a lobbyist or principal may, prior to prorating, round each entry up or down to the nearest $5. A record is not required to be maintained for any amount that rounds to zero.

2. The amount to be reported for an expenditure shall be determined using the actual cost to the lobbyist or principal or other person making the payment on behalf of the lobbyist or principal, less any compensation received by such lobbyist or principal in payment for the object of the expenditure. If a lobbyist or principal makes a contribution to an expenditure by another lobbyist or principal, the person making the contribution shall report the amount of the contribution as an expenditure, and the person receiving the contribution shall subtract the value of the contribution from the expenditure to be reported by that person.

3. When a lobbyist has multiple principals, expenditures made for the purpose of engendering goodwill that are not attributable to one principal may be prorated among the lobbyist’s principals or may be attributed to one principal.

4. When a lobbyist has multiple principals, expenditures for research or other expenditures that may benefit several principals may be reported to the principal for whom the research was done or other expenditures incurred or prorated to those principals that may benefit from the research or other expenditures.

5. The amount reported as an expenditure shall not include the amount of any additional expenses that are required as a condition precedent to eligibility to make an expenditure if the amount expended for the condition precedent is primarily intended to be for a purpose other than lobbying or if it is paid to a charitable organization. If the amount expended for the condition precedent is primarily intended to be for a lobbying purpose and is not paid to a charitable organization, the total amount of the expenditure shall be reported as a lobbying expenditure. Initiation fees, membership fees, and booster fees are examples, although not exclusive examples, of additional expenses that are regularly required as conditions precedent for eligibility to make other expenditures.

6. A person providing transportation in a private automobile shall be considered to be making an expenditure at the rate of 29 cents per mile, and the amount of an expenditure made for transportation provided in other private conveyances shall be determined in accordance with the provisions of section 112.3148(7), Florida Statutes.

7. A person providing lodging in a private residence shall be considered to be making an expenditure of $29 per night.

8. Expenditures made for more than one person may be attributed, on a pro rata basis, among all of the persons for whom the expenditure is made.

(5) AGGREGATION OF EXPENDITURE FIGURES.—For each reporting period, the Lobbyist Registration Office shall aggregate the expenditures reported by all of the lobbyists for a principal represented by more than one lobbyist. Following the last report for each calendar year, the Lobbyist Registration Office shall provide a total of expenditures reported as spent by and on behalf of each principal for that calendar year.

1.5—Penalties for Late Filing

(1) Upon determining that a report is late, the person designated to review the timeliness of reports shall immediately notify the lobbyist as to the failure to timely file the report and that a fine is being assessed for each late day. The fine shall be $50 per day per report for each late day, not to exceed $5,000 per report.

(2) Upon receipt of the report, the person designated to review the timeliness of reports shall determine the amount of the fine due based upon the earliest of the following:

(a) When a report is actually received by the lobbyist registration and reporting office;

(b) When the report is postmarked;

(c) When the certificate of mailing is dated; or

(d) When the receipt from an established courier company is dated.

(3) Such fine shall be paid within 30 days after the notice of payment due is transmitted by the Lobbyist Registration Office, unless appeal is made to the Lobbyist Registration Office. The moneys shall be deposited into the Legislative Lobbyist Registration Trust Fund.

(4) A fine shall not be assessed against a lobbyist the first time any reports for which the lobbyist is responsible are not timely filed. However, to receive this one-time fine waiver, all reports for which the lobbyist is responsible must be filed within 30 days after notice that any reports have not been timely filed is transmitted by the Lobbyist Registration Office. A fine shall be assessed for any subsequent late-filed reports.

(5) A lobbyist, a lobbyist's legal representative, or the principal of a lobbyist may request that the filing of an expenditure report be waived upon good cause shown, based on unusual circumstances. The request must be filed with the General Counsel of the Office of Legislative Services, who shall make a recommendation concerning the waiver request to the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives. The President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives may grant or deny the request. The registration of a lobbyist who fails to timely pay a fine is automatically suspended until the fine is paid or waived.

(6) The person designated to review the timeliness of reports shall notify the director of the division of the failure of a lobbyist to file a report after notice or of the failure of a lobbyist to pay the fine imposed.

1.6—Appeal of Fines; Hearings; Unusual Circumstances

(1) A lobbyist wishing to appeal or dispute a fine imposed in accordance with Joint Senate and House Rule 1.5 shall file with the Lobbyist Registration Office a notice of appeal within 30 days after the notice of payment due is transmitted by the Lobbyist Registration Office, setting out with specificity the unusual circumstances surrounding the failure to file on the designated due date. A request for a hearing on the matter before the General Counsel of the Office of Legislative Services must be made within the same 30-day period. The notice of appeal may be accompanied by any documentation or evidence supporting the claim. Failure to timely file a notice of appeal as described in this subsection shall constitute a waiver of the right to appeal or to dispute a fine.

(2) The President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives may waive the fine in whole or in part for good cause shown based on the unusual circumstances presented by the lobbyist.

(3) The term "unusual circumstances" for the purposes of this rule means uncommon, rare, or sudden events over which the person has no control and which directly result in the failure to meet the filing requirements.

(4) The Department of Banking and Finance shall collect any fine that is not timely paid.

1.7—Questions Regarding Registration

(1) A person may request in writing an informal opinion from the general counsel of the Office of Legislative Services as to the application of this rule to a specific situation. The general counsel shall issue the opinion within 10 days after receiving the request. The informal opinion may be relied upon by the person who requested the informal opinion. A copy of each informal opinion which is issued shall be provided to the presiding officer of each house. The committees designated under section 11.045(4), Florida Statutes, may revise any informal opinion rendered by the general counsel through an advisory opinion to the person who requested the informal opinion. The advisory opinion shall supersede the informal opinion as of the date the advisory opinion is issued.

(2) Persons in doubt about the applicability or interpretation of this rule may submit in writing the facts for an advisory opinion to the committee of either house designated pursuant to section 11.045(4), Florida Statutes, and may appear in person before the committee in accordance with section 11.045(4), Florida Statutes.

1.8—Open Records

All of the lobbyist registration and expenditure reports received by the Lobbyist Registration Office shall be available for public inspection and for duplication at reasonable cost.

1.9—Records Retention and Inspection

Each lobbyist and each principal shall preserve for a period of 4 years all accounts, bills, receipts, computer records, books, papers, and other documents and records necessary to substantiate lobbying expenditures. Upon receipt of a complaint based upon the personal knowledge of the complainant made pursuant to the Senate Rules or Rules of the House of Representatives, any such documents and records may be inspected when authorized by the President of the Senate or the Speaker of the House of Representatives, as applicable. The person authorized to perform the inspection shall be designated in writing and shall be a member of The Florida Bar or a certified public accountant licensed in Florida. Any information obtained by such an inspection may only be used for purposes authorized by law, this rule, Senate Rules, or Rules of the House of Representatives, which purposes may include the imposition of sanctions against a person subject to this rule or Senate Rules or the Rules of the House of Representatives. Any employee who uses that information for an unauthorized purpose is subject to discipline. Any member who uses that information for an unauthorized purpose is subject to discipline under the applicable rules of each house. The right of inspection may be enforced by appropriate writ issued by any court of competent jurisdiction.

Joint Rule Two

General Appropriations Review Period

2.1—General Appropriations Bill; Review Period

(1) A general appropriations bill shall be subject to a 72-hour public review period before a vote is taken on final passage of the bill in the form that will be presented to the Governor.

(2) If a bill is returned to the house in which the bill originated and the originating house does not concur in all the amendments or adds additional amendments, no further action shall be taken on the bill by the nonoriginating house, and a conference committee shall be established by operation of this rule to consider the bill.

(3) If a bill is referred to a conference committee by operation of this rule, a 72-hour public review period shall be provided prior to a vote being taken on the conference committee report by either house.

(4) A copy of the bill, a copy of the bill with amendments adopted by the nonoriginating house, or the conference committee report shall be furnished to each member of the Legislature, the Governor, the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, and each member of the Cabinet. Copies for the Governor, Chief Justice, and members of the Cabinet shall be furnished to the official's office in the Capitol or Supreme Court Building. A member's copy shall be furnished to the member's desk in the appropriate chamber. The Secretary of the Senate shall be responsible for furnishing copies under this rule for Senate bills, House bills as amended by the Senate, and conference committee reports on Senate bills. The Clerk of the House shall be responsible for furnishing copies under this rule for House bills, Senate bills as amended by the House, and conference committee reports on House bills.

(5) The 72-hour public review period shall begin to run upon completion of the furnishing of copies required to be provided herein. The Speaker of the House and the President of the Senate, as appropriate, shall be informed of the completion time and such time shall be announced on the floor prior to vote on final passage in each house and shall be entered in the journal of each house. Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays shall be included in the computation under this rule.

2.2—General Appropriations Bill; Definition

For the purposes of Joint Rule 2, the term "general appropriations bill" means a bill which provides for the salaries of public officers and other current expenses of the state and contains no subject other than appropriations. A bill which contains appropriations which are incidental and necessary solely to implement a substantive law is not included within this term.

Joint Rule Three

Legislative Support Services

3.1—Organizational Structure

The Legislature shall be supported by the Office of Legislative Services, the Office of Legislative Information Technology Services, and the Office of Economic and Demographic Research. These offices shall provide support services that are determined by the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives to be necessary and that can be effectively provided jointly to both houses and other units of the Legislature. Each office shall be directed by a coordinator selected by the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives.

(1) The Office of Legislative Services shall provide legislative support services other than those prescribed in subsections (2) and (3). The Division of Statutory Revision and the Division of Legislative Information shall be two of the divisions within the Office of Legislative Services.

(2) The Office of Legislative Information Technology Services shall provide support services to assist the Legislature in achieving its objectives through the application of cost-effective information technology.

(3) The Office of Economic and Demographic Research shall provide research support services, principally regarding forecasting economic and social trends that affect policymaking, revenues, and appropriations.

3.2—Policies

The President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives shall jointly adopt policies they consider advisable to carry out the functions of the Legislature.

Joint Rule Four

Joint Legislative Auditing Committee

4.1—Responsibilities

(1) On or before December 31 of the year following each decennial census, the Legislative Auditing Committee shall review the performance of the Auditor General and shall submit a report to the Legislature which recommends whether the Auditor General should continue to serve in office.

(2) The expenses of the members of the committee shall be approved by the chair of the committee and paid from the appropriation for legislative expense.

(3) The committee shall submit to the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives, for approval, an estimate of the financial needs of the committee, the Auditor General, the Office of Program Policy Analysis and Government Accountability, and the Public Counsel.

(4) The committee and the units it oversees, including the Auditor General, the Office of Program Policy Analysis and Government Accountability, and the Public Counsel, shall submit their budget requests and operating budgets to the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives for prior written approval by the presiding officers acting together.

(5) The committee may receive requests for audits and reviews from legislators. Staff of the committee shall review each request and make a recommendation to the committee concerning its disposition. The manner of disposition recommended may be:

(a) Assignment to the Auditor General for inclusion in a regularly scheduled agency audit;

(b) Assignment to the Auditor General for special audit or review;

(c) Assignment to the Office of Program Policy Analysis and Government Accountability for inclusion in a regularly scheduled performance audit;

(d) Assignment to the Office of Program Policy Analysis and Government Accountability for special audit or review;

(e) Assignment to committee staff; or

(f) Rejection as being an unnecessary or inappropriate application of legislative resources.

(6) The committee may at any time, without regard to whether the Legislature is in session, take under investigation any matter within the scope of an audit either completed or then being conducted by the Auditor General or the Office of Program Policy Analysis and Government Accountability, and in connection with such investigation may exercise the powers of subpoena by law vested in a standing committee of the Legislature.

(7) The committee shall review the performance of the director of the Office of Program Policy Analysis and Government Accountability every 4 years and shall submit a report to the Legislature recommending whether the director should be reappointed. A vacancy in the office must be filled in the same manner as the original appointment.

Joint Rule Five

Auditor General

5.1—Rulemaking Authority

The Auditor General shall make and enforce reasonable rules and regulations necessary to facilitate audits that he or she is authorized to perform.

5.2—Budget and Accounting

(1) The Auditor General shall prepare and submit annually to the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives for their joint approval a proposed budget for the ensuing fiscal year.

(2) Within the limitations of the approved operating budget, the salaries and expenses of the Auditor General and the staff of the Auditor General shall be paid from the appropriation for legislative expense or any other moneys appropriated by the Legislature for that purpose. The Auditor General shall approve all bills for salaries and expenses for his or her staff before the same shall be paid.

5.3—Audit Report Distribution

(1) A copy of each audit report shall be submitted to the Governor, to the Comptroller, and to the officer or person in charge of the state agency or political subdivision audited. One copy shall be filed as a permanent public record in the office of the Auditor General. In the case of county reports, one copy of the report of each county office, school district, or other district audited shall be submitted to the board of county commissioners of the county in which the audit was made and shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the circuit court of that county as a public record. When an audit is made of the records of the district school board, a copy of the audit report shall also be filed with the district school board, and thereupon such report shall become a part of the public records of such board.

(2) A copy of each audit report shall be made available to each member of the Legislative Auditing Committee.

(3) The Auditor General shall transmit a copy of each audit report to the appropriate substantive and fiscal committees of the Senate and House of Representatives.

(4) Other copies may be furnished to other persons who, in the opinion of the Auditor General, are directly interested in the audit or who have a duty to perform in connection therewith.

(5) The Auditor General shall transmit to the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives, by December 1 of each year, a list of statutory and fiscal changes recommended by audit reports. The recommendations shall be presented in two categories: one addressing substantive law and policy issues and the other addressing budget issues. The Auditor General may also transmit recommendations at other times of the year when the information would be timely and useful for the Legislature.

Joint Rule Six*Office of Program Policy Analysis and Government Accountability*6.1—Responsibilities of the Director

(1) The director may adopt and enforce reasonable rules necessary to facilitate the studies, reviews, and reports that the office is authorized to perform.

(2) The director shall prepare and submit annually to the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives for their joint approval the annual projected work plan of the office in conjunction with a proposed operating budget for the ensuing fiscal year.

(3) Within the monetary limitations of the approved operating budget, the salaries and expenses of the director and the staff of the Office of Program Policy Analysis and Government Accountability shall be paid from the appropriation for legislative expense or any other moneys appropriated by the Legislature for that purpose. The director shall approve all bills for salaries and expenses before the same shall be paid.

(4) Within the monetary limitations of the approved operating budget, the director shall make all spending decisions, including entering into contracts on behalf of the Office of Program Policy Analysis and Government Accountability.

(5) The director shall transmit to the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives, by December 1 of each year, a list of statutory and fiscal changes recommended by office reports. The recommendations shall be presented in two categories: one addressing substantive law and policy issues and the other addressing budget issues. The director may also transmit recommendations at other times of the year when the information would be timely and useful for the Legislature.

Joint Rule Seven*Joint Legislative Budget Commission*7.1—General Responsibilities

(1) The commission, as provided in chapter 216, Florida Statutes, shall receive and review notices of budget and personnel actions and proposed actions taken or to be taken by the executive and judicial branches and shall approve or disapprove such actions.

(2) Through the chairman, the commission shall advise the Governor and the Chief Justice of actions or proposed actions that exceed delegated authority or that are contrary to legislative policy and intent.

(3) To the extent possible, the commission shall inform members of the Legislature of budget amendments requested by the executive or judicial branches.

(4) The commission shall consult with the Comptroller and the Executive Office of the Governor on matters as required by chapter 216, Florida Statutes.

(5) The President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives may jointly assign other responsibilities to the commission in addition to those assigned by law.

(6) The commission shall develop policies and procedures necessary to carry out its assigned responsibilities.

(7) The commission, with the approval of the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives, may appoint subcommittees as necessary to facilitate its work.

7.2—Zero-based Budgeting

(1) The commission shall develop a schedule and apply zero-based budgeting principles in reviewing the budget of each state agency at least once every 8 years.

(2) By July 1 of each year, the commission shall issue instructions to the agencies whose budgets are to be reviewed prior to the next legislative session.

(3) The commission shall provide these reviews to the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives by December 31 of the year in which they are completed.

(4) By February 1, 2001, the commission shall provide to the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives a schedule for completing zero-based budgeting reviews of all state agencies prior to December 31, 2008.

7.3—Organizational Structure

(1) The commission shall be composed of seven members of the Senate appointed by the President of the Senate and seven members of the House of Representatives appointed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives. The appointees shall include the chairman of the Fiscal Responsibility Council in the House of Representatives and the chairman of the Committee on Appropriations in the Senate.

(2) The members of the commission shall elect a chairman and a vice chairman. In even-numbered years, a Senator shall be chairman and a House member vice chairman. In odd-numbered years, a House member shall be chairman and a Senator vice chairman.

(3) The commission shall meet at least quarterly and more frequently at the direction of the presiding officers or the chairman. Meetings may be conducted through teleconferences or other electronic means.

(4) A quorum shall consist of a majority of the commission members of each house plus one additional member of the commission.

(5) Action by the commission shall require a majority vote of the members present of each house.

(6) The commission shall be jointly staffed by the appropriations committees of both houses. During even-numbered years, the Senate shall provide the lead staff. During odd-numbered years, the House of Representatives shall provide the lead staff.

7.4—Notice of Commission Meetings

Not less than 7 days prior to a meeting of the commission, a notice of the meeting, stating the items to be considered, date, time, and place, shall be filed with the Secretary of the Senate when the chairman is a Senator or with the Clerk of the House of Representatives when the chairman is a Representative. The Secretary or the Clerk shall distribute notice to the Legislature and the public, consistent with the rules and policies of their respective houses.

Joint Rule Eight

Continuing Existence of Joint Rules

8.1—Continuing Existence of Joint Rules

All joint rules adopted by concurrent resolution, and amendments thereto, shall continue in effect from session to session or Legislature to Legislature until repealed by concurrent resolution.

The Journal OF THE House of Representatives

Number 2

Wednesday, March 7, 2001

The House was called to order by the Speaker at 12:30 p.m.

Prayer

The following prayer was offered by the Reverend Wes White of Calvary Assembly of God of Dade City, upon invitation of Rep. Littlefield:

Father God, in these tumultuous times, we feel overwhelmed with the responsibility that lies before us. Once again, violence has visited our schools. Homes face crushing pressures. Marriages are disintegrating at an alarming rate and the traditional family is rapidly becoming an antiquated concept. The needs of the aged are real and multiply daily. These leaders that You've appointed to this branch of government now desperately need divine direction. May they move in a bipartisan fashion, accomplishing much to stem the mounting tide of pressure facing the citizenry of this great state.

My prayer is not so much that You would be on a given side, but that each of these individuals, entrusted to accomplish Your purposes for the future of this state, would strive to be on Your side. That the principles set forward so long ago, yet remaining timeless, would guide their decisions for this great state. My prayer is that they would not seek Your blessing for their agendas, but rather they would passionately seek Your agenda.

Give each of these leaders the gifts necessary to discern the times and to know what to do. Allow them to understand that before one goes forward in leadership, he must surrender to follow, for leadership is learned in submission to authority, in earth as it is in heaven.

As these our chosen leaders ascend to power, teach them they must first descend to servanthood. May they regularly see the faces of those they have sworn to serve and may their causes ring loudly in the ears of these, Your ordained servants.

In Your name we pray. Amen.

Reports of Select Committees

The Honorable Tom Feeney, Speaker
Florida House of Representatives

February 20, 2001

Dear Mr. Speaker:

By letter dated November 21, 2000, you referred an Election Contest filed on November 6, 2000 in District 17, by James F. Tullis to the Select Committee to Review Charges of a Contested Seat. Accordingly, a committee meeting was scheduled for December 18, 2000. Notice of the meeting was provided to both Mr. James Tullis, through Attorney John Forbes, and to Mr. Stan Jordan.

By letter dated December 18, 2000, and received by the Council via facsimile the same day, the Contestant informed the Select Committee that he was withdrawing his petition. Therefore, the Select Committee makes no finding or recommendation with regard to the allegations of the election contest.

Sincerely,

Rep. Johnnie B. Byrd, Jr., Chair	Rep. Larry Crow
District 62	District 49
Rep. Will S. Kendrick	Rep. Randy J. Ball
District 10	District 29
Rep. Ron Greenstein
District 95

On motion by Rep. Byrd, the House adopted the report by the Select Committee to Review Charges of a Contested Seat.

Motions Relating to Committee or Council References

On motion by Rep. Smith, agreed to by two-thirds vote, HB 325 was withdrawn from further consideration of the House.

CS/CS/HB 273—A bill to be entitled An act relating to reporting requirements under the Florida Election Code; amending s. 106.011, F.S.; modifying the definitions of "political committee" and "communications media"; amending s. 106.03, F.S.; requiring additional information for registration of political committees; amending s. 106.04, F.S.; requiring additional information for certification of committees of continuous existence; revising reporting periods and requirements; requiring electronic filing under certain circumstances; requiring membership dues of committees of continuous existence to be reported in the same manner as regular contributions; removing requirement to provide a membership list for inspection purposes; removing requirement for filing duplicate copies of reports; providing penalties; amending s. 106.07, F.S., relating to campaign treasurer's reports; revising reporting periods and requirements; removing requirement for duplicate reports; providing penalties; creating s. 106.0705, F.S.; requiring campaign treasurer's reports that are to be filed with the Division of Elections to be filed electronically when aggregate contributions or expenditures exceed a specified amount; providing filing requirements; providing penalties; providing rulemaking authority; amending s. 106.071, F.S.; revising provisions relating to the reporting of certain independent expenditures; providing penalties; creating s. 106.073, F.S.; requiring certain organizations that sponsor campaign-related advertisements to register under certain circumstances; providing definitions; requiring certain reports; providing requirements for such advertisements, including a disclaimer; providing penalties; providing rulemaking authority; amending s. 106.12, F.S.; revising the petty cash fund limit to conform to the revised reporting periods; amending s. 106.29, F.S., relating to reports by political parties; requiring electronic filing under certain circumstances; removing requirement for duplicate reports; providing penalties; amending ss. 105.08, 106.025, 106.08, and 106.18, F.S., relating to reporting requirements applicable to candidates for retention to judicial office, campaign fund raisers held on behalf of a political party by its state or county executive committee, nonallocable, in-kind contributions by candidates and political parties, and the granting of certificates of election, to conform; providing severability; providing effective dates.

—was read the second time by title.

Representative(s) Ryan offered the following:

(Amendment Bar Code: 371783)

Amendment 1 (with title amendment)—On page 4, line 29, insert:

Section 2. Subsection (3) of section 106.021, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

106.021 Campaign treasurers; deputies; primary and secondary depositories.—

(3) Except for independent expenditures, no contribution or expenditure, including contributions or expenditures of a candidate or of the candidate’s family, shall be directly or indirectly made or received in furtherance of the candidacy of any person for nomination or election to political office in the state or on behalf of any political committee except through the duly appointed campaign treasurer of the candidate or political committee. However, expenditures may be made directly by any political committee or political party regulated by chapter 103 for obtaining time, space, or services in or by any communications medium for the purpose of jointly endorsing three or more candidates, and any such expenditure shall not be considered a contribution or expenditure to or on behalf of any such candidates, but shall be reported as an expenditure by the political party or political committee, for the purposes of this chapter. The report for such endorsement shall be a separate report filed electronically or on forms prescribed by the Division of Elections containing the total amount and date of the expenditure, on what the expenditure is made, to whom the expenditure is made, and the candidates for whom the expenditure is made. The political party or political committee may report how the time, space or services has been proportioned among the candidates, and the amount of the expenditure allocated to each candidate.

And the title is amended as follows:

On page 1, line 6,
remove from the title of the bill: all of said line and insert: s. 106.021, F.S.; requiring a political party or political committee to file a report electronically of expenditures made for obtaining time, space, or services in or by any communications medium for the purpose of jointly endorsing three or more candidates; amending s. 106.03, F.S.; requiring additional —was read the second time by title and, under Rule 10.13(b), referred to the Engrossing Clerk.

Bill Subject to Special Rule

HB 21—A bill to be entitled An act relating to intangible personal property taxes; amending s. 199.032, F.S.; reducing the rate of the annual tax; amending s. 199.033, F.S.; reducing the rates of the tax on securities in a Florida’s Future Investment Fund, to conform; providing an effective date.

—was read the second time by title.

Representative(s) Atwater, Rubio, Simmons, Benson, Paul, Berfield, Garcia, Kravitz, Baker, Arza, Hogan, Brown, Ross, Mayfield, Baxley, Kallinger, Jordan, Mealar, Clarke, Negron, Bowen, Andrews, Gibson, Kottkamp, Pickens, and Needelman offered the following:

(Amendment Bar Code: 115305)

Amendment 1 (with title amendment)—On page 1, line 11 remove from the bill: Everything after the enacting clause and insert in lieu thereof:

Section 1. Section 199.032, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

199.032 Levy of annual tax.—An annual tax of .75 ~~1~~ mill is imposed on each dollar of the just valuation of all intangible personal property that has a taxable situs in this state, except for notes and other obligations for the payment of money, other than bonds, which are secured by mortgage, deed of trust, or other lien upon real property situated in the state. This tax shall be assessed and collected as provided in this chapter.

Section 2. Subsection (1) of section 199.033, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

199.033 Securities in a Florida’s Future Investment Fund; tax rate.—

(1) Notwithstanding the provisions of this chapter, the tax imposed under s. 199.032 on securities in a Florida’s Future Investment Fund shall apply at the rate of .64 ~~.85~~ mill when the average daily balance in such funds exceeds $2 billion and at the rate of .53 ~~.70~~ mill when the average daily balance in such funds exceeds $5 billion.

Section 3. Subsection (2) of section 199.185, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

199.185 Property exempted from annual and nonrecurring taxes.—

(2) Every natural person is entitled each year to an exemption of the first $250,000 ~~$20,000~~ of the value of property otherwise subject to the annual tax. A husband and wife filing jointly shall have an exemption of $500,000 ~~$40,000~~. Every taxpayer that is not a natural person is entitled each year to an exemption of the first $250,000 of the value of property otherwise subject to the tax. Agents and fiduciaries, other than guardians and custodians under a gifts-to-minors act, filing as such may not claim this exemption on behalf of their principals or beneficiaries; however, if the principal or beneficiary returns the property held by the agent or fiduciary and is a natural person, the principal or beneficiary may claim the exemption. No taxpayer shall be entitled to more than one exemption under this subsection. This exemption shall not apply to that intangible personal property described in s. 199.023(1)(d).

Section 4. This act shall take effect January 1, 2002.

And the title is amended as follows:

On page 1, lines 3-7
remove from the title of the bill: All of said lines

and insert in lieu thereof:
taxes; amending s. 199.032, F.S.; reducing the rate of the annual tax; amending s. 199.033, F.S.; reducing the rates of the tax on securities in a Florida’s Future Investment Fund, to conform; amending s. 199.185, F.S.; increasing exemptions for taxpayers who are natural persons; creating exemptions for taxpayers who are not natural persons; providing an effective date.

REPRESENTATIVE MAYGARDEN IN THE CHAIR

THE SPEAKER IN THE CHAIR

Representative(s) Stansel and Weissman offered the following:

(Amendment Bar Code: 570677)

remove from the bill: all of said lines

and insert in lieu thereof:

Section 1. Section 220.187, Florida Statutes, is created to read:

220.187 Credits for contributions to public schools and nonprofit scholarship funding organizations.—

(1) PURPOSE.—The purpose of this section is to:

(a) Provide a tax credit for certain contributions to public schools and nonprofit scholarship funding organizations.

(b) Expand educational opportunities for children of families that have limited financial resources.

(c) Enable children in this state to achieve a greater level of excellence in their education.

(2) DEFINITIONS.—As used in this section:

(a) “Eligible contribution” means a monetary contribution from a corporation, subject to the restrictions provided in this section, to public schools or an eligible nonprofit scholarship funding organization, if the taxpayer making the contribution does not designate a specific child as the beneficiary of the contribution.

(b) “Eligible nonpublic school” means a nonpublic school located in Florida that offers a general education to K-12 students and complies with the antidiscrimination provisions of 42 U.S.C., s.2000d.

(c) “Eligible nonprofit scholarship funding organization” means a charitable organization that is exempt from federal income tax pursuant to s. 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code and that complies with the provisions of subsection (4).

(3) AMOUNT OF CREDIT.—A corporate taxpayer shall be allowed a credit equal to 100 percent of all eligible contributions made during a taxable year against any tax due for that taxable year under this chapter. However, such a credit shall not exceed 75 percent of the tax due under this chapter for the taxable year after the application of any other allowable credits by the taxpayer.

(4) ELIGIBLE NONPROFIT SCHOLARSHIP FUNDING ORGANIZATION OBLIGATIONS.—

(a) An eligible nonprofit scholarship funding organization shall provide scholarships from eligible contributions to children from families that meet the income eligibility guidelines for free and reduced price lunch meals pursuant to the National School Lunch Act for:

1. Any expenses, including, but not limited to, tuition, textbook, and transportation expenses, at an eligible nonpublic school;

2. Instructional expenses for participation in a home education program as defined in s. 232.0201; or

3. Transportation expenses to a Florida public school that is located outside of the district in which the student resides.

(b) The amount of a scholarship provided to any child for any single school year by all eligible nonprofit scholarship funding organization from eligible contributions shall not exceed the following annual limits:

1. $4,000 for a scholarship awarded to a student enrolled in an eligible nonpublic school.

2. $1,000 for a scholarship awarded to a student enrolled in a home education program as defined in s. 232.0201.

3. $500 for a scholarship awarded to a student enrolled in a Florida public school that is located outside of the district in which the student resides.

(c) An eligible nonprofit scholarship funding organization shall allocate over a 5-year period 100 percent of the annual eligible contributions received for scholarships awarded pursuant to this subsection. At least 20 percent of the eligible contributions received by the organization must be disbursed each year. No portion of eligible contributions may be used for administrative expenses.

(5) PUBLIC SCHOOL DISTRIBUTIONS.—Contributions from corporations shall be directed to the school, the school district, or the Department of Education, as directed by the corporation.

(6) FUNDING.—The total statewide amount authorized for the tax credit provided by this section shall be annually established in the General Appropriations Act and shall be allocated to corporations on a first-come, first-served basis. If on any day the amount of tax credits applied for and qualified for approval exceeds the funding provided pursuant to this subsection that remains available to be allocated, the Department of Revenue shall prorate the credits among all corporations applying during that day, as evidenced by the postmark or other identification of the application date, which are qualified for approval, and inform each corporation of the approved amount.

(7) ADMINISTRATION; RULES.—

(a) If the credit granted pursuant to this section is not fully used in any one year, the unused amount may not be carried forward. A taxpayer may not convey, assign, or transfer the credit authorized by this section to another entity unless all of the assets of the taxpayer are conveyed, assigned, or transferred in the same transaction.

(b) An application for a tax credit pursuant to this section shall be submitted to the Department of Revenue on forms established by rule of the Department of Revenue.

(c) The Department of Revenue and the Department of Education shall develop a cooperative agreement to assist in the administration of this section. The Department of Education shall be responsible for annually submitting to the Department of Revenue a list of eligible nonprofit scholarship funding organizations that meet the requirements of paragraph (2)(c).

(d) The Department of Revenue shall adopt rules necessary to administer this section, including rules establishing application forms and procedures.

(e) The Department of Education shall adopt rules necessary to confirm compliance of nonprofit scholarship funding organizations.

Section 2. Subsection (8) of section 220.02, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

220.02 Legislative intent.—

(8) It is the intent of the Legislature that credits against either the corporate income tax or the franchise tax be applied in the following order: those enumerated in s. 631.828, those enumerated in s. 220.191, those enumerated in s. 220.181, those enumerated in s. 220.183, those enumerated in s. 220.182, those enumerated in s. 220.1895, those enumerated in s. 221.02, those enumerated in s. 220.184, those enumerated in s. 220.186, those enumerated in s. 220.1845, those enumerated in s. 220.19, and those enumerated in s. 220.185, and those enumerated in s. 220.187.

Section 3. Paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of section 220.13, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

220.13 “Adjusted federal income” defined.—

(1) The term “adjusted federal income” means an amount equal to the taxpayer’s taxable income as defined in subsection (2), or such taxable income of more than one taxpayer as provided in s. 220.131, for the taxable year, adjusted as follows:

(a) Additions.—There shall be added to such taxable income:

1. The amount of any tax upon or measured by income, excluding taxes based on gross receipts or revenues, paid or accrued as a liability to the District of Columbia or any state of the United States which is deductible from gross income in the computation of taxable income for the taxable year.

2. The amount of interest which is excluded from taxable income under s. 103(a) of the Internal Revenue Code or any other federal law, less the associated expenses disallowed in the computation of taxable income under s. 265 of the Internal Revenue Code or any other law, excluding 60 percent of any amounts included in alternative minimum taxable income, as defined in s. 55(b)(2) of the Internal Revenue Code, if the taxpayer pays tax under s. 220.11(3).

3. In the case of a regulated investment company or real estate investment trust, an amount equal to the excess of the net long-term capital gain for the taxable year over the amount of the capital gain dividends attributable to the taxable year.

4. That portion of the wages or salaries paid or incurred for the taxable year which is equal to the amount of the credit allowable for the taxable year under s. 220.181. The provisions of this subparagraph shall expire and be void on June 30, 2005.

5. That portion of the ad valorem school taxes paid or incurred for the taxable year which is equal to the amount of the credit allowable for the taxable year under s. 220.182. The provisions of this subparagraph shall expire and be void on June 30, 2005.

6. The amount of emergency excise tax paid or accrued as a liability to this state under chapter 221 which tax is deductible from gross income in the computation of taxable income for the taxable year.

7. That portion of assessments to fund a guaranty association incurred for the taxable year which is equal to the amount of the credit allowable for the taxable year.

8. In the case of a nonprofit corporation which holds a pari-mutuel permit and which is exempt from federal income tax as a farmers’ cooperative, an amount equal to the excess of the gross income attributable to the pari-mutuel operations over the attributable expenses for the taxable year.

9. The amount taken as a credit for the taxable year under s. 220.1895.

10. Up to nine percent of the eligible basis of any designated project which is equal to the credit allowable for the taxable year under s. 220.185.

11. The amount taken as a credit for the taxable year under s. 220.187.

Section 4. This act shall take effect January 1, 2002.

And the title is amended as follows:

On page 1, lines 2-21
remove from the title of the bill: all of said lines and insert in lieu thereof: An act relating to corporate income tax; creating s. 220.187, F.S.; providing purpose; providing definitions; providing a credit against said tax for contributions to public schools and nonprofit scholarship funding organizations; providing limitations; providing for use of such contributions by public schools and organizations for scholarships for certain children and providing requirements and limitations with respect thereto; providing for annual funding through the General Appropriations Act; providing for allocation; providing duties of the Department of Revenue and Department of Education; providing for rules; amending s. 220.02, F.S.; providing order of credits against the tax; amending s. 220.13, F.S.; providing for the inclusion of amounts taken as credit under s. 220.187, F.S., in determining a taxpayer's adjusted federal income; providing an effective date.

The House was called to order by the Speaker at 12:30 p.m.

Prayer

The following prayer was offered by the Bishop L. T. Weaver, Sr., Prelate of Church of God in Christ of Melbourne, upon invitation of Rep. Needelman:

O God, the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, we exhort You, that first of all, supplications, prayer, intercessions, and giving of thanks be made for all men, for kings, and for all that are in authority, that we may lead a quiet and peaceful life in all godliness and honesty. For this is good and acceptable in Your sight, our God and Savior, and it is in that vein that I pray.

I pray for the President of the United States, Mr. Bush, for his administration, and all government leaders across this great nation. And that I pray for the Governor of this great state, Mr. Bush, his Cabinet, and for the members of this Legislature. Father, I pray that during the deliberations of this session, that You would guide these, Your servants, to make wise decisions for their constituents. And I pray, O God, for the peace of Florida. You said in Your word that You would keep them in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on Thee. And, O God, help us to be submissive to Your will.

And I ask these blessings in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and to the Holy Ghost. Amen. And, may God bless America.

Report of the Procedural & Redistricting Council

The Honorable Tom Feeney March 8, 2001
Speaker, House of Representatives

Dear Mr. Speaker:

In accordance with the vote of the House, the following report is submitted, which outlines a procedure for council; and floor action on the appropriations and related implementing bills.

No later than 4:30 p.m. on Monday, March 19, 2001, the Fiscal Responsibility Council will file notice of the proposed council bills to be considered at its meeting on Friday, March 23, 2001. The proposed council bills will be available to the members and the public at that time.

All amendments must be filed no later than 12:00 p.m. on Wednesday, March 21, 2001. Packages of amendments for the proposed council bills will be available from the Fiscal Responsibility Council as early as possible on Thursday morning, March 22, 2001.

All amendments to amendments and substitute amendments must be filed no later than 1:00 p.m. on Thursday, March 22, 2001.

Amendments will be filed with the Fiscal Responsibility Council, Room 221, The Capitol. Member requests for staff to draft amendments shall be deemed as timely filed if received before the relevant deadline.

Amendment deadlines apply to all members, including members of all Appropriations Committees and the Fiscal Responsibility Council.

The Fiscal Responsibility Council will meet at the noticed time on the morning of Friday, March 23, 2001, and will consider all timely filed amendments. Pursuant to Rule 6.5, after consideration and amendment of all PCB's, the Council will combine the bills into a single Council appropriations bill and a Council implementing bill.

The Fiscal Responsibility Council will publish the General Appropriations Bill and related implementing bills, as amended, on Monday, March 26, 2001.

All floor amendments to be considered on second reading of the bill must be filed no later than 12:00 p.m. on Wednesday, March 28, 2001.

Packages of amendments for the General Appropriations Bill and implementing bills will be available from the Fiscal Responsibility Council as early as possible on Thursday morning, March 29, 2001.

All amendments to floor amendments and substitute amendments to floor amendments must be filed no later than 1:00 p.m. on Thursday, March 29, 2001.

The bills will be read a second time on the floor on Friday, March 30, 2001.

Floor amendments will be filed with the Fiscal Responsibility Council, Room 221, The Capitol. Member requests for staff to draft amendments shall be deemed as timely filed if received before the relevant deadline.

Pursuant to House Rule 12.5, amendments to the appropriations bills must be balanced with increases offset by equivalent or greater decreases within the jurisdiction of the same appropriations committee. Floor amendments moving spending authority between sections of the bill require a 2/3 vote. Requests to draft amendments must include the item to be funded and the item from which funding is to be reduced.

Amendments can only be accepted from House Members, their legislative assistants, and staff of the Majority and Democratic Offices on behalf of the member.

Respectfully submitted,
Johnnie B. Byrd, Jr., Chair
Procedural & Redistricting Council

Explanation of Vote

I will cast my vote in opposition to House Bill 21. This tax cut costs too much and it comes too early in the budget process.

On the third day of session, before we receive our final 2001-2002 revenue estimates, we are considering this large tax cut while our budget subcommittees are forced to slash millions from critical programs. Projected budget cuts include a $122 million cut for teacher recruitment and school technology, a $1.9 million cut in the operational budget of the Florida School for the Deaf and Blind and hundreds of millions of dollars in cuts in our medically needy and prescription drug programs.

I went home last weekend and held town hall meetings in my district. The message from my constituents was clear: fund schools, fund public safety, fund health care and fund them first!

When the budget is flush, tax cuts are the right thing to do. But the budget is tight, and the timing is wrong. We should delay consideration of this bill, at least until we know how much revenue we have available. We should complete our budget process and revisit this tax cut only after the needs of all Floridians have been considered.

*Rep. Doug Wiles

CS/HB 55—A bill to be entitled An act relating to public medical assistance; amending s. 395.701, F.S.; reducing the annual assessment on hospital outpatient services to fund public medical assistance; limiting the financial information that may be required to determine the amount of the assessment; amending s. 395.7015, F.S.; reducing the annual assessment on certain other health care entities to fund public medical assistance; amending s. 395.7016, F.S.; providing for annual appropriations to replace funds lost due to such reductions; providing an effective date.

So the bill passed, as amended, and was certified to the Senate.

Explanation of Vote

Today, I voted no on House Bill 271.

House Bill 271 could potentially drain our public school budget of over $1 billion for private school vouchers. This plan is just another end around attempt to expand school vouchers.

Vouchers only succeed in taking funds out of our public school system. They do not reduce class size or school size, they do not improve student achievement and they do not address any of the root problems of public education system.

Florida should encourage corporations to make charitable contributions, however, not at the expense of our children and their education.

*Rep. Doug Wiles
District 20*

CS/CS/HB 269—A bill to be entitled An act relating to school district best financial management practices reviews; creating the “Sharpening the Pencil Act”; amending s. 230.23025, F.S.; providing legislative intent; providing OPPAGA with primary responsibility for the completion of best financial practices reviews; revising areas in which best financial management practices are to be developed and adopted; revising and clarifying the best financial management practices adoption and revision process; clarifying that OPPAGA shall contract with a private firm to perform reviews, provided the review team has certain expertise; authorizing the inclusion of review items in addition to the adopted best financial management practices, after consultation with the school district; establishing a continuing 5-year review cycle; authorizing the Joint Legislative Auditing Committee to adjust the schedule under certain circumstances; authorizing the review of additional school districts under certain circumstances; specifying that reviews shall be conducted to the extent funded by the Legislature; specifying the use of such funds; requiring copies of the final report issued by OPPAGA to be provided to additional entities; requiring public meetings; revising provisions relating to eligibility for the “Seal of Best Financial Management”; establishing requirements relating to status reports; requiring OPPAGA to review a district’s status reports, assess implementation of the action plan, and assess progress toward implementing the best financial management practices and to issue a report; providing for appearance of school officials before the Legislature upon failure to implement an adopted action plan; providing for citizen appeals to the department; providing rulemaking authority; providing legislative intent; clarifying provisions relating to the award of the “Seal of Best Financial Management”; requiring school districts that are reviewed to maintain certain records; specifying use of cost savings; repealing s. 11.515, F.S., relating to school district performance reviews; repealing s. 230.2302, F.S., relating to performance reviews; repealing s. 230.23026, F.S., relating to the Florida School District Review Trust
